Bryan Hextall, Rangers, tallied twice to lead his team to a 5-3 victory over Chicago Black Hawks. It was the 18th straight unbeaten game for the Rangers.

Cattle, Lambs Up By 25 Cents On Week's Sales

TORONTO, Jan. 12 — (CP). — The cattle section furnished the most action on the Toronto Live Stock Market this week, prices in this section advancing 35-50 cents early in the week and losing 15-25 cents on a slow closing market, calves, hogs, and sheep were steady and lambs 25 cents higher.

The opening cattle run was less than 1,000 head, but heavy truck deliveries raised receipts to around 5,500 head at the close. Steers and heifers gained 25-40 cents, with cows 50 cents higher. The close was down 25 cents from the week's high with steers and heifers 10-15 cents lower. Weighty steers sold at a top of $7.75 with most sales between $7 and $7.60. Butcher steers and heifers ranged from $6-$7.60, with a few at $7.75. Butcher cows sold up $6 at the opening, but closed mostly at $5.50 downward. Canners and cutters were steady at $3.25-$4. Butcher bulls ranged from $5.50-$6, with bolognas at $5-$5.50. Fed calves held at $8-$9 cwt.

A few lots of stockers and feeders sold at $6-$6.85. Good milkers and springers were steady at $80-$90 each.

Calves sold at $12-$13 cwt. for choice, with common lights selling downward to $7. A few grass calves brought $5.50-$6.

Hogs opened at $9-$9.15 off truck for bacons and sales for the balance of the week were mostly at $9.10 off trucks. Local packers quoted $12 dressedweight, but most of the local hogs, sold on a dressedweight basis, went to outside packers at $12.25.

Sheep and lamb receipts included 1,000 from the West. Lambs traded at $10.75 for the bulk of good ewes and wethers. A few local lambs sold at $8.50-$10 cwt. Sheep made $3-$8.50 according to quality.

clear that the Government desired the first loan to be supported by the people as a whole with a large number of subscriptions from ordinary wage earners. Allotments will be for the Finance Minister to decide.

The bonds will be available in either bearer form with interest coupons attached or in full registered form in which case interest will be paid by cheque. The bearer bonds will have denominations as low as $50 and other denominations of $100, $500, and $1,000, while registered bonds will range in denominations from $500 up.

The announcement said interim certificates in bearer form will be delivered in the first instance in respect to all allotments of this loan, pending preparation of engraved definite bonds.

Registration as to principal in the case of bearer bonds or principal and interest in the case of fully registered bonds may be effected when the definite bonds are ready for exchange on or about May 1, 1940.

Subscription books will open at nine a.m. Monday morning at the Bank of Canada and the loan will be handled by a widespread selling organization of bankers, brokers and investment dealers.

Principle and interest will be payable in Canadian money and the offering is purely domestic. Subscription lists will remain open a maximum of two weeks but may be closed by the Finance Minister at any time with or without notice.

In order to facilitate purchase of the loan, the chartered banks will make loans on request for a period not exceeding three months up to 80 per cent of the principal amount of the bonds. These loans will bear interest rate of 3¼ per cent a year.

The new loan is lower and pays less interest than the first loan of the First Great War. Launched in 1915, it was for $50,000,000, but was so heavily oversubscribed that it was increased to $100,000,000. It bore interest at five per cent but sold at 97½.

The House sat only an hour yesterday to hear the address in reply to the throne speech moved by Charles Fairbank (Lib. Lambton East) and seconded by Romeo Begin (Lib. Russell). Col. Drew will resume the debate next Tuesday, to be followed by Premier Mitchell Hepburn.

Mr. Fairbank warned against overlooking preparations for the period that will follow the war when, he said, Canada will become a great industrial nation and Ontario should take the lead in the development.

Independent Workmen

"A very important consideration is that, as industries expand and new ones are built in Ontario, they should be established where each workman can own his own home, cultivate his garden and become independent in his own right," he said.

"Industry although it has accomplished much toward improving working conditions, must further realize that the greatest efficiency is obtained through the happiness and well-being of its employees."

Mr. Begin expressed belief that the extent of Ontario's contribution to the war effort was not realized generally.

The Helen Mine of the North Shore of Lake Superior soon will step up its iron ore production to 500,000 tons annually to meet war conditions, the Russell member said.

The tremendous amount of money involved, instead of being spent in the United States, as heretofore, will be available here for distribution among Canadian workmen,' he said. "I think the Government deserves the greatest credit for its foresight in making this development possible through the bonus bill passed in 1937. I really believe that in this case a mountain of industry has been made out of a comparatively small expenditure."

Judge Valin and Mr. Wilson said the only thing they had heard of the proposals had come from inquiring newspapermen. Judge Valin already has expressed unwillingness to consent to the proposed trip.

At Ottawa, Henri St. Jacques, lawyer for the children's father, Oliva Dionne, said that so far as he knew reports of the quints' appearance were "false and unfounded." And Keith Munro, business manager to the children, declared: "Definitely no offer of any kind has been received here."

sive encounter before spring.

Gorilla warfare has prevailed in the Petsamo area thus far, with sniping engagements between isolated units.

An 800-mile tour southward from the Arctic Circle across Finland at the coast "bottleneck" to below Suomussalmi and back to the Arctic general headquarters provided ample indication that the strategy of the Finnish woodsman had proved successful.

One can drive for two hours and see no sign of any army until halted by a sentry who slips silently out of the woods on skis.

Hidden Quarters.

The headquarters of the colonel of the Suomussalmi front was a plasterboard wigwam. While only a few yards off the main highway, it was completely hidden by a forest.

I crawled on my knees to enter before the colonel sitting on a red blanket thrown over the straw-covered ground. Beside him were a radio and field telephones.

In the darkness outside, I could hear an occasional rifle shot or burst of hand grenades as patrols scouted the woods for remnants of the 44th Soviet Division, reported virtually wiped out last week.

A short drive away was a 4½ mile stretch once captured by the Russians, through which the Finns searched for rifles and ammunition.

One well-placed shell had shattered the caterpillar rigging of a Russian tank, halting the entire column. This started the Finns to their second victory over a Red army divsiiotn.

The Finns reported the 163rd Division of the Red army was practically annihilated in an engagement on December 29 and 30 near Suomussalmi.

Where the Russians are endeavoring to use trucks to provide supplies to their men, the Finns are using light sledges. Nearly 300 sledges in a single column laden with food and ammunition headed towards the front after the Suomussalmi battle.

With them were fresh troops. A column from the opposite direction brought the tired front fighters back for a rest. Sliding along on their skis, the soldiers were visible only for a minute before their white suits blended with the snow.

Few Russian Patrols.

Russian patrol activity thus far has been slight, Finnish officers said.

One Finnish regimental commander said few Russians were able to ski well. He produced dozens of copies of a Russian book on how to ski, which he said had been found in a supply wagon of the 44th Division.

The Finns said the Russians utilized their air force effectively to support the infantry for the first time in the battles around Raate, reporting that on some days 30 planes participated.

The wreckage of a Soviet bomber and an attack plane were found in the forest.

Some women nurses have been taken prisoner and assigned to care for the Russian wounded.

Among nearly 400 Russian prisoners in one field prison, many were wounded.

Silverwoods First

The highest score in cheesemaking in the county last year was made by Fred A. McAdams of Silverwoods Dairy, and in the presentation of prizes at the afternoon session of the meeting it seemed at first that Mr. McAdams was going to be awarded the Ferguson trophy. Some of the members said that Silverwoods did not sell cheese on the Campbellford board with the rest of the factories, and for that reason should not be regarded as being in competition with the other factories. It was also said that the milk used at Silverwoods was collected under the supervision of the city's Board of Health, that only the surplus of Silverwoods milk was used for cheese, and that its competition with the country factories was hardly fair. Wallace Anderson suggested that the rule might be changed for this year, but R. E. Thurston of Bobcaygeon moved that Silverwoods and Mr. McAdams be passed up, and that the Ferguson trophy be given to Trent Bridge and George Brooks. That moved Selwyn and its maker, Rex Wilson, into second position.

Houses Cheese Built.

In presenting his cup to Mr. Wood, Mr. Ferguson said that "when you look around the country and see the fine farm houses and barns that were built years ago, and when you enquire into the conditions of those times, you come to the conclusion that most of them were paid for out of the revenue of the old cheese factories we had and also the earnings from pigs. Our country is now at war and our farm products are a great need, and if farmers get the fair prices to which they are entitled, I hope they will do as their forefathers did, pay off mortgages and equip their places instead of buying more land at high prices that will only be a millstone around their necks."

Mr. Ferguson used to be president of Oakdale factory. He said he knew what it took to make a good cheese, and congratulated Trent Bridge and George Brooks on their fine record two years in succession. He believed that the bonus paid by the Dominion government last year had been a great stimulus to the industry. Mr. Ferguson also referred to George Elliott's long service to the dairying interests in this county, and said he deserved the confidence shown in his re-election as president.

Mr. Wood in accepting the cup said Mr. Brooks had won three trophies last year, one of them at Belleville for the highest scoring cheese made between Toronto and the Quebec boundary. "Probably we have the biggest factory in the county, but certainly we earned the largest bonus. The success of Mr. Brooks hasn't gone to his head, and he is simply going out next year to try to get more bonus."

"I hope the other factories chase him harder," Mr. Elliott remarked.

Scoring Records

W. J. Moore, dairy instructor, told the meeting that Trent Bridge factory graded 1,591 boxes of cheese last year of which 96.8 per cent were first grade; 94.5 per cent rated 93 points or over, and the average score was 92.95.

Selwyn factory graded 1,144 boxes of which 98.6 per cent were first grade and 78 per cent were 93 points or over, and the average score was 92.86.

Indian River with 813 boxes hit the high of 99.1 per cent first grade, "a splendid performance". Mr. Moore said; they had 87.5 per cent of 93 points or over, and their average score was 92.84.

It was also said that Central factory in the Campbellford area, with 44 patrons, earned $3,200 in bonus alone last year.

"I don't know of any other bonus that did so much to improve cheese as that of 1939," Mr. Moore stated, and recommended that cheesemakers should be considered when the government's bonus was being distributed. "Creameries have increased greatly since the last war, but I think we have enough milk produced or more than when we produced 75 per cent of the cheese going on to the British market. But a great deal of that milk is going into other dairy products. We've got the best market in the world. All we need is high quality cheese."

William Newman

Mr. Newman said he had learned from old records that the first dairymen's meeting in the province was held at Belleville in 1874, and cheese that year sold at the average price of 11¾ cents. "That's part of the answer to the big houses built around that time, that Rork Ferguson just mentioned. From 1894 to 1896 I made tons of cheese that sold at 6½ and 7 cents a pound, and by 1900 the price was up to 10 cents. But, you can't make cheese at 10 and 11 cents today, because we're running on rubber tires, and we've got to keep on running on rubber. Our farmers are entitled to the same standard of living as city people the same conveniences, but we can't have them with cheese at 10 and 11 cents."

Mr. Newman said milk paid 65 cents a hundred pounds last year, and cost of production was figured at $1.35, and this year it would probably cost $1.40.

Praises Hired Man

"No man in any business is more skilled than your experienced hired man is in his." Mr. Newman declared. "We've spoken of him as a sort of secondary fellow, as a rather low-minded man, but he is skilled in his work, and he should get a good wage. You may be paying him $20 and boarding him. He should be getting $45 a month and the house he lives in, but you can't pay him what he's worth with milk at 65 cents."

"What heart, what interest has a farmer in his dairy industry if he is getting only 65 cents a hundredweight?" Mr. Newman asked. "But, if we can get 17 cents a pound for cheese, and $1.40 a hundred for milk, and two cents bonus for our best cheese, what a difference that would make. Then, you are more determined to see that all milk is handled right, and your maker's heart is in his work, too."

Mr. Newman asserted with emphasis that a federal policy for marketing farm products was needed to enable the Canadian farmer "to live as well as any other man in this country." He also endorsed the Arkell principle of two prices, one for export and the other domestic, and quoted again for a Peterborough audience the example of the Pittsburg axes that sold in Sweden for 68 cents, in Great Britain for one dollar and at home in Pittsburg for $1.15. This idea as referred to as "equalization", comprehending a degree of marketing control that applies a higher selling price at home to provide funds for selling a lower competing price abroad.

"If I were the Minister of Agriculture, I would register all hogs in Canada, and I'd do it quick," Mr. Newman said. "If it hadn't been for the war I believe that our hogs would be selling down to 6 and 7 cents a pound as they are in Chicago, and in spite of our British quota."

Commends Peterborough

Mr. Newman said that Peterborough county was setting a fine example to the rest of the province in its study of the marketing problem, and suggested that a lot of the credit for that progress in thoughtful approach to the problem was due to Frank Paterson, the county representative of the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

"And you've got some mighty good men in this county who are backing him up. I speak really good things for this county because you've got good men at the head of affairs, and you are supporting them. Nothing will hold farmers back more than suspicion, thinking some fellow is getting a job out of this effort or that. We won't get anywhere with that feeling. Next Spring something is going to be - said about cheese, and you've got to be right there with bells on to make sure that you get your cost of production plus the fair profit to which you and your industry is entitled."

Mr. Milburn's blunt talk conveyed the advice that the new problem in agriculture rested upon the individual farmer. "You've got to get the knowledge to the people. They'll support it when they understand it."

Mr. McIlmoyle asked how the information was to be spread among those who did not come out to meetings.

"That's the problem in a nutshell," Mr. Milburn said. "You've got to do what they did in Nova Scotia where the people were brought close to starving before they made their move. And the secret of their success was that they held kitchen meetings all over the province until the people as a whole got an understanding of their dire position and of the only way out for themselves. And they did it."

Pasteurization Of Cheese Is Stressed

LONDON, Ont., Jan. 11—(CP). —Importance of pasteurization in cheese-making was stressed to-day by Frank Herns, secretary-treasurer of the Dairymen's Association of Western Ontario, in an address to delegates attending the Association's 73rd annual convention.

Eighty-five per cent. of the 79 factories operating in Western Ontario are now pasteurizing whey, said Mr. Herns, who is also chief provincial instructor for the territory.

"Pasteurization is an important point in preventing fruity and off-flavor cheese," said Mr. Herns. "It has been noticed each year that where, even for a short period, the whey which is to be returned to the milk cans, was neglected to be pasteurized, objectionable flavors were soon noticed in the cheese."

When tanks were cleaned thoroughly and pasteurization resumed, he continued, flavor difficulties usually disappeared "except when cans were at fault or there was gross carelessness in the handling and cooling of milk at farms."

Flavour The Flaw.

Chief defect in Western Ontario he said, adding that the flavor defects were confined to a few factories. Last year, Western Ontario produced 14,807,000 pounds of cheese, a decrease of about 9.5 per cent from 1938. High mark of the last four years was 17,383,000 pounds in 1937.

Mr. Herns said that Western Ontario's record of producing 2,081,572 boxes of cheese graded from 1936 to 1939 inclusive, was "excellent, but it is imperative that we keep this high standard for 1940."

The Federal Graders' report showed Western Ontario graded 150,151 boxes of cheese in 1939, of which 96.31 per cent was first grade. The showing was an increase over 1938 of 15,685 boxes and .58 per cent in grade. Cheesemakers clubs were organized in two centres in 1939, Woodstock and Listowel.

Mr. Herns estimated the value of improvements to Western Ontario cheese factories last year at $63,000.

Reeve Kerr, who voiced strenuous objections to the erection of a post office on the Quinn site last year, was non-committal as to whether the council would take further measures to convince Hon. P. J. Cardin, Federal Minister, that the site is not a central nor suitable one. It is understood that construction will start as soon as weather permits during the early spring months.

Ancient Power Is Still Retained By Word Of God

Dr. Northcote-Deck may tell you in a private conversation that he has been worn out by his nineteen years of ardous work as a medical missionary to the Solomon Islands, but those who heard him last night at St. James' United Church will vouch that his missionary spirit is still very much alive. The theme of the world was "Missions: the Ascended Christ and the Increasing Church." This topic lead the speaker to recount in a more personal and detailed way than hitherto the events and progress of the mission to which he and his family have given their lives. His purpose in this, as he said, was not to recount personal or family accomplishments, but rather to demonstrate that the Word of God hath still its ancient power, and to show that while we whites are lagging behind because we do not cherish the gospel that we have in our possession, the heathen, pagans and devil-worshippers, are accepting that Gospel by the hundreds and thousands, winning thereby joy, freedom, and Eternal Life.

The speaker began with the words of the distressed Judah who was pleading for the release of Benjamin: "Let thy servant (me) abide instead of the lad....for how shall I go up to my father, and the lad not with me" Dr. Deck said, "There must always be the eternal waiting father, the lad bound, and the brother who cares enough to become a bondman for him. That is the story of christian missions."

Fifty-three years ago, the speaker's aunt, Miss Young, was moved to bring the gospel to his uncle's plantation workers who came to Queensland with their sugar-cane. Feeling there was no time to "Educate them first," she began at once to tell them the Good News. Two and one half years passed before the first convert was won. Then the seed began to grow. The natives had been taught they were "saved to serve." One and then another returned to teach Christ to their own people. Here again most remarkable results followed. One native with only 18 month's training proved such a powerful instrument of the gospel that when Miss Young came to the island (the first lady missionary to set foot on that island) he proudly presented a Church of one hundred Christians to her. These grew to number 800. Then the whole thing was threatened by internal discord, against which the missionaries worked through the medium of prayer for 10 years before the factions died out and enthusiasm was renewed. Now there are now about 3,000 Christians on that island. But the work has grown. There are now about 400 mission stations throughout the islands with 19 white mission workers and 10,000 active happy christian natives. Most vital in it all has been the result of answered prayer.

Assisting Rev. Craik, minister of St. James' Church, were Rev. C. C. Boyter who read the scripture, and Canon J. D. Paterson who conducted service of prayer for the evening. Contributing greatly to the spirit of worship was the anthem by St. James' choir, Bowles' "Sweet Hour of Prayer."

Dr. Northcote-Deck's final message in this week of prayer services will be given to-night at Murray St. Baptist church at 8 p.m.

Kiwanians Are Urged to Guide Lives By Spiritual Not Material Values

A philosopher is like a blind man on a dark night looking for a black hat that isn't there, was the definition given today to Kiwanians lunching at the Empress Hotel, by Dr. Northcote Deck, guest speaker.

Dr. Deck, medical missionary to the Solomon Islands in the South Pacific Ocean and captain of a tiny schooner for the past two decades, urged his audience to guide their lives by spiritual rather than by material values.

Many of the clergy are specialists—men who know nothing about a lot—he maintained. "Their strong suits are their doubts," he declared. "I think they are wrong or I wouldn't have spent my life on a schooner among degraded heathens and devil-worshippers, bringing them a consciousness of Christ," he argued. He related that conversion of those natives to Christianity had resulted in an unbelievable change in their lives, had brought them clean living and happiness.

Men must get back again "to a belief in the trustworthiness of God's Book" before religion can have any practical revival," he declared. He claimed that the truths of the Bible are being verified by new discoveries in archaeology and cited instances.

Dr. Deck was introduced by Rev. Dr. E. W. Young and Past President W. A. Richardson expressed the thanks of the club.

Two new members were accepted into the club today. They were Adjutant Norman Buckley, successor to Major Neil Warrander at the Salvation Army Temple here (Major Warrander was also a member of the club); and Ernie Ingalls of Silverwood's Dairy, who had been a Kiwanian before and was transferring membership to Peterborough. They were introduced by Carl S. Browne and accepted by President Bill English.

The Stars Say . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Saturday, January 13.

According to the lunar transits, this should be a rather lively and successful day, with much stirring in the direction of launching new programs of a fairly ambitious order. These should succeed by sharp initiative and aggressive measures, in which an element of novelty, innovation or experiment has a determining force, particularl in attracting financial backing or friendly support of influential personages.

Those whose birthday it is are confronted by a year in which there is good promise of launching new propositions of importance, with the co-operation or financial support of those in prestige and power. Novel things inaugurated with ingenuity, boldness, aggressiveness and practical initiative, should flourish.

A child born on this day may have much talent and initiative, with executive and organizing ability, as well as creative powers and ingenuity. It may attain legal or literary reputation of a high order.

FAMILY IN NEED.

A family of five whose father has been unemployed is greatly in need of bedding, a cupboard and clothing that can be made over for the children. A crib mattress could also be used as one child is at present sleeping on two coats. Women of the Workers' and Unemployed Federation are willing to make over the clothing for the children. Any person who has something to offer if they telephone 8131 the same will be called for.

The records show that there were 441 reported accidents on Peterborough's streets last year. As a result four persons met death and 89 were more or less seriously injured. Traffic cases formed a large part of the docket at police court during the year as a consequence of these accidents and other breaches of the traffic regulations.

Too Little Work Peer Quits Censor's Job

LONDON, Jan. 12 (CP)— Lord Raglan, soldier, writer, politician and scientist, who recently resigned from the Censorship Bureau, told the House of Lords in "an uncensored version of what a censor's life is like" that he gave up his £750 ($3,330) a year job because he had "only an hour's work a day."

Lord Raglan spoke of a "night shift which does nothing at all," and of censors who just before midnight "roll into the bureau, go to bed, and remain there until morning."

"There were four women examiners who did nothing from 9.30 a.m. until 4 p.m., except a few odd jobs I mentioned the fact on several occasions to senior officers but the only answer I got was the appointment of a fifth woman."

He had a staff of nineteen "and I could have managed comfortably with eight."

"It wouldn't have mattered so much if the staff had been doing work of national importance," he said. The sort of thing we were doing was to put a stamp 'not to be published' on such pictures as Lady Astor playing with children.

"This was because of the ban on mentioning the names of places to which children had been evacuated. Eventually the Queen visited a children's settlement in Essex and the picture was given in all the papers. Next day the ban was removed.

"I could give you many examples, even more absurb, which, so far as I know, are still in force. While we were hard at work stopping photographs being published in London they were being published in all the provincial papers without let or hindrance."

During his time as censor he stopped a great deal from being published in certain newspapers. But he stopped very little that was not published in some newspaper or other. "I have grave doubts whether I stopped anything that would have been of any use whatever to the enemy."

He said it was suddenly decided to open a book department "and nobody took the slighest trouble to find out if there was any work for it. I could have told them the work would take about half an hour a day."

Lord Macmdlan, former Minister of Information, said in reply that Lord Raglan's successor had found plenty to do. "I can assure the House that the Ministry is certainly not a home of idlers and the unfortunate experience of Lord Raglan in its early days is in no sense a sample of what happens."

Low, Evening Standard cartoonist, illustrated Lord Raglan's argument. He depicted a trio of men lying on camp cots in the semi-darkness. A book has been hurled through a window and one of the men raises his head with: "Damn! It's that feller Raglan again! The picture is called: "Night shift at the Ministry of Information."

Emily Farmers Buy Seymour Herd Calf

Norman Fee & Sons of Omemee, R. R. 2, recently purchased from W. J. Seymour of Cavan a male Holstein calf of exceptionally good breeding. His sire was a son of Madoc Gandi, the noted aged bull recently acquired by Matchett Brothers, whose twenty-five tested daughters with 43 records an average of 3.76% butter fat. The sire's dam has a record with an average test of 4.13% fat.

The dam of this calf recently qualified for certificate in 305 days on twice-a-day milking with 11,042 pounds of milk, 516.25 pounds of butter. The test was begun at the age of 26 month. This record is remarkable for regularity of production as 8 of the 30-day periods had more than 1,100 pounds per month and none with over 1,220 pounds and two of the months, January and March had only 3½ pounds difference.

A paternal brother to the dam was junior champion at Three Rivers and Quebec Exhibitions in 1939. This calf traces three times to Sir Francy Mercena Benke, three times all American; four times to Earl Benke Korndyke, the sire of two world cows; three times to May Echo, a former Canadian champion, and twice to a full sister of the first 20,000 pound four year old in Canada; also to the winner of four silver trophies for the best dairy cow at the Peterborough Exhibition.

Married Woman Is Given Two Months

Two months in jail was the sentence imposed this morning on a married woman who pleaded guilty a week ago to a charge of vagrancy She had been arrested on the Market Square, in an intoxicated condition and when arraigned a week ago entered pleas of guilty to charges of vagrancy and to having been drunk. On the latter count she was fined $10 and costs and on the vagrancy charge remanded until this morning.

Today when she appeared before Magistrate Langley, K. C., she told the latter that she had nothing to say.

The magistrate then imposed sentence of two months with hard labor but afterward omitted the "hard labor" from the punishment.

Mackness Family Has Enviable Record

Sergeant W. F. Mackness, R.C.R. (seated) is one of the hundreds of soldiers who have gone back to school for instruction in German and French. Instilling knowledge into him is H. L. Humphreys of the University of Toronto staff. Corporal Sam Mackness (inset) is a brother who is also with the Royal Canadian Regiment, but he went to England with the First Division. Joseph Mackness, the boys' father, who lives on Princess Street, saw service in South Africa and the Great War with the Royal Canadian Regiment.

Father And Two Sons Served In Royal Canadian Regiment

An enviable record in the service of Canada is that of the Mackness family of Peterborough. For two sons of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Mackness, 223 Princess street, are in the active service force now and Mr. Mackness himself is a veteran of both the South African and Great wars.

Corporal Sam Mackness is with the Royal Canadian Regiment, the same unit his father served with for 21 years, and is now in England with the first Canadian division. His brother, Sergeant W. F. Mackness, is also in the R.C.R.'s but was kept in Canada when his brother sailed. Yesterday his picture appeared in a Toronto paper with a story about Canadian troops taking language classes at Parkdale Collegiate.

The two boys were educated here at King Edward school and at the Peterborough Collegiate Institute. They are both former members of the old Peterborough Rangers when it was under command of Col. Winterbottom.

In joining the regiment of their father, they have set themselves a heavy responsibility in maintaining the prestige he helped create for it, for the Royal Canadian Regiment holds an almost unique record because of its exploits in World War I. Joseph Mackness, their father, was sergeant-major of the battalion in which Premier Angus Macdonald of Nova Scotia was an officer.

A RUSH OF TRANSIENTS

For some time the number of transients applying for lodgings at the local police station has been very small but Thursday night, probably because of the weather conditions there was a sharp increase in the number of lodgers, fourteen wanderers spending the night in the cell.

The new order of its establishment went into effect at the first meeting of the directors of the Peterborough Exhibition last night with sixteen of the eighteen senior members and four of the juniors present.

Car Is Ditched Making Curve

OSHAWA, Jan. 12.—(Special.)—Mr. and Mrs. Louis Yeotes, 317 Boswell street, Peterborough, miraculously escaped death or serious injury on Thursday when the car in which they were driving went into a 15-foot ditch and turned over several times. The accident occurred about a mile and a half east of the city on the curve at Prestonvale.

Provincial Traffic Officer W. H. Thompson, Bowmanville, who investigated the accident, was informed that Mrs. Yeotes was driving the car at the time. Somewhat shaken up, she was rushed to Oshawa where it was learned that she did not suffer any serious injury. Yeotes stayed at the scene, commenting on his fortunate escaped from death.

The driver of the car apparently lost control on the slippery curve and the car bounced down the deep ditch and turned over several times. Dante Benetello, 180 Melrose avenue, Toronto, was proceeding in the opposite direction at the time, and was among the first to reach the car. The couple were assisted from the car after it had been pushed on to its wheels by passers-by on the highway.

Following the accident, the traffic officer stated that he would make an order to have the curve and other slippery portions of the highway in the neighborhood sanded. The accident occurred during a brief stormy bluster shortly before 10 o'clock.

Estimated damage to the car by the owner and traffic officer was close to $300.

Excellent Reports Are Presented By Auxiliary

Excellent reports by various secretaries of the Helen Roger Auxiliary of Knox United Chuch concluded a successful year for the society at the annual meeting, held at the home of Mrs. T. Smith, Reid Street. Members of the group look forward to the new year with confidence that greater achievements are in store.

In the introductory devotions, the president, Mrs. H. Clegg included a New Year's message. During the worship period, passages of scripture were read relating to the theme, "The World Outlook of Jesus." Miss R. Waldie, as leader of this group, told briefly the story of Norayan Tilak, the poet saint of India, who has provided beautiful hymns, and concluded with one of his prayers.

In her presentation of the study topic, "The Miracle of Modern India,' Miss M Morton made a clear and concise word picture of the contrast between the two pageants when George Fifth entered the throne and was proclaimed Emperor of India, and twenty-six years later when George Sixth was crowned India's claims for self-government were pointed out, and Great Britain's reasons for moving slowly in granting these demands. The miracle of India as seen by missionaries is not one united politically, but one melted together by the transforming power of Jesus Christ.

Officers for 1940 were appointed as follows: Honorary presidents, Mrs. V. E. R. Zufelt, Mrs. A. McKenzie president, Mrs H. Clegg 1st vice-president, Mrs. E. Mesley; 2nd vice-president, Mrs Oesch; 3rd vice-president, Miss I. Barret; recording secretary, Miss M. Morton; correspondent, Mrs. E. Johnston; treasurer, Mrs. A. Most Of Us Are Created To Be Dray Horses, Not Derby Winners, So Children Should Not Be Given To Highly Exalted Ideals.

IT IS without doubt a benevolent provision of nature that makes every old hen think she has hatched out a swan. Otherwise there would be a marked decline in the population. For most of us would be drowned at birth if our mothers got a clear, unbiased view of us. They would not think us worth the trouble of raising.

Nevertheless, this ability of every mother to see a future President of the United States or the wife of a millionaire in her common-place little babies has its tragic as well as its comic and sentimental aspects. For it raises great expectations that can never be realized. It fills the world with embittered men and women who have failed to achieve either happiness or success because they were always reaching for the stars, while a street lamp was their limit.

All of us know parents whose sole topic of conversation is the wonderful brilliance of their children. John is a mathematical shark who some day will be a great engineer. Mary has a Metropolitan voice. Tom is a born orator who will be a spellbinder when he goes into politics. Sally is such a beauty that people turn to look at her on the street. And we marvel that even fatuous fathers and mothers can see these shining qualities in their dull and homely offspring. If the matter ended in parents getting a kick out of believing that they had begotten statesmen and trust magnates and Miss Americas we might smile at their delusion and think it a compensation for all the work and trouble of rearing a family. But that isn't the end. It ends in the pitiful sacrifice of both parents and children to an illusion of grandeur.

Perhaps the chief harm that this glorification of a child does is to inflate its ego and make it esteem itself superior to every one else. Home flattery is the most potent brew that ever was concocted, and the boy and girl who have been drugged on that from their infancy up never wake up enough to see themselves as they really are and to estimate their real abilities.

Thus we have always with us the "also rans," who never get anywhere because they are never willing to go the pace for which they are gaited by nature. They think they are Derby winners when they are only dray horses. They are always out of work because they expect to start out as bank presidents. They are old maids because they expected to make brilliant marriages and no Fairy Prince came down their alley. Or they are peevish, fretful, discontented wives who look down on their husbands and think they condescended to marry the poor dubs who support them. The unappreciated geniuses, the failures who have never found any job to fit their talents, the women who are always wailing about not being understood, are virtually all the result of having been taught to think more highly of themselves than they should when they were children.

One of the common sights that is enough to wring tears from a heart of stone is the spectacle of parents who are literally killing themselves to send children to college who are not college material, who have no thirst for knowledge, who don't even like to read and whose sole object in going to college is to have a good time.

It would seem that any father and mother would know that if Johnny and Mary wouldn't study in grammar and high school they won't study in college, but they don't. They are so obsessed by the idea that their children are literary geniuses that they cut down on the food bill at home and wear their old clothes and do without the medical attention they need to spend thousands of dollars on a boy and girl who come back home with nothing but a college yell and a supercilious attitude toward their parents.

What a pity that instead of overvaluing their children and bringing them up to have an exaggerated idea of their abilities parents do not try to see their children just as they are and so try to fit them for work they can do instead of making them aspire to some job that is beyond their powers to accomplish! There is nothing sadder than a wrecked ambition.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—I am just 18 years old and have been married two months and a half. After I married I kept on with my job and my husband made a small salary, so together I thought we would get along nicely. We have a car, not paid for, so when the note was due I gave my husband money to pay it, but he didn't pay it, he gambled it away. I had a little savings and he took that money also and gambled that away. He has never given me any money since we were married. And he has lied to me about everything. Now he has lost his job and gone on the road and he wants me to go with him. I have a dear old mother whom I hate to leave, so I don't know whether I should leave my job and go with him or stay with Mother. What shall I do?—M. C. G.

ANSWER:

If you desire to keep on eating you had better stay with your mother and hang on to your job, for you will have nothing to look forward to but starvation if you go with your husband.

Surely, even if you are only 18 years old, you must have enough sense to know that a man who would steal from his own wife is not to be trusted and that a bridegroom who does nothing to support his wife but expects her to support him is a poor dependence for a husband.

Girl of 19 Has Saved Three Lives

Miss Ethel Barnes, 29 St. James Street, a girl of 19 years with fair hair, a sunny smile, and a love of athletics that is her chief interest in life, is a young lady of whom Peterborough might well be proud. Three times at Rye's wharf, Otonabee, Ethel has saved lives, two boys of seven and 10, Donald Martin and Fred McMaster, and Helen Monahan, a girl of 17.

In recognition of her splendid record, Ethel has been awarded an Honorary Testimonial of the Royal Canadian Humane Association, which was presented Tuesday evening during the large Members' and Friends' Banquet in the Y.W.C.A., at which Miss Julia Matouskova, former secretary of the Y.W.C.A. in Czechoslovakia, and this year a member of the National Council staff of Canada, was guest speaker. Miss Caroline Littlefield, physical director, and Ethel's swimming instructor, introduced her to banquet members, and the certificate was presented by Mrs. G. S. Porter, convener of the Swimming Pool Committee.

Ethel is a member of the Y.W.C.A. Silver Finettes, and has been taking swimming lessons for the past four years. She is winner of the City Championship for diving and swimming, and holder of four swimming trophies. Several years ago she won the mile swim at Bewdley, and again at Chemong, and last year came second in the half-mile swim at Wallace' Point. At the recent Y.W.C.A. swimming exhibition, Ethel and her partner, Jean McLeod, were winners of medals donated by the Royal Life Saving Society.

...Col. Snell said a cable from the V.A.D. council in England disclosed there would be no need for Canadian V.A.D. service until the number of war's sick and wounded is 250,000.

If grapefruit is unusually sour, add a pinch of salt before serving.

A very few grains of salt will improve the flavor of coffee, cocoa and chocolate.

If food has been over-salted, add whenever possible a peeled, raw potato for the remainder of the cooking time. The potato will absorb much of the saltiness.

Britons Accept Rations In Good Spirit

LONDON, Jan. 12 (CP Cable)—Cracks are not showing in traditional British stolidness as a result of the current "war of nerves." The people are accepting rationing of basic foods without a murmur of discontent and if it were not for the nightly blackout that is as inescapable as the income tax collector it would be difficult to realize a war was on.

The matter-of-fact way in which calm Britons are tackling the job of trying to rid the world of Hitlerism was brought pointedly home today by a Daily Telegraph dispatch from Amsterdam reporting the Nazis are launching a campaign against grousing and grumbling. As part of the campaign German shopkeepers are instructed to report customers complaining about their inability to obtain their needs.

"This is a tacit admission that all is not well with the morale of the German people," the correspondent said.

In my first fortnight in the United Kingdom I have not heard a single complaint about the privations the people of the Old Country are facing.

Discussing the reaction toward rationing, a grocer said the customers "know there is a job to be done and they are anxious to do their bit." A butcher doling out a limited supply of beef, bacon and ham, philosophied: "My folks feel their lot is not so hard as that of the fighting men and they are glad to give a lift."

Not even the black velvet-like blanket of darkness the men and women of the air raids precautions organization draw over the British Isles each night dulls the good humor of the people. The difficulties and dangers of night prowling might depress others but not Johnny and Jenny Bull. You have to book weeks ahead to see the better plays. Seats are hard to find at the movies.

Dingy pubs and high-toned brasseries are chock-a-block with sippers of bitters and pastel-colored cocktails.

And they talk not of war but rather of their lives, loves and laughs.

It really isn't such an unlovely war —at least not up until now.

Havelock Honors Mary Anderson

HAVELOCK, Jan. 12—(ENS). — A shower in honor of Miss Mary Anderson of Belmont, whose marriage to Mr. Roy Bawden of Toronto is to take place soon, was held on Wednesday evening at the home of Miss Helena Spencer, of Havelock. Some thirty friends of the bride-to-be assembled in the living room, daintily decorated for the occasion with pink and white streamers.

A miniature bridal couple, little Miss Elinor Wannamker being the bride and Miss Jacqueline Sanders the groom ,entered the room singing "I Love You Truly." They carried a suitcase and were wheeling a doll's pram, both containing lovely gifts for the honored guest. The bride and groom assisted Miss Anderson in opening the gifts.

She received as a presentation from those assembled, an automatic electric iron, and a silver cream and sugar set, besides many other individual gifts. Miss Anderson then replied to the presentation, thanking her friends for their expression of regard for her. Community singing followed and later a lovely lunch was served by the hostess.

Among those present were Misses Lilyan Plunkett, Rita Buchanan, Beatrice Crawford, Thirza Hicks, Margaret Voyer, Roxie Rutherford, Dorothy Davidson, Ruth Hagerman, Marguerite Roche, Alta Clarke, Josephine Hoffman, Jewell Scott, Annette Peirer, Winnie Spencer, Elinor Wannamaker and Jacqueline Sanders; Mesdames D. Rylott, F. Hill, M. Rylott, O. Parcells, Thos. Wannamaker, E. Sanderson, N. Lade, A. Clarke, Chas. Taylor, F. McKenzie, D. D. Kirk, E. Chiles, L. Sanderson, E. Anderson, G. Rutherford, W. Anderson, A. Spencer, and J. K. Whiteside.

The Crow of Croup Worries the Mother

When the child wakes up in the night with a croupy cough, spasmodic croup, it strikes terror to the mother's heart.

The child can scarcely speak, can hardly breathe, and seems to be choking.

There is no time for delay; apply hot poultices to the throat and upper part of the chest, and give Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. We know of nothing better to give prompt relief. It is absolutely safe, does not contain any habit forming drugs, and will help to soothe the infected membranes, stop the irritation and subdue the inflammation.

Strange Meeting

London, an. 12 (CP Cable)

THE STRANGEST of the many meetings between Canadian soldiers and English relatives was on a westbound train out of Paddington, London, last night.

A Canadian private entered a compartment of the train when it was halted at Reading. Handing round cigarettes he mentioned he was going to see relatives at Painswick, Gloucestershire.

"It's a long way from London, Ontario," the private remarked.

To which a fellow passenger, Mrs. Kathleen Knight of Harpenden, rejoined:—

"If you come from there, I think you must be my cousin."

The soldier, Driver Frank Capener, produced a list of addresses which included that of Mrs. Knight's parents in Painswick. None of Private Capener's English relatives knew he was here.

MARMORA, Jan. 12—(ENS). — The monthly meeting of Marmora Women's Institute was held on Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. H. W. Sabine, with a large attendance, with the roll call "What public office can a woman hold?"

Under general business it was decided to hold a community party of bingo, euchre, bridge, followed by dancing, in the Town Hall on Wednesday, January 17, the proceeds to be for the purchase of wool.

The program for the evening was of an interesting nature. "Interesting Events" prepared by Mrs. W. E. Gould was read by Mrs. L. Green. Mrs. H. R. Haacke then gave a splendid paper on "Legislation." Lucille Green sang "Scatter Brain" and Mrs. R. G. Neal gave a humorous reading, "Grandpa's History."

Lunch was served by the committee, after which the meeting closed with the National Anthem.

Church Service Is In Charge Of Y.P.U.

OMEMEE, Jan. 12—(ENS). — The regular church service in Trinity Church on Sunday evening was in charge of the Young People's Union. Verna Gardiner, vice-president, was in the chair. Christina Connell read the Scripture reading, and Marion Reo led in prayer. Rev. Mr. Patterson introduced the speaker of the evening, Homer Borland of Peterborough, who spoke on the theme, "Christ in You and Christ in Me." The speaker listed five all-important questions that a Christian should ask himself, namely: Are you truthful? Are you honest? Are you pure? Are you easily offended? Are you selfish?

The choir rendered two special anthems. One of the highlights of the evening was the installation of the officers of the Young People for the year 1940. The following accepted their responsibility for service:

Past president, Edward Lowes; president, Richard Vaughan; vice-president, Verna Gardiner; secretary, Roberta Deyell; treasurer, Clinton Endicott; Citizenship, Arthur Weir; Fellowship, Eleanor Sherin; Missions, Mary Faulkner; Recreation, Hazel Wilson; Culture, Christina Connell; Dramatics, Marion Rea; pianist, Lillian Race.

After the church service the Young People motored to the home of Hazel Wilson, where a very enjoyable social hour was spent. After the singing of favorite hymns a dainty lunch was served by the hostesses.

2 Votes For Owners

SEATTLE, Jan. 12.—(AP)—Two votes for every home owner to enable him to "protect his interests" against the "have-nots" is the goal of a new Seattle organization headed by H. A. Frenz, an architect. Under the proposal, Frenz explained, each home owner or real estate taxpayer would have two votes on election day, while the non-property owners would have one, as now.

How To Cook Meat When Tough Described

WARKWORTH, Jan. 12 (ENS). —The Percy W.I. held a special meeting on Wednesday afternoon to complete their meat project. Mrs. Clarence Potter and Mrs. William Honey, as leaders, dealt chiefly with the tougher cuts of meats, which are the secret of good home-making. One method and probably the most popular is putting these through the meat grinder. Another steam pressure, freezing also tends to make them tender and acids such as vinegar, lemon or tomato juice will help and not change the flavor of the meat. The most reliable method of making tough meat tender is by long, slow cooking in moist heat.

The ladies prepared and cooked a Swiss steak, beef loaf, and sausage loaf which was served at the pot-luck dinner.

A vote of thanks was tendered Mrs. Potter and Mrs. Honey for the interest they have taken in making this project not only interesting but educational. The singing of the National Anthem brought the meeting to a close.

Price Relationship In Farm Goods Changes Little Since War Began

OTTAWA, Jan. 12—(CP). — Price relationships rather than mere prices are the chief interest of the farmer, and relationships have showed little change since the outbreak of war, the Agricultural Supplies Committee, headed by A. M. Shaw, director of the Dominion Agriculture Department's marketing service, reported today.

The committee has investigated carefully the long-term relationships between prices of millfeeds and prices of livestock products with a view to estimating the fairness of present prices of bran, shorts and middlings in relation to prevailing prices of hogs and dairy products.

The relation of the price of any one product to the prices of millfeeds, the committee found, may be calculated by seeing how many pounds of the feeds is equivalent in price to a given amount of the animal product.

For example, in December 100 pounds of live hogs in Toronto was equivalent in price to 690 pounds of shorts. The average relationship between the prices of these commodities for the 10 years preceding was 100 pounds of live hogs in Toronto to 680 pounds of shorts. Hence, despite the recent rise in shorts prices, the December price was approximately in the same relationship with the price of hogs.

Similarly, one pound of butter fat in Ontario in December was equivalent in price to 23.3 pounds of bran at Toronto, compared with an average of one pound butter fat to 21.2 pounds of bran over the last 10 years, slightly above average relationship.

"While the price relationships early in 1939 were less favorable to the dairymen than to the hog producers," the committee reported, "this situation has been corrected by the recent rise in butterfat prices.

"It should be added that the Agricultural Supplies Committee is continuing to keep in close touch with the situation with a view to seeing that the farm buyer is not placed at a disadvantage in the market."

Heat Wave Eases

BUENOS AIRES, Jan. 12.—A five-day heat wave, blamed for the deaths of 20 persons yesterday, abated today. Temperatures around 100 degrees had been blamed for injury of a number of persons by exploding siphon bottles, for a riot at an ice plant over price increases, and for the prostration of 129 persons.

Lodgeroom Worker Smashes Glass Eye

TWEED, Jan. 12—(ENS).— Ray Thompson of Lodgeroom, while working on the new Hydro line near Lodgeroom, met with an unusual accident. With another workman, he was engaged in shovelling earth, when in some way the end of the handle of his companion's shovel struck him in the eye. The eye, an artificial one, was shattered by the blow, cutting the eye socket, and requiring the services of a surgeon to remove several pieces of broken glass.

Mr. Thompson, while working on the construction of Highway No. 37, several years ago, sustained facial injuries and the loss of an eye when a delayed blast was discharged when he was investigating the cause of the delay.

Why Not Find Out?

Your life insurance is "money for future delivery".

But have you ever thought of just how it will be delivered?

It's well worth thinking about. And it's well worth asking the advice of a Canada Life representative. For he will explain to you how the "delivery" of your life insurance can be arranged on an income basis. How the effectiveness of your present life insurance can be substantially increased at no additional cost whatsoever.

Too good to be true? Not at all. It's being done every day. A Canada Life representative will cite you actual instances where as much as twenty-five to thirty per cent has been added to the settlement value of life insurance—with not a penny added to the premium.

He will tell you other things too.

. . . How you can place upon the life insurance companies the responsibility of paying your wife an income as long as she lives if anything should happen to you.

. . . How much monthly income from your life insurance you can expect when you reach retirement age.

He has done it for others. He will be glad to do it for you.

Canada Life representatives who would particularly welcome an opportunity to discuss these matters with you at your convenience are

CURLING

By HERB MARTIN

The first curling "post mortem" of this season was held on No. 8 last night between the hours of 9.08 p.m. and 9.23 p.m.

Ray P. Best acted as coroner and Tom McArthur, M. Cruthers, A. Gibbs and Deputy-Reeve Archibald were forced to act as the jury.

The whole story broke following the Lindsay bonspiel held on Wednesday, and as evidence that something was done that should not have been done, or something was not done that should have been done we have proof, for on the back of one of our calendars we have a complete set of drawings, showing how "Brody" did this and how "Brody" did that—the drawings are so complete and real that one could easily see a certain player jumping three feet in the air when the skip made a certain shot—and then to make the "post mortem" bona fide, signatures may be found on the map. Rumor has it that this "post mortem" is to be re-broadcast at the annual meeting to be held in March. The whole thing was quite interesting and entertaining while it lasted.

A number of mixed rinks from Lakefield are paying our club a friendly visit to-morrow evening.

And, boys, remember the 'spiel to-morrow at 1.45 p.m. The usual fee.

Chatham, Tilbury To Stage Snow Bowl Tilt

CHATHAM, Ont., Jan. 12 — (CP) —Frustrated once in an attempt to declare a snow bowl football champion, Chatham and Tilbury teams will meet here tomorrow in a game that ought to wind up the season.

Chatham Colvocs and Tilbury Clippers staged a classic in the snow New Year's day to rival the football bowl games of the United States. But when they had finished, they were tied 1-1 as a result of two rouges and the claimant to the bowl hadn't been decided.

So the Colvocs, who will use the gate receipts to put a team in the Junior Ontario Rugby Football Union next season, will take on the Clippers on Tecumseh Park again tomorrow. Both teams hope for snow and lots of it, because landing might be hard without it.

Only 300 fans watched the first snow bowl game in a chill wind and a driving snowstorm. A bigger crowd is practically assured this time because a cheering section of 100 girls has been rounded up by the Colvocs. The clu bmanagement promises that the cheerleaders "will do flips' and "everything will be like the big college games"—only snowier.

Tunney Dubious On Billy Conn

DETROIT, Jan. 12—(AP)—Former Champion Gene Tunney looks askance at young Billy Conn as a heavyweight fighter. Tunney, here for a visit, expressed hope that Conn would make a go of it in trying to build himself up from light heavy to heavyweight, but his doubts seemed plentiful.

"Billy is a fine Irish kid, a colorful fighter and a credit to the game," Tunney said. "I'd like to see him get up where he can make the money that a heavyweight contender can make.

"But to me he seems a trifle short. Besides, he has small bones. And, worst of all, he is not a knockout puncher."

Tunney himself came up from light heavy to heavyweight, but he pointed out that "I was six feet one and big-boned when I started."

St. Peter's Win 2-0 In Southend Tussle

St. Peter's grabbed off a 2-0 South-end Hockey League midget decision over the Royals last night at the Sacred Heart rink. It was a fine fixture all the way with the Saints having to hustle to hold their lead, especially in the third chukker. J. Murphy and Kennedy tallied for St. Peter's, both these puckists and Parsons showing up well for the squad. For the losers, Leether, Darrell and Lawson went best. The game was played as snow fell which hampered combination to some extent. The teams:

Royals: Goal, Leether; defence, Lawson, Barrie; centre, White; wings, Cooper, Darrell; subs, Williams, Fontaine, Wade, Blaby.

St. Peter's: Goal, Parsons; defence, J. Murphy, Matthews; centre, Murphy; wings, McLean, Garvey; subs, Kent, Kennedy, Freeman, McCartney, Basciano.

Lindsay Ski Club Elects Officers

LINDSAY, Jan. 12.— (ENS). — Lindsay skiing enthusiasts organized a local ski club here Thursday night when more than 50 young people gathered at a meeting called for organization purposes. A slate of officers, headed by J. E. Anderson, K.C., Crown Attorney, as president, was elected. Assisting Mr. Anderson on the executive will be: Vice-president, Lloyd Flack; secretary-treasurer, Leo Begley; directors, Ted Brennan, Cam. Strachen, Ethel Morgan, Betty Sutcliffe and Grant Whitaker.

The Lindsay club will, for this year at least, affiliate with the Peterborough Ski Club and local members will become out-of-town members of the Peterborough organization with privileges to use their facilities at Behany.

Gerry Duffus of Peterborough, director of the Eastern Ontario ski zone of the C.A.S.A., was present and assisted with the organization of the club. He said the Peterborough club members would be pleased to have their Lindsay friends as out-of-town members.

Remember When—

Baseball Commissioner Kenesaw Landis exonerated 21 players of "throwing" four games in the tight Chicago White Sox-Boston American League pennant race in 1917, in a blanket decision 13 years ago today. Two baseball outcasts, Charles Risberg and Arnold Gandil, charged the Sox bought four games from Detroit Tigers to reach the finals. Chicago won the pennant and went on to defeat New York Giants for the world title.

"TELL BILL GOODBYE"

By Marie Blizard

SYNOPSIS.

The Characters:
FABIENNE SEYMOUR, rich, young and beautiful.
NICKY BARTLETT, wealthy and in love with Fabienne.
ELLEN CHAPMAN, young and capable mistress of Willoughby House.
DR. BILL MALLORY, close friend of Ellen's.

YESTERDAY; Fabienne returns to New York for a few days to watch the presentation of her play at the settlement house. There the children give her a warm welcome.

CHAPTER THIRTEEN.

HOW LONG had he been standing there quietly? How much had Bill Mallory seen of that little play of welcome?

She said, "I....I've got something in my eye," and dabbed at it with a minute handkerchief.

"I'll take it out for you." Possessively, he guided her toward the light. There was a twinkle in his eye, but the expression on his face was professionally concerned.

"I....I think it's out now," she said.

"We're glad to see you back, Miss Seymour. I guess you gathered that. The kids...."

"Oh, the kids," she said hastily, embarrassed. "You know how they are. I just got here. Is Ellen about?"

"Ellen is everywhere about. She hasn't lighted anywhere since we got here. I think we might find her out front."

Fabienne said, "Let's go look."

As they came down the aisle to their seats in the front row, the lights went down and the curtain rose jerkily.

The play was on. The play was a dramatization of episodes from the lives of George Washington and Abraham Lincoln. It was played by a cast that ranged in years from four to twelve; by a cast that spoke with the tongue of foreign lads, and spoke with the childish stilted phrases that were a delight in themselves. Fabienne felt proud.

It was over very quickly, too quickly. Because Bill Mallory sat by her side and because she was aware of the pleasure in his face, his simple delight that she, too, felt in the children's performance. Once she looked at him and whispered, "You like them, don't you?"

"Kids are more interesting than people," he said smiling. "I work with them all the time, you know."

"Do you?" she said, and returned her gaze to the stage.

The play was over and they rose to stand for the playing of the national anthem.

Fabienne dropped her purse.

She bent to pick it up.

Bill bent at the same time.

Her soft hair brushed his cheek. His hand fumbled with the purse, touched hers. A flame ran up her arm, into her throat, and made her face feel hot, her eyes burn.

"Thanks," she murmured, and turned away from him quickly before he could see how his touch had affected her. She said, "Oh, there's Ellen."

Ellen was coming toward them, holding out both hands to Fabienne.

"Fabienne! You came! I knew you would! Wasn't it wonderful? The children did it for you. You've no idea how you've been missed. I haven't had the heart to tell them that you'd left for good. The older girls have been asking for you and making plans to show you when you come back," Ellen chattered as she led them out of the hall.

"The older girls?" Fabienne asked.

Ellen was leading the way to her office.

"The sixteen-year-olds. Wait until you see them. They're wearing their hair like yours. There's a wave of saddle shoes and sweater-and-skirt costumes sweeping the entire neighborhood" (Fabienne had adopted the collegiate costume for her work) "and they're even trying to talk like you. You've supplanted Garbo and Ginger Rogers as their ideals, my dear."

Bill said, "I'll buy you girls a drink later. I think I'll drop in and see how Hopkins is getting along and pick you up later."

When he had gone, Ellen said, "We need you, Fabienne. Mrs. Cheeseborough has promised us a gift of fifteen hundred dollars and we think we'll use it on some project for the older girls. They're quite a problem. They're at an age when children's pursuits are beneath them, and they don't want to take part in the programs of their parents. We like to keep the old ones adjusted to their own old world lives, but the young ones want to be part of the new world."

"What do you plan to do?" Fabienne asked.

"Find some way to keep these youngsters from going to dance halls and cheap amusement places by offering them something more entertaining. We thought we'd spend the money to put a dance floor in the gymnasium and plan dances and competitive games, something whereby boys and girls can get together. What do you say to this?"

"I? Why, I think it's a great idea."

"There's a catch to it, Fabienne. The girls don't really take to it. They think it's a form of being watched over. But if you—whom they adore—were to back up the movement and be sort of the spirit behind it, they'd follow whatever you do."

"Really I . . . oh, Ellen, we've had this out before," she wailed.

Ellen's face was troubled, but she said, "I know we have and I wouldn't want you to come back unless you came willingly. But you have so much to give, Fabienne, and these girls have so little! I thought you might feel the way I do about it. However—" she broke off and smiled. "How long are you going to stay in New York?"

Fabienne took a cigaret from her jeweled case and tapped it thoughtfully. She was thinking: I can't stay and I won't let Ellen urge me. There were a lot of parties scheduled for the holidays in Maryland, parties that she was looking forward to.

("YOU HAVE SO MUCH AND THEY HAVE SO LITTLE.")

She had dances and drags and cocktail parties that she'd promised to go to. Dances in the high-ceilinged rooms where she'd dance so many, many time. Miss Kate and Miss Viola Lee in their lavender shawls. The black boys playing slow waltzes back of the palms. The miles and miles of buffets with salads and hot breads. They'd been there for decades and they'd be there for decades more — unchanged.

And the days. The nice, lazy, well-ordered days. Breakfast before the fire in the library, Molly brushing her hair. Lavender-scented sheets to sleep between each night.

She couldn't leave that and come back to hurried breakfasts, to eight hours a day wiping little noses, running about . . .

"Miss Seymour! Excuse me, please, Miss Chapman, but can I come in?" It was Rosie Riccio, a broad smile on her swarthy, pretty face, who spoke, interrupting Fabienne's train of thought.

At first, Fabienne didn't recognize her. Gone were the patches of rouge on her olive cheeks. Gone was the bold smudge of lipstick, the oily curls. Rosie wore her hair in a roll, the way that Fabienne wore it when she was at work. Gone were the silly, cheap sandals and the sleazy dress. Low heels and a little sweater suit replaced them.

"Rosie!" Fabienne said, delighted. "I just wanted to tell you how glad we are you're back."

"I'm glad to be back, Rosie. Will you call a meeting of the girls in your group for Monday night at eight o'clock?"

Ellen said, "Good girl, Fab!"

"You've got me hypnotized, Ellen Chapman. I hadn't the slightest intention of staying."

"You'll never be sorry, Fab. The bread on the waters has never failed to come back. . . . Come along now. We'll pick up Bill. He'll be delighted to hear this."

"He will?" Fabienne said in a small voice.

"O course he will. He's been talking about you ever since you left. He wants you to work with him."

"In the clinic?" Fabienne asked, setting her mouth in a firm line.

"Oh, no! Bill's working awfully hard on some choral groups, getting ready for Christmas carols. He need you, too, Fabienne. But I warn you, right now, it will take a lot of your time. They reeharse every night."

Working with Bill every night! It was sweet to anticipate, but it was dangerous. If this was bread on the waters, it was bitter bread.

Goalie Remembered In Sarnia Observer

SARNIA, Jan. 12—Joe Dwyer, one of Sarnia's greatest goal tenders in the city's balmy hockey days, was a brief visitor here Tuesday. Accompanied by Mrs. Dwyer, a Sarnia girl, Joe dropped in between trains en route to his home in Peterborough from Detroit. He called on George B. Dawson, who was actively identified with Sarnia hockey when Joe was playing.

Today Mr. Dwyer operates a hotel in Peterborough and is taking only a spectator's interest in the game. After leaving Sarnia he turned professional in the American Association.

Juvenile Grads Win

In an exhibition puck fray at Omemee on Wednesday night, the local juvenile Grads defeated Omemee juniors by a 4-2 score, tallying all four in the third heat. Hunt and Deyell counted for the O's in the first; while Gillespie got two, and Robinson and Woodgate one each for the Grads. BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

"The Authority on Authorities"

DO WHAT HE WANTS

IF YOUR partner, who showed general weakness in the bidding, eventually doubles the opponents' contract, you know he is counting mainly on his holding of trumps, especially if you are short of them. Your job during the defense, then, is to help protect him from being end-played by the declarer. One way to help him is by leading through the declarer a suit which both he and your partner can ruff, if such a condition has developed.

East bid 1-Heart to start this deal, South 1-Spade, North 2-Clubs, East 2-Hearts, South 3-Diamonds, East 3-Hearts and then North 3-Spades, which West doubled. East overtook the heart K lead with the A, led the Q and then the J. South ruffed with the 8 and West overruffed with the 10. He returned the diamond 2 to the A.

Here was where East slipped. If he led another heart, West would have been sure to get two more trump tricks, setting the contract two. But he returned his diamond 9. The declarer took that, cashed the spade A, ran two more diamonds, collected the two top clubs, then led the spade 9 from dummy, playing the 3. West won this with his J, then had to lead from his spade Q-5 into declarer's K-6.

East should have read his partner as having at least five trumps, as if declarer held six he would have rebid them before showing diamonds. Though a fourth round of hearts might have furnished a ruff and discard for the declarer, that danger was not so great as the one of jeopardizing his partner's trump holding by not leading them.

Returning hearts then would have set the contract two tricks instead of one.

Russians Give Finns 48 Hours To Quit Or Face Germany Too

COPENHAGEN, Jan. 13 — (AP). —Withdrawal of Soviet Russian troops from part of Liinahamari, the Arctic port of Finland's Petsamo district, was reported to-day in Stockholm despatches, while Scandinavian correspondents said reinforcements of Finns and Russians on the Salla front indicated imminence of a major battle.

These despatches said all except one Russian cruiser had left Liinahamari, and that the Finns had cut the road to Salmijaervi, also in the Arctic area, thus complicating the Russian service of supply.

In South-eastern Finland, on the Karelian Isthmus, the Russians were said to have set up loudskeepers advising the Finnish defenders to "surrender within 48 hours, or the

Scenes By Ace News Photographer As Red Army Is Thrown Back

The employers of Frank Muto, ace newspaper photographer, were considerably worried when he disappeared from sight after covering the German invasion of Poland. Unheard from for several weeks, Muto turned up in Finland and began sending out pictures of the Russian invasion. These scenes were photographed by Mr. Muto, who has attached himself to the Finnish headquarters. Proving an invaluable aid to the Finns in their amazing resistance of the Russian forces, the weather has even provided natural "iceboxes," where food for the Finnish troops is kept. A soldier is shown, UPPER LEFT, examining slain swine, which are kept in perfect condition by the freezing weather until time for use. Finnish boys are now veterans at bomb-dodging and these boys, UPPER CENTRE, take to the ditch and keep well down during one of the many air raids on Helsingfors. A detachment of Finnish soldiers, who have taken such terrible toll on the ranks of the Russians, is shown, UPPER RIGHT, about to be hauled by sled to the firing line. Some of the hundreds of tanks, captured by the Finns during fierce fighting on the Salla front, are shown, LOWER LEFT. Found with hands and feet frozen, these ill-clad Russian soldiers, LOWER RIGHT, were taken prisoner by the Finnish forces.

Lone German Downed Off Scotland

4 French Bag 4 Nazis; Britons Miss 3 German Destroyers

LONDON, Jan. 13.—(CP)—Royal Air Force planes carried out the "largest survey flight of the war" today while a lone German aircraft approaching the southeast coast of Scotland was shot down by British fighter planes.

The R.A.F. scouting forces penetrated as far as Austria and Bohemia for the first time since hostilities began. Other planes flew over northwest Germany and Heligoland.

The Air Ministry did not disclose whether all the aircraft used in the expedition were from bases in the British Isles or whether some were R.A.F. machines stationed in France.

Because of the necessity of avoiding the Netherlands and Belgium, the flights—providing all the planes were from Britain—were over a distance of about 1,700 miles, roughly equal to flying the Atlantic from Newfoundland to Ireland.

The shooting down of the German plane in Scotland marked the fifth successive day that the enemy has approached British shores. Three planes also flew over a Norfolk port, inland bound, about noon and observers saw three British planes rising at great speed. The watchers estimated the German planes were flying at an altitude of 4,000 feet.

Attack 3 Destroyers

An air ministry announcement said the coastal command of the R.A.F. sighted three German destroyers Thursday and dropped bombs close to the craft. The ministry also denied a German claim that a British plane was shot down in flames near Luxembourg yesterday. The machine in question returned safely to its base after a running fight with four Messerschmitt fighters, the ministry said.

All the British planes which en-

Whalen said that a brewery vat apparently had overflowed into the city water system and made water taste strongly of beer.

I.R.A. Wreckers Fail In Sabotage At Hendon Airport

LONDON, Jan. 13.—(CP)— Firemen fought flames which spread through the Yarwood Shipbuilding plant at Northwich, Cheshire, today, after an explosion which broke windows within a quarter mile radius. Officials said no sabotage was involved.

The blaze destroyed the main building of the shipyard. Further explosions hampered firemen.

Expect War Loan To Be Quickly Oversubscribed

OTTAWA, Jan. 13 — (CP). — Canvassers launched their final effort to-day seeking subscriptions for Canada's $200,000,000 war loan, which goes on sale on Monday, amid forecasts that it will be over-subscribed quickly.

Since the Government urged Canadians "to make your dollars fight for freedom" by participating in the loan, 500 brokers, bankers and investment dealers throughout the Dominion have been co-operating closely to make the loan a success.

The 12-year 3½ per cent. interest bonds go on sale on Monday morning and Finance Minister Ralston told a press conference here yesterday that he confidently expected the issue will be over-subscribed speedily If the over-subscription is heavy, the Government probably will take more than the $200,000,000 originally planned.

Col. Ralston will speak over the national network of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation on Sunday night concerning the loan.

The Finance Department said last night in a statement reviewing the Government's balance sheet over the past nine months that cost of financing the first war loan will be more than covered by the increasing tax receipts indicated by December revenues.

Total receipts for the nine months ended December 31, 1939, were $398,000,000, a gain of only $4,000,000 over the same period the previous year. The gain for December alone, however, was $7,000,000 and January figures show this increase is being maintained.

Hunt 2 Raiders

Buenos Aires, Jan. 13 (AP)

USUALLY well-informed naval sources today declared two German naval vessels are operating in the South Atlantic and are being hunted by British warships.

No details on the size or identity of the German ships were available. The naval sources said one was believed to be a German warship, possibly a cruiser, the other an auxiliary ship which accompanied the Admiral Graf Spee on her raids.

Radio Facsimile To Aid Fliers

NEW YORK, Jan. 13—(AP).—Invention of a radio facsimile machine designed to deliver weather maps and other information to airlines in flight was announced last night by a former United States naval officer, W. G. H. Finch.

It is capable of reproducing sketches, typewritten orders and handwriting at a rate of about 150 words a minute, and also can be used for plane-ground communication in war time.

While radio facsimile reproduction between land stations no longer is a novelty, the device built by Finch is the first to employ both sending and receiving apparatus in an airplane.

An officer of the inventor's company, Finch Tele-Communications, Inc., of Passaic, N.J., said the facsimile machine was substantially static-proof. In the course of its development weather maps, storm warnings, wind velocities and other data were transmitted automatically from the ground to planes in flight.

Bombings, Mines Sink 15 Ships, 11 U.K. In Week

(By The Canadian Press.)

Germany destroyed 41,347 tons of British merchant shipping in the week ending January 12. The losses of other nations were small.

Britan's major loss of the week was the 10,002-ton passenger liner Dunbar Castle, which struck a mine off the British East coast shortly after sailing on a voyage to South Africa.

Although Germany lost no ships during the week due to the direct action of Allied naval patrols, the 3,558-ton German steamship Bahia Blanca, trying to sneak through the blockade, struck an iceberg off Iceland and sank.

Furthermore, any doubt regarding the fate of the German liner Ussukuma, 7,834 tons, was banished when the vessel's crew was landed. The ship was scuttled by her crew when approached by a British warship in the South Atlantic last month.

The week's merchant losses:—

Council Must Share 'Melon' With Board Of Education And Utilities Commission

First opinions of the reductive effect on this year's tax rate of the benefit of being permitted to cut into the surplus funds of the City Trust Commission as intimated in a report from the Ontario Municipal Board have been somewhat revised —downward.

The prospect of getting a contribution from that source equivalent to 2¼ mills in this year's municipal rate was a little too rosy. It transpired in reconsideration of the information received from the Board that allowance has to be made for the rights of the Utilities Commission and the Board of Education to share in the "melon" for the ratepayers which has ripened from the City Trust Commission's accumulated surplus of $347,443.87 at the end of last year.

The extent of that distribution may not seriously reduce the amount of Trust money which will be credited to the city treasury this year, but it has to be allocated, and the result will mean the whittling down of that estimate of 2¼ mills to some figure which cannot be definitely computed until all the facts are known.

Mayor Hamilton said yesterday afternoon that the news of the report from the Municipal Board, obtained under the stress of limited time on Thursday afternoon, had probably built up a hope in the minds of many ratepayers that the net advantage to them would be a reduction of 2¼ mills in their 1940 tax rate.

"We don't know exactly what it will be," he said, and City Hall opinion declines to attempt to translate into mills the "gift" from the Board. However, it was learned that the amount of the City Trust funds to which the Utilities Commission and Board of Education are entitled is not large.

A Contingent Order.

The Examiner was informed that the order of the Municipal Board has not been formally passed. Its scope has been announced, but at present the order may be described as being tentative until the Board has been assured by the City Council that local improvements are again going to be financed by issuing debentures, and not by bank loans. And the Council has already resumed that method, and will so inform the Board on Monday when, it is understood, a small deputation will go to Toronto for that purpose.

Although at present the Municipal Board's order is contingent upon that assurance being given, the

Canadian Fliers Ahead Of Schedule As Vliet Presses War Training

OTTAWA, Jan. 13, — (CP).—A one-armed paperhanger has a cinch compared to a pilot in the 18-plane army co-operation squadron of the Royal Canadian Air Force which will go overseas to support the first and subsequent divisions of the Canadian active service force at the front.

Here is the routine duty of these pilots, now well-advanced in an army co-operation training course at Rockcliffe Air Station.

Fly the Westland-Lysander planes, map from the air, take air photographs, make reconnaissances of enemy artillery positions and troop concentrations, observe the topography, operate the plane's radio, fire the two forward machine guns and avoid anti-aircraft fire.

The pilot does all this besides distributing a few bombs when necessary, dropping bundles of food and ammunition to stranded infantry patrols and picking up messages from the ground with a long hook without landing.

His one companion in the plane is an air gunner who sits behind him in a glass-covered cockpit. The gunner mans a swivel machine gun, protecting the aircraft if attacked, and strafing the ground if required.

The training of No. 110 Squadron (City of Toronto) chosen as the first R.C.A.F. unit to go overseas and increased by other fliers from Winnipeg and Ottawa, is moving ahead rapidly and next week air-to-ground firing practice starts on Lake Deschenes, northwest of Ottawa.

There the Lysanders will dive on targets placed on the ice, blasting the objective with machine gun fire. Later air fighting will be practised over Lake Ontario near Trenton, when a plane will tow a target behind it while the Lysanders dive about it, peppering away at the target.

The men roll out of the barracks at 8 a.m. and study and fly until seven o'clock at night with breaks for two meals. This goes on seven days a week with but one half-day off weekly.

A formal army co-operation syllabus of instruction is followed and Squadron Leader W. D. Van Vliet, in command of No. 110, told newspapermen his squadron was slightly ahead of schedule.

Formal training likely will wind up the end of this month or early in February and the squadron then will practise strenuously until sent overseas.

The Lysanders used by the squadron are manufactured in Toronto and are one of the first Canadian-made, first-line fighting planes. They are of the same design as those used by the Royal Air Force on the western front.

"They must be the best possible, for the Germans are copying them in their latest army co-operation aircraft," said Squadron Leader Van Vliet.

Daily the pilots and gunners of No. 110 are in the air. No effort is being made to specialize any part

Pan-American Neutrality Men Plan Teeth To Make Security Zone Effective

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13. —(CP) — The Pan-American Neutrality Committee is planning to make its security zone effective when it meets Monday in Rio Janeiro.

Each belligerent has agreed to respect the neutrality zone, whose status under international law is questionable, providing others respected it.

Principal incident in the zone to date was the German pocket battleship Admiral Graf Spee's attempted attack on the French steamship Formose. The Graf Spee was herself attacked by three British cruisers which chased her into Montevideo where she was scuttled by her crew.

The Neutrality Committee, apparently intent upon preventing German vessels from using the zone for a raiding base again, will consider the following proposals:

1. An agreement among United States and South American Republics to prevent belligerent warships from obtaining supplies in Pan American ports or making any repairs after they have committed belligerent acts inside the security zone.

2. A similar agreement to keep merchant ships from carrying supplies from Pan American ports to belligerent warships operating inside the zone.

3. An accord to keep submarines from entering Pan American harbors. This might follow the lines of President Roosevelt's proclamation banning submarines from United States ports except in emergencies such as storms, in which case they would have to enter on the surface.

4. A coordination of interpretations of international law relating to neutrality, so that all the Republics would have in effect, a common code of neutrality.

The committee consists of seven experts appointed by the Pan-American Union Governing Board.

Swiss, Hungarian Fronts Seen Battlefields

LONDON, Jan. 13.—(CP)— The Budapest correspondent of the News-Chronicle said today that there were indications of a great German spring offensive on several fronts, including a drive through Hungary and another through Switzerland.

"Reports reaching Budapest from Germany suggest that the Nazis are making feverish preparations for a great spring offensive of several fronts," the dispatch said.

The Slovak government had been ordered by German army authorities to have all roads into Hungary ready to cope with heavy traffic by March 15.

"German troop concentrations are reported in the area between the Little Carpathians and the Hungarian frontier near Denec. About one division has already arrived there.

"On the other hand, reports from Prague state that Gestapo officials and troops have been withdrawn quietly from many parts of the protectorate and transfered to Swiss frontier districts.

"This is thought to indicate a German plan to turn the Maginot line by a sudden surprise attack which would be made without artillery preparation through Switzerland."

Rhine Artillery Exchanges Fire

PARIS, Jan 13—(CP)—Scouting flights by both sides, an occasional brush between German and French patrols, and a brisk exchange of artillery fire— standard fare these days on the Western front— occurred yesterday and last night, military authorities said today.

"Nothing important to report," said this morning's communique of the French command.

Patrols were numerous but uneventful. West of the Vosges River and East of the Moselle artillery barked for a while, but military experts attached no particular significance to it. Fire was exchanged also between batteries and casemates on the Rhine, but in view of the heavy armament protecting the opposing gunners no particular result could have been expected.

Planes on both sides penetrated deep into enemy territory, the Germans scouting Northern and Northeastern France. French observation and reconnaissance craft accom-

Bomber Gives Fishing Crew Ducking As Splashes Flood Engine Room

LONDON, Jan. 13—(CP).—Safe in port, members of the crew of the 202-ton British trawler Flavia told today how their vessel was twice bombed and machine-gunned by German planes off the east coast of Scotland.

The men were pulling their nets from the sea yesterday when a bomber emerged from a fog bank, its machine guns spurting flame, and dropped bombs as it circled the fishing vessel.

None of the six bombs reached their target, but the last one, believed by the Flavia's captain to have been an aerial torpedo, sent up a great fountain, half flooding the ship's engine room. Pipes were broken and the ship's compass hurled to the deck.

Three sailors who landed at a port on the eastern British coast this morning told a similar story of the bombing and strafing of their lightship by a German plane.

"A plane flew overhead and began dropping bombs the size of footballs," one of them said. "It described five or six circles about the vessel, but the four bombs it released all missed their target.

"The plane crew then machine-gunned us. Bullets struck our light and extinguished it.

"We tried to put our ship's boat in the water so as to draw off and return after the attack ended, but we were strafed again. Fortunately nobody was struck.

"The plane disappeared in about a quarter of an hour. The lightship suffered no serious damage."

An Answer

Toronto, Jan. 13 (CP)

REV. E. C. FRENCH, minister of Wesley United Church here who criticized the presence of eight alleged gambling resorts in Toronto suburbs during a sermon last Sunday, told police today that shortly before daybreak a milk bottle containing a newspaper clipping of the account of the sermon was thrown through the front window of his home.

The window is of heavy glass and the bottle evidently had been hurled with force from the front lawn.

Four Persons Killed In Airplane Crash

Three of the victims were identified as members of a Detroit family. They were Mrs. Mary Borowicz, 33, her son, Leonard, 19, and her daughter, Joanne, 17.

The fourth victim was believed to be William B. Maycock, pilot and head of the Maycock Carter Service of Detroit.

Berlin, Jan. 13 (AP)

APPROXIMATELY 200 British and French citizens residing in Germany at the outbreak of the war have been interned, authorized sources said today. All are men of arms-bearing age.

These sources said there are "several thousand" enemy subjects of military age in the Reich but, with the exception of the 200, they have been permitted to remain under their pre-war status. They must report to police headquarters weekly, however, and obtain permission before leaving the city of their residence.

Actress Bennett Wed 3rd Time In Elopement

PHOENIX, Ariz., Jan. 13—(AP)—Actress Joan Bennett and Producer Walter Wanger were married in the courthouse basement Friday after a sudden proposal by telephone and an all-night elopement trip which astonished even Hollywood.

Wanger, 45, called Miss Bennett, 29, from his studio Thursday night, and they decided to elope.

Stopping only long enough to pick up Margaret Ettinger, Miss Bennett's press representative, they started for Phoenix by automobile. After their arrival Wanger had to buy a wedding ring.

Shortly before noon they obtained a marriage license, then hurried to Justice of the Peace Harry Westfall's office. Witnesses were Miss Ettinger and Westfall's clerk, Mildred Niles.

The marriage, third for Miss Bennett and second for Wanger, culminated a friendship of five years. Although some romantic comment had linked their names, Hollywood was not prepared for their wedding.

The bride, once a blonde but now a brunette, formerly was under con-

Use Cash On War Says Tweed Council

TWEED, Ont., Jan. 13.—(CP)—Construction of a new post office, usually the occasion for speechmaking and celebration in other municipalities, will begin in this Hastings County village within a few weeks—under protest by the village council. The village has claimed for the past year that it does not need the building.

Announcement from the federal department of public works that the construction will start this spring was followed today by a plea of the village council, following a special session last night, that the appropriation be used in the prosecution of the war.

Reeve Charles Kerr and three of four council members contended that the spending of $15,000 on a public building here under existing world conditions and in view of the approaching Dominion War Loan, is not in keeping with the government's plan of curbing unnecessary expenditures.

"We do not need nor want this building yet the government is foisting it upon us when the money could be used to greater advantage for war purposes," Mr. Kerr said.

A resolution of protest, passed at the meeting last night and forwarded to Prime Minister Mackenzie King and other government officials, said that "we firmly believe that a big majority of the citizens of this municipality are prepared to support the council in view of existing conditions."

The resolution said the council wished to forego a new public building "at least until peace is declared," and contended that erection of the building "is only creating a needless expenditure of public money as the present building is adequately serving the needs of this community."

Easy Marks

Copenhagen, Denmark, Jan. 13 FINNISH marksmen were reported today to have picked off groups of Soviet troops in the air as they attempted to land by parachute from planes behind the Finnish lines on the Karelian isthmus.

The Stockholm newspaper Tidninten said several groups of 50 men in parachutes were "virtually annihilated" as they floated to earth at dusk yesterday.

Some Finnish riflemen shot the descending troops while they still were in the air and others were quickly rounded up after landing, the paper said.

Forger-Coached Banker Admits Crimes

VANCOUVER, Jan. 13.—(CP). — A former prairie bank manager who, according to Defence Counsel J. R. Nicholson, was led into a criminal path by a man he was trying to help "go straight," pleaded guilty in police court here yesterday to seven charges of dealing in forgeries.

The accused, 69-year-old Owen L. Carey, was remanded till Tuesday for sentence after City Prosecutor Oscar Carr told the court the seven charges to which he pleaded guilty were representative of a total of about eighty separate cases during the past year.

By cashing stolen pension cheques, raised money orders, stolen money orders and forged commercial cheques the prosecutor said, Carey had received approximately $4,000 from banks in the twelve-month period.

"Undoubtedly, some one else did the stealing of the cheques and money orders," Mr. Orr said.

Defense Counsel said Carey had

Berlin's Version.

BERLIN, Jan. 13. — (AP) — The German High Command's communique today said:

"In the west, no special events."

"The Air Force continued reconnaissance activity January 12 over Eastern France and the North Sea obtaining important results. Three individual planes were unsuccessfully attacked by enemy pursuiters.

"Outside separate noctural flights which were partially made under violation of Dutch Neutrality, only a single enemy Bristol Blenheim was sighted over German territory January 12.

"The plane, after a short fight, was shot down by Nazi pursuiters and crashed and burned on French soil.

"Eight British bombers attempted to attack German destroyers in German (Heligoland) Bight. Only two attackers succeeded in dropping bombs, without hitting the mark. One was shot down and a second damaged.

"Six other British planes were repulsed in time through effective, well-aimed defence fire from our fighters."

Beating Trustie In Gambling Costs 3 Lives

FORT TOWSON, Okla., Jan. 13—(AP)—An amazing story of how three in a farm family of five were killed by gun, axe, and fire because of a dice game prompted State officials yesterday to investigate reports that convicts get drunk and go hunting with shotguns.

A frightened farmer, Houston Lambert, 28, signed a statement that he saw three convicts, brutally kill Elmer Rogers, his wife and 4-year-old son Dean on New Year's Eve in anger because Rogers won money from one of the three camp trusties.

Informed of the statement, Warden Jess Dunn closed the Fort Towson Prison camp, herded its twenty-five occupants inside the penitentiary walls at McAlester and disclosed he had discharged a camp sergeant for allowing his charges too much freedom.

Previously Governor Leon Phillips had said his own investigation showed that Fort Towson convicts were allowed to hunt with shotguns and "got out and got drunk."

Lambert, who told Sheriff Joe Harmon he was afraid to speak earlier because he feared vengeance

Germans are coming."

One report from a Danish newspaper correspondent in the Salla sector said the Red army had at least 40,000 men there and had been bringing up more in the past few days. He said the Finns also were reinforcing and preparing an attempt to encircle the invaders.

Dozen Cities Bombed.

Russia's air force subjected southern Finland yesterday to one of the heaviest bombings in the month and a half of war, breaking Helsingfors' telephone communications with the outside world and inflicting damage on a dozen other cities.

Lahti, sixty miles north of the capital, reported the heaviest damage. The radio station in this important railway junction was put out of commission by bombs. Elsewhere the damage was not so heavy, although there were some casualties.

A Swedish correspondent said large numbers of fresh Russian troops were being dropped by parachute from planes.

(Havas News Agency quoted Stockholm reports as saying that Finnish troops had almost succeeded in encircling another Soviet division in the Salla sector.

(Havas also reported that the Soviet radio broadcast an "ultimatum" to the Finns today, warning them that unless they law down their arms in 48 hours the Germans will come to help Russia crush Finland).

On other fronts little activity was reported today, but some observers said the Russian air raids on southern and western Finland yesterday indicated intentions to increase the tempo of the war.

Abo (Turku), southwestern Finnish seaport that is an important arrival point for foreign men and materials, was raided by 30 planes, and bombers ranged northward up the Bothnian coast.

Flying squad cars searched the entire north London area while Scotland Yard officers and soldiers threw a cordon around the airfield and searched every car moving in the district.

Double Security Looms For Turks In Italy's Balkan Front Stand

ANKARA, Jan. 13.—(AP)—Indications Italy is taking the lead for a "United Front" in southeastern Europe against possible aggression by Russia were hailed widely today as meaning double security for Turkey.

Italy's position was regarded by Turkish political leaders as "unambiguous opposition to Soviet enterprise in the Danube basin or the Balkans."

Rome's efforts were viewed as being virtually in complete harmony with British and French aims—for a Balkan bloc that would be a barrier to both Russian and German expansion. Turkey is allied with Great Britain and France in a mutual assistance pact.

Latest of a series of talks aimed at subduing Balkan differences for the duration of the war was, a source close to the Turkish government disclosed, a Sofia conference between Numan Menemencoglu, Turkish Foreign Affairs general secretary, and Bulgarian Premier George Kiosseivanoff in which Bulgaria was urged to moderate or drop for the present her claim on Rumania for war-lost Dobruja.

Authoritative informants lined the conference with Italo-Hungarina talks last week-end in which a defensive alliance was understood to have been reached.

Italy was reported to have pressed for at least a temporary suspension of Hungary's claims on Rumania for Transylvania, lost in the post-war breakup of the Austro-Hungarian Empire.

Tied with these developments was the secret meeting of King Carol of Rumania with Prince Paul, regent of Yugoslavia. Authoritative sources in Bucharest said the leaders agreed two days ago that any Russian advance in southeastern Europe would be a "common danger."

Poles Deserting?

BERLIN, Jan. 13. — (AP) —The German New Agency said today Polish soldiers in the French army were deserting and crossing the Western front lines.

They showed "no desire to fight for England's prestige," it said, "the more so because re-establishment of Poland is not expected and the fight against Germany has shown itself to be hopeless."

George Goodwin Wins Tourist Body's Award

George Goodwin of Lindsay has been successful in winning the cash prize offered for the best descriptive article on the highlands of Haliburton as a tourist district. The Ontario-wide contest was sponsored by the Haliburton Tourist Association and Mr. Goodwin's article will be used in the 1940 folder which the Association is published. Incidentally the Lindsay man helped compose the Kawarthas and Haliburton Tourist Association booklet in 1938 and designed and drew the map which was featured in that issue. He has been interested in the tourist business for many years and knows the district thoroughly as the result of years of experience.

Splendid Work To Do

"Frankly, I don't know why," said the spinster sister of J. P. Morgan, financier. "There is plenty of splendid work to be done there."

Seventy-first Annual Meeting Royal Bank of Canada

Unprecedented Business Activity With Maximum Employment Foreseen by Morris W. Wilson, President and Managing Director. — Reviews Canada's Relation to War. — Can Perhaps Do More Than Any Other Empire Country to Strengthen Britain's Position.

Sydney G. Dobson, General Manager, Reveals Assets of Bank Highest in History. — Continued Progress Shown. — Foreign Exchange Control Working Smoothly.

A striking comparison between the Canada of 1914 and to-day with particular reference to the important economic contribution this country can make to the allied cause were features of the address given by Morris W. Wilson, President and Managing Director, at the Seventy-first Annual Meeting of The Royal Bank of Canada.

"Canada," he said, "is in a position to contribute assistance to the cause in truly impressive proportions, to an extent, in fact, that may decisively turn the balance if the other contending forces are anything like equal."

PROGRESS SINCE 1914

Since 1914 Canada's economic structure had been virtually transformed, stated Mr. Wilson, from one based mainly on agriculture to one of great diversification in which manufacturing played a leading role. He predicted this trend would undoubtedly receive an even greater stimulus if the present conflict is prolonged.

"In our past crop, yields were again abundant, the total wheat crop for all Canada falling but little below half a billion bushels. Thus the Second World War finds us in a unique position to continue as the 'Granary of the Empire.'

"While Canada's manufacturing industry played a noteworthy role in the production of munitions during the last war, should the need arise, we shall be able to outstrip greatly anything we were able to do at that time.

"The iron and steel industry, which under war-time stimulus reached a peak of a million tons of pig iron annually in 1918, has doubled its potential output. Aircraft manufacturing has assumed important proportions, and the groundwork has been laid for rapid expansion.

MINERALS VITAL IN WAR

"War power to-day depends largely on minerals, particularly metals. The expansion of the Canadian output of such products since 1914 has been spectacular. In 1914 Canada produced 773,000 fine ounces of gold. In 1939 production was nearly seven times as much as in 1914. Nickel increased from a production of 45½ million pounds in 1914 to 227 million pounds in 1939. Copper production has increased eight-fold during the past twenty-five years. Lead output is eleven times as great. Zinc production has gone up from 22 million to 381 million pounds. The output of aluminium is eleven times as great, and when plant extensions now under way are completed, production will be increased to nearly fourteen times what it was in 1914."

"To-day Canada is a very different nation from the young unseasoned country that went into the last war.

WAR AND CANADIAN ECONOMY

"It seems to me quite clear that we have facing us the prospect of maximum employment. Unless our enemies collapse through deterioration of morale before their economic and military resources are exhausted, the decision in the present conflict will depend largely upon economic staying power."

"Never before in our history has it been so important that every one of us should practice thrift and industry. If the time comes when unemployment is no longer a problem, we may find ourselves compelled to curtail luxury and other non-essential industries to make way for more essential production. Furthermore, capital and other expenditures, public or private, not directly related to winning the war, nor essential to keeping our economic machine functioning efficiently, should be definitely discouraged. It is to be hoped that under these circumstances, labour and wage disputes will be completely avoided. Those who are fortunate enough to remain at their regular employment in Canada must not exploit the situation for their own ends. Capital must also be willing to contribute its full share. Some industries, of course, will be adversely affected by the war, but the majority will undoubtedly experience a great stimulus. The benefits therefrom must not be retained by stockholders except to a normal degree. The Government has devised a sound system of taxing excess profits, but it is also essential that any attempt at profiteering should be ruthlessly suppressed."

In view of the strides which had been made since 1914, Mr. Wilson believed that Canada, "can do perhaps more than any other part of the Empire or any other country with the single exception of the United States."

BUY ALLIED GOODS

Mr. Wilson emphasized particularly the need for buying a maximum amount of goods from Great Britain and France. "In this way," he said, "funds will be made available for the purchase of wheat and war supplies in Canada, leaving the gold and foreign exchange reserves of Great Britain for use as a last resort.

Everything possible must be done to stimulate Canada's exports with a view to commanding purchasing power abroad. "We are in an absolutely unique position to supply goods to Great Britain and France. This must necessarily lead to business activity such as we have not previously known.

TOURIST TRADE

"It seems to me also that the war affords Canada a unique opportunity to develop further it tourist trade. It therefore behooves our governing bodies to bring the unquestioned attractions of Canada as prominently as possible to the attention of prospective visitors from the United States. In normal years, tourists spend as much as $250/300 million in Canada. This trade is thus an important factor in our international balance of payments. As a means of strengthening our economy and providing foreign exchange, our efforts to attract tourists should be redoubled."

BUSINESS PROSPECTS

Mr. Wilson reported that in spite of disturbing conditions business during 1939 was reasonably good and maintained a level well above that of 1938.

"If for any reason peace should come within a comparatively short time, we would soon revert without difficulty to the not unsatisfactory conditions which prevailed before the outbreak of hostilities. If the war should continue for a protracted period—and this is the basis on which our plans must of necessity be made—I think we shall have a period of unusual industrial activity. But as we prosecute the war, we must not lose sight of the readjustments which will follow the return of peace. If our precautions are well-planned and adequate, the hesitation in our progress will not be great."

GENERAL MANAGER'S ADDRESS

Mr. S. G. Dobson, General Manager, in reviewing the Bank's balance sheet remarked that the general progress of the bank during the year reflected an upturn in business which began in the Summer and which under the stimulus of war orders became quite active in the Fall of the year. The balance sheet was particularly noteworthy, he said, in that the totals shown under cash assets, securities, total assets and deposits were at the highest figures recorded in the history of the bank. Total assets now standing at $1,014,708,343 were the highest on record, this being the second occasion in the bank's history on which they had crossed the billion dollar mark.

Mr. Dobson reported a greater demand for Commercial loans in Canada and that the total under this heading was now $212,627,311, an increase of $14,424,408.

Profits for the year showed a moderate increase but, taxes now borne by banks had become a real burden. "These totalled in the case of The Royal Bank $1,967,751", he said, "a very heavy charge considering the bank's earnings and equivalent to 70c for every dollar paid shareholders. Everyone concedes that special taxation is necessary if we are to do our part in winning the war but the amounts I have mentioned represent ordinary peace-time taxes only."

FOREIGN EXCHANGE CONTROL

Foreign Exchange Control was now operating smoothly, said Mr. Dobson in spite of its very wide ramifications and the responsibility with which the banks were faced at the outset of interpreting the regulations to the public. "The manner in which this new, and at first complicated, machinery was handled was most creditable", said Mr. Dobson.

In conclusion the General Manager foresaw greater business activity during 1940 under the impetus of war orders, greater employment and more general distribution of purchasing power.

Biblical Thoughts For The Shut-Ins By Rev. E. R. James

THE TREASURE

Keep your heart with all diligence. Proverbs 4:23.

Mark carefully the marginal reading:—"Keep thy heart above all that thou guardest." What a word picture in a sentence. It was in the days of long ago when every man had to guard his own treasure and the more precious the more carefully he guarded it.

It is a proverb. A clever writer defines a proverb as "the wisdom of many and the wit of one." The ancient writer is speaking from his own experience of life. In process of time this world of wisdom found a place in the wisdom literature of the Old Testament. It is often forgotten that wisdom is a most important asset in our building of Christian character. Let us think of this pithy sentence in the light of modern knowledge.

The heart is the seat of the emotions. Possibly there is nothing the psychologist fears as the placing of too much stress upon the emotions. It means introspection; looking inwards. When you think too much of your feelings and are constantly looking inwards there is grave spiritual danger. Morbid introspection is a very real spiritual peril in this emotional age.

But there is a happy medium. We must look inwards if we are to have a well balanced Christian character. A modern scholar says that it is just as easy to develope a well balanced character as an unbalanced one.

Let us go to our great Examplar, the Lord Christ. If you had the privilege of meeting Him in the days of His flesh you would have been impressed by His power and His insight into human character. "He knew what was in man." The common people heard him gladly. "Never man spake as this Man." Above all He is not emotional.

Today so much emphasis is laid upon the revivalist preacher. There is careful preparation of the atmosphere, the music is well chosen and, above all, there is the passionate personality of the preacher. One thing we are sure of. Our Lord never tried to produce religious excitement. None of His hearers fainted or became excited. At the same time the Master was a Man who was deeply moved by human sorrow. "He Wept" at the grave of Lazarus. Repeatedly "He was moved with compassion," a very strong Greek word implying moving toward with the outstretched hand. He never allowed His emotion to evaporate in mere sentiment.

Moreover you would know that you were face to face with a Man Who was intensely alive. He speaks with conviction: "As My Father hath taught Me, I speak these things." St. John 8:28. Your emotions are given you for a great purpose to move you to work for God. Emotions which are allowed to evaporate will not long remain pure or strong. You are in gravest peril when you allow your heart to be moved by some preacher, sermon or Word of Scripture and do not put that emotion into action by bringing forth some good works.

You are to keep your heart diligently; guard carefully your emotions. Do not allow them to carry you into extremes of joy or anger. The emotional energy wrongly used will poison your life. Your emotions are to be the power for your true development in Christian character. There is a place for anger. Anger is a weapon put into your hands to fight the great moral battles of life.

There are precious words which have struck a responsive note in the hearts of many Christians. If your heart responds to this ancient prayer place it in your treasury of devotions:—

Almighty God, unto Whom all hearts are open, all desires known, and from Whom no secrets are hid; cleanse the thoughts of my heart by the inspiration of Thy Holy Spirit, that I may perfectly love Thee, and worthily magnify Thy Holy Name; through Jesus Christ Our Lord."

Easter Is Earliest Since 1913 Never Again Until 2,000

By JOHN DOTTRIDGE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, Jan. 13 (CP) Easter is stealing a march on Father Time and making a war-torn world step even a little more lively with its 1940 apppearance March 24, earliest since 1913 and earlier in the year than it will ever come again until after 2000.

Then it may break another record, but that's a matter for savants of the future. Easter, 1913, was March 23, one day ahead of this year's on the calendar. That early date was before the First Great War.

Not that wars or rolling up maps of Europe and Asia have much to do with it. The date for the commemoration of Christ's rising from the dead owes its mobility to the capricious moon. Easter Sunday is always "the first Sunday after the full moon which happens on or next after the 21st day of March"—March 21 being in northern climes the first day of spring.

In Canada's sometimes long and fickle winter, no fashion-conscious miss can depend on being able to flaunt brave colors and filmy dresses too soon, and Easter, 1940, may see Canadian belles well wrapped in Winter's furs.

She may find some consolation in succeeding years. In 1943, Easter reaches an all-time "late" for the century, coming on April 25, more than a month later than 1940's frigid date, and the latest possible day on which Easter Sunday can come. Three times in the century—in 1905, 1916 and 2000—the feast coincides with the doubly English holiday of April 23, which is St. George's Day and Shakespeare's birthday.

Promenading on Easter Sunday on boardwalks and main streets is comparatively recent development of the ancient festive season, but the history of the day itself has roots in the first days of Christianity, and owes its name to more ancient mythology.

Of Teuton Derivation

The name itself, like the days of the week, is a derivation from teutonic mythology. Eostre was the Anglo-Saxon goddess of spring, to whom the month corresponding to April in the present calendar, but once called "Eostur-monath," was dedicated. The name of the festival in other languages— the French "paques," the Spanish "pancua," and the Welsh "pasg"—is derived from the Hebrew Feast of Pesach, meaning "he passed over," which recalls the deliverance when the destroying Angel "passed over the houses of the children of Israel when he smote the Egyptians," as related in the Book of Exodus. The Jewish Passover nearly coincides with the Christian Easter, coming as it does on the full moon of the vernal equinox.

Observance of the feast of Eastertide as the most important in the Christian year took such hold that the Roman Emperor Constantine decreed Easter Day the first day of the year, and this reckoning lingered in France until an ordnance of Charles IX in 1935 fixed Jan. 1 as the year's natal day.

By The Calendar

Introduction of the Gregorian Calendar by Pope Gregory XIII in 1582 to replace the inaccurate Julian Calendar, led to confusion between the eastern and western churches as to the date for observing Easter. Determination to disobey all regulations of Rome still keeps the eastern Christian churches from correcting the calendar according to the Gregorian reformation. Only in rare instances, as in 1865, do the Easters of East and West coincide. Eastern governments, however, have overlooked quarrels of the church, and Greece, Turkey, Rumania and Soviet Russia have all officially adopted the "new" calendar. Britain made the change in 1752.

Highlights Of S.S. Lesson

THE PROBLEM OF FORGIVENESS

By Newman Campbell

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for January 14 is Matthew 18:15-19:30, the Golden Text being Matthew 6:12. "Forgive us our debts, as we also have forgiven our debtors.")

THE PROBLEM of forgiveness is the subject of the lesson today. How many times should we forgive those who are unkind to us or do us wrong?

Peter asked the question of Jesus. The Jewish law said you should forgive three times, no more. "Lord, how oft should my brother sin against me, and I forgive him? until seven times?" asked Peter, seven being the sacred number.

Jesus answered him, "I say not unto three, until seven times; but until 70 times seven"—meaning there should be no limit to the extent of forgiveness.

The Golden Text

The unmerciful servant rebuked

"Forgive us our debts, as we also have forgiven our debtors."—Matt. 6:12.

In the 18th chapter of Matthew Jesus told his apostles that if a brother trespassed against one of them the one injured should take the brother aside in secret and tell him his fault. If he would not listen, the apostle was to take two or three witnesses with him and again try to make him listen, and if he still would not, the matter should be taken to the church.

Tells Parable of Debtor

It was then that Peter asked how many times he should forgive one that sinned against him. Jesus illustrated His answer with a parable of a king who had a servant who owed him much money. The king was going to sell the man, his wife and children into slavery because of this debt, but the man fell at the king's feet and worshipped him and pleaded with him to be lenient and he would pay all the debt in time. The king, being a kindly man, was touched and forgave his servant the whole debt.

So what did the servant do? He sought out a man—a fellow servant—who owed him a much smaller sum of money, and taking him by the throat, he demanded the money. When the man pleaded with him and said he would pay as he was able, the servant who had been forgiven by the king refused to listen, but had him thrown into prison.

Other servants of the king heard of it and went and told their master. So the king sent for his servant, saying: "Shouldest not thou also have had compassion on thy fellow servant, even as I had pity on thee?" And he rebuked him and turned him over to the tormentors until he should pay.

In the 19th chapter of Matthew is told again the story of the rich young man who came to Jesus and asked how he might obtain eternal life. Jesus told him to obey the commandments. The young man said that from childhood he had done so. Then, said the Master, "If thou wilt be perfect, go and sell that thou hast, and give to the poor, and thou shalt have treasure in heaven: and come and follow me."

Went Away Sorrowing

But when the young man heard that saying, he went away sorrowful, for he had great possessions. Jesus turned to His disciples and remarked that it was indeed hard for a rich man to enter into the Kingdom of Heaven—"And again I say unto you, it is easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle, than for a rich man to enter into the Kingdom of God."

I wonder if that young man would have gained immortality as the apostles did, if he had done as Jesus asked him. It seemed to him too much to give up his wealth, but he would undoubtedly have gained much spiritual wealth if he had become a humble follower of the Master whom he recognized as such, but would not follow.

Do you find it difficult to forgive your enemies? Yet to be a really good Christian you must. You must forget your own personal feelings, realizing that no one can really hurt you unless they make you angry and revengeful. That is a real harm. But to make excuses for others who do wrong and to forgive and do them kindness, is really being a follower of the Gentle Jesus who, when suffering on the cross, prayed, "Father, forgive them, for they know not what they do."

Then can we truly pray, "Forgive us our debts, as we also have forgiven our debtors."

What We Believe Is Sermon Subject

The pastor of St. Andrew's church will give the seventh sermon in a series on "What we Believe" on next Sunday morning. The subject will be Revelation and the Holy Scriptures."

The latest, and probably the most enlightened statement on this subject is found in the short statement of the Church's Faith drawn up by the Church of Scotland. This statement was published in 1935, and was the outcome of five years deliberation. It was based upon the former statement of the United Free Church in 1921. First of all the Presbyterians were asked if such a statement should be prepared, having gained their consent, a commission was set up, and the result of their findings was submitted to the Presbyterians for their approval. It was finally sanctioned by the Assembly in 1935. The laymen of the Church approved of it as well as the ministers. This is the statement on Revelation and the Holy Scriptures.

God is made known by his revelation of Himself, in nature, in conscience, and in history, so that never in any nation has He left Himself without witness. In Jesus Christ in whom His purpose of redemption is fulfilled, He has manifested Himself fully, so that in Christ men are brought face to face with the Father.

The scriptures of the Old and New Testaments contain the Word of God given by inspiration. Thus record and bear witness to, the unfolding of His gracious purpose. They are given for the knowledge of His ways, for reconciliation with Him, and for life according to His will. For the understanding of the Holy Scriptures, the Church welcomes every aid provided by linquistic, literary and historical research. The authority of the Scriptures depends on their effectual truth made sure to faith by the Holy Spirit, not on their scientic or historical accuracy, or their verbal inerrancy; and through them the same spirit speaks to the Church, which acknowledges them as revealing the mind and will of God to every generation, and accepts them as the supreme rule of faith and life.

The Problem of Forgiveness — ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON — By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Matt. 18:15-19:30

"Lord, how oft shall my brother sin against me, and I forgive him? Until seven times?" asked Peter. "Not until seven times, but until seventy times seven," answered the Master.

Jesus then told the parable of the servant who owed his master much money, but was forgiven his debt; but who threw his fellow servant into prison when he could not pay his debt.

The other servants heard of his cruelty to his unfortunate debtor and told their master, who delivered him "to the tormentors" until he should pay the debt which had previously been forgiven.

A rich young man came to Jesus and asked him what he should do to win eternal life. Jesus told him to sell all and follow Him, but he would not. (GOLDEN TEXT—Matt. 6:12)

The Motive Is Plain

During the civil war in Spain Russia became interested and decided to aid the Republicans by sending war material. The exact size of the shipments was never stated, but they were large, and more is known of them today than before.

Apparently there was no provision made as to what was to happen to all the equipment after it was needed no more in Spain. There were tanks, artillery, machine guns.

One thing is positive—Stalin never considered it possible that any of these contraptions would be turned against the Red army. But that is exactly what is in the process of being done today. Franco is shipping this material to Finland, and Finland is fighting Russia, and the equipment was made in Russia or purchased by Russia. It looks like a fair enough example of what people at times refer to as the vicious circle.

Italy is sending material to Finland, although Germany objects to it crossing her territory. To get around that objections the war shipments to Finland go through France from Italy, so it is so plain that one cannot miss it—Italy is helping Finland and Germany is helping Russia.

Back of all these moves there is a motive, and we doubt if the plight of Finland and the desire to go to the aid of a weaker nation is the reason for Spain or Italy desiring to give strength to the hand of Finland.

Spain and Italy want to see Russia stalled in the invasion of Finland. It would please them and delight them if Russia were positively defeated there and humbled for a long time to come. The reason is that both Spain and Italy would much rather see Russia mauled than to find her strong and vigorous so she could press her way down toward the Mediterranean. That is actually the motive behind the aid they are extending to Finland.

Nothing For Finland

Senator Nye claims that when United States makes a loan of $60,000,000 to Finland the country is taking another step which will bring it nearer to war. The Senator is turning over no new soil when he takes that attitude, because he is an isolationist and has always been so.

Senator Nye believes the greatest thing in the world is that United States should not have anything to do with the war. His nation must stand to one side and let the rest of the world fight if it will.

Free nations the world over can go down to defeat, but it means not a thing to Senator Nye. Just—keep out of the war.

The control of the seas at the moment rests with Britain, and on the strength and attitude of the British navy United States has depended a good deal for the enforcement of its Monroe Doctrine in South America. United States knows and readily admits that so long as Britain remains in control of the seas she has nothing to fear.

That control may be threatened; it might possibly be destroyed, but it would make no difference to Senator Nye as long as United States kept out of the war.

Coming more directly to the point at issue—Finland. United States won its independence by fighting for it, and it prizes that which it had attained. Finland did the same thing.

Finland, seeking no war, has been attacked by a nation fifty times its numerical strength, and Finland needs help. United States has more wealth than any nation in the world, but Senator Nye would lend nothing to Finland because it might lead his nation toward war.

If Finland went down to Russian slavery, then that would be quite all right in the eyes of Senator Nye.

Fortunately the people who think as Senator Nye does are not in the saddle. United States will aid Finland financially, and it would cause not the least surprise if munitions of war were included in the list.

Hard To Understand

One can gather together quite an amount of knowledge by reading the papers. It was true again today in a story from Toronto where Justice J. K. MacKay ruled that a landlord was not responsible for making repairs in his premises unless such work had been specified in the lease.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Pettit of Hamilton had rented a house from George Martin. In June of 1938 Mrs. Pettit was on the balcony and leaned against the railing which had been patched. It gave way and she fell 12 feet to the sidewalk, as the result of which she was in hospital for 21 weeks.

Suit was brought for $20,000 damages, holding the landlord responsible for the unsafe condition of his premises, but the finding was that in the absence of an express agreement a tenant was not entitled to claim from the landlord damages owing to the defective condition of the premises.

How many people are aware of that point we do not know. We have not the least doubt the finding was made on a sound enough legal document, but even so it does not seem to add up and give the right answer. If a landlord rented property and was satisfied to leave a broken down railing on the balcony where his tenants might receive injury—and in this case did—it is difficult to understand why he can escape penalty.

Wanted To Go His Own Way

He was just 18 years old when he died in a Toronto hospital, and when his parents came to see him there was no recognition. He was in a bad way from the start.

A short time before the youth of 18 had been hit by a police bullet after having participated in armed robbery where the proceeds amounted to something less than $30. That's how he happened to be in the hospital.

His mother said: "That's my boy... Oh, the poor lad! He wouldn't listen to us. He wanted to go his own way."

And in those few short, broken words the mother told the whole story. This young fellow had decided he no longer wanted to live at home with his parents. Whether he felt cramped there we do not know and it serves no good purpose to speculate. His mother's explanation "he wanted to go his own way" tells sufficient. It will be recalled that the prodigal son entertained the same idea in his day.

This Toronto youth went to another part of the city and rented a room, and in doing so did not use his own name. He was going his own way, and the name which had been given to him at birth and which had answered well enough for 18 years didn't fit in with his plans. He was severing the tie with the home which had given him birth and cared for him for 18 years...he was going his own way.

Nor did it take long to make the start. Only a week since he pulled out and went to live in a rooming house. It didn't take long to fall in with a couple of others who were of the same mind regarding the easy way to make a living. They picked a florist's shop and used a gun to make the man in the office hand over the proceeds. Escape was easy enough and it was fast. Seventy miles an hour according to reports. Yes, he was going his own way.

But the police radio system is even faster than that, and patrol cars can travel as quickly as any other kind. Around corners, turning here and there, going through red lights, then crashing into a pole. The youth got out and ran when ordered to stop. There was the report of a gun and after that the young fellow who was going his own way went to the hospital. But he didn't know anything about it because he was unconscious from the start. Didn't know his folk when they came to look at him. And then he died. Yes...he wanted to go his own way.

No Reason For It

There is a woman in Victoria Hospital at London, Ont., where she is being cared for because she used a knife and attempted to slash her throat. Reports indicate her condition is "fair," and she is expected to recover.

The concluding portion of the report from London says when the woman is sufficiently recovered "she will face a charge of attempted suicide in city court."

And what good will that do? That woman must have been in a desperate state of mind when she took a kitchen knife and decided the proper or best thing would be to end her life, but she will be placed under arrest and taken to court because it is written in the law that such is the proper treatment for those who attempt suicide. It is also written that one may be imprisoned for such an offence.

The idea of the law seems to be based on punishment, and that law trails away back to the time of Queen Elizabeth. That woman in London does not need punishment, and it is not going to help matters to inflict it upon her. She may need kindness and sympathy or the help of some one to see that she can find a better road ahead.

We have held to that old plan of marching such folk off to court for a long time. For too long we think. There is no sound reason why it should be done. We are living in what we call an enlightened age but so far we haven't managed to throw much light on the proper treatment of one who attempts suicide. And we're certain as can be that police court is not the place to start the treatment.

Never Had a Chance

Ninety-one miners were trapped in an explosion at Bartley in West Virginia, and for two days stories were coming through from mine officials to the effect that there was a good chance of getting the men out alive.

In the first reports there was nothing to indicate the nature of the explosion; there was no reference to fire. Only the statement that rescue parties were finding the going hard on account of fallen slate and debris. It was stated too that efforts were being made to restore the brattice work (the ventilating system of the mine).

Not until the end of two days was there reference in the reports to "after-damp" and that means the trapped men were all dead a short time after the explosion. No matter how long they dig they will not find a live man in that mine.

What took place was this: There was an explosion caused by live fire. That ignited the gas, and an explosion of that sort, fed by gas and mine dust, runs through the underground workings, and in turn burns all the oxygen from the air. There is nothing left to breathe but the rankest kind of poison, and that is called "after-damp," or as other miners prefer to name it "choke-damp."

We have seen miners being brought to the surface after such an explosion, and they were all dead, and in most cases there was not a mark on them. One man held a sandwich in his hand from which he had taken one bite; he had been overtaken while eating his lunch.

When that condition exists in a mine the safety lamps will not burn. They are at best not over a quarter of a candle power, but the little flame needs oxygen seeping through the protecting gauze to keep it alive. So that is where those 91 miners were while reports were being sent out that they hoped to rescue them. They were in utter darkness far away from the main shaft and they were dead from breathing rank poison. It seems cruel to keep on talking about the chances of bringing them out alive.

NOTE AND COMMENT

There will likely be a provincial election in Alberta this year, and our guess is there has been enough criticism of William Aberhart to put him in office again.

One British steamer attacked by German planes reports that forty bombs were dropped but not one hit was registered. Possibly more proof that life begins at forty.

In the town of Dresden the water wagon which sprinkles streets in the summer season is now being used to draw water to homes where they have none. Water is something which we take for granted, and never do we realize its importance until it becomes scarce and hard to get.

Patricia Winfrey went to Hollywood looking for a job, and she said the only thing open was a job as strip-tease dancing. The girl threw a brick through a large window and was put in jail, and her reason was 'Id rather starve than do that kind of dancing." We don't care much for the brick bat idea, but the rest of it is fine.

Man in Norfolk, Conn., went to the barber shop to have his whiskers trimmed. He took a seat and right then a truck came through the front window and stopped beside the chair. The up-to-date barber shop can give you a shoe shine and a manicure at the same time as a hair cut, a shave or anything else, but this truck business is something which has not yet been generally adopted.

DOGS

¶ There's lots of things my dog won't eat, some are too sour and some too sweet, he's picky in that way; he doesn't fancy table scraps, to put more filling on his slats, just sniffs and walks away.

¶ He won't eat porridge like I do, a fill of that would see him through, he rather makes me mad; for when I set down mush for him, he sniffs and sort of tilts his chin, as though he felt quite sad.

¶ He turns his nose on turnip mash, inclined to think such stuff is trash, as fussy as can be; at spuds he merely turns aside, as though I'd gone and touched his pride, and he wants me to see.

¶ I have to try the butcher shop, and there his rations must be bought, he's even fussy there; I think he'd call for T-bone cuts, won't take the scraps they save for muts, he has a high-price air.

¶ He looks at me as though abused, he wasn't getting too well used, poor victuals he had found; he makes me talk a bit and scoff, I say that I will trade him off, and get a hungry hound.

¶ I'd like to feed a hungry hound, that welcomed everything I found, eat shells from off an egg; take turnips, mush and spuds as well, as though he thought such grub was swell—or eat the table leg.

• Moving Families Was A Failure

THERE is now sufficient knowledge of the circumstances to make it plain why a scheme which carried three-quarters of a million unaccompanied children and more than half a million mothers and young children out of danger areas has not had greater or more lasting results.

For most of the dispersed people the evacuation was a rather fearful adventure, and when the fears did not become reality they failed to settle down in the new surroundings. Little frictions and incompatibilities put a spur to the homeward longings which sprang up as the initial alarm died down.

In addition there was the absence of the accustomed routine and of sufficient occupation. Idleness produced boredom. This was a frequent cause of discontent, and attacked children as well as adults.

The natural homesickness of the children had not time to fade away before the return movement set in effectively.

Unemployment of husbands was the immediate cause of the return of a certain number of the women, but the introduction of the payments plan had surprisingly little effect on a movement very sensitive to accelerating tendencies.

It is only necessary to imagine the normal play of family affection on one side and on the other, an unavoidable percentage of misfits to account for what has happened.

Regrettable though it is that the dispersal has been so largely reversed, the facts must be accepted as not immediately alterable.

Both the migrants who have returned and the reception areas or homes which have experienced difficulties must be allowed a respite. But there must be no burking of the dangers to which the children brought back may be exposed.—The London Times.

• She Was A Friend of Hitler

THE TONGUES of rumor—substantiated by myriad photographs—have linked the bachelor Adolf Hitler with many women—most of them, incidentally, connected with the arts. They have included Frau Winifred Wagner, widow of the composer's son Siegfried; Marguerite Slezak, opera singer; Leni Riefenstahl and Pola Negri, screen stars. Last year two young American dancers, Marion Daniels and Miriam Verne, both 19, caught his roving eye.

These associations have not been without a somber side. For two of his lady friends, Renate Mueller, actress, and Grete Raubal, his niece, committed suicide. And Eva (Evi) Helen Braun, the young Bavarian girl who, according to current gossip, is now installed in the great new Chancellery in the Wilhelmstrasse as Hitler's reigning favorite, is once said to have attempted it.

Just after the war started rumor added a fourth to the list of the Fuehrer's women friends who had either killed themselves or tried to—the Hon. Unity Valkyrie Freeman-Mitford, 25-year-old daughter of the British Lord Redesdale.

Unity is one of six sisters. She and two of the others are famous for the way they have mixed politics and heart interest. An older sister, Diana, is the wife of Sir Oswald Mosley, British Fascist leader. A younger sister, Jessica, developed Communist sympathies and against the wishes of her parents ran away to Spain with Esmond Romilly, Winston Churchill's nephew, who had joined the International Brigade. She and her husband are now working in a Miami, Fla., cafe.

The story goes that Hitler was struck by the "perfect Nordic beauty" of Unity and her sister Diana when he saw them at a Munich cafe in 1934. He had them brought to his table. Ever since then Unity has spent most of her time in Germany. Hitler became her idol. She went to all the big Nazi festivals, was in Cologne in 1936 for the reoccupation of the Rhineland and in Vienna in 1938 to see her hero march in after Anschluss. She turned up in Prague the same year during the Czech crisis, flaunting a swastika which Hitler had given her. That was his second gift of a party emblem, as an angry crowd took the first one away when she provocatively wore it to a Save Loyalist Spain rally in Hyde Park, London.

When the war broke out, Unity was in Germany. She had tried to become a German citizen. In October she was reported ill in Munich. The London Daily Mail said she had taken an overdose of veronal after a bitter quarrel with Hitler. Other reports said she had shot herself, and two London papers reported her death.

Last week Unity was brought home from the Reich. Her mother and sister Deborah met her at the Swiss frontier. The British authorities took extraordinary precautions to prevent a hostile demonstration when a Channel steamer landed her at Folkestone the night of Jan. 3. Steel-helmeted and bayoneted troops and police kept the crowd away from the dock while three R.A.F. planes circled overhead.

Cameramen were threatened with arrest if they violated the blackout by taking flashlight pictures. However, they got their chance later, when the ambulance broke a spring and had to return to Folkestone.

Unity wore a scarf and some observers thought they saw a bandage underneath, backing up reports of a bullet wound in the neck. Although able to walk with her father's support, she was haggard and seemed in a daze. Her father said that her memory had been so affected she did not even know there was a war. Lord Redesdale told reporters that he had been offered the equivalent of $20,000 for his daughter's story, but wouldn't tell it for $100,000.

• Must Trust Generals In War

Ottawa Journal comments on the replacement of Hore-Belisha as British War Minister.

IT IS HARD to see how Mr. Chamberlain, confronted with a situation under which prejudice or disagreement between Generals and War Minister made efficiency difficult, could do other than he did. It is easy to say that Generals should take their orders from civilians; it is not so easy in practice. Mr. Lloyd George, in his Memoirs, told how he disagreed with the Passchendaele offensive—he prepared a memorandum in opposition to it—yet, despite the great power that he wielded, he could not find it in his heart to countermand Lord Haig's orders. The thing was too dangerous.

The stark truth is that, in war, the Generals in the field must have their way, in matters concerning their armies. A War Minister may argue with them, may doubt them; in the end, unless there is to be chaos, he must give way. The only alternatives for a Government are to get rid of the Generals or change the War Minister.

A Government conducting a war cannot afford to have as one of its active ministers a man against whom pronounced prejudices are held either by large sections of the public or by those in command of the fighting forces.

But, whether the Generals go, or the War Minister or somebody else goes, a Government can't come out and broadcast all the reasons. It can't tell the world—and the enemy—that confronted with one or more choices it took a particular one; nor can it tell the world and the enemy what public or other prejudices compelled it to take a certain course. The best and most it can do is to remedy, according to its lights, the things that impeded its war effort, work for greater efficiency. To do otherwise, to publish all facts and details, would be equivalent to saying that censorship is a myth; that the thing to do is to "tell all" to everybody.

WRECKING A NATION

THE mounting list of German losses emphasizes the tragic wreckage Hitler is creating for the German nation. Hitler's Germany, despite its Herculean efforts to achieve self-sufficiency, is not a nation of recuperative powers. Every loss, like that of the Columbus, must come straight from capital. On the other hand the democratic nations possess vast economic resilience and recuperative strength.

It is now obvious that Hitler is hopelessly handicapped in staying power. The dangerous implications of this fact for the world are that he may be forced to send his air force and entire fighting machine into the field in one final and destructive gamble.—Boston Transcript.

U. S. SHIPS SOLD

THE SALE to Norway of eight ships is as legal as it is regrettable. There is nothing either in the text or spirit of the new neutrality legislation to prevent such a transfer.

But there is no denying the fact that every American ship thus sold is removed from American registry, and marks a loss—at least for a number of years—for the American merchant marine.

At best all that can be said is that the American shipping companies are in this manner enabled to salvage a part of the financial losses that would otherwise have been theirs. But the personnel of the American merchant marine suffers a last damage.—New York Herald Tribune.

To The Editor

PROTEST

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—I noticed in Tuesday evening's issue of your paper a report of a meeting of the Board of Health. I also noticed there was a dictaphone present at that meeting. Any man that would make such uncalled for remarks about Dr. Fraser when he was not present, I may say that he is not loyal. I think it is about time the Canadian Legion was registering a strong protest about the uncalled for remarks that were made about Dr. Fraser.

Yours sincerely,

CHATHAM'S SYSTEM

THE two-year term for municipal representatives already prevails here, and works out satisfactorily—in fact Chatham people are at a loss to understand why such a change should be raised over the government's proposal. In Chatham, half of the membership on all civic bodies are elected each year, so that while it does not dispense with yearly elections, it gives a municipal representative long enough to prove his worth before he is compelled to go to the people again. Chatham electors voted against declaring a complete moratorium on elections for the duration of the war—but the fact that they continue the two-year system shows that they have confidence in the men they elect to office—Chatham News.

ALL KINDS OF WEEKS

THE calendar reform people have been so busy trying to improve the Gregorian system of tallying the days they have allowed another menace to creep up on them—and us—unawares. As the Printed Word finds in alarm, there seems to be nobody having control over indiscriminate days and weeks. Thus such days as "Father's Day" and such weeks as "Onion Week," not to mention "Spinach Week" and weeks for nearly all the other vegetables in the seed catalogue. Also, as the Printed Word sorrowfully observes, we have "Wear Garters-Week" and "Throw-Your-Old-Hat-in-the-Ashcan Week."

Whatever will happen when two of them coincide?—Brantford Expositor.

Walton Rolls 782 In City League

George "Turk" Walton and Morris O'Neill shared the bowling honors in the City League last night. "Turk" swung high for the second week in a row when he hit 782 for the best three-game string while the tall Nova Scotian teed off a fine 338 single in his 770, which saved the middle game for his Capitols team.

Head pins and splits were a dime a dozen, resulting in comparatively small team scores. Duffus Recreation managed to put over 3485 in their 3-1 win over Capitols; Jay's bunted 3484 when they trimmed Grafton's by the same margin, while Grant's hung 4-0 on the Lock Works. The spectacle of seeing Gordon's on the ropes was too much for a sympathetic C.G.E. five. Both teams hacked away all evening for the worst showing made by either squad this year. Gordon's ended the agony on top of a 3-1 decision.

The following are last night's City League scores:

Duffus 3, Capitols 1.

Has To Draw Water For 50 Head Of Livestock

Typical of many centres in Ontario, farmers have been forced to seek new sources of water supply in the Hastings district due to the drying up of wells and cisterns this winter. Farmers, in some cases, have had to drive several miles to procure water for their stock. Through the good graces of the Breithaupt Leather Company in Hastings, running water is supplied all truckers and teamsters who call at their boiler-house. Walter Warner is shown here as he is handed the hose from kindly fireman, William Chamberlain. Daily, they supply many hundreds of gallons to those less fortunate. An employee of W. Fowlds, Mr. Warner draws a daily supply to water more than fifty head of livestock.

MORE ABOUT—

Council Must

order may be regarded as being about to come into effect.

As announced on Thursday afternoon the decision of the Board permits the withdrawal from the surplus of the City Trust Commission sinking fund instalments, amounting to $34,047.59, on debentures maturing this year and in 1941, which otherwise would have been included in the requisition of the City Trust Commission and paid out of this year's taxes.

The amount of the sinking fund instalment for debentures maturing in 1940 is $15,718.47, and the sinking fund payable this year on debentures maturing in 1941 is $18,329.12, these two amounts making the larger sum of $34,047.59.

In the Examiner's report of the Thursday news it was stated that the City Trust Commission's demand on the Council this year would be $49,617.54 less than last year. That sum is substantially and probably entirely correct. It is made up of the $34,047.59 which the City Trust would have required the Council to collect from the taxpayers this year, plus $15,569 that was also collected last year as the final payment of sinking fund on debentures that matured last year.

Incidentally, the decision of the Board found its authority in the amendment to Peterborough's private bill incorporating the City Trust Commission, which A. L. Elliott, M.L.A., introduced in the Legislature last year, and which was adopted.

Members of the City Trust Commission, of which Vincent Eastwood is chairman, declared in conversations with the City Council during the last two years, that they were not opposed to using part of their accumulated surplus for the benefit of the ratepayers, but they contended that the city's private bill setting forth their duties did not authorize them to draw on their funds for that purpose. In other words, they said their hands were tied until the Legislature passed an enabling amendment, and that was done. However, the Legislature decided, doubtless for the protection of the holders of Peterborough bonds, that application of the City Council for any part of the Trust Commission's surplus would have to be made to the Ontario Municipal Board and would have to receive its approval.

Several members of the City Trust commented yesterday that an opinion seemed to have got abroad in the city that they were obstructionists, that they were opposed to the ratepayers obtaining any immediate benefit from the surplus funds they had piled up. They repeated that their powers and duties were fixed by the city's private statute until the Legislature passed the permissive amendment of last year.

Sinking Fund Payments.

The reference to the sinking fund is probably understood by most ratepayers, but a little explanation of it may not be amiss for the benefit of others. The sinking fund is involved in one of the methods of paying a municipal debt incurred in some local work. For instance, if the London Street footbridge was built at a cost of $10,000, one method of financing it would be to borrow the money by issuing debentures and bonds which are sold in the bond market to persons having money to invest. These debentures pay to the holders an annual interest, say 4½ per cent. That has been the method adopted by Peterborough as a general policy, and its financing of the transaction was transferred to the City Trust Commission. If the debentures were for a term of ten years, the holders would be paid their yearly interest, and at the end of the ten-year period they would be paid back their principal, aggregating $10,000. It is the duty of the City Trust Commission to arrange for the payment of interest and also for the setting aside of an annual amount, called the sinking fund, which at the end of ten years amounts to $10,000. Then, the transaction is terminated when the debentures mature, and the bridge is finally paid for.

So, it has come about that the City Trust Commission has certain debentures which mature this year. The final payment into the sinking fund for their retirement would have to be made, and that money would be obtained by the City Trust Commission in a demand or requisition on the Council. It would have to be provided for in the tax rate, and the amount would be taken from the collected taxes and turned over to the Commission. Included in the requisition would be the year's interest on the debentures.

Then there are other debentures maturing next year. They have their sepaarate sinking funds, and there are only two more payments to be made toward their sinking funds, this year and next year, when the debentures are retired.

The final instalment of the sinking fund on the debentures that mature this year is $15,718.47, and when that amount is handed over to the City Trust Commission they in turn pay off the debentures by which certain sums were borrowed for city projects years ago. And that ends it.

On debentures maturing in 1941, the annual sinking fund instalment is $18,329.12. That amount has to be turned over to the City Trust this year and again next year, and that means other debentures have been paid off and another city debt wiped out.

What the Municipal Board is ordering is that the sinking fund instalments on debentures maturing this year and on others maturing next year, totalling $34,047.59, may be taken out of the City Trust Commission's surplus of $347,443.87, instead of asking the City Council to collect the money out of the 1940 taxes. And that advantage comes home to every taxpayer to the extent of a reduction of something between one and two mills, although the exact amount is not yet definitely known.

May Apply in 1941.

Another effect of the Elliott amendment is that the Council of 1941 may go back to the Ontario Municipal Board and say: "What are you going to do for the ratepayers of Peterborough this year?"

And it may be that the Board will say: "You can take the sinking fund instalments on your debentures maturing this year (1941), amounting to $18,329.12, out of the City Trust Commission's surplus."

The Board may even go further and order that the 1941 sinking fund instalment for debentures maturing in 1942 (if there are any to be retired in that year) or later may also be taken out of the surplus, again relieving the taxpayers. However, that is getting a year ahead of the procession.

CURLING

By HERB MARTIN

It was "no dice" down at the curling palace last evening, and for the first time since the season opened the "no curling" sign was hung out.

Around 4 p.m. the ice committee and the schedule committee went into a huddle and after viewing the ice surface, consulting the thermometer, and gazing at the heavens, decided to call the whole thing off —and at that we believe a great number of the boys were tickled. You know, there is another rink up on Brock Street. Enough said.

Notices are out for our first open bonspiel, Wednesday, January 24. Playing for the Morrow Cup—five sets of good prizes are offered.

Two rinks from the club, skipped by R. Best and M. Cruthers, will motor to Lindsay on Monday morning to play in the preliminary round of the Ontario Tankard.

On Tuesday morning the District Cup competition will commence at the local rink at 9.30. Entries have been received from Lakefield, Bobcaygeon, Lindsay, and Peterborough. The local rinks will be skipped by J. W. Richmond and R. F. Downey.

All we can do at this stage of the game is to wish the boys good luck, and may they be successful in bringing home the bacon.

Oshawa Lose To P.C.I., 47-5

Running through their opposition almost at randqm, a strong P.C.I. Senior Boys' teams continued their high scoring record, running up another top-heavy victory at the school gym last night, this time beating a weak Oshawa squad for a 47-5 win in a somewhat poorly played Senior Lakeshore League game. The Garnet and Gray Junior Boys and Senior Girls teams were idle.

While holding the visitors to a single gield goal in each halves, both of which came in the late minutes, and while they had a definite offensive edge all the way the winners shooting was bad at times or the score could easily have been doubled. The winners passed their way through the O.C.I. defense almost at will and their close checking completely stopped any sustained attack the visitors tried to start. The Garnet and Gray jumped into it early and ran the count to 17-0 before Oshawa finally retaliated counting a single point on a free throw. Near the end of the half the visitors scored a field goal, their last point till the dying moments of the game. Howard scored another goal from the field. At the half it was 19-3 for P.C.I. and from then on they ran them in to hang up a 28-2 margin in the last period.

Both sides played celan basketball, the winners making but three fouls and Oshawa committing only 7. P.C.I. made 5 of their chances from the free throw line and Oshawa one for three. Moorhead, Johnston and Taylor lead the winners and Howard was most effective for Oshawa.

The teams:

P.C.V.S.—Centre, Clark (2); forwards, Taylor (17), Moorhead (20); guards, Scott, Johnston (6); subs, Marshall (2), Moore, MacPherson.

O.C.V.I.—Centre, Howard (2); forwards, Krantz, Miller (2); guards, Kovacs, Smith; subs, Daniels (1), Conant, Mechlin, Rundls, McLaughlin.

Stirling Beats Campbellford 6-5 In Overtime

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 13. — The Campbellford hockey team lost its first game of the season when Stirling, long rivals for ice superiority snatched a 6 to 5 victory after eight minutes and forty seconds of overtime. A crowd estimated at close to five hundred saw both teams play their best game in the current T.V.L. series. Though both teams were evenly matched the visitors showed up slightly better on the defensive which they were called upon to play during a considerable portion of the game since the Campbellford forwards led by Hendy, Blake and Atkinson carried much of the play into Stirling territory. The visitors owed much of their credit for the victory to their speedy right wing, Morton, who was given credit for four goals and one assist during the evening. To Ross Hart in the Stirling net should also go plenty of enthusiastic cheering for he pulled his teammates out of several tight holes and saved the game a dozen times during the final stanza when the locals were boring in to try for the winning tally. Lottie Fox, the visitors regular net-minder, spent the evening on the players' bench nursing an injured hand, which he received in the game with Norwood on Tuesday evening.

The locals also played without the services of their ace goal-getter, B. Robinson. He received a hand injury in the game with Bata Monday and Manager Perry is saving him for the heavy schedule facing the team next week when they have three games beginning on Monday with Bata playing their return game here followed by their game in Stirling on Wednesday and back home again to play Marmora Friday. Joe Kely and L. O'Rourke a couple of high school boys, were in the Sunoco line-up and they showed plainly enough that they have plenty of what it takes to make hockey players for they really went in and played hockey giving the Stirling defense plenty of trouble and constantly worrying Hart though at times their shots were wide of the net.

It was anybody's game from the start when Armstrong bulged the twine for the opener when he picked up Morton's pass well inside the Sunoco blue line, until the final bell. Only for less than a minute in the third period were the visitors able to step into the lead with two goals, the first of which was picked up by Morton on a rebound and the second by Jones who weaved his way through the Campbellford defense to tally on a nice solo effort.

It was Hendy, Sunoco's flashy forward and coach, who has the habit of being in the right place at the right time and on more than one occasion prevented shots from finding their way to Stu Donald in the local net, who figured in their first goal of the evening when he picked up a well-timed pass from Ernie Wilkes, Campbellford's defense man.

In the second frame Morton netted his first goal of the evening following which Free and Wib Blake combined to get the equalizer. Morton again put the visitors out in front with seven minutes of the period of play and the locals then staged a ganging attack in which Blake once more emerged with the puck and a well-aimed shot found its mark to end the period with the game still tied.

With the score still tied at the end of the third frame Morton won the game for Stirling when he netted the disc after eight minutes and forty seconds of the overtime stanza had elapsed.

New York Rangers Ma y Set New Records But They Cannot Dim Canadiens 1927-28

CHICAGO, Jan. 13 — (AP). — Record breakers or not, there is little New York Rangers can do to dim the brilliance of those famous Flying Frenchmen, the Montreal Canadiens of 1927-28.

True, the Rangers have not lost a National Hockey League game in almost two months, winning or tying 18 games in a row, equalling the streak set by the Canadiens of 12 years ago. The Rangers need a victory or tie tonight against Toronto Maple Leafs to eclipse the record of the Flying Frenchmen.

Since November 23 the Rangers, with 15 men on the squad, have won 13 games and tied five, scoring 69 goals to their opponents' 28, and Goalie Dave Kerr has recorded three shutouts in that streak.

But consider the performance of the Canadiens. A 12-man squad played 18 games in 49 days, winning 15 and tying three. Goalie George Hainsworth blanked the opposition five times and allowed only one goal a game on 10 other occasions. The Canadiens scored 58 goals in their spree, allowed 16.

College Football Is Panned By Head Of Chicago University

CHICAGO, Jan. 13.—(AP).—University of Chicago students have Dr Robert Hutchins' word for it—Intercollegiate football was abolished because the institution was not willing to buy a winning team.

The 40-year-old educationist told the students why football was abandoned and discussed undergraduate life in general yesterday in his first appearance beefore the student body since 1935. He has been president since 1929.

Admitting that winning football can be a boon, he said there was "one way in which we could win.'

"We would subsidize players or encourage our alumni to do so," Dr. Hutchins said. "Many of the students and alumni with whom I have talked have urged upon me what they call 'legitimate' subsidization. I am sorry to tell you that there is no such thing under the Big 10 (League) rules. The university could not break the rule."

Chicago bowed out of the football picture three weeks ago after suffering another in a long line of disastrous seasons. Not since 1936 had the Maroons won a single conference victory. 85' "coach without a team,' Clark Shaughnessy resigned only two days ago to accept a job as head football coach at Standford University.

Dr. Hutchins thinks there are plenty of other sports to take the place of football. He pointed out that Chicago has won more league titles in the past six years than any other school except Michigan and added that the school was planning to enlarge its intramural and intercollegiate program.

"I sa ythat a university must emphasize education and not athletics and social life," he added. "I do not say that a university must be all study and no athletics and social life."

Hastings Tigers Beat Roseneath

HASTINGS, Jan. 12 — (ENS). — Hastings Tigers took a 5 to 2 win from Roseneath at Riverside Arena last night in a scheduled game of the Town Hockey Loop before a goodly attendance. It was the visitors initial appearance on local ice this winter. The game saw much stiff body-checking from both defences, but no penalties were handed out. Slow ice made it hard going and, the latter part of the game, the puck almost refused to be pushed without rolling.

Gerard Scriver opened scoring in the first frame when he picked up a loose puck after a scramble at the nets. Scriver also tallied again in the second period on a pass from Mose Scriver. Opening minutes of the third saw Roseneath put up a strong offensive, but the Tigers, taking advantage of five forwards, managed to get in for three goals. Cliff Scriver made a lone rush to count Tigers' third goal and, a few second later, Gerrard Scriver assisted by Ed. Faux, put in another. Roseneath then counted their first goal when Jack Pacey scored on a pass from A. Pacey. Halstead and Arber, visitors' stout defencemen, barged their way through to hang up the final goal for Roseneath. Carew in the nets put up a valiant struggle throughout the game as he turned away shot after shot while Kelley in the Tigers' net was kept less busy. The team:

Hastings Tigers.— Goal, Kelley; defence, Crate, Mose Scriver; center, G. Scriver; wings, R. Scriver, E. Faux; alternates, Blackburn, Brinklow, Wilson, Calberry.

Roseneath.—Goal, Carew; defence, Arber, Smith; center, J. Pacey; wings, A. Pacey, McMillen; alternates, Anderson, Halstead, H. Mouncey, F. Mouncey.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC PERDUE

With a cold in the head and 11 cents in the pocket, we feel mean enough to spring a poem on an unsuspecting public. (This jingle is not meant to be o'er-cooky, but merely to burn our scribbling pal in Bella Villa to a crisp—and gosh does he get peeved!) So here goes, and ya can lilt "There's A Tavern In Our Town" as ya go along:

There are some puckists in this town, in this town,
Who knock the Airmen and the Redmen down,
And do this trick so mighty easily
They win 9-6 and 14 to 3.
(Ch.)
Fare thee well, opponents, prithee,
Do not let these pastings grieve thee,
And remember that hockey class will tell, will tell;
Adieu, Quinte friends and Fliers, too, adieu,
We can no longer stay with you, stay with you:
We'll mop this group up and then march on,
Fare thee well, fare thee well, fa-hair thee weeeeell!

* * * * * *

But joking (and poetry) aside, it may not be just that easy for the Petes to repeat their group title this semester—yet we'll go along calling 'em for awhile yet. They looked 9-5 better than the Fliers here last p.m. to this corner, even on sticky ice. It's odd but the speedy local hockeyists the last few seasons have gone better on the bigger Belleville ice surface — where their speed shows to real advantage — and they definitely prefer hard ice. The sheet wasn't bad last night for the weather, but it got sticky the last two frames. That may have hampered the Airmen, too, but we still believe the Petes are several goals better than the brightly garbed R.C.A.F.-ers.

* * * * * *

Opened Up Wide

Quite a crowd viewed the joust and seemed to enjoy it. It certainly wasn't any defensive game, both sides opening it up fast most of the distance. They were pumping in markers so fast in the second for a space that the red light was blinking like a theatre sign. It was 2-1, 4-2 and 3-2 by periods, the Buckland band always on top, though tied at times the first half. The last goal was scored as the gong sounded, but the ref. ruled it was an okay counter. Play was fast and threatened to become rough in the third but never got out of hand.

* * * * * *

There'll be several swelegant duels betwixt these oldtime puck rivals through the schedule, we'll betcha—and particularly in playoffs. The scarlet bombers will improve and get wise to the Petes' fast-breaking rushes and make it tight, but we think the locals have a little more speed and punch to edge 'em. Legris, Baldwin and McNab appeared best to us last eve, with Gibson kicking out quite a bunch in the Airmen's net. The defence was somewhat slow and awkward, and the Petes' blue-line guardians—who turned in a steady effective contest—had a good margin there. With Harding okay in the home cage. Too bad the ice wasn't faster and fans would have seen a four-star thriller. Though they certainly got their money's worth, at that.

First Line Stars

That first line of the locals played swell hockey, Bun Kingdon, Honey Tompkins and Joe Blewett all going fine. Bun made dozens of neat plays, the heady Honey was in there every minute, and Joe is fitting in fine on this line. The second trio was good in spots and a bit disorganized at other times. But they'll settle away and there won't be any strong or weak line before the playoffs arrive. Yeah, we're counting the Petes in the playoffs already, and hope this doesn't jinx 'em. After all, they can hardly miss, not in a three-team setup. If they do, they should take up parches!

Up in Lakefield last night, a game bunch of homesters mushed their way bitterly through the mucky going to hang up their first O.H.A. junior win of the season, clouting Port Hope for an 8-1 smirk. It lifted the Lakefield squad out of the dampness of the cellar and put 'em right on the heels of Cobourg and not too far behind Lindsay Midgets—who were blanked 6-0 in Scugogville last p.m. by Oshawa Bees. Adding a trio of local boys to the roster, Cauley, Connelly and Giardino, Lakefield should ice a contending crew yet—though they face a tough task on home ice Monday when the local Colts are the visitors. However, the locals are shooting for a "B" playoff with Oshawa, whilst Lakefield is after a "C" series when the schedule ends, and might make it yet, too.

Senior Hoop Tilts

Senior men's City Basketball League resumes action tonight in the Y.M.C.A. gym, a double-header being on tap. Quakers open it up 'gainst Dominions at 7.15 of the clock, and then the Bees and the Independents tangle at 8.15, whilst C.G.E. draws the weekly bye. Both these cage jousts promise to be chock full of action, with rivalry keener than a new razor blade, so the twin bill should draw the customers. Especially with a gym dance after. The best male basketeers in the city are in this senior circuit and they don't do any coasting once the opening whistle sounds.

* * * * * *

A trio of hoop tussles was staged last night in the Y.W. place de gymnastics as the girl cagers resumed their schedule. Orfuns ran true to form by edging Quaker Aces 28-11, "Y" Gym continued to keep on ye Orfuns' heels with a 21-7 victoree o'er the Debs, and St. John's bested Westclox in a neat number 24-17. All pretty fair melees, with the final one a most tasty morsel indeed. Like a slice of strumberry shortcake out of season, or something. Up at the Collegiate, a senior boys' C.O.S.S.A. — and isn't that a mean armful of initials to throw at a person?—was played with P.C.I. chuckling their way through Oshawa for a 47-5 win, and not looking so brilliant doing it, either!

PRO PUCK PERSONALITIES

MILT SCHMIDT
Boston Bruins

Among the National League's three or four best centres is Milton C. Schmidt, who plays between Porky Dumart and Bobby Bauer to form the Boston Bruins' highly effective "Kraut line." Milt is the high scoring and most penalized player of the trio, although the margin between any of them is very slight. Like his companions he was signed in 1936-37, spending part of that season with Providence and part with the Bruins, and then the following season starting their great play as an attacking unit. Milt got 10 points his first season, 27 his second and 32 last year, his totals until the beginning of the current schedule in all departments being 30 goals, 39 assists and 43 minutes in penalties. He's a great playmaker for his wings and can barge through alone when necessary, being one of the best of the few good body-checking forwards in the game. Good on defence as well as offence, and generally has all the attributes of an outstanding player, though many fans expected him to do just about everything, including swing on he rink girders, after Art Ross ranked him up with Russell Bowie, Howie Morenz Cyclone Taylor and others as an all-time centre earlier this season. Born in Kitchener 22 years ago. Weighs around 170 pounds.

Orfuns On Top Girls' Loop With 28-11 Win

Orfuns continued their winning ways by trouncing Quaker Aces 28-11, while 'Y' Gym clung to the loop-leaders' heels with a 21-7 win over Quaker Debs, and St. John's beat Westclox 24-17 in a well-played night cap, in last night's Ladies' League cage games at the Y.W. C.A.

While they were held to a 6-all tie in the last period, Orfuns had piled up a 22-5 lead in the first half that easily carried them through to a win. The winners had things all their own way in the first 20 minutes but from then on, the losers tightened up defensively and held the high scoring Orfuns to a draw, and at times even had an offensive edge on the winners. Orfuns made full use of their scoring chances in the opening half while the shooting of both teams was somewhat off in the last period, the winners especially missing numerous good scoring opportunities. Orfuns made two of their five free throws, while the losers dropped in five out of six for a good average. A. Craig with 10 points and B. Blade with six lead the winners offensoively with D. Weese and S. Alexander each having three for the losers.

The teams:

Quaker Aces—P. Lawless (2), M. Hooton (2), D. Weese (3), J. Fowler, E. Kirn, V. Wood, S. Alexander (3), M. Duncan (1), A. Grady.

Orfuns—B. Blade (6), A. Craig (10), R. Thompson (2), G. Mortimer (4), A. Livingstone, D. Ackford, M. Ferguson, M. Clarke, M. Hawthorne.

Referee—W. Thirnbeck. Umpire—H. Smith.

Gets 16 Points

Lead by Ruth Dalliday who dropped in 16 points, 'Y' Gym had a good margin in the play in both halves to down Quaker Debs. The winners had an 11-2 margin at half time and better shooting in the last period enabled them to add another five points to their edge after the half way mark. The winners had a better passing attack and more opportune shooting than the Debs, who failed to take advantage of their scoring chances.

The free throw shooting of both teams was bad, the winners getting only 3 in 11 tries and the Debs counting only once in their seven chances. R. Dalliday lead the winners with 16, the high for the night and R. Farr and B. Frizzelle were the best of the losers.

The teams:

'Y' Gym—L. Wesley (2), B. DeMaio (1), R. Dalliday (16), S. Zakos, B. Pomeroy, F. Craig, R. Sullivan, S. Zacks, B. Flynn.

Quaker Debs—R. Farr (3), B. Frizzelle, D. Gibbs (2), B. Penner (2), J. Metcalfe, G. Allen, D. Smith, H. Tighe.

Referee—B. Dyer. Umpire—W. Thirnbeck.

A two point margain in the opening half and a strong offensive in the final quarter gave St. John's a win in the final, after the Westclox had rallied to close the gap early in the third quarter. One of the best games of the year from a scoring stand-point at least, both teams exhibited far better shooting than ordinarily and both had better passing attacks than at any other time thus far. St. John's gained a lead mid-way in the first period and held it into the second half, when the losers rallied to cut down their deficit. The winners rallied however near the end to increase their edge.

St. John's made four of a possible seven free throws and the losers dropped five out of 10, each team haying a fair average. A. Bowler and E. Clark were best for St. John's and B. Saunders and J. Crowe were the pick of the Westclox.

The teams:

Westclox—A. Flynn, B. Saunders (7), C. Metcalfe, M. Goldie (2), P. Wolstenholme, J. Crowe (7), M. McFadden (1), J. Vivash.

St. John's—E. Foster, E. Clark (2), E. Gynane (6), A. Bowler (8), T. Laws (7), D. Groombridge, E. Harte-Maxwell (1), H. Harte-Maxwell, H. Douglas.

Referee—H. Smith. Umpire — K. Gillespie.

Joe Louis Starts Training For Godoy Bout

POMPTON LAKES, N.J., Jan. 13 —(AP). — Joe Louis' longing look followed the well-cleaned remains of a platter of fried chicken through the door into the kitchen.

"There," he sighed wistfully, "goes the only thing I'm retiring from jus' now. That fried chicken and pork chops are awful good, but Old Chappie (Trainer Jack Blackburn) says they don't go 'long with my training.

"But that's all the retiring I got on my mind. That talk about retiring from the ring? Huh. What have I got to retire from?"

The heavyweight champion seemed to have something there. He was fresh from two weeks of light work on his farm near Detroit as he began training for his February 9 title defence against Arturo Godoy in New York. At 208 pounds, he appeared as fit as the evening last September when his bombs caught up with Bob Pastor.

"Nuthin' to this retirement business," he explained between lazy yawns. "I want to defend the title four times again this year, same as last. And I want four more in 1941. After that we'll sit down and look over the retirement set-up."

"It's his idea exclusively to have four title fights this year again," John Roxborough, his co-manager said. "It was also his sole idea to go to his farm 10 days before Christmas to start light work. Julian Black (the other co-manager) and I hadn't intended to have him begin until after January 1."

WestwoodEdges Trent River 4-3

HAVELOCK, Jan. 13. —(ENS) — Westwood were the victors last evening in an exhibition tilt between two squads of the East Peterborough Rural League, when they edged out a 4-3 win over the Trent River crew at the Norwood arena. Playing two 30-minute periods, the teams provided plenty of action.

Shearer scoring on Sargent's pass gave Westwood the lead early in the initial period. A solo effort by Hamilton tied it up a minute later, and before the end of this session Trent River had forged ahead, on a goal by Jim Brown with Aboud in on the play.

Gill was the sniper for all three of Westwood's counters in the second frame. Jim Brown combined with brother George for the last tally of the game. Two penalties in this session both went to Aboud of the losers.

Gill, B. Mortlock, Shearer, Coughlin and Richardson showed to good advantage for the winners, while Jim and George Brown, Jamieson Hamilton, and Aboud went best for Trent River.

The teams:

Westwood: Goal, Richardson; defense, W. Graham, J. Chaplin, centre, B. Mortlock; wings, Shearer, Sargent; alternates, B. Graham, W. Mortlock, S. Ross, Coughlin, V. Warr, Gill.

Get First Win At Home In Fast Tussle

LAKEFIELD, Jan. 13—(ENS).—In an O.H.A. Junior "B" contest here last night the Lakefield squad captured an 8-1 decision over Port Hope before a fair-sized crowd. Soft ice slowed the game somewhat but play was fast at intervals. The home squad showed superiority over the losers in both checking and rushing. Penalties were few and those that were handed out were distributed evenly between the teams. A fight between Stewart and Snelgrove in the last minute of play was a fitting climax to a hard-fought struggle on slow ice.

The game opened fast and after three minutes of play Bullock scored from Cauley. Anderson was penalized and Cauley put the home team two up on a swell pass from Bullock inside the blue-line. The Port Hope team was finding it hard to get organized and Chappell scored again for Lakefield. In the last minute of the period Bradshaw scored the one and only goal for Port Hope, ending the period 3-1 for Lakefield.

Starts Slowly

The second period started to show the effect of soft ice on the players, making it very close checking. Calhoun opened the scoring on a pass from Connelly and Cauley, came right back for another one to put the Lakefield squad four up. Baxter went off for high-sticking and Lakefield put on a power play with Bullock scoring on a nice pass from Cauley. The second period ended with the score 6-1 for Lakefield.

The third period opened rough and continued throughout, ending up with a fight. After six minutes of play, Stewart scored from Calhoun on a pass from the corner, and Cauley got another from a scramble in front of the nets. This ended the scoring but a fight between Stewart and Snelgrove in the last minute of the game held the interest of the crowd.

Bullock, Stewart and Cauley starred for the winners while Anderson and Snelgrove looked best for Port Hope.

Referee—Archie Campbell of Cobourg.

Teams:

Port Hope: Goal, H. Anderson; defence, P. Anderson, Baxter; centre, Bradley; wings, Snelgrove, Breslin; subs, Demill, Rowden, Bradshaw, Ashley, Woods, Hill.

Lindsay Midgets Lose

LINDSAY, Jan. 13.—Playing on soft ice, Oshawa Juniors handed Lindsay Midgets their second defeat here last night in the locals' fourth Junior "C" fixture by trouncing them 6 to 0.

The Midgets, weakened by the loss of Brennan, were outplayed by the visitors, while their weight inferiority was another decisive factor. Referee Morris handed out nine penalties.

PETES TROUNCE THE TRENTON FLIERS HERE BY A 9 TO 5 COUNT

Local Puckists Reach Top Rung In O.H.A. Group Standing With Victory Before Big Crowd

Grounding Trenton Fliers by a 9-5 score here last night, the Petes climbed to the top of their O. H. A. intermediate "A" group standing before a big crowd in the Brock St. rink. Despite ice which became icky for the last two periods, it was an exciting game most of the route and kept the fans yelling. It was the locals' second win in as many starts.

The Petes had a 2-1 margin in the second period and led 6-3 going into the third. They always looked a bit faster and better but the Airmen kept battling back and zoomed in dangerously throughout the third stanza. Play roughened up a bit in the third with a couple of fights threatening but Referee Hap Day kept things under control. Of the nine penalties passed out, the Petes drew four.

It was fast and tight in the first period but play slowed up the first half of the middle chukker. Then they opened it up again and began banging goals in with exciting frequency. Again in the third it was speedy and fairly close, especially when the R. C. A. F. crew ganged up. The Petes probably were a little faster and clicked better on passing plays, and the home defence was definitely superior to the visitors. The ice made passing hazardous with a rolling puck, but nonetheless it was an interesting puck joist all the day.

Bun Goes Great.

On the attack, Bun Kingdon was outstanding with his line-mates. Honey Tompkins and Joe Blewett, also very effective. The second line looked good in streaks but was not as consistent as the first trio. The four defencemen turned in a fine game, bumping and blocking, with Drake Jopling's blocking most effective. Harding was good in goal again. For the visitors, Legris, Baldwin and McNab stood out all the way, and Gibson turned in a neat chore in goal, his defense being only fair.

Higgins drew the first penalty for holding and the Petes stormed in but without effect till his return. Then Kingdon blazed around the defence fast to grab Tompkins' pass and tally in close. They had an edge for a time. Burton was slightly injured for a space and Jopling went off for interference. The Fliers pressed but did no damage, and Kingdon and Tompkins almost tallied on a semi-breakaway. With all back, McLeod tied it up on Irwin's pass when left uncovered in close Cameron was gated for boarding and the locals cashed in for a goal, Tompkins taking Blewett's passout. The homesters were pressing at the finish.

Starts Slowly.

With the ice sticky in the second, play was ragged for a while but later speeded up and had the crowd shouting. The Petes' first line kept peppering Gibson and when Higgins went off for holding, they swarmed in time and again. However, Lemieux roared up the ice on a fine breakaway to score and sew up the count again. With all back, Gardner's hot angle drive from Kingdon beat the goalie, and Tompkins almost got through for another. Cameron beat Harding in close on a smart play, pulling him out after taking Legris' pass. But the Petes tore back and tallied when Kingdon backhanded one home in close on Tompkin's assist. They added another less than a minute later, Heal picking the corner on a sharp angle around defence on Starr's pass. McLeod was robbed and play was fast and furious up and down the ice. Gibson kicked out several hot thrusts, but Coughlin whirled down to net one just before the gong with four Fliers up the ice, and the period ended 6-3.

The Airmen began ganging up, four and five, early in the third and things were hot for a time in the Petes' area. Harding thefted Baldwin and then Crowe counted on Blewetts assist inside the defence. McNab got it right back on Legris' pass and when Ellis was waved off for interference, the Airmen swarmed in again and counted, Legris scoring from NcNab, after circling the cage. A Gardner-Coughlin breakaway came close and, with all back again, Tompkins dented the twine on a neat play with Kingdon. Higgins and Kingdon were sent off when a fight nearly broke out near the Fliers net, and seconds later Gathercole and Tompkins were penalized for pushing each other round. No damage was done before all were back and play was draggy the last few minutes till Coughlin counted from Burton at close range just as the final gong sounded.

The teams:

Fliers: Goal, Gibson; defence, Cameron and Higgins; centre, Legris; wings, Baldwin and NcNab; alternates, Dunning, Irwin, Dryer, McLeod, Gathercole and Lemieux.

Petes; Goal, Harding; defence, Jopling and Crowe; centre, Kingdon; wings, Tompkins and Blewett; alternates, Ellis, Gardner, Starr, Coughlin, Heal and Burton.

Batas Wallop Madoc By 5-1

TWEED, Jan. 13. —(ENS)— Bata Shoe Company team in the T.V.L. trounced the Madoc aggregation at Foxboro on Thursday night handing out a 5-1 defeat. Both goalies put up a spectacular performance.

The game was slowed up considerably as Referee Watson and Linesman Finnigan closely checked the off-sides and rough playing, with five penalties being handed out — three to Madoc and two to Bata.

Stojan proved a stonewall on the defence for the winners coming through with a nice goal and breaking up many plays at the blue line with his sweeping check. The front line of Reid at centre, flanked by Mayette and Foster, accounted for the balance of the scoring with Reid's puck carrying ability making him a constant threat all evening.

Madoc—Goal, Martin; defence, Embury, Heyworth; centre, Owen; wings, Akey, Keller; alternates, P. Gilman, G. Gilman, Larone and McGibbon.

Bata — Goal, Rogers; defence, Stojan, Quay; centre, Reid; wings, Mayette, H. Foster; subs, Lawrence, Hannah, Harold Foster, Brydon.

Presentation Season In Full Bloom

The grid season has been finished for some time, but the presentation season goes on and on. A recent presentation across the line was that of the Maxwell Memorial trophy to Nile Kinnick, University of Iowa drop-kicking quarterback, who was voted the year's outstanding player in U.S. circles —and it happened in more than one poll, indicating that he was something more than just one of the 267,422 all-Americans. Ebbie Goodfellow Scores Twice To Beat New York Americans

By JACK CALDER

There is no place in the shadows for Ebenezer Goodfellow, the converted forward from Ottawa who captains, plays defence and leads the attack for Detroit's National Hockey League club.

Defencemen on other failing teams usually miss the spotlight almost entirely, but Ebbie—a high-spirited, high-scoring forward in the Red Wings' better days—has become a cool, calculating ice general in his efforts to keep the team from falling through the bottom of the league.

Goodfellow gave his best display of the season last night against New York Americans at Detroit, scoring twice and sinking the clinching goal with less than three minutes to play in his team's 4-2 victory. The Red Wings rose from the cellar into sixth place behind Montreal Canadiens in the standings, while the Americans remained alone at the bottom.

To Try To Set New Mark

Goodfellow's spectacular show touched off a week-end of important battling, which will include New York Rangers' attempt to set a new league record against the Maple Leafs at Toronto tonight and the Red Wings' return game with the Americans at New York tomorrow.

The Rangers, looking more and more like the team of the year, will seek to extend their streak of games without defeat to 19. If they do, they will surpass the mark set by Montreal Canadiens in 1927-28.

A great winning team must ride along without too many bad breaks and the Rangers so far have scarcely been touched by injuries. The Maple Leafs will play tonight without Syl Apps, Gordon Drillon and Nick Metz, all of whom are on the injured list, but Rookie Les Chisholm wil return to the lineup.

Montreal Canadiens seem to be in for a night of it at Boston tomorrow, for Manager Art Ross has promised that the Bruins will return to "bruising, bodychecking, rough" hockey without further notice. To add to their grief the Canadiens must play without speedy George Mantha, victim of a practice session injury.

No More Mild Hockey

Ross called newspapermen to his hotel room at Toronto last night and informed them elaborately that the Bruins have been playing "mild hockey" and it has done them no good. From now on, he said, the Big Bears from Boston will "lay it on," because they haven't enjoyed injuries to such stars as Roy Conacher and Mel Hill.

A few hours later Ross announced that Gordon Pettinger, valuable reserve forward, has been fined, suspended and shipped back to Boston for refusing to help the Bruin farm club at Hershey by playing a few games during an injury streak.

If the Rangers get over tonight's hurdle, they can go on to new honors tomorrow when they play the Black Hawks at Chicago. It was against the Hawks at New York Thursday that the Rangers tied the Canadiens' record with a 5-3 victory.

But little more momentous than Goodfellow's showing before a small crowd at Detroit can happen during the week-end. After Hooley Smith of the Americans had matched Conny Brown's first-period goal, Goodfellow sent Detroit ahead to stay in the second period on a pass from Brown.

Detroit took a 3-1 lead on Alex Motter's goal, scored with Brown's aid, but Harvey Jackson narrowed the gap before the second period ended. The Americans were threatening repeatedly when Goodfellow netted the clinching score in the late minutes.

Norwood School Bests Havelock

HAVELOCK, Jan. 13.—(ENS)—A trim appearing Norwood High School squad handed the Havelock scholars a 6 to 2 setback Friday evening at the Norwood arena, in their initial encounter of the Trent Valley Interscholastic Hockey League.

Smartly attired in new red, green and yellow uniforms, the Norwood students presented a well-balanced team which had little difficulty in overcoming their opponents. Havelock, with only one practise session previous to the game, were rather disorganized throughout. Despite their lack of condition and poor combination, they however exhibited plenty of ability and fight, with promise of becoming a decided threat before the season is very old.

"Mickey" Puffer, brilliant Norwood defenseman, proved to be the individual star of the game with four goals and an assist to his credit. Second only to him were the sterling efforts of "Billie" Copp in the Havelock cage, who pulled off some spectacular stops to save his squad from worse defeat.

Puffer, by a nice piece of stickhandling, placed his team in the lead two minutes after the opening bell. A penalty to Hoffman for boarding, paved the way for Norwood's second goal, Green scoring from Puffer. Pollock and Hamilton both came mighty close for Havelock during this session.

In the second, Green scored again, when Havelock played short-handed with K. Pollock in the cooler for boarding Johnson. Havelock, fighting back gamely were finally rewarded with a goal by Yeo, at the twelve-minute mark. Two minutes later Hamilton notched their second counter with Yeo assisting. Shortly before the period ended, Puffer tallied on Cole's pass.

Play roughened in the third stanza and Havelock carried the play in the early half. Norwood recovered however and Puffer came through for a couple more goals, the first on a soft shot, which just trickled through Copp's pads.

All seven penalties of the game went to Havelock. Outstanding for the losers besides Copp were K. Pollock, Jamieson, Buchan, Hamilton and Yeo.

Green, who collected two goals, Bongard, Sargent, Rusaw and Cole were particularly good for the winners. The teams:

Norwood: Goal, Bongard; defence, Puffer, Sargent; centre, Stevenson; wings, Green, Buck; alternates, Johnson, Rusaw, Morris, Gardner, Cole, Lemon.

Havelock: Goal, Copp; defence, Hoffman, K. Pollock; centre, Jamieson; wings, C. Pollock, Buchanan; alternates, Hamilton, Mathison, Curry, Yeo.

RIGHT, blood-covered, an injured victim of a Soviet air raid is carried from a demolished building, which became a target for a bomb. The Finnish loss of life in the bombed cities is being revenged on the battlefields by reported routs of whole divisions of Soviet troops.

Ask Farm Output Increased

GUELPH, Ont., Jan. 13—(CP)—If Canadian farm production must be increased for war purposes, it is imperative that it should be increased in a uniform and orderly manner, J. P. Singleton, associate director for the Dominion Agriculture Department, said here last night.

Addressing the annual convention of the Ontario Agricultural and Experimental Union, Mr. Singleton said it would be dangerous if one branch of industry expanded faster than another in the task of aiding in the feeding of Great Britain.

Anticipating a long war, Mr. Singleton said there would be increased demands for cheese, evaporated milk and butter. He said he believed Canadian dairymen could be relied upon to meet the requirements. But he warned against any one group of producers anticipating a war market and prpducing beyond immediate demand.

W. P. Watson of the Livestock Branch of the Ontario Department of Agriculture said Canadian bacon still does not measure up to some of the Danish bacon sold on the British market.

The best Canadian bacon sold in Great Britain is as good as the best Danish, Mr. Watson said, but the average price for the Danish product is higher because of a better than average standard.

E. B. Palmer of Norwich, former vice-president, was elected president of the Union.

143 Eye Cases Handled By Kinsmen Club

Retiring president of the Kinsmen Club, Don Scott drew plaudits from his colleagues last night when the work of the club for 1939 was reviewed and indicated the group had topped all previous records for service to the community and at the same time closed the year in a strong financial position and with a healthy membership.

The highlight of the 1939 program was the excellent work of the Sunshine committee headed by Howard Shimer. This committee reported that 143 cases had been taken care of during the year, which included three operations by eye specialists and the providing of eye-glasses or treatment for all .This represents an increase of 55 cases over the preceding or a percentage increase of 63 in the total number taken care of. On top of this the club was able to donate twenty-five dollars to the Royal Visit fund helping to send the school children from Peterborough to Toronto and the annual Christmas Tree party in which 36 boys were entertained was also a notable success.

An unusual feature of the year's work was the fact that the club was able to do all this fine work and at the same time hold the annual district convention in Peterborough without going into debt. Almost without exception every venture of the Club in 1939 turned out to be a money-maker and reflects credit on the members who spend considerable time and energy in all phases of club work .

At last night's meeting the new slate of officers for the coming year was installed with Alex Sollitt and Don Loucks taking part in the ceremony, and the slate is as follows: Vern Selkirk, president, Morely Smith, vice-president, Weldon Fanning, secretary, Mac MacDonald, treasurer, Rus Kitchen, registrar, and Lorne Bateman, Harold Worton, Don Clark, directors.

Rabbi Rueben Slonin To Speak In City

A service of unusual interest will be held in St. James' United church a week from Sunday night when Rabbi Rueben A. Slonin of McCaul Street Tabernacle, Toronto, will occupy the pulpit and deliver an address on "Building Brotherhood." The eloquent young Toronto rabbi visited Peterborough recently in connection with the installation of the officers of the Peterborough branch of B'nai B'rith and the speech he made upon that occasion so impressed Rev. Fred W. Craik, pastor of St. James', who was present in his capacity as president of the Ministerial Association to do honor to the visitors, that he invited Rabbi Slonin to visit his church. The Toronto rabbi promptly consented and Sunday, January 21 has been selected as the occasion.

At Rabbi Slonin's request the usual Sunday night service will be held and the members of B'nai B'rith will be invited to attend.

Joe Primeau Achieves His Boyhood Desire When Arrives In England With Canadians

When Joe Primeau, 18, of Peterborough, strolls about England this winter wearing the uniform of his country, he will be fulfilling a dream that he first had when he was 12, according to his mother, Mrs. M. A. Primeau, 270 Rubidge street.

For when Joe was 12 he wanted so badly to go to Europe that, in company with a 14-year-old lad, he hopped a freight east bound. At Belleville police observed his extreme youth and questioned him as to his destination. "I'm on my way to Europe," he declared confidently. He said he was going to work his way across on a boat, peeling potatoes.

Joe got turned back to Peterborough by Police Chief Alex Kidd that time, but this year there was no one to interfere with his plans. And he joined the Royal Canadian Army Service Corps in Hamilton after war broke out.

He landed in the country of his dream with the first Canadian division and yesterday his mother received her first overseas letter from him. Joe has been placed in Headquarters' company.

The funeral will be held on Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock from his late residence at 769 Water street, Rev. Canon W. P. Robertson of St. John's church officiating. Interment will be at Little Lake cemetery.

Electric Welding Is Described Engineers

An informative paper on the latest developments in the field of eelctric arc welding delivered by Harld Foster featured the first 1940 meeting of the Peterborough branch of the Engineering Institute of Canada, held on Thursday night.

Mr. Foster who is chairman of the welding committee of the Canadian General Electric Company, dealt with his subject in a style that was not too highly technical and his address was followed with interest by a large crowd of his brother engineers.

B. I. Burgess, president of the branch was chairman and Mr. Foster's talk was the only business of the evening.

DEATH KNELL

Centre and Regent theatre managers officially announced today that they were acceding to the request of the City Council and discontinuing midnight shows. All trees should be placed outside for garbage collectors to destroy, he said.

ABSENT-MINDED

Some dentists remove their tie for comfort when they don the usual white jacket for the day's work but this habit was a boomerang for Dr. Mark Creugh last night. Mark came jauntily into the Empress Hotel to attend the Kinsmen Club only to be advised by his colleagues that it was usual for members to wear necktie to such affairs. A glance in the mirror revealed that the dentist for once had the appearance of a clergyman, with a nice white collar but no tie. Ken Graham saved the day by loaning one of his.

Driving Force Behind The Wolf Hunt

Charlie Kingan, president of the Peterborough Fish and Game Protective Association, says this is what every good marksman is going to look like when he comes back from the big wolf hunt at Apsley next week. Charlie, equipped in advance for the hunt even to snowshoes, is carrying a wolf pelt in one hand and a gun in the other. Over the barrel of the gun is one of the medals, shaped like a maple leaf, that each victorious hunter is to receive besides the $15 bounty money. (Examiner Staff Photo.)

Hastings Woman 84 On Monday Uses Stove Lid As Cure For Cold

HASTINGS, Jan. 13.—(ENS). —To recall the events of over 80 years ago when people of that day were happy and even happier than today, although they lived in a one-roomed log cabin is the pride of Mrs. Maragret Johnston of Hastings, who will on Monday observe her 84th birthday.

Mrs. Johnston lives alone in her little home on Clyde street. She does her own work and keeps her home clean and tidy.

Her family whose wish it is to have her with them, cannot persuade this contented mother to leave her home as she decidedly exclaims, "There is no place like my own home." Each year they plan a surprise for her on her birthday, when they arrive at her home with a birthday cake and other dainties.

When the Examiner correspondent called on her on Thursday she looked most quaint in her crocheted wool cap and purple knitted shawl, and seated in her favorite rocking chair, where she could watch the passers-by.

Has Many House Plants.

Her one hobby is caring for her many house plants whose foliage fill the three windows of her living room.

Mrs. Johnston proudly remarked that she has lived a long time and says she has lived as long as Alex Wilson and Charles Huycke, residents of Hastings, who are 84 years of age. The latter attended the same school as a child, as Mrs. Johnston. She was born on the farm now owned by her only son, Gordon of Percy township, and was one of a family of nine, four of whom are living, Harry Orr of Percy, John of Peterborough and Sarah (Mrs. Thomas Stevenson) of British Columbia.

Her health has always been good. This winter, however, she has contracted a cold. When asked what she does for a cure, she replied, "My cure is a stove lid which I have had in my possession for over 30 years. I heat the lid and place it on my chest and it is better than al lthe hot water bottles and medicines."

Her talk drifted to days of long ago and to the war. Her remarks about her attitude towards the war showed that she has a keen memory and that her thoughts were on modern times. She said, "Just as we read in the book of Genesis how Abraham was willing to sacrifice his son Isaac and had faith in God, so we to-day must be willing to sacrifice, we must have faith and all will turn out well."

Besides her son Gordon there are two daughters, Minnie (Mrs. William Hedger of Percy and Mabel (Mrs. H. Alley) of Gilbert Plains, Manitoba.

Transient Drunk Is Given Seven Days

"When I felt myself slipping I went to the police station to keep out of trouble but I guess I got into it," was the explanation offered by a transient who was charged before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C. in police court this morning with having been drunk on Water street Friday night.

"He didn't quite make it," reported Chief Constable Newhall. "He only got as far as the corner."

"You have been here before?" said Magistrate Langley.

"It was five years ago," replied the accused who entered a plea of guilty to the charge and asked for a chance to get out of town. The magistrate, realizing that the fine would not be paid anyway made the alternative jail sentence seven days instead of the customary 10. "You will be able to get out of town then," he told the accused.

Kinsmen Told Of Finland By G. K. Fraser

Weather conditions which at the present time are aiding the stout hearted Finns in their struggle against Russia will probably be a factor in favor of the Russians as the season advances, Gordon K. Fraser of Burleigh Falls told the Kinsmen Club in an address at the Empress Hotel last night.

Mr. Fraser was introduced by Dr. Mark Crough and gave his audience an intimate and interesting picture of this small country and its people. His information was gelaned from a close study of Finland and from talks with friends who have recently returned from the capital of Finland.

Five Hours Sunlight

At this time of the year there is not more than five hours of sunlight on the clearest day as the sun usually rises about nine in the morning and sets between two and three in the afternoon, said Mr. Fraser and he added that sunny days in the winter were unusual as snow falls almost daily and the skies are gray, overcast and cloudy making a low ceiling for flyers, and hence giving added protection to the Finns from Russian air attacks.

The reverse is true in the summer when there is upwards of 18 hours of sunlight up to June 23rd, St. John's Day when the sun usually sets about 11.30 at night and rises again about an hour and a half later. According to the Finns the sun never sets on this day and there is a 24-hour day. Actually it does not get dark on that particular day at all.

In paying tribute to the Finns for their courageous battle against odds, Mr. Fraser said that skiis are playing a big part in the war. He explained that the Finns use skiis for Winter travel and children use skiis at an early age. He upset a rather popular belief when he stated the country was predominantly flat and that there were few hills, but countless lakes dotted with islands.

The Finns can now hold the Russians because the intense cold does not distress them, and they as a race are far superior to the Russians in health, and stamina. But in the Spring when sunny days will give the Russian fliers full scope, and the level country will make possible fast troop movement, the Russians may have the advantage.

In tracing the history of the Finns Mr. Fraser said they were of Asiatic origin and were chased from the Volga district of Russia in the 7th century by the Bulgarians and later conquered by the Swedes after three wars. Sweden with the help of England christianized the nation but the Russians stepped in in 1809 and made Finland, a Grand Dutchy of Russia. Following the Russian Revolution in 1917-18 the Finns regained their independence.

Rapid Progress Made

Since that time the country has gone ahead in leaps and bounds. The little nation of three million people has passed advanced social legislation, has completely modernized the cities and has brought back old songs and customs of the nation. The Finns own more than five thousand large ships, have excellent highways and the largest book store in the world is in Helsinki, the capital.

Milk is the most popular drink in Finland, and when one sits down to a meal in a hotel or restaurant a large jug filled with milk is part of the meal, six or eight glasses a day is the usual quota for each person. Because of the long days in summer, cows are often milked three times in 24 hours and milk sells at three cents a quart. This very healthy habit coupled up with regular visits to the Finnish steam baths make the Finns one of the healthiest nations in the world, the speaker claimed.

In describing the steam bath he said steam is formed by pouring cold water on hot bricks in a room where the temperature is about 165 degrees, and the bath consists of slapping and rubbing the body, then finishes up by the bather running out doors and rolling in the snow. It is customary for one to rest for about half an hour in bed after a bath of this kind.

A policy of frugality, clean living in the great outdoors and a rigid moral code all have combined to make Finland one of the leading nations, said Mr. Fraser. He said women work alongside the men at all trades, even to being condresses on street cars. There are 44,000 more women than men in the country.

"It is quite incorrect for the United States to refer to Finland's war debt", said Mr. Fraser, as this debt was incurred following the World war, in which Finland took no part, the money being used for foodstuffs."

The thanks of the Kinsmen club was voiced by Dr. W. Gordon, and Vern Selkirk the new president added his thanks for the timely and interesting talk.

$7,692 Is Owing City Treasury

Of the Queen Mary Hospital accounts during the last ten years, 63.75% were collected, City Treasurer M. E. Shaver told the Legal Committee of the council Friday night.

The amount due was $7,692.25 from 1931 to 1939, and sum received by the city from patients was $4,903.68, less than $500 a year.

With Alderman Gordon as chairman at the first meeting of the year, the committee decided, on Alderman Dutton's motion, seconded by Alderman Stocker, to have forms prepared for the purpose of getting the signature of adult patients and those responsible for other patients by way of assuming liability for the hospital's charges.

Alderman Dutton said the notion may have gone abroad that these isolation hospital bills did not have to be paid, and then later there was probably some laxity in their collection.

City Solicitor Huycke was asked to prepare a bylaw which is devised to obtain the agreement of neighboring municipalities to pay for the cost of caring for their indigent patients who are admitted to the city's hospital.

The new plans for getting payment for the hospital services will include a system of sending out accounts, making monthly reports of such bills to the Board of Health, and finally backing up the whole effort by the services of the City's collecting agent.

Young Man Faces False Pretence Charge

A local young man, arrested here on Friday on two charges of false pretences, pleaded guilty before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in Police Court this morning to obtaining $15 from Beverly Dawe under false pretences.

He told the Magistrate in explanation that he had a few drinks.

On the second charge of obtaining $44.24 from Louis Billiards under false pretences the accused at first pleaded not guilty and said that he was ready to go ahead with his trial.

"I am not ready," said Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C. "I thought there was going to be a plea of guilty."

When a date for the hearing was being discussed the accused intimated that he wished to change his plea to guilty, but the Magistrate declined to accept the change, advising the young man to think it over until Monday.

He was remanded until that date and an application for bail was refused. "You had better stay in jail," said Magistrate Langley, "as you have pleaded guilty to one charge."

2 Sons Conduct Funeral Rites Of Their Father

Members of the city council and of other organizations with which he had been associated in his long life time, attended the funeral of John Corkery, former Postmaster in Peterborough, this morning.

A large congregation, including many of the priests of the diocese of Peterborough, was present at the Requiem High Mass at St. Peter's Cathedral celebrated by the late Mr. Corkery's son, Rev. Vincent J. Corkery of this city, assisted by another son, Rev. Kevin Corkery of Lindsay, and Rev. Austin O'Brien of Toronto, a nephew of the deceased.

The funeral mass presented the rare feature of two sons in the priesthood conducting the final rites of the Catholic Church in parting benediction to their father.

His Excellency Bishop Denis O'Connor was present, in the sanctuary with priests of the city and district, and among those noticed in the body of the church were a civic group recalling Mr. Corkery's municipal service as alderman years ago and also his appointment by the council for an interim term as mayor. They were Mayor James Hamilton, Aldermen G. N. Gordon, K.C., E. R. Wilson and James Dutton, also City Clerk S. R. Armstrong, and representatives of the Peterborough Law Association of which John R. Corkery, son of the deceased, has been a prominent member for quite a number of years.

The pall bearers were Ernest J. Wolfe, F. J. Hickey, Chas. Lacheur, James Lynch, Fred Morrow and M. H. Gainey.

Leader In Community

At the conclusion of Mass, Rev. Dr. P. J. Kelly, rector of the Cathedral, said his thoughts went back to the example of Elias in saying a few words about a man "whom I have known for 50 years with personal approval and admiration. In the course of his life he occupied many positions in our community. He was a leader in the administration of the municipality. In his church he was always a member of St. Vincent's de Paul Society, a rather obscure society and small in numbers, but important in its gathering and spending for the alleviation of the poor."

In that connection and in others Mr. Corkery had been a help and stay of many families. As postmaster in Peterborough and in his other associations he had won the confidence of his community. That confidence was based on his objective virtue, his willingness to work for others. He was stable and faithful in the performance of his responsibilities, and he was faithful to his God. He heard from the church the same truths in his patriarchal years that he had learned as a boy in the same church. Not one iota in teaching and doctrine and practice had taken place in all those 91 year sof John Corkery's life. And these were the things of the spirit to which he had been faithful.

Rev. Dr. Kelly spoke of the fact that Mr. Corkery was represented in the church today by two sons in its priesthood.

Among the mourners were William J. O'Brien of Toronto, a nephew, and James J. Sheehy of Chicago, brother-in-law.

Play Is Fine Blending Of Comedy And Drama

"Mary's Castle in the Air," the three-act play presented Friday night by King Edward Home and School Association, was a fine blending of comedy and dramatic entertainment, being not only mirth-provoking, but holding the interest through to the last curtai

Under the direction of Mrs. Henry Turner, the well-trained cast took full advantage of the possibilities of the plot.

The capacity audience was greeted and welcomed to the school by the principal, Mr. H. Dearborn, while Mr. H. G. Walker, representing the Board of Education, took the part of genial chairman, giving a brief introductory address.

Mesdames Dibbin and Snowdon took tickets at the door, while Mesdames Blabey, Breadman, Cook and Ellis ushered the guests to their seats.

A delightful between-act program was furnished when Miss Helen Parkinson sang "I Love Thee" and "I've Been A-Roaming" sympathetically accompanied at the piano by Miss Elsie Chambers

We all build castles in the air, but not all of them materialize, as did Mary Estabrook's, when, for the sake of her blind mother, she endeavored to convert a lowly cottage into an estate of wealth and pretended grandeur.

The motive behind this castle-building was the suicide by Mary's father through financial entanglements, all of which had been kept from the mother's knowledge. The many loyal friends who supported Mary in her tender deception and all the ramifications growing out of it make up this story of unusual interest, and kept its audience on tip-toe with suspense throughout. Plenty of romance was interminglied and comedy cleverly introduced to balance every dramatic situation.

As heroine of the piece, Dorothy Drysdale made Mary Estabrook a most attractive character, as she impersonated the lovable and affectionate daughter. The dainty and aristocratic mother was well acted in her difficult role, by Mrs. W. M. Wood, who in turn helped to build some real castles for her daughter.

Introducing the element of love into the picture, Jim Ruggles stepped out of his legal standing into the place of suitor for Mary's hand. Harold Fife took this part realistically in fine and dignified style. Opposition to this love affair came from an unexpected quarter with the advent of Edward Carlyle, a former business partner of Mary's father, but now aspiring for her hand. The part of this sophisticated gentleman was well taken by E Chambers, while Alma Baldry, as his daughter Mimi, presented a real characterization of a spoiled darling of fortune.

Most of the comedy of the whole play hinged upon the clever interpretation of the gossipy, but kind-hearted neighbor, Mrs. Jenkins by Mrs. Harry Turner in her inimitably humorous style. Jane Jenkins, her flirtatious daughter, was pictured, leaving nothing to be desired, by G. Kimball, while George Martin played opposite her as a very convincing chauffeur suitor, known as Bill Bronson. Another comedy part was that of Lenny Taft, the grocery boy, who would have aimed at romance with Jane but for the objections of this mother, Ken Moffatt introduced a good deal of fun with this part.

Henry Turner, as the whimsical philosopher and gardener, gave full play to his versatile qualities in his presentation of Daddy Alden, and Mrs. Gordon Harris as the coloured servant to the Estabrooks, was the typical southern mammy, sweet and with the unquestioned devotion.

With such a well chosen ensemble the production deserved the high acclaim accorded it from first to last by the enthusiastic audience.

On behalf of King Edward Home and School Association, the president, Mrs. Chambers, expressed their appreciation to the members of the cast, to the chairman, to the principal and staff of the school and to all who had in any way assisted in the success of the evening.

Club Members Hear Of Georgia Trip

An outline of her recent trip to Atlanta, Georgia, where she attended the Baptist World Alliance, was given by Miss Phyllis Moore of Smith Township, at a meeting of the Business and Professional Women's Club, which was held Friday evening so that members might attend the Canadian Concert Association program Wednesday night

Miss Moore spoke enthusiastically of the beauties of the country en route, and of the warm hospitality of Southern people. Arriving in Georgia, it was found that none of the city's buildings would accommodate the large number of delegates, so athletes generously waived their games for the period of the convention, and turned over their stadium, which holds 50,000. A Canadian Maple Leaf was a passport to any place in the city, Miss Moore said, mentioning appreciatively the special welcome which seemed to be accorded Canadians.

While 67 nations were represented at the Alliance, everyone to whom she spoke could converse in English. The lack of knowledge Southerners have of Canada was deplorable, however, Miss Moore remarked as she laughingly recalled a few of the questions asked regarding her country.

The speaker was presented by Miss Margaret Eastwood.

The president, Miss Birdie Dawson, presided for a brief business meeting. In order that a greater number of members might attend the Thursday night sewing meets for Red Cross work, it was decided to hold but two club meetings a month, the next to be a bridge and fireside on anuary 24.

Flower Display Is Lovely Colour Chorus

Portrait painting was studied by Beatrice Robertson of Toronto before she started amusing herself with flowers—with such delightful results that flower pictures now occupy most of her time. Her floral exhibition of Friday afternoon at the Lyceum Club, Women's Art Association meeting in the Y.W.C.A., and her informal talk about the development of such paintings, was one of the outstanding studio programs of the year.

It's common knowledge that Robert Holmes set the fashion for hunting wildflowers to paint in native haunts, but nobody seems quite sure who began the paint-brush vogue for garden flowers. There are at least 10 flower-picture shows a year in Toronto, all of them high in quality, and Toronto has already become Canada's centre of floral art—considerably stimulated by the yearly garden show at the Exhibition.

England has always been noted for her beautiful gardens, but nowadays Canada is becoming more conscious of growing flowers and knowing more about them, Mrs. Robertson said. She touched briefly upon the technical side of flower painting, mentioning the arrangement and the care that must be taken in developing a line of interest, and explaining that a picture is supposed to bring the eye exactly to the place the artist intends it should.

There can be no happier occupation, in Mrs. Robertson's opinion, than making something permanent out of the fleeting loveliness and charm of flowers.

The artist captures not only forms and colors, but much of the peculiar spirit of her garden beauties. Outstanding is her effective study of a sheaf of vari-colored gladioli, a painting that was reproduced recently on the cover of Chatelaine magazine. Very lovely and delicately done is a painting of single chrysanthemums, and also among the much admired pictures were paintings of a Wedgewood bowl of asters and other blooms in blending shades; yellow roses in a low brass bowl, and a quaint arrangement of late garden and wild flowers.

So much depends upon making the various textures of petals different before elaborating the colors and the light, and stems are as tricky to paint as they are to arrange in vases and bowls, as any housewife knows. Beatrice Robertson has made as shrewd a study of bowls as she has of backgrounds. That, too, is a big element in staging flowers for a paint-brush.

Mrs. Robertson was introduced by Mrs. Fred E. Hooper, president of the Association. Her pictures will be on display in the Recreation Room of the Y.W.C.A. Saturday and Monday, afternoon and evening.

At the next studio meetings, a demonstration and exhibit of weaving will be given by Mrs. Dawson Kennedy. Hostesses will be Mrs. H. V. Dobson and Mrs. C. L. Upper.

DOROTHY DIX

There Are Many Reasons Why Girls Do Not Marry. One Of The Principal Causes Is Too Much Mother And Her Treatment Of The Boys Who Call On Daughter.

DEAR MISS DIX—What causes old maids? Will you please give us your explanation of why so many women who are good-looking and attractive in every way do not marry? — SOME GIRLS WHO DON'T WANT TO BE THEM.

ANSWER:

Oh, there are innumerable reasons why women become old maids. Sometimes women don't marry because they don't want to marry. They are celibate by nature and their careers or their jobs, their clubs or their philanthropies look better to them than any man ever does. They like to be free and they regard a husband as just a nuisance who would always be smoking in the living room and scattering cigarette ashes on the floor, and who would have to have heavy dinners cooked for him instead of being satisfied with a dainty fruit salad.

Sometimes a woman becomes an old maid because she is too choosey. Mr. Right never comes riding down her alley and if she can't get the Prince Charming she desires, she won't take a substitute. There are thousands of lonely, solitary women who might have had husbands and homes and children if they had not wasted their time looking about for some rich, handsome(glamorous, romantic, great lover to marry them.

Many women do not marry because they never have the opportunity. Environment is a great matchmaker and has a lot to do with whether a girl marries or not. There are plenty of small towns from which every eligible male has gone to seek his fortune and where a girl has just as little chance of landing a husband as she would of catching a whale in a fished-out stream. One of the main reasons why even well-to-do girls are going into business is because business offices are happy hunting grounds for women anxious to marry.

Another prime promoter of spinsterhood is Mother. There are plenty of possessive mothers who will not let their daughters marry because they want to keep them to be slaves to themselves. There are other mothers who prevent their daughters from marrying because they want the money their daughters earn. And there are still other mothers who keep their daughters from ever saving suitors by hanging around the girls' necks and plainly showing the young men that if they married their Sallies they would also marry Mother.

Other mothers quarantine their daughters against marriage by never letting them have dates, or go to parties, or do any of the things the other young people are doing, and who thus prevent them from ever getting acquainted with any men. If Mother treats every young man who comes to the house as if he were poison; if she sits in the room where she can eavesdrop all of his conversation; if she makes her daughters come home at 10 o'clock every night just when the party is starting, she needn't worry about her daughters marrying and leaving her. They will hang on the family tree.

And, finally, there are many girls who would like to marry, but who never do because for some inscrutable reason they lack charm for men. The world is full of women who would have made wonderful wives who are old maids. They are the kind of women that every man recommends to other men as wives but never takes himself. They are pretty. They are intelligent. They are sweet-tempered. They are domestic. They have every charm and virtue but the one to which men rise as trout to a fly. They lack oomph. And so they have "Spinster" carved on their tombstones.

DEAR MISS DIX—I am a girl of 16 and have been having trouble with my mother over her silly punishments of me when I displease her. For instance, I had invited, with her permission, a new girl friend to dinner. The night before this girl was coming my mother didn't like something, I did, so she punished me by making me 'phone her on the very day that she was coming that I couldn't have her. Another time I had invited three boys and girls for the evening. They were coming at 8 o'clock, and about 7 o'clock I had an argument with my mother and she made me 'phone them not to come. This kind of punishment not only makes me mad, but it spoils the evenings of other people. Do you thi my mother is fair to me?—BOO...

ANSWER:

No, I don't. I think she is extremely cruel to humiliate you before your friends and to put you in such an awkward position with them.

If she feels called upon to punish you for some infraction of her rules, she might at least take some method of dealing with you that would save your face. She might well consider how she would like it if, after she had invited a group of her friends to dinner, your father made her call it all off because he had got peeved with her for something.

Anyway, a 16-year-old girl is not a child. She is amenable to reason, and the way to reach her is not by doing something to her that will lower her in the eyes of her companions, but by talking to her tenderly and sympathetically and trying to get her point of view and meet it with mother love.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX — Do you think a couple who have been married nearly two years, who have no children and who find that they make life a hell on earth to each other should stay together or part? They quarrel until they are ruining their health and the husband has taken to drink, which he never did before. What should they do? — EVE.

ANSWER:

The sensible thing would be for them to quit fighting and try to act like intelligent human beings. But if they cannot do this, they are better apart than together. No moral purpose is gained by a man and woman living together who bring out all the worst that is in each other's nature, and who are potential murderers in thought, at least.

FIRESIDE FANCY

By ALICE ALDEN

HERE'S something lovely for dinner at home. It doesn't matter whether you're sharing an apartment with several girls or are a young wife anticipating your husband's approval, it's refreshing to get out of business clothes, take a shower and slip into something decorative before lighting the candles on the table. Believe it or not, this is a pajama, the trousers being cut full and flaring to fall like a skirt, and the waistline folds secured by a wide kid belt. The material is a delicate ivory crepe with an underblush of faint pink. Let's keep that New Year's resolution to make a point of grooming and prettiness for all hours, particularly the quiet, memorable ones that we like to spend by our own firesides.

Shown in New York, where he arrived with his mother, Mrs. H. R. Countryman, he announced, in all seriousness, that he planned to retire, get married and settle down when he's 29, but right now love hasn't got a chance.

A Help To Those Past Middle Age

When men and women get past middle age their energy and activity, in many instances, begin to decline, and their general vitality is on the wane.

Little sicknesses and ailments seem harder to shake off than formerly, and, here and there, evidences of a breakdown begin to appear.

Now is the time when those who wish to maintain their health and vigor, and retain their energy unimpaired should take a course of Milburn's Health and Nerve Pills.

They brace up and invigorate the system, and help stall off the decrepitude of advancing years.

Petty Thefts Cleared Up

LINDSAY, Jan. 13 — (ENS). — Donald Gregory, 18, of Lindsay, was arrested on Thursday by Chief of Police Ralph Lawler and will face numerous charges of theft in Police Court here. According to Chief Lawler, Gregory admitted his guilt of a series of small robberies in Lindsay in which more than a dozen homes were entered and articles of apparel, chiefly, taken.

Citizens will be relieved that the confessed thief has been apprehended since many were hesitant to leave their homes vacant for even a few hours, so numerous had been the visits by the person or persons who raided the wardrobes of the women-folk.

Police believe the series of petty thefts during the past few months assumed larger proportions than any similar epidemic of robberies in the town's history.

By WALLACE H. WARD

OTTAWA, Jan. 13 — (CP).—Just as a boxer protects his chin against a knockout blow, Canada guards its vital points against the unheralded thrusts of sabotage agents. Armed sentries from coast to coast form a protective service for important bridges, harbors, canals, vital power and industrial plants, radio stations, airports and Government buildings.

Realizing that crippling of any important utility plant, bridge, canal, railway or other important part of the normal life of the Dominion would impede the country's war effort, the Dominion Government put up its defences against sabotage before Canada actually entered the war.

The protective service is not an impromptu development of war days. All the thoroughness of the Army and the Royal Canadian Mounted Police went into the organization of a force of some 10,000 men to ensure the safety of industry, transport and communication systems.

For nearly a year before war started R.C.M.P. officers conferred with private and public industry on the most effective means of protection. Under counsel of the R.C.M.P., floodlights were set up to illuminate bridges. Canals and industrial plants at night so that the guards, strategically placed, could readily detect any lurking enemies. Every survey was painstaking and every eventuality was investigated.

Veterans on Sentry.

A great protective police force was organized. Many points are guarded by the R.C.M.P. themselves or by the non-permanent active Militia. Thousands of veterans of the First Great War, now past military age though physically fit, carry a rifle again, returning to "sentry go" after two decades of peace.

Other guards are appointed by Provincial Governments, and many private industries engage their own guards. All are working to the same end, to keep Canada's wheels of industry turning despite the threat of enemy agents.

The civilian guards of the protective services wear no uniforms in their service to their country. Selected carefully with respect to general good character because of the responsibility entailed, the guards must pass a medical examination and be pronounced physically fit.

Warm clothing for the winter weather is issued. Working in shifts they keep a day and night watch, scrutinizing all visitors aproaching the vital spot they have sworn to watch.

The civilian guards for the most part live in the locality in which they have been assigned to guard duty. They have been so chosen for the convenience both of themselves and of the service they have joined. The vast majority live in their own homes. The preference is given to war veterans and married men, and many of them had been workless for many months before they rejoined their country's services.

Time Out For Finnish Tank Busters

Here is a squad of the ghost gunners of Finland's little army with the weapon that has proved to be worth its weight in gold against Soviet Russian tanks. This is an anti-tank gun and its crew. To date, guns like this one have taken a terrible toll of Red tanks. Sunk in hidden gunpits and camouflaged with snow by Mother Nature, these little weapons have stopped repeated attempts of Red army mechanized might to crash through Finnish defences.

Noted Toronto Manufacturer J. J. Seitz Dies

TORONTO, Jan. 13—(CP).—Nationally-known figure in many business enterprises, J. J. Seitz, president of Underwood Elliott Fisher Manufacturing Company, Ltd., died at his home here Friday. He would have been 78 next month.

Vigorously active up to a few weeks ago in the management of the Underwood Company and other businesses, Mr. Seitz became ill shortly after Christmas and steadily declined. He lapsed into a coma 48 hours ago and never rallied.

Mr. Seitz was a moving spirit in formation of the Canadian Business Equipment Manufacturers Association and currently its honorary president. He also was president of A. D. Gorrie and Company, Ltd., and vice-president of the Capital Trust Corporation.

Native of Formosa, (Bruce county) Ont., Mr. Seitz was a member of the Canadian Manufacturers Association, the Toronto Board of Trade and of several clubs. He served on the board of St. Michael's Hospital here and on the executive of the Toronto Welfare Association. He had been president of the Toronto Baseball Club, of Rosary Hall and of the St. Vincent de Paul Society.

Originality and enterprise prompted Mr. Seitz to apply a typewriter to telegraphy for the first time 55 years ago. He is said to have contributed more than any other individual to the development and maintenance of modern efficiency in Canadian business methods.

More than 52,000 women in Glasgow, Scotland, have enrolled in the city's civil defence project.

ONTARIO

PURSUANT TO the provisions of The Mining Tax Act (Chap. 28, R.S.O. 1937), the following list is published of mining locations, mining claims, and mining rights, in respect of which taxes imposed by the said Act are more than two years in default, and notice is hereby given that unless the amount due as shown on the said list shall have been paid on or beforg June 30th, 1940, the property in respect of which the taxes so remain unpaid shall on the day following the above date become forfeited to and revested in the Crown.

In the arrangement of the list, lands are given in the judicial district in which they are situated, commencing from the west, and in each district the lots in townships are placed first and in alphabetical order, according to the townships; then follow the locations or claims not originally in surveyed territory, also alphabetically arranged and in sequence. Owners of property thus advertised are advised that extra costs are incurred if payment is delayed beyond February 29, 1940, as the Act requires an additional notice to owners of claims on which the taxes have not been paid by this time for which there is a statutory charge.

Communications regarding this matter should be addressed to A. C. Young, Mine Assessor, Department of Mines, Parliament Buildings, Toronto.

H. C. RICKABY
Deputy Minister of Mines.

"TELL BILL GOODBYE"

WRITTEN FOR AND RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

By Marie Blizard

SYNOPSIS.

The Characters:
FABIENNE SEYMOUR, rich, young and beautiful.
NICKY BARTLETT, wealthy and in love with Fabienne.
ELLEN CHAPMAN, young and capable mistress of Willoughby House.
DR. BILL MALLORY, close friend of Ellen's.

YESTERDAY: When Fabienne learns that Bill is at the settlement house every night, she suddenly decides to resume her work there, much to Ellen's delight.

CHAPTER FOURTEEN.

They were a small group in the settlement house dining-room where a piano had been placed for rehearsal of the carols.

Fabienne consulted a card in her hand and looked up at the children with an encouraging smile. "The four tallest girls and the four tallest boys will stand over here to the right," she said, leading them to their positions. "The boys in back of the girls. Then Luigi, you and Ingaborg, Lee and Colleen will stand in the front row. That's right."

Twelve foreign faces beamed at her.

"Now you look just like the picture that I showed you in the Christmas Carol book." And indeed, they would, with the simple costumes Miss Winters was making out of donations for them — long bright woollen scarfs to wrap around their throats and long coats. Put a lantern in little Luigi's hand and the picture would come to life.

"Teacher," Colleen Flaherty asked shyly, "What's the lantern for?"

"Oh, didn't I tell you about that? Well, you see, the first little boys and girls who went out on Christmas Eve to spread good cheer with their carols did not have bright street lights, so the had to have a lantern to show the way from house to house over the soft snow."

"Were they cold standing in the snow?" The wistful voice of Lars, the tallest of the boys wanted to know. Fabienne's heart smote her. She knew what cold meant to this fatherless boy who lived in a miserable, unheated tenement. She said gently, "No, Lars, they weren't cold any more than we're going to be cold. Their hearts were light and happy because they were singing Christmas hymns of joy to make others happy. The way we're going to be."

But were they? These poor little mites. There'd be toys and candy and fruit for them at the settlement house, but where was that Christmas joy she was painting in their eager imaginations? Cold tenements. Wretchedness and poverty and dirt and sickness was their lot.

For her there would be the holiday of fables. The Yule log and groaning board. The big tree in the library of Willoughby Hall. The excitement of voices calling cheery greetings, the gaily colored ribbons and the mass of greens. The Christmas punch and the candle-lit table. The beautiful gowns and the Christmas ball.

She cleared her throat. "I can't tell you any more stories now, Dr. Mallory will be down in a minute and we want to be in our places all ready to sing when he comes in. Let's surprise him."

She took her place at the piano and struck a chord for pitch. Twelve childish voices opened the song. Bill had come in.

She smiled at him briefly, and gave her attention for the next half-hour to her work.

Bill dismissed the children and drew a chair up beside hers where she sat at the piano.

He said, "You're a softie."

"Smile when you say that," she said with simulated belligerency. "What gave you that idea?"

"Your face," he said, moving his eyes over it with serious eyes. "I thought it was immobile when first I saw you."

"It's the same face," she told him, wishing she could escape. If he looked at her often that way he'd read something of her admiration—yes, that was the way she put it to herself—in her eyes.

"No." He shook his head. "It's not the same face, or the same girl, at all. I was watching you from the gallery." They were rehearsing in the little theatre. "And I saw your thoughts written all over your face when the Anderson boy asked you if they'd be cold standing in the snow."

"Well," she said staunchly, "aren't you sorry for these children? Who wouldn't be?"

"Sure I'm sorry for them. But not about Christmas. I'm sorry for the people who think of Christmas in terms of comfort and expensive presents and big dances."

As if he had surprised her thoughts Fabienne looked at him guiltily. "What's wrong with that?" she asked.

"There's nothing wrong with it, except that it isn't the real thing about Christmas. It's like looking at a rhinestone and being satisfied with it when there's a star to be touched."

"You think these children touch stars?"

"Yes," he said simply.

"How?" She had to ask it.

"They get something you can't wrap up in tissue paper. Something the best of shops can't sell you because there is no price on it."

"An orange, a bag of candy," she said, "and a Christmas tree in a settlement house."

"Fabienne, Fabienne, what a stupid little girl you are!" It was the first time he had called her by her name. "Do you think they get excited about an orange? Most of them snitch them every day. Or a Christmas tree? Yes, they do. But it's because it's a symbol of the whole spirit of the holiday that lifts them out of their lives. Now, I'm going to sound like a preacher."

"Go on," she said.

"It's a lift that doesn't disappear. With a lot of them it will. Because many of them are destined to finish their lives in poverty and ignorance. But some of them will always know what Christmas stands for. Do you know what it stands for, Fabienne?"

She shook her head.

"For hope, child. It's the birthday of Jesus Christ. No man can ever think of Him without thinking of hope. The little stable in Bethlehem. The star that guided the wise men. Everyone of these kids knows about that. It's something that belongs to everyone of them. Something that they sense as a greater gift than the orange or a bag of candy. That's why the Christmas spirit is something complete and beautiful. Can you be sorry for them when they have that? Or can you be sorry for the people who haven't?"

"For both," she said in a still voice. "But these children—"

"When they're men and women, they'll remember what they felt when they were children. The stable in Bethlehem and what it stands for, the feeling that thrills these young hearts when they sing the carols will always be there."

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

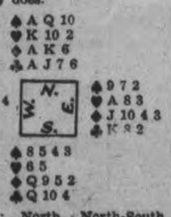
GRASP YOUR CHANCE

YOUR PROBLEM is not what you can do against perfect play by your opponents, but what you should do against the play they actually furnish. Much of the best bridge consists of seizing an opportunity presented you by the human frailties of the other fellow, just as a good deal of his fine work is in taking advantage of the occasional slips you make yourself. Don't say you never slip. Everybody does.



(Dealer: North. North-South vulnerable.)

North bid 2-Clubs to open this deal. South 2-No Trumps and North 3-No Trumps, an enterprise which would have been doomed hand South not shown up with a few dregs of strength.

West led his heart Q, which was covered by dummy's K and taken by the A. East returned the 8, West won with the J and then established the rest of the suit by leading to the heart 10. The declarer took three high diamonds, sent the club Q to East's K, the diamond J was cashed, but after that the contract was safe. West's last two hearts were good, but he could never use them.

A player of more experience in West's place would have let the dummy win the second heart trick with the 10, in the hope that his partner had three. When East got in the lead later, he could have led to the heart J and West would have set the contract.

West's opportunity never should have come to him. A truly able declarer would not have covered the heart Q lead, but would have let it win. If then the J was led, he would have covered; if a small heart, he would have played the 10. By this means he would have blocked the suit beyond peradventure of a doubt, and so would have made his contract regardless of anything the defenders could have done.

Against South's 4-Hearts, if West leads the spade Q and the K is played from dummy, how should East plan to defeat the contract?

gaged in the scouting operations over Northwest Germany, Austria and Bohemia returned undamaged, an air ministry communique said.

This was the first reported British aerial scouting over Bohemia, formerly part of Czecho-Slovakia, and the Austrian district, although Royal Air Force fliers had penetrated other parts of the German interior in the intensifying air war across the North Sea.

The ministry's communique said Eastern Germany also had been scouted again in extensive flights.

"Security patrols were maintained over Heligoland Bight," it added. "All our aircraft returned safely to their bases."

An official announcement disclosed British fliers had penetrated deep into German territory Thursday and had bombed one point of the German coast. Although they met anti-aircraft fire and one British plane was held momentarily in the fingers of German searchlights, all returned safely.

The bombs were dropped on a lane of lights believed to have been flares to guide German Aircraft in Rantum Bay, on the Island of Sylt, German North Sea air base.

Hamburg, Frankfort Visited

Reconnaissance flights were said to have gathered "much useful information" over the great German seaport of Hamburg, the industrial city of Frankfort on the main and the western German Ruhr area.

A British flier returned to his base yesterday after an encounter with a German Heinkel over the North Sea to learn that the German radio had announced that his plane went up in smoke and crashed.

"I did not got up in smoke—no fear," the pilot said. "A lucky bullet from the Heinkel hit one of the exhaust pipes and a stream of cooling liquid that poured out behind may have looked like smoke. Anyhow, it wasn't, and I got back easily enough. I am perfectly okay and have been flying all day. The machine will be airworthy again soon."

The pilot, who has been in the Royal Air Force for about 10 years, was one of three sergeant pilots who routed the Heinkel after it had attacked a merchant ship off the coast of Norfolk.

4 French Bag 4 Germans

Four French planes were reported to have engaged in a dogfight with German Messerschmidtt warplanes and to have shot down three of the enemy. A fourth German plane slipped into a tailspin and crashed.

The victory brought to six the French triumphs in recent battles Military accounts of the battle said the French planes returned safely to their base.

Although strengthening of home defences against the possibility of German aerial bombardments was disclosed, the main British answer to four successive days of air raids apparently remained blow-for-blow flights over Germany.

German warplanes tried unsuccessfully to sink several vessels yesterday and last night, but British authorities still were convinced the main purpose of the lone raiders was mapping, presumably for attempted attacks in the future.

Anti-aircraft batteries on the coast were warned not to let single planes attract their fire, lest the whereabout of important defence positions be disclosed.

The Air Reid Precautions service, it was announced, is being organized on a nation-wide basis, so neighboring towns' crews can co-operate in case of bombings.

German fliers aimed bombs at an unidentified 10,000-ton steamship, two trawlers and a lightship in darkness last night, but all reported they were not hit. At one point along the east coast, the shore was crowded with onlookers watching the flashes of a trawler shooting at a German warplane.

U.S. Aid For Finns

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13—(AP)—President Roosevelt said today he has asked congressional leaders of both parties to work out the problem of giving assistance to Finland.

The president disclosed Tuesday that he was discussing the matter of aid to Finland with the state department. Asked at his press conference today whether the conservations had resulted in any decisions, he replied in the negative.

He went on to say that the question of providing assistance to the Finns ought not to become one of partisan politics.

"He helped this man for about two years. Then, about a year ago, the man came to him and asked him to pass a $40 forged money order which was then in the man's possession. Carey did not believe that the money order could be passed, and it surprised him to find that he passed it with such ease. This led to other cases."

tract to Wanger's organization. Her most recent film, "House Across the Bay," was his production.

The couple planned to remain overnight at a resort hotel, then return to Hollywood by plane.

Wanger was divorced last spring from Justice Johnstone, dancer and actress, whom he married eighteen years before.

Miss Bennett, daughter of Richard Bennett of the stage and screen, first was married Gene Markey, Fox, whom she divorced in 1928. In 1931 she married Gene Markey, screen writer, but they were divorced in 1937. Markey later married Hedy Lamarr.

Since Miss Bennett became a brunette, her resemblance to Miss Lamarr had been commented upon widely.

Miss Bennett is the mother of two daughters, Diane, by her first marriage, and Melinda Markey, by her second.

"Dirty Crook" Released From Prison

Gilbert H. Beesemeyer, 56, convicted of $8,000,000 embezzlement and sent to San Quentin prison in 1931, is shown as he was released from prison after serving nine years. During his trial, Beesemeyer termed himself "nothing but a dirty crook."

on himself and family, identified two of the convicts as Frank Wellman, Oklahoma City man serving thirty years for murdering his bride, and Floyd Carpenter, Johnston County burglar. He did not name the third trusty.

They came to his home early in the night of the murder, he related, held him up and forced him to drive them to a side road a short distance from the Rogers family's three-room dwelling.

Wellman knocked on the door, the statement continued, and shot Rogers when he appeared. The convict then took $90 from Rogers' pocket which he claimed the farmer had won in a dice game.

When Mrs. Rogers ran out the back door screaming, she was shot down. Both she and her husband were struck with a nave, Lambert said. Then the convicts poured coal oil about the house and set it on fire.

Lambert led officers to a sport near Sawyer and produced a blood-stained axe. He told the sheriff he was burned on an arm when he attempted to save little Dean Rogers.

Another child, James Glenn Rogers, 8, escaped from the death scene carrying his baby brother, Billie Don.

A Cancer Grant

TORONTO, Jan. 13 — (CP). — The Ontario Government will make a grant of between $3,000 and $4,000 for January to the Dr. Henry Connell Foundation, Kingston, Ont., in order to make sure of a continued supply of "Ensol," the cancer treatment on which the foundation is working, it was announced to-day.

Health Minister Harold Kirby said the Government's own clinic would continue its research into the treatment and would in addition make the grant to the Connell Foundation. It is hoped that by the end of January, the foundation will have found assured financial support.

British Medicos Avoid Term "Shell-Shock"

LONDON, Jan. 13 — (CP). — Use of the term "shell-shock" to describe war-time neuroses should be rigidly avoided, according to a memorandum published in the British Medical Journal.

"The immediate treatment of patients exhibiting nervous symptoms, due to fear, anxiety and other mental factors, during and after air raids is extremely important, as, if they are neglected, the morale of the population suffers seriously," the memorandum said.

'Such terms as shell-shock,' which may suggest that these nervous symptoms have a physical basis or are due directly to injury, must be rigidly avoided."

The memorandum followed a conference convened by the Minister of Pensions last July to advise the Government as to general principles for dealing with cases of nervous breakdown in wartime. Lord Horder was chairman of the conference, which included Sir Farquhar Buzzard, Sir James Purves-Stewart and other distinguished physicians.

Cases of concussion should be differentiated from cases of acute emotional shock, said the memorandum. Being subjected to bombardment or raid raid or seeing horrifying sights might precipitate the latter.

"An avalanche of emotion seems to overwhelm the patient's consciousness releasing primitive reactions," it declared. "The clinical picture in the more severe cases may be of terror, stark panic, and confusion, or one of physical and mental collapse."

The memorandum recalls a war office committee of inquiry in 1922, which reported "the term shell-shock has been a gross and costly misnomer and should be eliminated from our nomenclature. It is a catchword which reacts unfavorably on the patients and on others."

No Nazi Recognition

AMSTERDAM, The Netherlands, Jan. 13—(CP Havas). — Far from recognizing Joseph Stalin's puppet Finnish government at Terijoki, the German government is still accepting consuls appointed by the Finnish government at Helsingfors, it was learned here today. The appointment of Heinrich Waldmann as new Finnish consul at Essen has been agreed to by the German government.

Reds Warn Norway, Sweden Over Aid To Finland; Dissatisfied With Replies

Swedes See Tactics Similar To Those Used Upon Finland

Charges Both Nations Violating Their Neutrality

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Jan. 15.—(AP)—Official quarters in Norway and Sweden today took a serious view of relations with Russia after a Soviet air raid on Sweden's Kallaks Island and Russia's publication of a diplomatic exchange with the two nations.

Russia accused Sweden and Norway of breach of neutrality by aiding Finland and declared Swedish and Norwegian replies to her protest were not entirely satisfactory.

The Swedish press said publication of the exchange was not only a violation of international custom but was strikingly similar to Soviet dealings with Finland immediately prior to the Soviet invasion.

Sweden declared all aid to the Finns had been of an entirely private nature and that Swedish sympathy for their embattled neighbors was natural.

The Swedish foreign office said a protest "naturally" would be made to Russia against the raid on Kallaks Island but would not say whether such action had been taken yet, as some sources reported.

Reports of a Russian aerial invasion into Norway also came from Kirkenes, Norway, across the bor-

MOSCOW, Jan. 15 — (AP). — Soviet Russia warned to-day of "danger" in her relations with Norway "and especially Sweden," publishing both her protests to them charging violations of neutrality and their not "entirely satisfactory" answers.

In both cases, the Russian protests dealt with anti-Soviet attacks in the press and in quarters close to the governments of the two countries and with men and material going from them to the aid of Finland.

Similarly-worded replies from Norway and Sweden disputed the Russian assertions and expressed hope for continued good relations with the Soviet Union.

Tass, Soviet news agency, published summaries both of the Russian representations in Oslo and Stockholm and the answers of the two Scandinavian nations, concluding:

"The replies given by the Government of Norway, and especially Sweden, cannot be regarded as entirely satisfactory.

"The Governments of Norway and Sweden do not deny all the facts proving violation by them of the

Chicago, Jan. 15 (AP)

CHARLES P. ANDERSON, 35, didn't say a word but Detective Ben Bazarek had his okay for putting him in jail. Anderson went to a police station to inquire why his friend Harry Luft was being held. Bazarek told him, and then Anderson, a deaf mute, handed the officer a note which read: "If Luft is locked up for passing bum cheques, I ought to be locked up, too, because I helped him."

US Bombing Plot Arrests Made In Nick Of Time

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—(AP)—Federal officials today declared the arrest of 17 men and the seizure of a small arsenal had merely "scratched the surface" of a terrorist plot to overthrow the United States government.

"More arrests" were predicted by Harold Kennedy, United States attorney, who said that Federal Bureau of Investigation agents under J. Edgar Hoover were "virtually forced" to act when they did because their investigations indicated a series of bombing outrages was imminent.

Kennedy disclosed that F.B.I. agents closed in on the suspects Saturday night because they had received information of definite instructions issued to one of the plotters to set off a bomb in a public place.

Real Damage Planned

The plot, he said, included plans to blow up buildings, raid utility plants and government offices, "liquidate" Jews, assassinate a dozen unidentified congressmen and set up a dictatorship.

Kennedy said he regretted it had been necessary to close in on the men at this time, but added that the type of mind which would conceive so grotesque a program of terrorism would be capable of perpetrating an outrage that might cause great damage and bloodshed.

He said his investigators and F. B.I. agents were checking to determine whether the alleged plotters had been sending ammunition and arms to the outlawed Irish Republican Army.

Hoover, in announcing disruption of the lot said those in custody were members of an inner circle of the Christian Front, an anti-semitic organization. More than half the suspects, he said, served in the active or reserve branches of the armed forces of the United States or were members of the New York National Guard.

17 Still Held

Eighteen men were taken into custody in the raids, but one of them was released a few hours later when it was discovered that he was a victim of "mistaken identity."

Arraigned in Brooklyn, the men pleaded not guilty and were held in $50,000 bail each for hearing February 5.

They were charged specifically with "conspiring to overthrow, put down and destroy by force the government of the United States, and oppose by force the authority thereof; also to seize, take, and possess property of the United States."

The infinitesimal size of the group, Hoover said, in no way lessened the fanatical earnestness of its members. He added that the men in numbers and zeal resembled the early group that laid the groundwork for Hitler's rise to power.

Just how the men believed they could carry out the alleged plot in a city which has a police force of 18,000 and several nearby army posts was not explained.

Sunday Storm Finishes The Drought

Snow Follows Rain Plugging Roads In 50-Mile Gale

TORONTO, Jan. 15. — (CP).—Lowering temperatures brought fresh falls of snow to many Ontario districts to-day following a week-end of rain, snow and gales that reached a velocity of nearly 50 miles an hour. The rainfall brought relief to south-western Ontario farmers by replenishing water and creeks and eliminating a water shortage that had become acute in some areas.

Rains which reached torrential proportions struck the southern part of the province Sunday, followed by high winds and snow. Northern Ontario reported snowfalls ranging from six inches to two feet.

The weather bureau at Toronto reported a wind velocity of 47 miles an hour at dawn followed by a fall of light snow. The wind came from the southwest last night following an all-day rainfall of .66 inch. A high wind brought five inches of snow and rain to the Ottawa district Sunday and disrupted communication lines in many rural districts.

Farmers generally agreed that the rain was of inestimable value after a drought serious enough to affect milk production and cause heavy expense for the hauling of water to feed livestock.

Western Ontario reported that following rains which swept away most of the old snow, a high wind sent the temperature plummetting below freezing and brought fresh snowfalls. A gale of 35 to 45 miles an hour swept the area.

Northern Roads Blocked.

Two feet of snow fell in the Porcupine district, blocking highways and roads. A fresh blanket of snow in the North Bay area brought temperatures of a new high level for this period of the winter. The snow is a boon to lumbermen, who shortly will start hauling one of the largest log cuts in years.

Most roads in the Algoma and Sudbury district were reported open

Berlin Claims War Scare 'Paris-Made'

Charge Allies Trying To Widen Front Make Germany Act

BERLIN, Jan. 15—(AP.—Authorized Germans charged today that the present war scare in Belgium and the Netherlands was "made in Paris," and asserted Germany still clung to her oft-announced intention to avoid, if possible, any extension of the war area.

The war scare, it was said, was designed to provoke Germany into an aggressive step. The authorized sources said that Germany declined to be provoked.

As seen through German eyes the precautions taken in the small western European countries had resulted from "suggestive information" given the Belgian and Netherlands governments by French Premier Daladier.

Daladier, according to this view, clearly sees that progress cannot be made along the Maginot Line and therefore some other point of attack must be found.

It was therefore suggested to Belgium and the Netherlands, these Germans held, that Germany was about to invade their soil. This was said to fit in with an alleged British offer of a guarantee to Sweden because in the north also—as in the southeast as well—the Allied powers are anxious to widen the area of conflict, the Germans contended.

Serious Threat.

PARIS, Jan. 15—(AP).—France, as the Netherlands and Belgium prepared to meet any attempted invasion, made no attempt today to disguise the seriousness with which they viewed developments but said the military had taken necessary precautions to meet any eventuality.

At the morning military press conference it was stated the Germans could get heavy forces into action against the two neutral countries with 24 hours' notice.

This situation, however, the spokesmen said, has existed since early November. Diplomatic pressure rather than new troop movements has given rise to the present

Lively Dreams

Salt Lake City, Jan. 15 (A.P.)

H. H. THOMAS told Judge Albert Ellett he dreamed the hotel where he was a guest caught fire. He got out his camera—in the dream—and when the flashbulb went off he woke up to find he had knocked out two windows. The landlady said the broken windows were no dream. Judge Ellett sentenced Thomas to 10 days in jail for destroying property.

Contract Is Let To Erect C.G.E. Building

Construction of a building 151 feet by 112 feet as an addition to their Peterborough plant was announced today as an immediate extension by the Canadian General Electric Company who have let the contract to A. W. Robertson Company of Toronto and Montreal.

The new building will be erected south of and adjoining the punch press department. It will be 36 feet in height, of brick and steel, with steam heating, saw tooth roof, and is intended for manufacturing purposes.

"The company is planning to start work right away," Alderman Bradburn, chairman of the Manufacturers Committee, told the Examiner today. "It was such pleasing news that I went down to the plant this morning to see C. A. Salmonsen about it. He confirmed the report, and told me that as much local labor as possible would be employed."

Twice As Big As Market

By way of comparison that would indicate the size of the C.G.E. Company's latest expansion, Alderman Bradburn said the dimensions of the market building are 127 feet by 62 feet, or 7,874 square feet, and the new factory building is 151 feet by 112 feet or 17,584 square feet, more than twice the floor area of the market building.

As the budding chairman of the Manufacturers Committee, Alderman Bradburn was delighted with the morning's news. "It is just as good as a new factory, especially when we realize that it is C.G.E. investment. It affords further evidence of the company's faith in Peterborough, and it is a reminder to us that encouragement to our own industries is a sound policy.

Used For Manufacuring

The Quaker Oats Company built a large addition to their factory last year, and we are now starting the new year with expansion activity by the Canadian General Electric Company. As to the purpose of the company in its use of the addition all I know is that it will be for manufacturing purposes. And this is entirely apart from the company's projects that were mentioned a year or so ago, the possibility of enlarging the wire department and of erecting a building to be used as an auditorium and surgical accommodation. We know these additions had been considered, and probably they are still in the company's plans of future development."

Britain Cancels Army Leave Suspect Nazi Action Strategy In War Of Nerves

Tips In Paris Point To German Blow Along Netherlands

Six New Divisions Of Nazi Troops Reach Aachen Area

LONDON, Jan. 15.—(CP).—An order suspending all leaves for British soldiers at the front increased concern to-day over the bracing of Belgium and the Netherlands against any German threat to the Lowlands' neutrality.

In Paris, a semi-official statement said "Everything allows us to fear" a manoeuvre of "diplomatic-military intimidation directed against the western neutrals."

The War Office here did not amplify its two-line midnight communique saying "the leave from service of the British expeditionary force has been temporarily suspended." Official sources explained, however, that troops already on furlough would not be recalled immediately."

One informed observer said Great Britain took the view a German invasion of the low countries was not imminent, but that "potential danger" existed.

Some military strategists were inclined to interpret the reported shifting of German attack units along neutral borders as another stroke in a "war of nerves."

The Daily Express observed: "Hitler's object is to keep us guessing.

BRITAIN CANCELS

AMSTERDAM, Jan. 15 —(AP) — Mobilized armies of Belgium and the Netherlands were massed today behind frontier defences to meet any German threat to the Lowlands' neutrality.

Close to 1,000,0000 Belgian and Netherlands soldiers were reported already at or ordered to positions along the border— a 300-mile wall through which Germany would have to smash to outflank the Allies on the Western front.

Heavy German troop movements through Westphalia, closing of the Dutch-German frontier at all points but one, and the dismissal of all Dutch workers employed in Westphalian industrial plants were some of the factors underlying the precautions against invasion taken by the Netherlands during the week-end, it was learned today.

Concentrations of German engineering troops were reported along the Netherland frontier.

"No threat has been hidden from the Belgian public," the note said, "and the independence of sources of information and the liberty of the press should inspire calm.... Belgium remains calm, but the army

Britain Claims Safety Zone Not Enforceable

LONDON, Jan. 15.—(CP).— British sources stated to-day that Great Britain had replied to the protest of 21 American republics against violation of their neutrality "safety zone" by taking the position that the zone was not enforceable under International law.

The reply was in the form of a note transmitted to the Panama government for presentation to the permanent Pan-American neutrality committee, it was said. Its contents were withheld.

The Republics Oct. 3 established a 300-mile "safety zone' 'around the Americas from which it was desired to keep the war. On Dec. 23, 10 days after the battle off Uruguay between three British cruisers and the German pocket battleship Admiral Graf Spee, the Pan-American nations protested to Great Britain, France and Germany against violation of their zone.

It Was Buried

Sudbury, Ont., Jan. 15 (CP)

ABOUT three weeks ago the city of Sudbury took delivery of a new $4,700 snow loader and city employees regretted there was no snow to try out the equipment. Today a small army of men were engaged in digging out the snow removing apparatus, which was partially buried under the heaviest snowfall recorded in this district this winter.

It is estimated that about seven inches of snow fell yesterday, and while motorists battled to dig out their cars and transportation companies sought to break roads through to the mines, city workers were liberating the snow loader.

War Loan On Sale Quints Seek Block Of $20,000

OTTAWA, Jan. 15.—(CP).—Subscriptions to Canada's first war loan were pouring into the Bank of Canada to-day from points throughout the Dominion and officials said the response so far was fully up to expectations.

Books opened at 9 a.m. EST for subscriptions to the $200,000,000 issue of 3¼ per cent, 12-year bonds which are being offered at par.

First returns, naturally, came from Eastern Canada, but at noon reports from the west began to arrive indicating that the response was general from coast to coast.

Advance subscriptions, ranging from $10,000 to $7,500,000, illustrated the tremendous interest shown in the 3¼-per cent interest loan. The Dionne quintuplets, through their guardians, contributed $20,000.

Speaking over the national network of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation last night, Col. Ralston said that Canadians on the home front can contribute to the war effort by subscribing to the loan.

"Here is the way you can help defeat Hitlerism and put an end to the constant menace of international gangsterism which has plagued us for several years. Your money put into these bonds will

CASF Reinforcements To Be Drawn From Original Areas Of Each Unit

OTTAWA, Jan. 15—(CP)— Every unit in the Canadian Active Service Force which serve overseas will remain firmly rooted in its home district in Canada. Under the plan for recruiting reinforcements now in effect the local associations of each battalion and each battery are being carefully fostered.

This is a different arrangement from that which prevailed in the first Great War when the battle units of the Canadian Expeditionary Force sometimes were comprised of men from widely scattered parts of the country and had little to give them a sense of representing any particular part of Canada.

Reinforcements for the units in the first overseas division are now being recruited in the areas from which the units themselves were recruited by depots left behind by these units. When trained and required for service they will proceed overseas directly to their own units.

The number of reinforcements eventually required for its unit naturally will depend on the service the unit undergoes and the functions it performs. The National Defence Department has established a quota for each type of unit now overseas and proposes to keep the number of men available as reinforcements up to that figure.

Not Trained At Home

While the reinforcements will be drawn from the home communities of the First Division units they will not be trained at home. A training centre for all machine gun reinforcements is being established at Montreal. Other training centres will provide for infantry and artillery. At these centres the men who eventually will join the Royal 22nd Regiment of Quebec, the 48th Highlanders of Toronto, the Saskatoon Light Infantry, the Edmonton Regiment, the Seaforth Highlanders of Vancouver, the West Nova Scotia Regiment, the Carleton and York Regiment of New Brunswick, the Royal Montreal Regiment, the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment of Eastern Ontario, and the various artillery, engineer and other overseas units will be concentrated for training but will retain their separate identities as units.

In this way the policy of making the forces overseas representative of all parts of Canada will be maintained. The spirit of comradeship will be encouraged by the association together of men with similar backgrounds and common friendships and interests in Canada. Each unit will also have a sense of responsibility to uphold the honor of some city, town or district.

Use Canadian Equipment

The overseas forces also will be rooted in Canada in that the bulk of their equipment, except for heavy articles such as field guns and tanks will be products of Can-

Pembroke Bishop Joins Mounted Police Why? Wonders Quints As He Calls

NORTH BAY, Ont., Jan. 15 — (CP). — The Dionne quintuplets puzzled to-day as to why their friend, Most Rev. D. Leo Nelligan, Roman Catholic Bishop of the Pembroke Diocese, had joined the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

Dressed in the the uniform of a Canadian Army officer, Bishop Nelligan, chief of the Roman Catholic Chaplain Service in the Canadian Active Service Force, called at the Dafoe nursery at nearby Callander on Sunday when bad weather grounded the passenger plane in which he was flying to Vancouver.

"Who am I?" he asked Canada's most famous daughters.

"You are the Bishop," Marie said in French. "But you look like you're a Mountie." The other sisters agreed solemnly.

Bishop Nelligan, who attended the quints' fifth birthday party last May, spent an hour at the nursery and the quints made a big fuss over him and asked many questions. He told Dr. A. R. Dafoe, physician to the girls, that being with the quints "gives me some of the happiest moments of my life."

Bishop Nelligan was in the Maritime Provinces last week conferring with Catholic chaplains. He returned by train to Ottawa when his plane was grounded here yesterday.

France Rushing 4 Battleships 100 Other Craft

By HENRY CASSIDY
(Associated Press Staff Writer.)

With the French Fleet, Jan. 15 (AP)—I have just seen a cross section of France's growing fleet, from the naval academy to her biggest ships, in a three-day visit.

The French construction program calls for four 35,000-ton battleships and more than 100 smaller vessels to help meet any German challenge to Allied sea supremacy.

Naval bombers from the United States are being landed at a giant airbase in Brittany where sea and land runways, steel hangars and modern apartments for the staff are being constructed. After the war, air passengers from North America may use this base as a station.

When I was there one bomber was being assembled in a hangar where American mechanics were said to be directing the work. Other planes ready to fly were receiving their coats of camouflage.

The navy expansion program has been extended to men as well. The naval school at Brest is preparing to graduate this month 200 men who normally would have gone to sea next September.

In port beneath the school riveters drilled aboard the Richelieu, first of the new 36,000-ton battleships. Launched a year ago she is expected to be ready for sea within a few months.

Another 35,000 tonner, the Clemenceau, also is under construction at Brest while two more, the Jean Bart and Gascogne, are being built at Saint Nazaire.

Hunger Expected To Force Russian Attack

WITH FINNISH FORCES IN THE FAR NORTH, Jan. 15 — (AP). — Indications that the Soviet Russian Army entrenched along the Salla front would be forced into attack by lack of supplies were seen today by Finnish observers.

A rise in temperature after month long sub-zero weather last week brought a sudden attack under cover of artillery fire against the Finnish northern flank, but the Reds were driven back with heavy losses.

This unexpected move was taken by the Finns to indicate the Soviets would attempt to smash Finnish defences at the first break in the Arctic cold.

Finnish quarters expressed relief the Russians have not sufficient supplies to last them through the usual season of merciless cold which comes in late January and early February.

Thus a major drive, these sources said, would be the Red army's only chance to escape annihilation.

The Soviet forces at Salla have dug in and put up formidable fortifications. They have heavy artillery, machine guns, and high-powered grenade throwers with a range of three of five miles.

A LOAD of bombs exploded today when a Royal Air Force bomber crashed while taking off in the northeastern part of Fifeshire, north of the Firth of Forth.

Back From Tour Of Front Officers Stir Up C.A.S.F.

ALDERSHOT, England, Jan. 15.—(CP Cable).—With return to camp of staff officers who accompanied Major-General McNaughton to France and completion of long leave to men of the second contingent, there was a new burst of activity to-day in the areas where the first division, Canadian active service force, is training.

Henceforth leave will be granted on compassionate grounds only, together with the normal week-end time off.

Officers who had been away for a week applied themselves to a review of business disposed of during their absence, catching up with official correspondence, and opening of letters and parcels from home.

All were deeply impressed with what they saw on a trip to the front. As soon as General McNaughton returns to his headquarters the lessons of the tour will be canvassed and applied to the training program.

(In a dispatch from the British Headquarters in France The Canadian Press reported that the officers who accompanied General McNaughton were Lieut.-Colonel G. R. Turner, Senior General Staff Officer; three infantry brigadiers, A. A. Smith, G. R. Pearkes, V.C., and C. B. Price; the commanders of the Divisional Artillery and Engineers, respectively, Brigadier J. C. Stewart and Lieut.-Colonel C. S. L. Hertzberg; the assistant director of medical services, Colonel J. A. Linton, and the deputy assistant quartermaster general, Captain J. F. A. Lister).

Two German Refugee Boys Get Peace River Homes

OTTAWA, Jan. 15. —(CP)— Horst Gunter Schramm and Arwed Lewinski, the first of 100 refugee children who will find haven in Canada, are going to the Peace River County, and, said Senator Cairine Wilson today, they are thrilled at the prospect.

At present the two lads, sons of refugees from political persecution in Germany, are in England. Passage money for them has been forwarded by the Canadian National Committee for the victims of political persecution.

Senator Wilson, directing the committee, said latest word received here was that the boys are anxious to get to their new home in Alberta where they will be under the guardianship of Miss Monica Storrs.

Miss Storrs for some time has been interested in refugee work, and has supported Horst and Arwed in England for the past six months.

Under the direction of Senator Wilson the refugee committee is building up a strong organization to care for the 100 children who will be allowed entry to Canada by the Federal Government as an experiment.

If suitable homes may be found for them here and the experiment generally works out satisfactorily, then more refugee children may be admitted.

Under the present plan those adopting children do not have to become legal guardians but they are to be held responsible until the child reaches 16 years.

1939 Is Classed As Year Of Destruction

That 1939 had been a year of destructive influences and it was sincerely hoped that 1940 would be a year of restoration was the statement made by Rev. Dr. E. W. Young of St. Andrew's Church in presenting at the weekly luncheon of the Peterborough Rotary Club today a thoughtful and informative review of 1939.

Introduced by Rotarian George A. Gillespie, Rev. Dr. Young said that the greatest phase of destruction in the past year had been the destruction of international law and order in the world and the shattering of treaties and of the bond of truth that held peoples together. "Without that bond," he commented, "society is merely a road of shifting sand."

Mentioning some of the many treaties that he said had been treated in 1939 as if they did not exist at all, Rev. Dr. Young lamented the fact that men were in power and at the head of millions of people whose pledged word did not mean anything.

In reviewing some of the events of 1939 the speaker began by giving a resume of the important developments during the close of 1938 which caused last year to open under a cloud. He followed by referring to some of the events of 1939 which were in a sense trivial, but yet were straws that showed which way the wind was blowing. In this connection he mentioned the lending of $25,000,000 by the United States to China, the change in the economic leadership of Germany by which a man with the international viewpoint was deposed in favor of a 100 per cent. Nazi, the change in Russia which saw Molotoff come to the fore and the signing of the anti-Communist pact by Hungary.

In regard to the alliance between Germany and Russia, Rev. Dr. Young said that it had left Germany without a friend in the world. "What she thought would be a master stroke of diplomacy," said the speaker, "has turned out to be her greatest and most terrible blunder."

In conclusion Rev. Dr. Young expressed the hope that the present year will see the restoration of the bond of truth that would return to the world one of its most precious and important assets.

Rotarian Alexander Mowat expressed the thanks of Rotary to Dr. Young for his address.

Week Of Prayer Services Ended

The closing service of the series of New Year's meetings was held in the Salvation Army Temple on Saturday night. Adjt. Norman Buckley conducted the service and was assisted by Rev. V. E. R. Zufelt. There was a real Salvation Army atmosphere created by band music and the singing of the Temple Songsters about 40 in number. The band played "Oh Men of Galilee" and the lady songsters sang "Holy Spirit Faithful Guide." The anthem was sung with neat expression, sometimes in a whisper, other times like a rushing torrent. The girls sang with deep feeling.

Dr. A. T. Barr, the speaker, congratulated the choir and band upon their performance. His subject was the "New Birth." Something he said is wrong with the world, whether we have blue blood or not we all have the same flaw, many think only of the physical body, but it will one day go into the dust. The will of man has acclaimed great things but its fine promises have not all come true, the League of Nations has failed because human nature in itself was not able to carry it through. The heritage of sin is everywhere in the world, it mars every organization and club. The transformation of the world can only come by redeemed men.

At the Soviet Pavilion in the World's Fair, they had groups of happy looking young people but their happiness was of a physical kind. The happiness of the Salvant type.

adian factories.

A plant at Toronto is producing Bren machine guns, the standard light automatic rifle. None have yet been delivered but the contract between the government and the company calls for deliveries in the period immediately following March 1, 1940.

Shells, grenades, and rifle ammunition are being produced in quantities in privately owned Canadian plants and government arsenals.

Before leaving for England, the First Division was equipped with new uniforms of the battle dress style all made in Canadian factories. All Canadian troops whether in Canada or abroad now have complete outfits of clothing, including underwear, gloves or mitts, boots and great coats.

So far as heavy equipment is concerned Canada has sufficient guns in the country for training purposes. The purchase of additional artillery pieces for use in Canada is not contemplated and for service in the field the troops will probably continue to receive their guns from British sources.

McNaughton, Gort Agree On United Command, Look Over Maginot Line

With the British Expeditionary Force in France, Jan. 15 (CP Cable) — Major - General Andrew McNaughton, commander of th Canadian Active Service Force, today toured the Maginot Line while senior commanders and staff officers of the Canadian division returned home from a week's visit with the British Army in France.

It was a visit which provided a short course in tactics and administration right on the ground. The whirlwind tour made possible an intensive analysis of problems which may arise when the C.A.S.F. moves to France.

Sunday, General McNaughton, and Viscount Gort, commander of British forces in the field, made known in statements to The Canadian Press that they were agreed, as Lord Gort put it, on "all matters relating to the joint use of the forces." He added that during their conference, which took place last Thursday at British headquarters, these matters were "considered and settled to our mutual satisfaction."

Agree Upon Unity

General McNaughton's statement threw more specific light on the important conference. He said: "We agreed on the wisdom of unity of tactical command," and he added: "Similarly we agreed that on all administrative matters there should be a clear channel of authority straight back to the Canadian government."

The visit to the British zone took the party over a section of northern France similar to that where the Canadians are likely to be stationed, though this has not yet been decided.

"It was a very valuable trip from a tactical viewpoint," General McNaughton said. "Advance knowledge of the necessary adaptations in organization when we reach France has been hlepful indeed. Just as important has been the renewal of personal liaison between the divisional and other senior commanders. Every member of the party has been able to gain the utmost information on matters related to his duties in the Canadian organization. The brigadiers and members of the staff have been in contact with their opposite numbers and have gained invaluable experience. All the British commanders and their staffs went out of their way to ensure that we gain the full benefit of our trip."

Like Day at College.

The first day at the front was more like a busy day at the army's staff college than a tour of the wartime battle line. Outside the wind howled and guards at the door of the village mayor's house, taken over by the military, stamped their chilled feet while red-nosed children with scarves knotted around their necks slid up and down the ice in the gutters.

Inside divisional headquarters the visitors crowded a small room for a series of talks by senior officers. Seated around the room on folding chairs over which great coats and gas masks had been thrown, the Canadians made notes of the salient points in the lectures. Bent over a map spread on a desk General McNaughton listened coisely to a blackboard drill by a divisional commander, whose name must not be mentioned. Horn rimmed glasses pushed back over his ruffled grey hair, he pointed with his pipe to the diagrams when asking frequent questions.

The party was given the most intimate details of the disposition, division and nature of defences and tactical plans in the event of attack. The predominant motif of the discussion was the determination to continue digging-in tactics until spring when the situation is

The crew held a brief meeting at which final plans for the breakfast and banquet were made.

The boys attended the social evening being held by the 'teen-age girls in St. John's Parish Hall.

On Wednesday morning, All Saints' Rovers joined St. John's in Holy Communion and breakfast. A good turnout was enjoyed, only one member of St. John's not present. Scout Art Pritchard, an old member of the troop, who has been called to the colors and is now serving with the Dental Corps at Kingston, was in attendance both at Communion and breakfast.

Rev. Canon Robertson gave the rovers a vivid expression of Christian duty that is now more important than ever before, and contrasted the goal of dictatorship and the goal of every Christian. He spoke of the Youth Movements of to-day in Italy, Germany and Russia and their difference to the Youth Movement set up by Sir Robert Baden Powell.

The trophy arrived with its escort of two All Saints' cubs, under Akela George Brook, who presented the trophy to St. John's pack. Congratulatory remarks were received from Mr. W. Lyburn of the trophy committee and Mr. A. Hope, the donor.

Accepting the trophy on behalf of the pack, Akela Frank Pammett stated they were proud to have the honor of holding the award for the current year, especially as the late Bill Coleman had been a revered leader of this group.

The remainder of the evening was spent in playing games, which included French Tag and Bean Bag relay. Skits were also rehearsed for the pack concert to be held on February 5.

Scores Of Finnish Cities Aflame After Air Raids

HELSINGFORS, Jan. 15—(AP)—Counting the cost of the worst aerial offensive since the Russian invasion started, Finns fear that Red strategy calls for a powerful assault on behind-the-lines morale to break military resistance along Finland's borders.

Civilians of a score of southern Finnish cities and towns surveyed the ruins of homes and public buildings caught in the sweep of Sunday's far-flung air raids. Fires raged in almost a dozen cities.

In attacks lasting four hours, the Russians dropped hundreds of incendiary bombs and along the railway linking Abo (Turku) and Helsingfors were reported to have swooped low to attack civilians with machine guns.

A Finnish communique reported that 15 were known dead, "several dozen" wounded and that many private homes were destroyed by fire.

Raids which drove residents of the capital to cover twice during the day killed three persons.

The former residence of the United States minister was damaged by bombs in Grankulla, resort town west of Helsingors, but nobdy was injured. The American minister, H. F. Arthur Schoenfeld and his legation staff had moved a few days ago to larger quarters.

Observers believed the Soviet airmen mistook the legation for a Finnish headquarters.

300 Bombs on One City.

Rajamaki was reported the target for more than 300 bombs. One hundred and fifty were said to have fallen on Karja, both southern Finnish cities.

Fires still flared on the seacoast city of Hangoe (Hanko), and 20 homes were reported destroyed at Tammisaari, 60 miles west of the capital. Other centres raided included Riihimaki, Lohja, Lappvik and Porvoo.

Dozens of bombs from about 100 planes were aimed along the Abo-Helsingfors railway but the line was reported not damaged.

The Finns said two enemy aircraft were shot down.

On the Eastern front, the Russians were believed to be bringing up reinforcements for a new drive to cut off Finland in the "waistline" sector, scene of the defeat of the 163rd and 44th Russian divisions.

Red Cross To Drop Plan To Show Quints At Fair

TORONTO, Jan. 15 — (CP) — Executive committee of the Canadian Red Cross Society had before it today a recommendation that the society refuse to sponsor a plan to take the Dionne Quintuplets to the New York World's Fair this spring.

Officers of the Red Cross met last night and decided to oppose the scheme, under which the society would receive an estimated $500,000 for its war work, on the grounds "these delightful children should not be exploited for any purpose, however worthy."

The officers' recommendation was scheduled for consideration at a meeting of the full executive today. Meanwhile, the guardians of the Quints have not yet considered or replied to the offer, made by J. C. Holmes, vice-president of the Fair Corporation.

Under Holmes' scheme, the Quints would be in New York four or five weeks, starting May 11, returning to their home in Callander before mid-June when the tourist rush

Civilians in the Rovaniemi sector are seen wearing Russian army helmets with the red star and hammer and sickle—spoils from the Suomussalmi battlefield, where the 163rd Red Army Division was reported shattered on December 29 and 30.

More Air Raids

HELSINGFORS, Jan. 15 (AP)—The Russian air force, attacking again after unleasing yesterday the worst aerial offensive of the Russian-Finnish war, resumed bombing raids on south Finland today.

Two air alarms were sounded in Helsingfors shortly after noon. No damage was reported in the centre of the city, but some bombs were reported to have fallen in the outskirts. It was intensely cold and the Soviet planes flew extremely high.

As a result of yesterday's widespread attack Finns feared Russian strategy called for a powerful assault on behind-the-lines morale to break military resistance at the front.

Vegetable gardens are to be planted in London parks.

18 Held In Plot To Overthrow U.S. Government

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—(AP)—A plot to smash the United States government and replace it with a dictatorship through bombings and assassination was charged to-day against 18 New York members of a "Christian Front."

J. Edgar Hoover, head of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, implied, in announcing the disruption of the alleged plot, that the 18 now under arrest were merely the nucleus of a country-wide conspiracy.

Federal agents were searching many localities for caches of arms such as the "small arsenal" they found in New York city on the course of a six-month investigation of the alleged conspirators.

The 18 scheduled for arraignment today in Brooklyn federal court were charged specifically with seditious conspiracy to create a revolution and overthrow the government.

The penalty could be six years in prison and a $5,000 fine for each.

Among their tentative aims, Hoover said, was the assassination of 12 Congressmen—identities not disclosed—as examples to all those who voted for repeal of the embargo on American arms shipments to belligerent nations.

The day for striking against the government, Hoover said, was to be soon after a final drill in bombing and firing which had been set for Jan. 20—next Saturday.

MORE ABOUT—

despite a snowstorm lasting since early Sunday and continuing today. Snow ploughs worked all night on main highways. Telegraph and telephone companies reported minor troubles and lighting service was interfered with by the storm in Sault Ste. Marie for a short time yesterday.

Peterborough, in Eastern Ontario, reported a week-end precipitation of 1.13 inches, mostly rain, which was the heaviest rainfall since last July. Traffic was crippled by the snow, sleet, rain and high winds and roads are almost impassable because of six to eight inches of slush and ice. A blizzard is sweeping the district today.

Ice companies at Cornwall were delayed by rain and thaw from cutting their year's supply in the Cornwall Canal. The temperature remained above freezing point today, following a pelting rain Sunday. Highways in Brockville district were free of snow and ice today, following spring-like weather conditions during the week-end.

Traffic Tied Up.

The worst snowstorm of the season struck the Northumberland county district, disrupting traffic.

The Buffalo-Fort Erie ferry is not operating today due to high water in the Niagara River caused by a jam of Lake Erie ice in the upper river.

At Welland, Joseph Wilson, provincial agricultural representative, said that an inch of rain which fell on the district yesterday, brought great benefit to farmers whose wells were dry because of inadequate falls in recent months.

Nearly two inches of rain was recorded at London with colder weather forecast for tomorrow. A stiff wind kept main highways clear of snow Sunday. A Sunday thaw in Hamilton met with a sudden reverse and the district was gripped by winter again today. A gale that sprang up last night brought light snowfall and lower temperatures.

An average of nearly an inch of rain fell on Western Ontario points, including Stratford, Kitchener, Galt, Sarnia, Brantford and St. Thomas. Light snow during the night plunged the temperature down to freezing. Several inches of snow was reported in the St. Thomas area.

Eastern States Hit Hard.

NEW YORK, Jan. 15 — (AP). — Snowstorms moved eastward from the middlewest today, threatening to bring ice as an aftermath to gale-blown rain that slashed the eastern United States yesterday.

Communication lines were wrecked by a 50-mile-an-hour wind in many sections; shipping along the seaboard was disrupted; the rain turned into ice in various areas, but brought some relief to New York City's water supply which had been fast dwindling under drought conditions.

Six persons were killed and a number injured when tornadoes struck 15 miles east and 80 miles southwest of Montgomery, Ala., yesterday. Three negroes died in the Mt. Meigs section and three others at Beatrice and Riley's crossing. Twenty-five or more houses were demolished.

New York and New England felt the full force of the wind and rain that left widespread property damage. An unidentified vessel was reported aground off New Bedford harbor.

Many air lines cancelled flights; motorists over much of the country were stalled in snow or wrecked by ice; and two passenger trains were derailed in Wisconsin. There were no injuries in the derailments.

Poles Deserting?

BERLIN, Jan. 13. — (AP) —The German New Agency said today Polish soldiers in the French army were deserting and crossing the Western front lines.

They showed "no desire to fight for England's prestige," it said, "the more so because re-establishment of Poland is not expected and the fight against Germany has shown itself to be hopeless."

India has refused to restrict the sale of gasoline and oil.

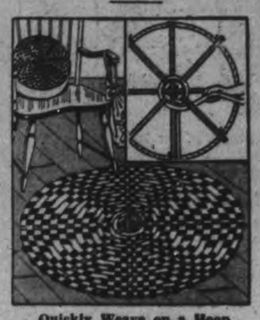
Gay Hand-Woven Rug Fun for You to Make



Quickly Weave on a Hoop

All you need for making a homey rag rug like this are a child's hoop, strips of inexpensive cotton or woollen cloth in pretty colors—such as yellow and deep red. Or you may use leftover goods, old dresses.

For a rug 27 inches in diameter you require about 7 to 8 yards of red fabric (36 inches wide) and about 11 to 12 yards of yellow in the same width. Cut in strips 3 or 4 inches wide and fold to 1 inch.

Now, after winding a strip of old cloth around your hoop, stretch 4 red strips across it like spokes in a wheel, pin at ends and sew at centre.

To weave, pin one end of a long yellow strip next to a red spoke, carry to center and go over and under the spokes as our diagram shows. You get the pretty pattern of the rug in our picture by forming V's with extra spokes.

Do you have scraps left over? Weave a little pillow top to match. And fun to weave a smart sports bracelet and belt set of wool or raffia on a cardboard "loom"—or place mats on a breadboard.

Easy instructions for making these, other attractive articles are given in our 32-page booklet. Includes items for personal use—such as purses and scarves—and for the home there are doilies, footstool covers—many more pretty and useful items.

Send 15c in coins or stamps for your copy of HOW TO WEAVE USEFUL NOVELTIES to Home Service, Peterborough. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS and the NAME of booklet.

Y.W.C.A. Plans New Activities

Plans for numerous new activities were outlined at the January Board meeting of the Y.W.C.A. Miss C. F. Littlefield announced for the Physical committee, a gym campaign for 75 new members, to be conducted this month. Preliminary plans were also laid for the annual Gymnasium Pageant.

Mrs. T. J. Carley, convener of the Educational committee, reported that through the courtesy of the Toronto Daily Star, pictures of the royal visit, shown at the Canadian National Exhibition, would be presented at the Y.W.C.A. the evening of January 18. The Household Workers' Training Course, held each year at the Y.W.C.A., is to commence on Wednesday afternoon, January 17, and a Bible Study Course on the Old Testament, under the leadership of Miss C. Gardiner, Girls' Work secretary, is to to commence Tuesday evening from 6.45 to 7.45.

In reply to a letter suggesting regional conference prior to the National Y.W.C.A. Convention this spring, an invitation was extended to have this district conference in Peterborough.

The financial reports, read by Mrs. H. Paige Rowell, showed total receipts of $5,549.33 in the recent campaign, with promises of $761.00, which would make a total of $6,210.33. The committee expressed satisfaction in connection with running expenses of the enlarged building, but noted increased expenditures for heating, electricity, service and upkeep.

Mrs. A. Moir, convener of the membership committee, spoke of the visit of Miss Matouskove for the Membership Tea, a delightful January event. The Girls' Work committee commented on the splendidly organized and entertaining dance held in the holidays by the Friday Night Supper Club. The Girls' Council had most successfully sponsored the Girls' Bazaar, and a total of $102.00 proceeds was turned over to the Association. The Council also sponsored the Membership Banquet, with Miss Matouskova as guest. The clubs all enjoyed special Christmas activities, and the members exchanged gifts. The Physical Committee reported a good month and hearty enthusiasm in basketball games.

A report from the Residence, presented by Mrs. E. E. Morrison, residence superintendent, was received with appreciation. The residence is financially ahead of the last few years. It has been well filled all season and has served special dinners to a number of clubs and organizations. Christmas and New Year's were special parties with 19 and 33 for dinner. Gifts from New Centre Theatre, Jopings, Hamilton's, Stocks', and Purity Bread Company were much appreciated.

Mrs. H. R. H. Kenner presided, and brought a New Year message of hope and faith in the opening devotions. Tea was served at the close of the meeting.

STYLISH WARMTH

By ALICE ALDEN

THE COACHMAN'S coat came out of Paris and was warmly welcomed a couple of years ago. Now it's the strolling minstrel's coat, a new note from an American designer. In the order of importance, points in its favor are: simplicity, meaning it will be in style indefinitely; warmth, the soft wool being fully lined, the lap generous; price, under that of any fur jacket one might name. After all, we can't all have luxurious stoles and white fox capes. Black with black satin revers is the most practical choice in this coat, which also comes in red wool with black dash, and white with black, the last a natural for cruisers. Not as chill-breaking but easy to wear is another evening pet recently introduced in California — the short Harris tweed coat of pastel, sequin-embroidered.

while the models paraded among them on wooden clogs.

A sales manager declared: "These suits are designed so that the feminine form is accentuated along the most flattering lines with the contour of the body gracefully feminine."

He pointed out what he meant. He was right.

One of the observers, commenting on a sleek white suit, said: "There is a little more to this than meets the eye—but not much."

Four or five blue suits attracted the most attention. They were worn by a blond. She also could have appeared in an ulster, with earmuffs and galoshes, and still have attracted attention.

One of the suits she wore was the color of a tropic night, studded with stars. Closer examination disclosed the stars actually were the blond herself showing through eyelet embroidery.

"Indeed it is not embarrasing," she said. "It makes life more interesting."

We Noticed

....Like the little girl in the nursery rhyme who was made of sugar and spice and everything nice, so are the extra little jackets for spring.

....There are little jackets to stretch a wardrobe, to wear over dark town frocks, sports dresses, afternoon dresses, dinner and evening gowns, and to wear with an extra skirt and make a new dress.

....The wool jackets with braid trim that was such a big item last fall is to be followed up with wool block plaids in starting colors that will look marvelous with black or white skirts.

COLDS

Don't Upset Stomach By Drastic Dosing

Taking strong medicines into the stomach for colds may add to the misery by upsetting digestion. That's why 1 out of 3 Canadian mothers treat colds externally with Vicks VapoRub.

Just rubbed on throat, chest and back at bedtime, VapoRub acts on the skin like a warming poultice and —at the same time—gives off soothing medicated vapours that are breathed direct into the irritated air passages. Often by morning most of the misery of the cold is gone.

Corset Swim Suit Last Word For Beach Wear

NEW YORK, Jan. 15 — (AP). — Women (what won't they think of next?) will do a lot of swimming this summer in the closest thing to a corset you ever saw.

The creation, called a "swim suit" but not in any respect resembling the conventional middy blouse and bloomers, was displayed "to the trade" on four blonds and two brunettes.

"No more need the fastidious lady wear a rubber girdle under her bathing suit," explained one of the hired help. "We've combined the works into a thing of beauty."

What they've actually done is weave tough rubber into the cloth so that the suits will stretch in the direction and not in the other. Fifty experts tried to lock blase

Crippling Rheumatism

Rheumatism leaves in its train distorted joints, crooked limbs, crippled hands, and the intense pain is almost unendurable.

In the beginning rheumatism is often due to dyspepsia or indigestion, for if the digestive organs did their duty there would not be any poisonous uric acid in the blood to sow the seeds of rheumatism.

Burdock Blood Bitters invigorates the system, and helps to eradicate the uric acid from the blood which is the cause of the inflammation and pain.

Come Home And Be Shot

More than 100 Russian officers have been recalled because Stalin believes they have let him down rather badly in the invasion of Finland. Then there is another inquiry going on regarding the commissariat dealing with food supplies for troops. Something was wrong with the troops, and something was wrong with the system of feeding the troops.

It was in 1937 that Stalin dealt with army officers. He was convinced they were disloyal or incompetent or were dealing with other nations, and the result was that he shot a good seventy per cent. of his officers right then.

The hundred officers who have been told to return to Moscow may have a fair enough idea of the sort of reception which will be in store for them. They were sent on a task which military experts say was wrong from every angle. The worst possible time was selected for the invasion; whole divisions went in where mechanized equipment could not be used on account of the intense cold. There was positively no provision made for the protection or comfort of the troops; they were out in weather away below zero for 24 hours a day. The officers in the Russian army are notoriously unpopular with rank and file as a rule, but in this case the man above had insisted upon a foolhardy thing being done. It was never ordered by the mind of a military genius but by the asinine say-so which grew in a thick skull at Moscow.

When Stalin purged his official army roster in 1937 he did away with what should have been the result of a great deal of training. All the knowledge his officers possessed died with them, and he had little enough of such material. If he does the same thing again where will he profit? Not at all.

A sensible man would have learned his lesson in the first week or so of the Finnish experiment. Results would have told him that his army was wrong all through, and that it had been flouted before the world as the last word in military skill, where it was nothing of the sort.

The world knows what it means when Stalin decides to call in his officers. Instead of firing in Finland there will besome done in a back alley in Moscow. The practical effect of that will be that Russia will have 100 less officers, good or bad as they may have been.

The regrettable thing is that the wrong men are being punished for the stupidity of official Moscow. The world takes no delight in thinking of the Russians who have been led into traps or who have frozen to death after being wounded in Finland, but the world would be seriously interested in seeing Stalin or Molotoff moved from their snug quarters and forced into similar conditions on a below zero front.

Putting a Man In Prison

A few days ago it was we heard this remark: "Putting a man in prison does something to him. He can't serve his time, walk out at the end and declare, 'Well, that's over with.' Putting a man in prison does something to him."

That is a vague phrase—does something to him—but it explains a whole lot which would be difficult to put into more specific terms. We wonder if it holds true when applied to what these men do after they come out?

There were two young men in court at Goderich the other day and they were there because they had used a gun and a stolen car for purposes of robbery. Their last point of call had been at a gas station where they had the tank filled and then they drove off after pointing their gun at the owner of the place.

In court we notice it was recorded they had previously served two terms, but they had not come out reformed. They started in where they had left off before. Being in prison had apparently confirmed them in their belief that they were right when they started a life of crime in the first place.

There has been a story in the papers about the manager of a bank in Western Canada who had tried to make an ex-convict go straight. He had been introduced to him by a friend and the purpose of the introduction had been explained in advance. The bank manager had a record of some 16 years with his bank and not a mark against him.

The man whom he met had served time for forgery and apparently he was clever at it. Some time after he had become known to the banker the forger made the suggestion that a forged document could be easily passed; probably he explained to the banker a good deal about the business which he had never known before. The plan was made to look so attractive that the banker went ahead and worked with the ex-convict and in one year is said to have made $4,000 out of it.

And yet that whole miserable business started when the bank manager met the ex-convict for the avowed purpose of helping him to go straight. Being in prison had done something to that man skilled in forgery. It hadn't taken the bad or worn parts out of him and replaced them with something new and perfectly good. It's not possible to overhaul a man like a skilled mechanic works on an auto. No—putting a man in prison does something to him.

In this case the forger was not brought up to the level of honest living which that bank manager had in mind. Instead of the banker lifting him up to that level of his, the former forger pulled the banker down to the level which had landed him in prison.

Instead of those two young men in court at Goderich having learned that stealing cars and using guns to secure money was a mistake from which they would depart they were apparently more than ever convinced that it was the one and only easy way to get along. We believe there is stubborn if unlovely truth in those words—putting a man in prison does something to him.

They Should Not Go

Mayor LaGuardia of New York seems certain the Dionne children will be placed on exhibition at the World's Fair in 1940. The thing went into a financial slump in 1939 and Canada's best tourist attraction is wanted to bring in the money. Russia has torn down its exhibit and the Dionne children can have that site. All fixed it would seem.

But no person in authority in this province seems to know anything about it. Dr. Dafoe says he will not be responsible for having the children go there.

It is hard enough to see why they should go, that is if the desire is to have them retain some atmosphere of being normal children. As a rule people who are placed on exhibition at a large fair or a lesser one are not normal. They are associated with large banners in front of a place of exhibition with barkers outside urging people to come in. Many of those placed on exhibition are unfortunately freaks of one sort or another; they are extremely fat or they are very small, or twins joined together at birth.

The real point is here: The Dionne children are normal; they are wholesome and entirely lovely little girls, and for that reason we do not believe they should be associated in any way with what is called exhibition at a fair. They do not need the money, neither do their parents. The idea of helping pull the World's Fair at New York out of a financial hole is not good enough and the answer should be a dignified but quite audible—NO.

Father And Sons

At the funeral of John Corkery, former postmaster of Peterborough, a citizen interested in community effort and civic government, there was the unusual occurrence of two sons in the priesthood conducting the funeral service of their father.

One often enough encounters that feeling in families of any denomination, but it is particularly marked in the Catholic church; that desire in families where there are sons that one or several of them should turn toward holy orders and devote his life to the church.

So it was in the case of John Corkery there were two sons in the priesthood and they conducted the funeral service of their father, and as though to bring the tie a little closer, they were in turn assisted by a third priest, a nephew from Toronto.

There may have been similar cases before, but of such we have no record. It seemed like a benediction on the man's life that it should have been that way.

Better Drive On

L. A. MacDonald of Clearwater, Ont., can provide yet another reason why motorists should hesitate about picking up hitch-hikers. He was on his way home and at a point some 35 miles from Toronto stopped to pick up a girl and a youth.

Then things began to happen. The driver believes it was the girl who produced a revolver after which he was tied up and dumped in the back of the car. Then the car went for an hour and the owner was finally taken out and locked in a shed some place in East York. What change he had in his pocket was taken, and in the car were two fur coats and an evening dress. Mr. MacDonald said he heard the couple talking about driving on to Montreal after they had deposited him in the shed, and he told them to be sure and put some oil in the car. Possibly he may recover his car but there is no guarantee of that, nor is there much hope the thieves would look well after the amount of oil.

The truth is the driver of a car does not know who he is picking up along the road. He is always taking a chance, and he does it because he wants to do a good turn. But that's why MacDonald lost his car, his change, two fur coats and an evening dress.

No More Tough Meat

Percy Women's Institute dealt with a problem at their last meeting which has been waiting for the hand of intelligence and experience for a long time—how to cook what is known as tough meat.

We notice at the meeting that dealing with tough meat was regarded as the secret of good home-making, and we are not minded to start an argument on that point. We accept the statement without reservation.

When a family is backed by a purse which has the assuring atmosphere of a Maginot Line then the tough meat problem may not be known to serious extent, but when one comes to the place where it is necessary to get a section carved off near the horns or some other remote place then the situation is altered. It may cause husband to glare at wife; may result in an exchange of words at the butcher shop. The situation has possibilities which may even seriously dampen happiness in the home.

When we find the Women's Institute walking straight into such a situation we are impressed. When we find them emerging bearing with them the cure we are delighted. Early recollection leads back to the days when what looked like tough meat was whacked with a hammer or a mallet. The Women's Institute say one good method of subduing tough meat is to run is through the meat grinder; freezing is recommended, and they also bring to the solution such household articles as vinegar, lemon or tomato juice, and long, slow cooking in moist heat stands at the top of the list.

What's more these Institute ladies cooked a Swiss steak, meat loaf and sausage loaf right on the premises. They had so definitely subdued the tough meat problem that they were content and eager to eat the victuals right at the meeting. That we consider absolute proof of sincerity. If these ladies could spare the time and travel broadly in the land we feel much happiness would arise in Canadian homes. No more tough meat! Glorious, say we.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Houses and apartments are scarce in Ottawa, and the same must be true of Helsingfors but for a different reason.

All that "encircling" talk in which Hitler used to indulge may have given the Finns the right idea of what to do with the invading Russian divisions.

United States had developed magnetic mines in 1925, and we esteem our neighbor the more when reading the added note: "It was decided not to use them."

It costs $135.75 to dress a goalkeeper in the big hockey league when he goes into action, and that is probably the reason why all the big shots take a fling at him.

The city of Hamilton issued a million dollars worth of serial debentures and sold them at a rate which costs the city 2¼ per cent. for its borrowed money. And the time is not far removed when a rate of 6 per cent. was considered quite all right.

Montreal woman has been sent to prison for a year because she accepted money on the understanding that she would supply a young lady with a wealthy husband. Had the young lady been sensible she would have waited until Leap Year arrived and then gone forth and done her own gunning.

WELCOME

¶ When I lived on Concession Ten, the countryside would worship then, the proper thing to do; they took for granted that they'd go, in summer heat or days of snow, and fill the family pew.

¶ From where I sat why I could see, the elder sitting cross from me, they always parked in there; his pew was fixed up quite a lot, so many little things they got, it had a home-like air.

¶ They'd made a cushion for the seat, a little bench to brace their feet, a goodly sort of plan; and when the summer followed spring, the lady always used to bring, a goodly palm-leaf fan.

¶ The elder used to often say, to strangers who might pass his way, the church will welcome you; he'd wring their hand with smiling face, assure them that there'd be a place, within the family pew.

¶ I mind some strangers came one day, heard what the elder had to say, and they come early too; they entered with a happy smile, and walked right straight along the aisle, sat in the elder's pew.

¶ The elder and his folk came in, and he was looking mighty grim, they had to sit elsewhere; he sort of glared at his new friend, when meetin' time come to an end—of smiles his face was bare.

The President Welcomes Press Twice A Week

THERE IS a press conference at the White House in Washington twice a week, and R. H. Markham of the Christian Science Monitor tells of attending, and of the opportunity he had to talk with the President of sections of Europe with which he is well acquainted.

WASHINGTON.—I have just had a visit with the President of the United States. You might say we had a chat together. But it was hardly that, for I think I did most of the talking. I almost made him a speech, I guess.

Not that I told him how to run America. I suppose I ought to have, but I didn't think about it. Anyway, I don't know how. I can't even balance my own budget. I didn't tell him how to run the world, either. I rather expected to, but didn't get around.

Nor did I try to get any pet idea across. And I didn't make my speech to the President about personal favors, either.

Now let me tell you what I did talk to the President of the United States about. And how I got to see him.

"Well, I just went to his press conference. He has two each week, on Tuesdays and Fridays. They seem to me ideal illustrations of democracy in practice. They are held in the White House, that is, in the President's office.

An Adventure In Democracy

The journalists assemble in a simple, comfortable waiting room furnished with a very large table and many chairs. Most of them are distinguished men. Having won a high place in the journalistic world, they write and act with much assurance. They are independent and at ease.

They are above all censorship, except what honor and propriety impose.

After a while, a door opens and we move through a little corridor into the President's office. It is a moderate-sized, modest, unimposing room. Nothing in it is designed to awe the visitor. Rather, it makes one feel at home. It is the kind of place a democratic nation's first public servant ought to work in. At any rate, I like it. It is my White House, and a suitable one.

The man we people elected to conduct our affairs is seated behind a desk. Not far from him is his private secretary. Behind him stand very alert secret service men. We journalists gather about the desk, standing. Two among us seat themselves at the President's desk.

HE SEEMS to be in good humor. He is thoughtful, friendly, alert, clever. He realizes it is a case of sharp, but fair, fencing. He makes an announcement concerning a new appointment and waits for questions or comments. He laughs heartily at some queries, frankly answers others, averts others. He is self-reliant, but not precipitous.

His secretary now and then intervenes to give factual details about certain matters. There is some "joshing" on both sides and little restraint on either. The intimacy is pervaded with dignity. Both parties play fair. It seemed to me a splendid manifestation of efficient, noble democracy. There I saw freedom of the press and honor of the press at their best.

By an intuition the journalists perceive the conference is over, somebody says: "Thank you, Mr. President," and they take their leave.

I remain and a colleague is permitted to introduce me to the President. He shows a surprising interest in and knowledge of Southeast Europe. I tell him of the people there, of the little people there. I tell the President of the United States of peasant fathers and mothers. Of bakers, tailors, moccasin makers in the distant valley of the Danube. And I tell him, with joy, that they have accepted the President of the world's greatest democracy as their champion.

A dark and ominous cloud of silence lies over Danubia. Most of the common people there are democratic in spirit, even heroically democratic. They have suffered so much from dictators of every sort that they prize freedom above all other things. The sacrifices they make for it are often beyond belief.

The need of freedom seems much nearer to their hearts than to most American hearts. But these people cannot raise their banners now. They are as in a besieged city. They are under fire; literally at the cannon's mouth, under air bombs.

Every wind that blows and every wave that vibrates brings them vociferous declarations about the utter failure of democracy. "Freedom is a corpse," shouts the Fascist. "Democracy is a fraud," roars the Nazi. "Neighborliness is a vile tool of capitalism," cries the Communist.

Absolutists are masters over Danubia. They wave flags till the the earth trembles. Their airplanes soar as vultures over all horizons. Their voices boom through the radios. Their pens screech in the papers. With the dawn of every new day and with the darkness of every care-laden night the terrible fate of Poland and Czechoslovakia is flaunted before the people of Danubia.

THE GENESIS OF WAR

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—The future of Europe after the war is being planned. As its primary cause is not generally recognized, its ultimate effects upon the nations involved must be left for the future to disclose. Men are not agreed as to the primary cause of mass poverty, unemployment, wars and other social disorders, because in a study of them they stop short of their final analysis. If this had been done, the cause of all social problems would be traced to our dishonest and vicious fiscal system, a system adopted by all governments. Equity demands that public revenue be obtained from public sources, that is to say, from ground-rents. Under our immoral fiscal system governments steal public revenue from private citizens, tacitly denying that the moral law applies to them. As they get their authority from those they govern, and the latter, admittedly, have no right to steal, how can they obtain rights from people who do not possess them?

The most heinous crime possible for men to commit against humanity is to enact laws violating the natural rights of human beings. Such laws are the primary source of all social problems, and for these problems there is no solution short of removing their cause. Of this crime all nations are guilty. It is the fruitful source of war, crime, the poverty and misery of the masses. The natural rights of human beings are the Magna Charta upon which alone just government can be established. They are natural laws of the universe, having the power to reward obedience and to punish violations.

Human rights antedate all social customs, all forms of government. Their violation crumbled into ruins six previous civilizations, the same fate from the same cause threatens ours from the present war. The issues of the war are moral. It must be fought until our evil fiscal system is swept away; until justice and equity rule the nations. Then, but not until then, peace and good-will among nations will be possible.

PUZZLED

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—There is something going on which I find it hard to understand. I run a business in this city on a fairly modest line, but that is where I make my living. I attended church service on Sunday morning, and after coming home turned on the radio to see what was on. I found there was a broadcast coming in which told me all about costume jewelery which was being sold by some firm in Toronto and it described it in detail and gave the location of the premises. That was on Sunday.

I do not wish to advertise my business on Sunday, and even if I did I would soon find myself in trouble. The papers in Toronto cannot publish on Sunday any more than they could in Peterborough. If I were to try something else like getting out bills on Sunday and delivering them to the homes I am quite certain I would be in trouble. If I were to hire a truck with a loud speaker to go around and make my announcements there would also be trouble. But I can sit at my radio and listen to advertising from Toronto on Sunday. That's what I cannot understand.

CRITICISM

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—In reply to Citizen's letter of Jan. 11, I admire and compliment him in the stand he took in defence of Dr. Murray Fraser who fought in the last Great War as a private soldier, now as an officer and gentleman he is again serving his King and country looking after the sick and wounded and the welfare of our Canadian boys who are going overseas to help to crush Nazism and Hitlerism.

This crude and bitter and uncalled for attack should have been immediately taken up by the officers and executive of the Canadian Legion, but they seem to be more interested in running a public dance hall and bingo. I may say that for the duration of the war their first duty is to see that the character and reputation of Canada's soldiers is defended. If the officers of the Canadian Legion are not in a position to take up the attack to defend our comrade Dr. Murray Fraser, I can assure them that if the ex-service men of Peterborough rally around me and give me their strong suport I will lead the attack to defend Dr. Murray Fraser or any other officer or N.C.O. or man who is fighting to crush Hitlerism. Wake up Legion, be bold, fearless, courageous, like the good old Canadian Corps of 1914-1918 and defend our sons who are now taking our place where we left off. Do not be afraid of losing the exemption of taxes on the hall by defending Dr. Fraser. In fact a public dance hall joint should not be allowed exemption of taxes from the city.

SATISFIED?

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—In his address to the annual meeting of the shareholders of the Royal Bank of Canada, President Morris W. Wilson makes this interesting statement: "If for any reason peace should come within a comparatively short time, we would soon revert without difficulty to the not unsatisfactory conditions which prevailed before the outbreak of hostilities." So the conditions which preceded the present war are described as "not unsatisfactory" by this bank president! This is a masterpiece of understatement. Are they considered as "not unsatisfactory" by the million of our people who have been on relief? Or by the several hundred thousand of unemployed youth? (One O.C. of a recruiting regiment has stated that 58 per cent of those enlisting in his units reported themselves as unemployed.) Do the thousands of young people who have had to defer marriage for an indefinite time consider that as "not unsatisfactory"? Or do the millions of workers "gainfully employed" at less than subsistence wages consider their condition as "not unsatisfactory"? Do the municipal councils who wrestle with tax rates to provide relief, and the provincial and federal ministers who have to provide relief grants-in-aid consider the situation as "not unsatisfactory"? Or is a system of taxation, including the 8 per cent sales tax, which has reduced the number of independent industries in the past half century to less than half of what they were, to be considered as "not unsatisfactory"?

Of course these questions answer themselves. But are we to believe that in the rarefied atmosphere of banking and financial circles the pre-war condition is considered satisfactory? Or was this unfortunate phrase just a slip of the pen?

HERBERT T. OWENS.

• They Want The Allies To Win

SEVENTY-FIVE per cent of the co-eds at the University of Michigan want the Allies to defeat Germany, and twenty-eight per cent are in favor of the United States entering the conflict if this should seem necessary to beat the Nazis, the poll has disclosed.

Some may be disposed to make light of the opinion of these co-eds; to suggest that it doesn't matter what they think, or that they are not sufficiently mature for sound judgment.

But it would be wrong to treat their views so lightly. In fact, who should be more interested in seeing the Nazis defeated than feminine students in democratic countries? They represent the best informed strata of women.

They see clearly why, for the protection of women and feminine rights, Nazism must be beaten. They see in Germany women reverted to a status resembling that of the Middle Ages. The women of Germany, and in other dictator-controlled countries for that matter, are regarded primarily as bearers of future soldiers; as hewers of wood and drawers of water for their men; whose only place is in the home and in silent obedience to their masters.

No one would suffer more if Hitlerism were to rule the world than these same your co-eds at the University of Michigan.

They would lose the emancipation women have gained under democracy; they would be expected to bear large families of little Nazis to carry out the ideals of Hitlerism; they would work in the fields and factories at small pay; they would have to dress as Hitler dictated; they would have their diets regimented.

There could be no co-eds such as those at the University of Michigan if the Nazis were to win. No wonder they want to see Britain and France emerge victorious.—Windsor Star.

A Bit Of Nonsense

Back!

The old soldier had been recalled to the Colours. On the first day he found himself being drilled by an officious young corporal.

"When I call your names, spring smartly to attention and answer, 'Here, corporal'," instructed the N.C.O.

"Palmer."

A click of heels and "Here, corporal."

"Banks."

"Here, corporal."

"That's the idea," approved the corporal.

"Smith."

A weary "Here" was the only reply.

"Here what?" snapped the N.C.O.

"Here we are again," sighed the old soldier.

CASE OF SIBELIUS

AT LEAST one Finn to whom Russia's brutal attack can have caused little surprise is Jean Sibelius, the famous composer, who entered his 75th year recently.

In the years before the war he made his music, and especially "Finlandia," so expressive of the spirit and aspirations of his oppressed people that the Russian Government forbade its performance.

In the early days of the revolution, when the Reds overran Finland, t new tyrants proved even more rut less than the old. They co m ed Sibelius to death, but d s contrived in time to smug h across the frontier.—News of World.

A Bible Message For Today . . . .

Then the king of Syria warred against Israel, and took counsel with his servants, saying, In such and such a place shall be my camp. And the man of God sent unto the king of Israel, saying, Beware that thou pass not such a place; for thither the Syrians are come down.

And the king of Israel sent to the place which the man of God told him and warned him of, and saved himself there, not once nor twice. Therefore the heart of the king of Syria was sore troubled for this thing, and he called his servants, and said unto them, Will ye not shew me which of us is for the king of Israel?

SUCCESSFUL SELLING

"YOU ARE a success before you start." Thus spoke a salesman. He had gone forth at his own expense to a faraway prospect—this when the man who owned the factory refused to put up the expenses for the journey. The salesman travelled several hundred miles in a motor car before encountering travel difficulties — a huge dust storm (all this happened in this month of December in the United States). Thereupon he returned to his city, put away his car and resumed his journey to Chicago in a "Zephyr" train. His prospect gave him a trial order of 1,000 dozen of his product. Then this salesman proceeded to Toronto, and called on me. I had said something about his success, and its heartening effect.

It was then that he said, "You are a success before you start."

I told the story to a Toronto salesman, who said that his practice is to defer calling on a prospect until he feels at the top of his form. He, too, feels that you have to have great power, great confidence, great assurance, before you start out, and that when you go out with power, you radiate power and success.

Successful selling is something more than routine and faithful slogging. It is a thing of the spirit. — J. C. K., in Marketing.

MORGAN FLAGGED TRAIN

WHILE at his Adirondack camp, J. P. Morgan, Sr., one day decided suddenly to return to the city, and telegraphed the president of the railroad that he wished the 10:24 stopped at Paul Smith's station.

When he arrived, five minutes before the train, the little station master, a true Adirondacks product, was industriously checking figures.

"You got your orders to flag the train this morning," Mr. Morgan stated.

"No, I didn't get no orders to flag no train this morning." The stationmaster went on scribbling.

"You mean to say you're not going to flag this train?"

"Nope, not without orders."

Mr. Morgan hurried into the station and emerged carrying a red flag. A whistle was heard up the track. Mr. Morgan flourished the flag, and the train came to a stop.

"You'll hear from this," Mr. Morgan told the stationmaster as he boarded the train.

"Don't get excited," was the reply. "The 10:24 allus stops."

Nature Cults Unnecessary Minister Holds

God does not reveal Himself as intimately through Nature as he does through human associations, and man's cry to search for Him "in God's great outdoors" in misleading, declared Rev. Richard Davidson, Ph.D., D.D., at anniversary services at Trinity Church yesterday morning.

The principal of Emmanuel College, University of Toronto, Dr. Davidson said that while God is in Nature, he does not reveal Himself there as much as he does to the careful student who observes his fellow men. By inference he scoffed at men's Nature cults as unnecessary to a true appreciation of God. And, he added, when God wished to make Himself known directly to men, he gave himself the human form of the Christ.

Dr. Davidson spoke at both morning and evening services. In the evening the congregation of St. Andrew's United Church was also present. It was his first visit to Trinity Church and Rev. G. S. Easton, pastor, had high praise for the work of Dr. Davidson, under whom he had studied. He referred to him as a great educationalist whose teaching has left an indelible mark on the minds and hearts of a vast number of theological students.

Found By Christ.

The Church, said Dr. Davidson, is the society of those who follow Christ. It was founded by Christ, but in no fashion such as a club or modern society is founded. The church was not founded just because men wanted to talk about religion now and again, he said; it had no by-laws, no constitution Instead, the Christ gathered men and women about Him who marvelled at what He had to say. Something came into their lives that had not been there before. Men learned what it was to be taken into the Holy Presence, particularly the disciples who were the nucleus of the church's workers. Jesus did things that made the establishment of the Church a thing inevitable. "He came and the Church could not be," Dr. Davidson said. He said that the Church is still the instrument of Christ, and does the things that cannot be done directly by Him. Its duty is to be, with Christ, the prophet, priest and king.

Trent School Girls Busy Making Quilts

TRENT RIVER, Jan. 15.—(ENS).—The girls of the public school held their second hour from three to four o'clock Friday afternoon for sewing patches for a quilt for the Red Cross, directed by Mrs. George Dart, president of the Trent River War Workers' Association, assisted by Miss B. G. French and the following ex-pupils—Phylis Brown, Reta Glenn, Laura Dunn.

The pupils are very much enthused over the work, trying to make enough blocks to set up two quilts for quilting when the mothers will be called upon for this work. A number of the pupils have made posters, printed them neatly as follows: 'Junior Red Cross, everyone welcome. Meets each Friday, 3 p.m., Trent River school.' Mr. R. W. Umphrey, teacher, presented one of these posters to each of those who directed the work for the pupils during the afternoon. The pupils sang one verse of 'O Canada,' closing with the Benediction repeated in unison. An organization meeting will take place Friday afternoon, Jan. 19, and a social afternoon will be held every fourth Friday.

Those of this vicinity who contributed one dollar or more to the Canadian Red Cross, national war appeal, received from the head office, Toronto, on Friday, their official acknowledgment of their donation, together with a card certifying membership of good standing, accompanied by a Red Cross button.

Bears Run Amok Scare Zurich; Both Are Shot

ZURICH, Jan. 15 — (CP). — Two black bears that went berserk yesterday afternoon kept residents of a five-mile area surrounding this village terrified afternoon and evening and until both animals were shot by a posse of four police officers that combed the area.

Children were warned not to leave their homes and adults were cautioned about going outdoors when word of the behavior of the two bears, supposedly domesticated, went the rounds.

Finally both bears, male weighing 300 pounds and the female weighing 250 pounds, were shot and killed by County Constable A. E. Jennings of Goderich, a former R.C.M.P. officer.

The male bear was tracked three and a half miles from the farm of Peter Becker, Hay Township, near Zurich, where it had broken loose from its leash in the barn. Cornered in a barnyard, it was about to climb a fence post when Constable Jennings fired the first shot, wounding it.

The maddened bear turned on the officers, Jennings, Chief Norrie of Exeter, County Constable Ferguson of Exeter, and Provincial Constable Rutherford of Goderich. It was running widly for Jennings, when he let the second charge from his sawed-off shotgun go at point blank range and brought it down. A third shot was fired to make sure it didn't rise a second time.

The female bear was still within the barn at Becker's farm, but no one dared to go near the building until it, too, was shot by Constable Jennings on request of Mr. Becker. Only then did quiet return to the jittery community.

Mr. Becker had bought the pair of bears from a resident at Baden, who had got them in Northern Ontario. They were two years old. When they were brought to Becker's place some days ago they showed signs of becoming ugly. A couple of days ago Mr. Becker's father was badly clawed by one of the animals.

State Trooper Let Off In Girl's Death

MAUCH CHUNK, Pa., Jan. 15 — (AP). — Benjamin Franklin, suspended State Police corporal, was acquitted yesterday of murder and manslaughter charges in the fatal shooting last June 5 of Joan Stevens, 14-year-old schoolgirl.

The jury of nine men and three housewives deliberated more than nine hours.

Before the trial Franklin's superior, Major William Clark, said the trooper "positively" would be reinstated with back pay if acquitted.

Franklin was released in $2,500 bail in connection with another indictment growing out of the shooting. It charges involuntary manslaughter—a misdemeanor.

The 30-year-old trooper pleaded self-defence, contending he shot the girl when she threatened him and a subordinate with what looked like an automatic, but turned out to be a toy pistol. Eight bullets pierced her body.

Franklin testified the shooting took place in a police car. The troopers were questioning the girl about a bank robbery plot about which they said she had volunteered information.

TRIO OF GAMES OPENS PUBLIC SCHOOL HOCKEY LEAGUE SEASON

Two Cage Teams Jump Ahead With Victories

Two teams jumped well ahead of the field in the Men's Senior City League when Quakers and Independents garnered their second straight victories, the former trouncing Dominions 35-17 and Independents garnered their second straight victories, the former trouncing Dominions 35-17 and Independents nosing out the Bees 23-16 in a basketball double-header at the Y.M.C.A. Saturday night.

A full game and a half behind the leaders are Dominions and C.G.E. who have each dropped one game, and bringing up the rear are the Bees who have yet to pull out a victory in two starts.

Quakers piled up an 18-9 margin in the opening period of their game with Dominions and then added another nine points to their edge in the rough last half. Both teams played hard, fast, if not brilliant basketball and both roughed it up in the final half. Quakers had a definite edge on the attack, passing and shooting to much better advantage than the losers who spoiled any attempt at a planned attack with too much shooting from far out. Quakers had but six fouls to the losers 11, Quakers making five tries and the losers but one of their chances. Joe Jakafby, Ken Gillespie and Al Murray sparked the winners with Jakafby dropping in 17 markers and the other two starring, going both ways. Harry Marsh, who played a stand-out game at guard and topped the losers with eight points was the pick of the Dominions.

The teams:

Quakers (35) — Centre, Jakafby, 17; forwards, Ward 2, Murray 6, guards, MacPherson, Thomas 1; subs, Gillespie 3, Patterson 6, Galley.

Dominions (17)—Centre, Holmes; forwards, Dundas 2, Currie; guards, Marsh 8, Grose; subs, Hammill, Weese 5, Hunton, Wolstenholme, Csumrick 2.

Started Slowly

Independents jumped into a two-point lead near the finish of the opening period after both teams had started slow, and were leading 10-8 at the rest period. Starting the final half the winners ran in several fast baskets and jumped their lead to eight points that was too much for the losers despite a rally in the dying minutes.

The losers shooting in and around the baskets was very bad as they threw away chance time after time from in close with faulty marksmanship. Independents had but eight fouls to the losers 12, Independents making three tries and the losers throwing in four. Don Sedgewick, Joe Stewart and Gord McIntyre led the winners, with Stewart leading the scorers with seven points and McIntyre and Sedgewick starring defensively. Pete McArthur was the only stand-out for the losers, scoring six points and working well defensively.

The teams:

Grove Wins, 6-4 Over High School

LAKEFIELD, Jan. 15 —(ENS) — The Grove School took a 6-4 win from the High School Saturday afternoon in the Lakefield Rink. This was the first game between the two schools this year and also the first time on ice for the Grove since returning from their holidays. Soft ice made it hard going but no penalties were handed out by Referee Smith of the Grove teaching staff. Both teams played good hockey, together, with Frener of the Grove getting 4 of their 6 goals. Loyst and Clarke fought hard for the losers. The teams:

Grove: Goal, Fairhead; defence, Carson, Foster; centre, Frener; wings, Roberts, Harris; subs, St. Remy, Potts, Morris, Langmuir.

High School: Goal, Birch; defence, Loyst, Earnshaw; centre, Clarke; wings, Skelcher, Carveth; subs, Millage, Jackman, Crowe.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

Well, we hope the farmers got their wells filled. Same as we did our rubbers. Dunno at this writing if the water has quit floating and started to freeze in the Lakefield rink or not—if there's ice, the local Colts will trek 10 miles tonight up the highway for an O.H.A. junior fixture with the up-and-atom Lakefield lads. If not, they naturally won't. Bob Strickland's knee hasn't responded lately and he'll be out of the lineup for a time, 'tis expected—a tough break for a husky youth who was playing fine hockey. An 18-year-old 170-pounder from Norwood (he's Mickey Puffer and plays for the High School and for Alex Kempt's team in the T.V.L.) will get a tryout with the Colts, maybe catching on at defence. Tonight's team, provided it plays, will have Agnew in goal; MacDonald, Parnell, Beggs and Mason on defence; and Foster, Wade, Pammett, Rochetta, Nichols, Craig and Vitarelli up front.

* * * * * *

And tomorrow p.m.—also if there is frozen aqua in the arena—the Petes journey to Belleville to play the Fliers. We said Saturday they met the Redmen this game, but—like Dagwood and his comic sandwiches—can't get everything in right all the time. It's the Fliers on Tuesday and then the Buckland band tackles the Redmen on Friday in Bella Villa. Two on the road this week and a pair of wins would give the Petes playoff ideas. But, of course, one mustn't count the chickens till the incubator is paid for. Only fray here this week is a junior joust Friday betwixt the Oshawa Bees and the local Colts—and it is for the loop leadership.

They're Gettin' Ideas

Right now the Petes are in good shape, only Jack Jopling being laid up for the time being—a bit of sinus trouble for a week or so. With plenty of spares—they've got three goalies, no less—they hope to wiggle through the season without going shorthanded. (Where's there a referee's noggin to knock twice on?) They may not even survive group playoffs but the chances are rather bright and—with no ex-senior "A" team to meet in playdowns—the gang might yet be pounding on the door of provincial finals. Which would be sweeter than the voice of Wee Bonny Baker singing: "Oh, Johnny!" Or, if your gastric juices call, sweeter than deep apple pie in warm whipped cream. Golly.

* * * * * *

But to veer off a tasty subject for a minute, the School Puck Loop swung into action at All Saints' rink on Saturday, dishing up a lot of divot-digging and some fair hockey in a trio of tilts. Central copped a 6-4 victory over King Edward, Queen Mary nosed out a narrow nod o'er Queen Alex, and Prince of Wales piled the whitewash brush to win easily 'gainst the King George kids. Max Williamson and Don Crawford, as referees, handled the melees in okay manner. Another school triple-header there next Saturday.

A Word From Kingston

A coupla little clippings from Bill Walshe's sports pillar in the Kingston Whig-Standard. Speaking of ski-ing, he says: "Peterborough started a ski club only a few years ago and used a small hill near the city at first, but now has a club house and a district not far from the city where the sport is enjoyed under ideal conditions." And down near the tail-end of his column, Bro. Walshe tosses a dig at the mighty Queen's with this line: "The prestige of Queen's seniors took a bad poke considering that they only got one goal against Trenton in the VanHorne final and Peterborough beat the Fliers 9 to 5 on Friday night." Incidentally, the VanHorne final serial is due to resume and probably wind up this week.

* * * * * *

Church Hockey League games listed for All Saints' rink tonight—and cannot be postponed except by the executive—are: Knox Bantams vs. St. Paul's at six, All Saints Juveniles vs. Trinity at seven, Park St. vs. George St. Juniors at eight, and All Saints vs. St. James Seniors at nine. And tomorrow night, the only joust on the menu is at seven betwixt All Saints and St. John's Bantams. Ice seems to be tightening up today, but stormy weather may help put a crimp in tussles on outdoor arenas. Quien sabe?

He Says Now, Says He

And from Belleville: "Proving far superior on heavy ice, the Petes skated to a 9-5 win over the Fliers on Friday in their first meeting. A capacity house witnessed the game played on soft ice, but apparently not too heavy for Frank Buckland's laddies. Play was rather even in the initial period when the homesters led 2-1, but in the middle session the Petes rapped home four counters as the birdmen notched but two — the home sextette racing rough-shod over the Fliers' in that middle session attack. The win gives the Petes their second victory in the group, having beaten the Redmen 14-4 three weeks ago. The Liftlock City squad seems to be a well-balanced team but their true test will be seen when they meet the Air Force here on Tuesday night. The Petes scored with a marked degree of consistency last game, getting two in the first, four in the middle chapter and three in the last frame." .This is high praise indeed from a chap who didn't think much of the Petes several weeks ago.

The pressure is now off the N'Yawk Rangers, following their Sunday defeat in Chicago. But they tacked up a new record Saturday eve in Toronto with their 19th straight N.H.L. win. A lot of local folk listened in to the broadcast, and two things struck us forcibly—the great goal-guarding of Kerr and the Rangers' system of attacking when they themselves were a man short. It bothered the battling Leafs plenty and eventually beat 'em. Ya gotta hand it to Les Patrick, whose brain really gives. Minus Apps and Drillon, the Leafs put up a great fight to the finish and Foster Hewitt's carrying cadences did not assume a somewhat sombre quality till well nigh the end. The Rangers were as happy as school kids the last school day when the final gong sounded.

Foxboro Wallops Ivanhoe 6-1; Zion Blanked

TWEED, Jan. 15.—(ENS).—In the first half of the double header of the Centre Hastings League, on Friday night, Jack Stewart's Foxes from Foxboro, outscored the new Ivanhoe entry to the tune of six to one. The losers playing short handed put up a real game, but displayed weakness from the blue line back.

In the first fifteen minutes of play, Grant Wright, Noel Guay, Normie Walt and Spencer each rapraped a counter past Delve in the Ivanhoe nets. The first two counters came from scrambles in front of the Ivanhoe nets, and Spencer scoring along with Walt getting the other on a pass from Gough. Grant Wright got the only count of the midle frame, Gord. Walt clicked for his second goal of the evening in the last period. Kirby was responsible for the Ivanhoe tally just before the game ended. Woods and Cooke served the only two penalties of the game.

The line-ups:

Foxboro—Goal, Guay; defence, Noel Guay, G. Walt; centre, Grant Wright; wings, Spencer and Thompson subs, L. Gough, Dafoe, Gay and F. Guay.

Ivanhoe— Goal, Delve; defence, Don Reid, A. Ray centre, Cooke; wings, Kirby and Woods; subs, Downey and Fleming.

Shutout For Glenn Ross.

The second half of the bill brought together Glenn Ross and Zion, with the former gaining their first shutout of the year, downing the Irish 4-0.

Doug Martin was responsible for the four counters with playmaker R. Pyear giving his plenty of help. The first period was without a penalty, but elbows flew high in the second and third periods and wound up in a slight tussle between Ray Dickey and Gerry Fraser. Pyear gave Martin the pass for his first goal in the first two minutes of play. He got his second unassisted at the ten minute mark and took the pass again from Pyear for his third tally. The final counter came after 16 minutes of the second period, scored again by Martin from Pyear.

The line-ups:

Foxboro— Goal, Hagerman; defence, Brown and Fraser; centre, Martin; wings, G. Pyear and R. Pyear; subs, Armstrong, MacDonald and Brooks.

Zion Hill — Goal, Gifford; defence, Bedford and Dickey; centre, Brough; wings, Ketcheson and Parker; subs, J. Ray, Ed Simms, G. Tummon.

Landis Wrecks Farm System Detroit Tigers

CHICAGO, Jan. 15.—(AP)—Commissioner Kenesaw Mountain Landis, who always has the last word in organized baseball, has spoken again, and as a result the far-flung farm system of the Detroit Tigers is a mere shambles.

Landis, in a voluminous report handed down yesterday, wrecked the intricate "chain-gang" setup of the American League club and warned all baseball executives of even more severe penalties for similar rules infractions in the future.

He charged Detroit and affiliated clubs used "fake agreements," "false certificates and club relationships," "cover-up" deals and similar practices in operation of a farm system.

The nine-months investigation brought the following action:

1—Free agency was awarded 92 players, valued at close to $500,000, including Pitchers Paul Trout, Lloyd Dietz and Steve Rachunok, Infielder Benny McCoy and Outfielder Roy Cullenbine of the Detroit club. The other 87 were scattered among 15 minor league clubs.

2—All player transfers, except on waivers, between Detroit 'including Beaumont of the Texas League and other subsidiary and affiliated clubs) and Toledo (American Association), Fort Worth (Texas League) and Lake Charles (Evangeline League), or their subsidiaries or affiliates, are prohibited for three years.

3—The Chicago Cubs were fined $1,000 for negotiating with McCoy and Cullenbine before the inquiry was completed in the interest of their future employment in case they were declared free agents. The St. Louis Browns were fined $500 for contacting McCoy under similar circumstances.

4—The free agencies granted the 92 players will not become effective until Jan. 29 and no club may contract them before that date. Detroit and the clubs operating with Detroit in these rules violations cannot contract with any of the players for three years.

5—Cleveland of the American League was ordered to pay $2,000 to Walter Carson, New Orleans Southern Association outfielder. Toledo, Detroit affiliate until recently, sent Carson to New Orleans and was paid $2,000 for his contract. Toledo, in turn secretly gave this amount to Cleveland.

6—Several other players entitled to free agency were disposed of by Detroit and farm clubs to other clubs for value. Landis ruled these players must be paid the amount received for them, either by Detroit or the club acting for Detroit, the Commissioner to settle any disputes over which club shall pay.

Champion In a New Line

Yes, this is a former world's heavyweight champion, none other than Gene Tunney, who retired 12 years ago, to spend his time newspaper editing, lecturing and reading Shakespeare. Plus dressing well enough to get himself voted one of the "best-hatted" men in the United States by a set of fashion experts. The reward for this cranial sartorial efficiency was a complete set of 12 hats of practically all possible kinds, and the ex-champ is seen after the presentation, wearing a high silk and carrying the rest.

Manager Les Patrick Is Glad It Is Over Pressure As Great As Stanley Cup Series

TORONTO, Jan. 15.—"Let me at that stuff. I need something to steady my shattered nerves," shouted Manager Lester Patrick excitedly as he grabbed a pint bottle of milk from a case in the dressing room of his New York Rangers just after Saturday night's 4-1 victory game against the Leafs.

"Wow! I feel better already," continued the silver-haired New York hockey leader as he drained the last of the milk, leaving a thin trail down the lapel of his coat in the haste to obtain the "nerve-steadier."

"I'm glad that game is over," Patrick rambled on. "The pressure has been almost as great as in a Stanley Cup title series. I'd been trying to get the boys to forget about a world record of unbeaten games, but it couldn't be done. Now we've got that new mark and we are become normal creatures again. There's been so much emphasis on our string of unbeaten games in recent weeks that we've all had the jumps.

"Say, what do you think of that new checking style we've adopted while a man short? We've been using it since early season and it's been paying dividends. We've scored six times while a man short and have had only three scored against us."

Davey Kerr, the smooth-working Ranger goalie who lives a quiet family life in Leaside in the off season, tugged wearily at his heavy armor in one corner of the dressing room. "Gosh, those Leafs are sluttons for punishment," he sighed. "I'm sure glad that game is over. With Apps and Drillon out, I didn't have any idea they could be so tough to crack. I thought they had us when Bob Davidson got into the clear for that shot at me in the last period while Horner was in the penalty box. Guess I was lucky to stop that one."

Shore Still Tough In Hockey Frays

(Canadian Press).

In case it was thought around the International-American Hockey League that Eddie Shore might turn to meeker ways of forsaking an active playing role in the major leagues to become an owner in the minors, the old battler has served warning that such is not his intention.

Shore the player with Boston Bruins was grim, fearless and always ready to rough it up with anybody in the National Hockey League. Shore the owner apparently has lost none of his zest for a fight as indicated when his Springfield Indians downed Philadelphia Ramblers 5-2 in a Saturday night contest.

Near the end of the game Bill Allum of the Ramblers was penalized for tripping and as he left the ice Shore met him. Blows followed words and finally the two had to be separated by players and police.

This was one of the developments in an Int. -Amr. week-end that saw the Indians break even in two contests. Last night Providence Reds took the measure of the Indians 2-0 in the only shutout of the week-end. New Haven Eagles trimmed Ramblers 7-2 last night after losing 6-2 Saturday night to Hershey Bears. Pittsburg Hornets took a 4-1 victory Saturday over Cleveland Barons but lost 4-1 in a return engagement last night. The seven-game week-end schedule was rounded out with Syracuse Stars thumping Indianapolis Capitals 8-3 in a Sunday night game.

Americans Ask Waivers On Three Players Smith, Boll And Romnes Scheduled To Go

NEW YORK, Jan. 15 —(CP)— Waivers have been asked on R. J. (Hooley) Smith, Frank (Buzz) Boll and Elwin (Doc) Romnes by New York Americans of the National Hockey League, it was learned today.

According to the waiver ruling, the Americans may offer the three veterans for sale to any minor league club if no other N H L team wants them at the league's waiver price of $5,000.

Smith, who turned professional in 1924 with the old Ottawa Senators, is the oldest player in point of service in the circuit. Boston Bruins and the old Montreal Maroons are other clubs with whom he has played in a 16-year career.

Toronto Maple Leafs traded both Romnes and Boll, along with Harvey Jackson, to the Americans this season for Dave (Sweeney) Schriner. Romnes, a centre, previously played with Chicago Black Hawks, while Boll broke in as a left-winger with Toronto in the season of 1932-33.

DETROIT, Jan. 15—(CP).—Plenty peeved at the way his New York Americans have been performing, Manager Red Dutton of the National Hockey League Club said today that in his opinion only about two of the team members "are earning their pay."

The caustic comment followed a 4-2 defeat by Detroit Red Wings here last night which dropped the Amerks into the league cellar. Dutton said that average of the players is "about 50, judging from the way they were outplayed."

Dutton did not say which two members were earning their pay.

Raincoats, rubber boots and eavestroughs were in order yesterday as local ski enthusiasts were subjected to some of the weirdest ski weather in a good many years. In spite of everything some seventy-five people got in a good ski between showers so to speak and snow conditions were very fair considering. That mixture of rain and snow will do the hill a world of good, covering up a lot of bare spots, stones, etc., and we look forward to next week-end with longing eyes.

The ski tow was working to perfection over the week-end with many local skiers getting their first taste of what you might term aristocratic skiing. It really is something to rave about and in no uncertain terms. Use of the tow enables one to get in actually eight times more downhill skiing in the same space of time by reducing the time for climbing the hill to one-tenth. In the case of Bethany it used to take 15 minutes to climb upon skis, whereas using the tow the time is cut to slightly over one minute. Of course, no one is under obligation to use the tow when they ski at Bethany, but then the season here is so short that most people who can handle the hill will want to take advantage of this wonderful piece of equipment.

In comparison with the service rendered the tow charge is moderate and speaking for those who have tried it out, we highly recommend it.

There is a saying that 'a word to the wise is sufficient,' which in this case leads up to a warning or call it a request if you will. We have noticed a number of skiers running Bethany hills from the top all the way without checking and in some cases they end up out of control and a bad fall results. This only applies to those who are not yet masters in the art of stemming and to them we say, "please don't do it," for your own sake and for ours as wel. There will be lots of skiing this winter and if you want to be here to enjoy it, please learn at least to stem before you try it from the top.

We have it from the treasurer that several team members of the membership campaign still have not made their returns. If the guilty finger points at you, try to make an effort to clean up any memberships you have out and make your returns to the treasurer to-day. Thanks. We need your assistance on this as all members must wear their badges from now on and they can't be mailed out until you turn your cards in. Please do it right now.

The Bethany bus is certainly a blessing. Just ask anyone who drove a car out yesterday or 'phone us up you'll hear a lot of reasons why we say, when going to Bethany, travel by the Bethany bus. It pays. A team of horses to pull you out of a snow drift comes expensive.

Turkey has decreed that travelers may take only a limited amount of jewelry from the country.

Opening Tussle Is Taken By Queen Mary

The School Hockey League opened Saturday at All Saints' Rink with three games, Queen Mary beating Queen Alex, Prince of Wales trouncing King George, and Central nosing out King Edward. Some fair hockey was shown in spots for the start of the season, only one game being of the one-sided variety.

Mortimer notched both goals in Quen Mary's 2-0 victory, getting one each in the first and second periods with some nice work. There were no particular stars in this tight tussle, all the boys playing a neat game throughout. The losers pressed hard at times during the final fray but could not overcome the two-goal lead. The teams:

Queen Alex.: Goal, Richardson; defence, Harvey, Jordan; centre, Gaskill; wings; Anderson, Revoy; subs, Doughty, Imming, Watson, Blewett, Whittaker.

Queen Mary: Goal, Gardner, defence, Dundas, Lester; centre, Mortimer; wings, McNaught, Fallen; subs., Matthews, Baton.

Referee—M. Williamson.

Too Powerful.

Prince of Wales proved too powerful for King George in their tilt having a big scoring spree to tack up a 17-0 win. They tallied nine in the first, two in the second and six in the third, flashing more speed, experience and size. Maudsley led with 11 markers, as Plunkett got three and Murduff, Darling and McDougall one each. Rayner and the two Simpsons went best for the losers. The teams:

King George: Goal, Grahame; defence, Moscrop, Andrews; centre, D. Simpson; wings, V. Simpson, Cornwell; subs., Withers, Rayner, Smith, Clarke.

Prince of Wales: Goal, Dorsett; defence, Beatty, Maudsley; centre, McDougall; wings, Hill, Murduff; subs, Plunkett, Darling, Craig.

Referee, D. T. Crawford.

Central copped a 6-4 nod over King Edward in a fine scrap, edging the southenders a bit the last two heats. It was 1-1 in the first 2-1 for Central in the second and 3-2 for them in the windup. Millen sparked the victors along by scoring five goals as Clarke got the other; for King Edward, McGregor got two and Harris and Woodcock one each. Millen, McGregor, Harris and Clarke played standout games in a lively tussle. The teams:

Central: Goal, Griffin; defence, Marshall, Parr; centre, Millen; wings, Clarke, Young; subs, Howard, Drummond, Logan, Currie.

King Edward: Goal, Welch; defence, McGregor, Harris; centre, Langton; wings, Foster, Byers; subs, Dugan, Estlick, Woodcock, Cox, Post.

Referee, M. Williamson.

Eagles Win Game Over The Canucks

Eagles defeated Canucks in minor Southend Hockey League game recently at the Sacred Heart rink, 9 to 2. They had a 3-1 edge in the first and led 7-2 to start the third. Smith notched five, Ralph two, LaPlante and Berardi one each for the winners; while Wilford and Peters scored for the losers. Outstanding players were Smith, LaPlante, Berardi, Peters and Jones. It was a slow, rather rough and one-sided fray with a free-for-all at one stage. The teams:

Canucks: Goal, LaPlante; defence, Keating, Williams; centre, Phillips; wings, Jones, Martell; subs, Wilford, Richie.

CHICAGO BLACK HAWKS STOP RANGERS AT NINETEEN GAMES

Toronto Leafs Are Smothered When They Crack In Third To Give New Yorkers 4-1 Win

By JACK CALDER
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

When everyone thought a railway wreck might be the formula, a way was found to stop New York Rangers' break-neck dash through the National Hockey League schedule.

The Rangers set a league record of 19 straight games without defeat when they ran over the Maple Leafs 4-1 before 14,184 paying customers at Toronto Saturday.

Then the Black Hawks, who should have been a stepping stone on the way to greater things, halted the Rangers 2-1 before 15,884 fans at Chicago last night through the amazing goaltending of Paul Goodman, the 29-year-old rookie who found his big-league boots all of a sudden. In the other weekend games Boston defeated Canadiens 4-2 and Americans trounced Detroit 1-0.

So, until a better one comes along, the idea for tripping Lester Patrick's smooth young men of Manhattan seems to be one of throwing a team of fighting fiends at them one night and a miracle-worker the next. The Rangers didn't meet a more determined band all through their success streak than the Leafs of Saturday or a hotter goaltender than the Goodman of Sunday.

Broke Out In Third

Pinned deep in their territory much of the game, the Broadway Blueshirts broke out typically in the third period at Toronto when Rookie Kilby Macdonald sprinted the length of the ice with seven minutes of play and scored the goal that gave his team a 2-1 advantage. The Leafs' determination backfired after Toronto pressed through most of the first period but Bryan Hextall and Phil Watson skated away after 17 minutes, Hextall scoring on the rebound of Watson's shot from the side. Again the Leafs bore down in the second, to score finally when Regis (Pep) Kelly hammered Sweeney Schriner's rebound past Dave Kerr as the goalie lay on the ice.

Kerr fought off the Leafs until Macdonald's pretty goal, and Toronto's last chance went when Bingo Kampman hit a goalpost while Buzz Patrick of the Rangers served a penalty. Immediately the New York team forced a face-off and again Watson and Hextall were off, Watson scoring after a passing bout. Another breakaway brought the final goal, scored by Neil Colville with Alex Shibicky's aid.

Refusing to let down after attaining the new mark, the Rangers fought like mad before the record Chicago crowd. George Allen, a former Ranger, scored the first-period goal that put the Hawks ahead to stay and as the battle grew more bitter a free-for-all fight broke out in the second. Through it all Goodman was superlative.

Hawks Lead 2-0 In Third

Cully Dahlstrom made the lead 2-0 after seven minutes of the third and the Ranger fire grew more intense. Finally it brought a goal through Al Pike on Clint Smith's rebound with three minutes to play. But Smith had to get Goodman out of the net before the score and the Rangers couldn't catch him in that predicament again.

The actual net result of it all for the Rangers was a first-place tie with Boston, for the Bruins kept pace last night by trimming Montreal Canadiens 4-2 before 10,000 lookers-on at Boston. Toronto was left four points behind the co-leaders and 10 points ahead of the fourth-place Chicago club.

Robert (Red) Hamill, who has come into his own after three years of shifting between the Bruins and their farms, scored two of three Boston goals in the final period. The home team took a lead on Bill Cowley's goal late in the first but Louis Trudel tied the count in the second to set the stage for Hamill's burst.

The redhead put his club ahead to stay after three minutes of the third. After Woody Dumart had scored on a penalty shot, Hamill raised the count to 4-1 as Cowley registered his fourth scoring point of the night on an assist. Bill Summerhill fired the last Canadien goal 21 second from the finish.

Old Nels Stewart, who has the habit, punched the only goal of a dull match to give the Americans a 1-0 verdict over Detroit Red Wings at New York. The result left the two teams tied for sixth and last position.

Must Pay Leaf Players

TORONTO, Jan. 15 — His investigation too late to grant them the free agency they deserved, Judge Landis yesterday announced that two Maple Leafs and two former Leafs will receive reparation from Detroit Tigers. Landis, during his investigation of the Detroit farm system, discovered that Irving Jack Burns, Frank Reiber, Emile (Mickey) De Jonghe and Ray Fritz were victims of the Tigers cover-up activities. Landis ruled that Detroit must pay $7,500 to Burns; $5,000 to Reiber; $4,750 to De Jonghe, and $1,500 to Fritz. The sums represent what he figures the players would have been able to command had they been granted free agency.

Landis' Ruling Will Cost Tigers $500,000

DETROIT, Jan. 15 — (AP) —High officials of Detroit Tigers, although they had expected some ruling by Commissioner K. M. Landis on their minor league baseball operations, were shaken today by the weight of the blow.

Officials statements were withheld pending a conference tomorrow among Vice-President Walter O. Briggs, jr., General Manager Jack Zeller and others. Zeller who is in charge of the Tiger farm system, was en route from his home in Fort Worth, Tex. President Walter O. Briggs is vacationing in Miami Beach Fla.

Baseball men were generally agreed, that the Landis ruling had cut adrift Tiger talent valued in excess of $500,000. It was also considered the biggest free agency ruling of its kind in major league history.

A. J. (Wish) Egan, scout, signed many of the players. He said tonight it would take the Tigers many years to rebuild their farm system.

Streamlined Rangers Set New Professional Hockey Record

By defeating Toronto Maple Leafs on Saturday night the New York Rangers surpassed the mark set by the Montreal Canadiens in 1927-28 with not suffering a loss in the last 19 games. In the 26 games played by the New Yorkers this season they have won 15, lost 4 and tied 7. Their record was broken when they met defeat at hands of Hawks on Sunday night. Here are just a few of the players responsible for the great play of the team this year. CENTREPIECE is Davie Kerr, year in and year out as consistent a net-minder as there is in the game, whose average of goals-against is the best in the league this season. He appears to be headed for the Vezina trophy and all all-star teams. On each side of Dave are, LEFT, Art Coulter, ace of the defence staff, and RIGHT, Lyn Patrick, son of Lester, who was slow getting under way, but is rapping in goals with great frequency now. LOWER CENTRE is Babe Pratt, who holds down a defence post beside Ott Heller.

Venzke Spurts To Close Win

BOSTON, Jan. 15 — (AP) —After trailing a six-man field for seven of the ten laps, Gene Venzke of New York came to life Saturday night to gain a one-foot triumph over Glenn Cunningham in a 4:31.1 mile before a crowd of 10,000 at the Boston Garden.

The Kansan's defeat was his first on Boston boards in nine years' campaigning. Cunningham finished about four yards ahead of Chuck Fenske, former Wisconsin star, who set the pace until Venzke took over.

Don Lash, who holds the 8:58 two-mile indoor record, gained a one-yard victory in his specialty over Tommy Deckard, his outstanding rival. Lash's time was 9:15.4.

The fourth indoor record holder on the meet's entry list, little Jimmy Herbert of New York University, breezed to a two-yard victory over Howie Borck of New York in the 600 special, which was raced in 1:13.8.

Charlie Beetham of New York uncorked a terrific spurt that carried him to a three-yard victory over Indianas Campbell Kane in the half-mile. Beetham broke the tape in 1:56.5.

Nels Stewart and Earl Robertson, Americans, combined to defeat Detroit Red Wings 1-0 on the former's goal and the latter's fourth shutout of the season.

Red Hamill, Boston, whipped home two goals to lead Bruins to a 4-2 victory over Montreal Canadiens.

Stirling Whips Tweed School

TWEED, Jan. 15—(ENS)—In the first game of the Interscholastic series, Tweed High School suffered a trouncing from the Stirling High School team to the tune of 7-4.

After four minutes of play in the first period, Don Francis tallied for Stirling on a pass from McGee. Trudeau scored for Tweed five minues later, and within another minute the Tweed boys tallied their second goal when Luffman drove the puck into the nets.

In the second period McGee tied the count on a solo rush, and Luffman secured his second tally. Doyle put the Garnet and Greys in the lead on a shot from centre ice. Rowan Walker tallied Stirling's third tally to end the period with the visitors leading 4-3.

In the final period Stirling turned on the heat and showered the Tweed net from every angle. Pyear tied the score on a pass from Walker who later put the Stirlingites in the lead on a solo effort. Pyear got his second tally from a pass by J. Walker and Rowan. Walker clicked for the final goal of the game, which ended 7-4 for Stirling. Luffman was the most effective for the Tweed team, while R. Walker starred for the Stirling team. Teams:

International Golf Prospects Are None Too Bright For 1940

By HAROLD PIERCE
(President, United States Golf Association.)

NEW YORK, Jan. 15 — (AP). — Golf's prospects for the next 12 months appear to be bright enough, if looked at from the standpoint of the United States alone.

However, nations to-day, through the various sources of communication, are so close that the tragic events occurring elsewhere are bound to affect golfing activities in other lands.

A Curtis Cup match scheduled abroad for next spring, between teams of British and United States women, has been cancelled. There is serious doubt whether Britain's leading men amateurs will come here for a Walker Cup match, scheduled for the St. Paul Town and Country Club on August 30-31.

Forgetting, if we can, the international situation, we can look forward to what should be a year of continued progress for golf here. The U.S.G.A.'s four championships are on a coast-to-coast schedule—the amateur at Mamaroneck, N.Y., the women's in Del Monte, Calif., the open in Cleveland, and the Public Links in Detroit.

The year may bring legislation that will limit the distance a golf ball may travel. The Golf Association, at considerable cost and with the assistance of the Armour Institute in Chicago, has built a machine which now is being perfected. It is hoped this machine will develop a practical way of testing the performance of golf balls, so that a uniform standard can be achieved.

It is hoped also to limit the scoring of iron clubs, so that it will not be possible to put undue "cut" or backspin on a ball. By its supervision in these and other directions, the Association aims to continue the progress of the game.

Drillon Ready To Play

TORONTO, Jan. 15. — Manager Connie Smythe of the Toronto Maple Leafs announced Sunday night that Gordon Drillon, crippled right-wing ace of the club, would resume practice with his teammates at the Gardens this morning. He has been on the shelf since a week ago Saturday with a skate wound in his foot. Whether he will get back into action in the club's next engagement, against Detroit Red Wings here Thursday or Americans here Saturday, depends on how he gets along in the drills in the next three days.

Trent River Takes Havelock By 4-2 Margin

TRENT RIVER, Jan. 15 (ENS). The opening hockey game at Trent River Rink took place on Saturday, when the Havelock Trail Rangers and Trent River School team tangled resulting in a 4-2 win for the home team. The game was well played on a slow sheet of ice. Trent River scored twice in the first period. Each team scored single goals in the two final periods. For the Havelock team the Pollock boys and Hamilton looked good, while Doug Carnrite, who scored three of the Trent River goals, was the individual star. The line-ups:

Havelock Trail Rangers — Goal, D. Green; defence, Nobes and Chuck Pollock; wings, Claude Pollock and Reg. Kelsh; centre, A. Bannon; subs., Ralph Young, Hunter, Whitney, Nobes.

Trent River — Goal, Jack Brown; defence, James Umphrey, Roy Brownsell; centre, D. Carnrite; wings, G. Carnrite, Billie Pollock; subs., Chaplin, Wight, Curry.

Referee—James Brown.

Remember When—

Babe Ruth, Sultan of Swat, took a $17,000 salary cut when he signed a $35,000 contract for a season's play with the New York Yankees six years ago to-day. Including that $35,000, the Babe's aggregate salary from the Yanks over a 15-year period was $842,000.

Mrs. J. Whiteside Passes 94 Mark

LINDSAY, Jan. 15—(ENS).—Mrs. J. L. Whiteside, Wellington street, Lindsay, mother of Mrs. Albert Matthews, wife of Ontario's Lieutenant-Governor, celebrated her 94th birthday here Saturday. Mrs. Matthews visited her mother on Sunday, being unable to come to Lindsay on Saturday.

Mrs. Whiteside has lived here for 51 years and has been a pillar of the Baptist Church for many years. She was long active in W.C.T.U. work and in the Children's Aid Society.

Born in England, Mrs. Whiteside moved to Canada with her parents when she was nine years of age. The family moved to Mariposa Township where Mrs. Whiteside was raised. She was educated in the Oakwood High School and Hamilton Ladies' College. Following her graduation from the latter institution, she taught school in Mariposa.

In 1871 she married and moved to Toronto. Upon the death of her husband, 51 years ago, she moved to Lindsay, where she has resided since.

Mrs. Whiteside is believed to be the oldest living lady in Lindsay.

H. V. Mercer, local druggist, was re-elected head of the Lindsay Board of Health on Friday. Other members of the Board are: Newton Smale, W. E. Baker, a new member; Mayor Claxton and Dr. H. J. Gleason, M.O.H.

Philip Taylor, Toronto garageman, was fined $10 and costs here Friday on a charge of failing to give his name and address at the scene of an accident on December 16. Accused claimed that the other man in the accident, Elwood Stroud, Mariposa Township, refused to give his name and address, too.

Police of Lindsay were baffled by one angle of a series of thefts from local homes following the arrest of 18-year-old Donald Gregory until the youth enlightened them. The majority of thefts, women's wearing apparel of various kinds was stolen and police wondered what use accused would have with such booty.

According to police officials, the young man explained he got a "kick" out of wearing ladies' clothing.

Police also reported that they had narrowed down their list of suspects to three when Constable Jack Nesbitt, in plain clothes, followed the accused for several days. The officer declared he saw accused coming from a shed on Victoria avenue and investigation revealed a quantity of stolen goods in the building. Accused was arrested immediately this discoverey was made.

expected to be clarified by a move from some quarter.

Cold In France.

The visitors tasted some of France's coldest weather at a tank exercise staged over farmland area just like the terrain of the Canadian prairies. Brigadier G. R. Pearkes, a Westerner, after an hour in the stinging wind from the north, ventured: "I have been pretty cold winging around a corner of Portage and main in Winnipeg but it was nothing like this."

In the same weather the divisional commander strode out for a survey of the front line fortifications, without his great coat, but with a muffler carefully wrapped around his neck.

Brigadier J. C. Stewart marvelled as he watched, but explained that the English live in houses so cold that it is necessary to disrobe partially when going out.

Great interest was expressed in all ranks at unconfirmed reports of German troops movements on the Netherlands and Belgian borders. In view of the fact that newspapers from London were two days late the nightly B.B.C. newscasts were listened to closely by all messes. All were ready for action, but did not expect it before spring.

Sees Vimy Memorial.

During the course of the visit General McNaughton drove over to Canada's towering war memorial at Vimy Ridge. He also saw the nearby artillery memorial at Thelus Corners built in the field by the Royal Artillery in memory of officers and men of the Canadian corps artillery killed during the Vimy operations in April, 1917. It is a blunt stone pyramid, surmounted by a concrete cross.

General McNaughton said he was "glad to find the artillery memorial in such fine shape." Naturally I was especially interested as the brass plate around the monument was carried around army headquarters while being engraved with tools made from old files."

In the latter part of the first Great War General McNaughton commanded the Canadian corps heavy artillery.

is on its toes."

Several newspapers express the view the latest phase of Belgian preparedness would be revoked shortly.

It was confirmed that the Belgian premier, Hubert Pierlot, conferred Saturday night with his foreign minister Paul Henri Spaak, and received foreign diplomats for exchanges of information. A full cabinet meeting has been called for today.

Action In Brussels

Belgium set about the task of stepping up her defences. Throughout Sunday, soldier-laden trucks rolled through Brussels toward the frontier, while messengers summoned officers and men from their homes, churches, cafe and theatres.

The Brussels government put into force "phase d" of her mobilization plan, filling in the ranks of skeleton units with such specialists as machine-gunners, artillerymen and tank drivers.

"The final step for complete mobilization would be enforcement of "phase e"—likely only in event of an actual outbreak of hostilities.

Belgian officials would not disclose the number of men under arms, but under "phase d" Belgium considers herself on practically a war footing. As though to clear the ground for any eventuality, an exodus of civilians from border provinces was started.

Phases a, b and c of Belgium's mobilization program were effected last September after Great Britain and France went to war with Germany.

Military observers estimated Belgium's week-end defence moves brought her strength in men under arms to about 600,000 while The Netherlands' cancellation of periodic leaves for her army, navy and air force, officials said, will fill out her fighting force to 400,000 within two days. It was estimated 50,000 had been on leave.

(The Lowlands' defence measures were characterized in Berlin as "another fear epidemic based on false reports.")

Some military experts suggested the reported German concentrations might be merely a bluff to keep the Allies from sending aid to Finland, but, they added, the low countries could not afford to take chances on that.

"After consideration of the international situation, both politically and militarily, the government decided it is better to have our men together," one official explained.

'Nobody can tell what may happen on the western front."

Nazi Action In Few Days ?

Informed sources at Brussels said Belgian secret service reports inspired the hurried defence measures and one experienced observer added that German troops might move within the next few days.

A reliable informant said German aerial operations a week ago included the photographing of important Belgium industrial and defence areas. A German airman who landed in Belgium with motor trouble was said to have carried such photographs.

Belgian radio stations ceased broadcasting weather reports on the grounds that such information would be available to an enemy and joined in helping to call reservists to the colors.

Five hundred refugees from three border provinces arrived at Brussels by train, the first to reach the capital in the civilian exodus from an area expected to bear the brunt of any attack.

The phase "D" order putting Belgium in what was termed officially a "state of active defence" followed by only a few hours a hasty cancellation of leaves for army regulars, ordered Saturday night.

Belgians believe that a German attack on their country would not be as successful as the invasion of 1914. Although they would be vastly outnumbered, Belgian forces are said to be able to hold off any invasion for weeks behind the fortifications at Liege, the Albert canal and defences in the northeast.

and guesswork is only playing his game."

Commenting on preparations of the neutrals, the Daily Mail said:

"One suggestion is that these increased precautions are due to friendly, unofficial warnings from Italy of a coming German attack. Neutral countries in the unhappy situation of being Germany's neighbors do not lack warnings.'

Warning to Germany.

It was suggested in unofficial quarters that Britain's suspension of Army leaves might be a warning to Germany of her sympathy with Belgium and the Netherlands.

It was not known whether the order affected the leaves of the Royal Air Force, which has just completed a week of unusual activity in chasing enemy planes from the East Coast and reaching far over Germany in its own survey flights.

Another scouting sortie by British fliers was indicated last night when the Bremen radio station went silent, as on previous occasions when enemy planes were sighted.

In Paris, French semi-official sources declared there was no reason to confirm "that a German offensive is on the point of being unleashed, and that it is only a question of days or hours."

A semi-official statement said the Germans had made "certain regroupings' 'along the Belgian and Netherland frontiers over the week-end and asked:

"Are we on the eve of a new manoeuvre of diplomatic-military intimidation directed against the Western neutrals?"

The statement added:

"Nothing permits us to affirm the imminence of it, but everything allows us to fear it."

policy of neutrality. Such a position by the Governments of Sweden and Norway conceals danger.

"No Resistance to Outsiders."

"It testifies to the fact that the Governments of Sweden and Norway do not offer proper resistance to the influence of those powers which strive to involve Sweden and Norway in war against the U. S. S. R."

The Soviet minister to Sweden made his emphatic representations to Swedish Foreign Minister Christian Gunther, Jan. 5, and a protest in similar language was made the same day in Norway. Tass said Norway replied the next day, and Sweden answered January 10.

Sweden wasw arned that aid for Finland and attacks on Russia in the Swedish press "may lead to undesirable complications."

The Russian envoy made three points: 1. That the "inexcusable campaign" in the Swedish press could be explained only "if Sweden were in a state of war with the U.S.S.R., or preparing for a state of war"; 2, that "thousands' 'of "volunteers" for Finland had been enlisted at 47 Bureaux under "protection of Swedish authorities; 3, That Sweden was supplying arms directly to Finland and permitting transit of war material of every description" for the Finns.

The Russian representation to Norway charged that the Norwegian press and quarters "closely connected with the government" had been carrying on an "unrestricted campaign against the Soviet Union which cannot but cause harm and complications" to Russo-Norwegian relations.

Residents of Kallaks, it was said at Stockholm, reported that one bomb struck land and eight others hit ice just off-shore about noon. Prince Gustaf Adolf, son of the Norwegian Crown Prince, was said to have been shown bomb fragments bearing Russian letters.

The Liberal Stockholm newspaper, Dagena Nyheter, observed that many bombs have falled on neutral countries during the war, and that the reported Russian raid on the far side of the Gulf of Finland may have been a mistake.

But if it was, the newspaper added, it was a "big mistake" and "hardly flattering to the reputation of the Russian Air Force."

Look For More Arms

While the store of "revolutionary" arms here was small, Hoover bombs might be found elsewhere, indicated many more guns and

He said elaborate plans had been made for the theft of armament for revolutionary use from National Guard (militia) arsenals. In fact, six of those under arrest were listed as members of the New York National Guard, one as a member of the Naval Reserve and another as belonging to the Marine Reserve.

One was described as a member of the German-American Bund, whose fuehrer, Fritz Kuhn, is in Sing Sing Prison for stealing bund funds.

"The group depended upon terrorism and ultimate demoralization of communities to attain their objective," Hoover said. "First of all they aimed at terrorization of Jews —all Jews. At the same time, according to their plans, they were to seize communications, transportation systems, customs and post-offices."

He said the leaders of the alleged conspiracy were John F. Cassidy, Brooklyn head of the "Christian Front," and William Gerald Bishop, leaders of a "sports club" known as the "Country Gentlemen," secretly operating behind the front.

Cassidy, he said, was saluted Nazi-wise and addressed by the followers as "fuehrer."

Hoover disclosed that much of the evidence against the alleged conspiracy was obtained with long-range cameras operated by government agents from vantage points around the training camp of the organization at Narrowsburg, about 100 miles upstate in New York.

There, he said, the men were drilled in the use of arms and the making of bombs.

The Federal Bureau pursued the investigation with much seriousness, Mayor Fiorella Laguardia of New York, scoffed at the damage that might be wrought by the alleged revolutionaries.

"I don't think the United States government is in much danger from 13 guys like these," he said.

Cassidy has professed himself to be a follower of principles outlined by Reverend Charles Coughlin, but the Michigan radio priest last night, "roundly disavowed" any connection with the "Christian Front" whose members are under arrest.

Father Coughlin said he had advocated a "real Christian Front to oppose these fakers."

Welfare Labors Must Continue

HALIFAX, Jan. 15—(CP).—Miss Charlotte Whitton, executive director of the Canadian Welfare Council, last night urged continuation of welfare work in Canada despite the burden of the nation's war effort.

"The costs of waging war have to be found," she said, in an address to the Canadian Club, "but war means extra burdens and sacrifice for all. It must not be carried on at the cost of dwellers on the fringe of need, of dependent women and children, of the aged, infirm and broken.

"Neither public authority nor private citizens can be party to the practice of patriotism at the cost of these, without the gravest danger of such buckling of the home front as to imperil our front line effort."

buy equipment for the army, ships for the navy, planes for the air force. Your money, in fact, is essential to enable our men to fight and to fight in a way worthy of Canadians."

Cash subscriptions definitely will be limited to $200,000,000, the finance minister said but he promised that the small investor would get the preference in allotments.

Even if there is over-subscription the books will remain open to allow time for the small investors to get their applications on record, Col. Ralston told newspapermen.

Mr. Lapointe, speaking in French immediately after the finance minister, said "the government wishes to enlist the cooperation of everyone. This great economic drive must not be the effort of a small minority, but the offensive of a whole nation against the powers of destruction."

Canada A Real Prize

He said that the defeat of the democracies would be followed by a wave of despotism. "Let us realize that Canada, because of her natural resources, her modern economic machinery, her vast uninhabited territories would be an ideal conquest for a victorious enemy, a demographic reservoir for its over populated lands, a stepping stone for its military dream of hegemony on the American continent."

Canada is at war to safeguard her freedom, Mr. Lapointe said, to defend it with determination as the soldier fights to hold every single inch of his native land. "We fight Hitlerism and Communism because we do hate, from the bottom of our hearts, their brutal and destructive philosophy."

The government has energetically refused to consider inflation to finance the war, he continued, so it is asking $200,000,000 from the savings of the people and "it is in many respects an act of profitable patriotism to subscribe to the loan."

Col. Ralston emphasized the value of the subscription of individual citizens in modest circumstances which he said was just as important as subscriptions of large financial institutions.

An optimistic industrial outlook was outlined by the finance minister who said that United Kingdom purchases during the first year of the war probably will be between $400,000,000 and $500,000,000. This would be an increase of from $60,000,000 to $160,000,000 compared to 1938 figures.

"Already in this war Canada's activities have wonderfully helped and encouraged our allies," the Finance Minister said, "and have been correspondingly disheartening to our enemies.

"I look confidently to the day, and, unless all signs fail, it isn't far off, when, because of your support, Canada will be able to send more good news to our allies and more bad news to our enemies, in the form of an announcement that Canada's first war loan has been an unqualified success.

"I ask every loyal man and woman from coast to coast to join in whole-hearted and unsparing effort to make that success speedy and overwhelmingly decisive. The watchword is: Make your dollars fight for freedom."

Guarantee of $100,000.

Holmes told Red Cross officials a guarantee of $100,000 would be posted for the Society's war work, but they decided "after due consideration" and "notwithstanding the tempting terms" to recommend rejection of the offer.

They concluded that if they agreed to sponsor the visit "The Red Cross would in a sense be exhibitors of these children," a situation which the officials considered not consistent with traditions of the Canadian people or of the society.

(At Ottawa Henri St. Jacques, lawyer for Olive Dionne, father of the Quints, indicated there was no possibility now that the New York offer will be accepted. He said friends of Mr. Dionne know he always has been against public showings of his daughters "at home or any other place."

(At North Bay, Judge J. A. Valin, chairman of the Guardian Board commented: "That takes care of that. I hope we don't hear any more about World Fair offers.")

Holmes disclosed details of the proposal Saturday in a letter to Keith Munro, Quints business manager, in which he said "every conceivable provision for the health, safety and comfort of the children" would be made.

The offer was similar to one made by fair officials last winter except that the Red Cross would be the beneficiary under the present proposal instead of the Quints.

(At North Bay, Munro said that normally the Board of Guardians would not meet until early February but that he might arrange a special meeting to consider the proposal.

(Recent reports that the Quints might visit the Fair revealed opposition from their physician, Dr. Allan Roy Dafoe).

Move Is Made To Oust Woman Trustee

The right of Mrs. Ernest Ainslie, King George Street, to be a trustee of two township schools, Confederation and May's, comprising school section No. 2, North Monaghan, has been questioned by several ratepayers who are bringing an action before Judge Smoke, Tuesday, January 23, to nullify her election.

"Possibly, some persons in the township don't want a woman on the school board," Mrs. Ainslie remarked to the Examiner today in confirming the news of the forthcoming enquiry into the validity of her election as the first woman trustee of the largest township school section in the county.

It is understood that the action to oust the lady from the school board is based on the ground that she is not listed in the assessment roll as a property owner. The Examiner was informed that ownership of property is credited to Mr. Ainslie.

Apparently, this case has more involutions than might be expected from a simple action to determine the right of Mrs. Ainslie's trusteeship. There is said to be a difference in the requirement of property qualifications of municipal candidates in rural and urban areas. Tenants may be condidates for city school boards, but in the townships, according to the Examiner's information, ownership of property is prerequisite.

It is also asserted that a rural property owner's right to be a school trustee, assuming election, extends by a concession of the government through his family. That is, if he is a property owner, his qualification to be a candidate are shared equally by his wife, sons and daughters of voting age.

Hence, if No. 2 school section is part of a rural municipality, then it would seem that Mrs. Ainslie's position as a school trustee could not be attacked. At least, that is one of the points brought up by a North Monaghan ratepayer who is is interested in this action.

Is the section of the township south of Exhibition Park a rural or urban area? Presumably it is rural in so far as it is part of the township of North Managhan.

If it is rural, then neither of the other two trustees of S.S. No. 2 can qualify as owners of at least twenty acres of land.

These are some of the questions which North Monaghan ratepayers are asking since this movement to upset Mrs. Ainslie got under way. The new trustee was elected for three years at the section's nominations, replacing Arthur Pitchford who had been a member for three years.

Mrs. Ainslie is secretary of the North Monaghan Ratepayers' Association, and it was stated that she was projected as a candidate for school trustee with the support of that body as a "means of indicating disapproval of the board."

Central School Anniversary

Arrangements are being made for a fitting celebration of the 80th anniversary of the opening of the Central school, the city's oldest public school. The building was first in use in January, 1860.

It is planned to stage a reproduction of the handing over of the school by the building committee of 80 years ago and Roland Denne and other well known former pupils of the Central school will participate in that part of the program. There will be an old-time class room, too. All former teachers still living have been invited to be present and it is desired to have as many of the older pupils of Central as possible attend. It has not been possible to get into touch with them all personally but they are most cordially invited to re-visit the old school.

Braund Appeal Is Dismissed By Judge Smoke

John T. Braund's appeal against the Court of Revision's valuation of his property over the creek on the north side of Charlotte street has been dismissed without costs by Judge Smoke.

The 1940 assessment of the land, exclusive of buildings, as determined by W. J. Henry, assessor, was $10,515. Mr. Braund first appealed to the Court of Revision, and was allowed a reduction to $8,470.

Judge Smoke in his finding asserts that if he had to value the property on which Mr. Braund erected a new store and office building he would have fixed the value at $8,662.50.

"Since the Municipal Corporation has not appealed from the decision of the Court of Revision it appears necessary for me to determine only whether the valuation as fixed by the Court of Revision is too high at $8,470," Judge Smoke observed. Having fixed the valuation at $8,662.50 I am unable to say that the figure set by the Court of Revision is too high. I would accordingly dismiss the appeal, but without costs.

Judge Smoke declared that he was unable to agree with appellant's contention that he should be given a substantial concession on the creek frontage.

Extracts From Judgment

The following are several extracts from the judgment: "The assessor in arriving at his assessment fixes the value of the land on the basis of $220 a foot frontage of 29 feet 2 inches, which he took as the amount of the frontage of the two cellars, and on the basis of $177 per foot for that part within which the creek is now confined.

From the standpoint of equality of assessment there appears to be little ground for complaint as to the rate $220 a foot for the land occupied by the cellars. Adjoining lands to the east and from George street to the easterly limit of the property in question are assessed from $50 per foot higher at George street to $20 per foot higher for the property immediately adjoining this property on the east. Lot Number 4, which is the property to the west of the property in question, is assessed at $200 per foot frontage.

Both Mr. Storey and Mr. Nugent called on behalf of the appellant, place the value of the lots, if they had been good lots, at $200 per foot.

I am unable to see why lands included in the cellars should not be considered good land, and as such worth at least the value which these two gentlemen would place upon the land for good land.

Unable To Agree

They further state that by reason of the fact that the creek runs through the property the value of the whole property should be reduced by 60 per cent of its value.

With this I am unable to agree. Having considered the use to which the lands have been put I conclude that that portion of the land contained within the cellars is worth at least $200 a foot, and in fact that the assessor was justified in placing the value thereof at $220 per foot for the land lying east of the creek.

I am further of the opinion that that portion of the land which lies to the west of the creek is worth $200 per foot frontage, and I would so value it as being more adaptable to use in conjunction with the lands to the west of the creek which are assessed and valued by the assessor at $200 per foot.

In my opinion that portion of the lands on which the creek runs should be considered separately so as to arrive at its true valuation.

The Assessor says that in arriving at his valuation he placed the value of this land at $177 per foot, which was a reduction of 20 per cent of the value of the land on the basis of $220 per foot had the creek not been there. Certainly in making his allowance of 20 per cent he was not equally and equitably assessing this land on the same basis on which he assessed similar lands on the opposite side of the street.

That part of the lands on the south side of the street to the east of the creek is valued on the basis of $105.50 per foot frontage, while that to the west is on the basis of $100 per foot frontage. The land over which the creek runs is assessed at $55.50 per foot frontage. Assuming that the value of the land on the south side of the street is approximately one-half that on the north side of the street, I am unable to say that the assessment as made by the assessor of the lands on the north side of the street over which the creek passes is assessed upon an equitable and rateable basis. I am unable to see any justification for assessing the lands on the south side of the street over which the creek passes at approximately 50 per cent of the value of the abutting land, and at the same time placing a value of the lands on the north side of the street over which the same creek passes at 80 per cent of the value of the abutting land. Upon the basis of the assessment on the south side of the street, this part of the land to be equally and equitably assessed should not be valued at more than $110 per foot frontage."

Judge Smoke sets out his own analysis of constituent value in the Braund property, including the creek and its abutting land, naming a total of $8,662.50 as compared with the $8,470 allowed by the Court of Revision.

"Crippled" Transient Asks Man For A Meal But On Leaving Restaurant Forgets Crutches

The foreman of the erection of the radio beam station a few miles north-west of Stirling had an odd experience a short time ago, according to the architect of the structure. A tramp with crutches approached the foreman and requested the price of a meal. The appearance of the man did not belie the need of a square meal, and the foreman took him to a nearby restaurant. When the stranger had finished eating, and the foreman paid the bill, the transient thanked him, and they both walked toward the door. A voice hailed them as they were going outside. It was the waiter calling: "Hey, you forgot your crutches; you may need them again." An embarrassed grin on the face of the transient told its own story, and the foreman had a quiet chuckle to himself, but no word of the incident passed between them.

In such fashion the register is kept up to date at all times, and names of persons now in employment or who have left the district are crossed off.

GOOD STEERS

"There are some fine cattle being finished in this district right now," remarked R. H. Dale to the Examiner. "There were seven steers which Harry Bland of Mt. Pleasant brought in, two-year animals that would average about 1,100 pounds. One seldom sees anything better, and they had all been brought along just as they should have been."

DIFFICULT SHOVELLING

Collegians slogged to school ankle deep in slush today. At eight o'clock this morning two caretakers were outside making an effort to better walking conditions about P.C.I., but to little avail. "Isn't this a mess?" said one of the caretakers as he surveyed his usually unimpeachable stretch of sidewalk.

NINE GOOD JOBS AVAILABLE

Nine good jobs were waiting for qualified men with the Dominion Department of Transport, Bill Mellis, superintendent of the Employment Service branch here, said today. Nine examiners, or inspectors, are wanted in connection with purchase of army equipment. Their job, presumably, will be to give consideration to tenders submitted and to supervise manufacture of mechanized equipment.

HIGHWAYS CLEARED

Highway driving conditions were vastly better than in the city this morning. Ploughs had cleaned the pavement bare while city drivers were still sliding all ways.

QUIET AT THE FIRE HALL

City firemen were lucky over the week-end. Not a call was received at the fire station to bring the unwieldly trucks outside. In weather like that of the week-end a run by a fire engine is a risky job.

PARKA ON DOG.

Fad for parkas has spread to fashionable dogdom. On Saturday a George Street lady was seen carrying her dog down the street, its head protected from the cold by a pointed parka.

CARS RECOVERED.

Two motor cars were stolen here Saturday night, apparently by joyriders. One taken from near the Armouries was found abandoned by Constable Bruce Menzies of North Monaghan and the other stolen from the rear of Cliff Towle's store on Water street was found early Sunday morning on Bethune Street by Constable Percy Sexsmith.

BUS LINE STALLED.

Sleet and heavy snow on Sunday blocked the Peterborough-Bancroft Highway north-east of Apsley. It was reported to-day that the storm was much worse than in the city area. A Peterborough bus made the round trip, but was held up at Clancearde this morning with the prospect of having to stay there until the plow goes through, probably not until Tuesday. Snow on the highway was said to be almost on level with the headlights of the bus.

TO TRAP WOLVES.

Deputy-Minister D. J. Taylor of the Department of Fish and Game, has granted two licences to trap wolves in the Peterborough Game Reserve to Moses Marsden of Lakefield and Stanley Windsor of Apsley. Both men are deputy game wardens, and in the opinion of Charles Kingan they will be a big asset to the protection of wild life in the Crown Reserve. He expects that six elks will arrive here from Petawawa in a few days, and that minks, racoons, wild goats, and other animals will follow.

J. H. Burnham Suggests Toronto University Bestow Honorary Degree On Dorothy Dix

J. H. Burnham is certain Toronto University should grant an honorary degree to Dorothy Dix. "The world has any number of psychologists who sit in arm chairs, but Dorothy Dix is the one person who has excelled in applied psychology. Her mail is the largest of any person on the continent. She has earned recognition in this country."

Mr. Burnham wrote to Sir William Mulock, Chancellor of Toronto University, and the reply was that the matter would be brought before the Senate when it met to consider such matters.

The matter was also taken up with President H. J. Cody of the University, and the reply indicated a willingness to present the matter to the University Committee. Some doubt was injected by the reply of the President as it was his opinion that "the probabilities are there will be no honorary degrees conferred this term."

Davis Is Given Six Months On Liquor Count

Six months' imprisonment was the sentence imposed by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court this morning on Ralph Davis, Woodbine avenue, on a charge of illegally selling liquor. Davis admitted having been convicted in August last of illegally keeping liquor for sale so that in the matter of sentence he was treated as a second offender under the Liquor Control Act.

This morning he changed his plea to guilty after the crown witnesses had been heard.

"I don't want to bring those women into it," he told the court.

"I would have convicted you anyway on the evidence," Magistrate Langley stated.

"I figured it out that way, Your Worship," replied the accused.

Bought Case Of Beer.

One man told of driving to the Davis home on Woodbine avenue and buying a case of beer from Davis. Afterward the car was stopped by the police and the case of beer was seized. The witness placed the date as January 2.

Another man who had been with him when the beer was bought, told of driving to a house and of his companion going in and coming out with a case of beer which was put into the car. Soon after the police stopped the car, found the beer and placed witness and his companion under arrest. Witness said there was another man and three women in the party and said that the affair took place early on the morning of January 4.

This witness admitted in cross-examination that he had been charged with and pleaded guilty to illegal consumption of beer, although the case of beer had not been opened and he had had nothing to drink.

Searched Cars.

Constables Archie Menzies and C. J. McGillen testified that on the morning of January 4 they had been driving on Armour Road in a police cruiser when they saw two cars near the Davis home and had followed them and stopped and searched the cars on Park Hill Road. A case of beer which was produced as an exhibit had been found in one of the cars and afterwards armed with a search warrant they had searched the Davis home and found five bottles of the same kind of beer.

The carton was opened in court and Sergt. G. T. Puffer uncapped one of the bottles and testing the contents swore that it was intoxicating beer.

Magistrate Langley recalled the first witness who said that he must have been mistaken in regard to the date.

That closed the crown case and Davis when called upon for his defence announced that he would change his plea to guilty.

Jail Term Is Given For False Pretenses

"I think a short term in jail will do him good," said Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in Police Court this morning in sentencing Romeo Leonard to a month's imprisonment on two charges of having obtained money under false pretences.

Leonard had previously pleaded guilty to obtaining $15 fraudulently from Beverley Dawe and this morning he entered a guilty plea to a charge of obtaining $44.24 from Louis Billiards.

The accused told the court that he had been drinking. "It is my first offence," he said, "and restitution had been made."

"You were here on a liquor charge in connection with an accident," said Magistrate Langley. "That did not look very good to me either.

"There are two charges here, and I cannot see my way clear to suspending sentence," the Magistrate said.

Class Plans Supper

KEENE, Jan. 15 (ENS)—Following the Red Cross meeting on Thursday evening, the members of the Tillicum class met at the home of Evelyn Nelson. Plans were made for the "oyster supper" to be held on Tuesday evening, January 30th at 6.30 p.m. The supper will be followed by a miscellaneous program.

Mrs. Ross McIntyre had charge of the topic, the subject being elocution and public speaking. Delicious refreshments were served and a vote of thanks to the hostess brought the evening to a close.

Hitch-Hiker Is Injured By Passing Car

Nick Pruziance, 107 Aylmer Street, was brought into Peterborough Sunday suffering from bruises on the shins and breast as the result of being hit by an automobile on the Buckhorn Road Sunday morning.

Pruziance, who had been working at a wood camp north of Buckhorn, was hitch-hiking his way into town yesterday and when about three and a half miles south of Buckhorn was endeavoring to attract the attention of the driver of a southbound car. Another machine was being driven north by Roy Baker, R.R. 2, Norwood, and Pruziance stepped in front of the Baker car and was knocked over when the bumper struck his legs.

Baker took the injured man to the office of Dr. E. E. Willis, Hall's Bridge, for medical attention and afterward brought him into Peterborough.

New Ski Tow Is Tried Out

Close to half a hundred ardent ski enthusiasts sloshed around the hills of Bethany in Sunday's slush and tried out for the first time a new ski tow.

With ever skiier drenched, they pronounced the day's sport and the new tow a complete success. Erected during the week, the tow takes skiiers 1,500 feet to the top of one of Bethany's huge hills, site of the Peterborough Ski club's new chalet. The chalet was in much use yesterday as the half hundred all sought to dry their sopping clothes from time to time.

Run by a big motor, the rope tow extends to the foot of the hill from the top and hauls skiiers up in three minutes. Enthusiasts found yesterday they were able to get in almost as much actual skiing in one afternoon as they had previously been able to do in an entire winter. A private enterprise by a Toronto group, the tow costs 15 cents a ride, or 75 cents for a half-day's use, or $1.00 for a full day to each person using it.

Tragedy of the day came when Don Mackie was turning into the club's parking lot and bumped a car ahead of him. Fastened to Mackie's front bumper were two pairs of skis and both were broken by the bump.

Portion Of Rink Roof Collapses

Keene's hopes of hockey and skating fell through with a snow-laden roof last night as one end of the old rink in the village collapsed to the ground. Snow, weighing heavily on the roof caused it to crash, cutting through the walls to the ground. It was at the end considered strongest that the accident occurred.

Some work had been done early this season toward fixing the place up, though this was delayed in recent weeks. Plans, somewhat indefinite as yet, are to tear the remainder of the rink down and build a new one for next winter. In the meantime, there will be no skating or hockey indoors in the village.

STORMS AT BANANA PORT

High winds and heavy seas recently destroyed the wharf and sank all lighters at Saint Marc, Haiti, from which port nearly one-third of the island's bananas are shipped.

City Police Are Holding Suspect In Bank Robbery

As a result of a telephone message from Chief Inspector Al. Boyd of the Criminal Investigation Bureau of the Ontario Provincial Police Sunday afternoon that a suspect wanted in connection with the recent bank holdup at Cardinal, Ont., was rooming at a house in Peterborough, Detective-Sergeant W. E. Meagher and Constables Archie Menzies and Leo Murphy went to a residence near the corner of George and Park Hill Road and arrested Samuel Ward on a charge of vagrancy.

Inspector Boyd had received the information to the man's whereabouts from Chief Bain of Trenton and police suspect that Ward, the man arrested Sunday, had himself telephoned the message to Trenton. The reason for that belief was that the man who had obviously been drinking rubbing alcohol or something of that nature had been talking to Trenton on the telephone and also had called Provincial Constable David Silvester, represented himself as an officer from provincial headquarters and informed the local constable that there was going to be a holdup at Finn's drug store which was the place from which he was telephoning. Constable Silvester, suspecting a hoax, investigated and found that Ward had called at two or three business places in the north end of the city, acting suspiciously. The provincial officer was looking for the man at the time city police were waiting for Ward to return to his rooming house.

This morning Ward was arraigned before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., on a charge of vagrancy and pleaded not guilty. At the request of the police he was remanded a week in order that inquiries might be made.

"I am working. How can I be guilty of vagrancy? Ward asked the court, but Magistrate Langley pointed out that that was the charge.

Col. Townsend Dies At Passiac

His many friends in Peterborough will learn with sorrow of the death on Sunday, January 14 at 1 p.m. of Col. A. F. Townsend, chairman of the board of the Raybestos-Manhattan Inc., Passiac, N.J. at his home, 298 Greenway Road, Ridgewood, N.J.

Col. Townsend was the executive chairman of the corporation and in this capacity took a very keen interest in the local plant of the Canadian Raybestos Company and it was through his keen interest in Canada and in the Canadian plant that additions to the Peterborough factory in the last seven years were made possible. He was well known to many Peterborough citizens and last summer most of the executives of the local manufacturing organizations met with him at a luncheon at the Peterborough Golf and Country Club. They will be grieved to hear of his death and will feel that in his passing Peterborough has lost a friend.

He was a director or officer in many organizations but one particularly high honor was his selection as the sole representative of the rubber industry of America in international meetings in London, England.

The funeral is to be held on Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the Presbyterian church, Passiac, N.J. Flowers have been sent from Peterborough on behalf of the mayor and city council as a mark of respect for one who had made a notable contribution to this city's welfare.

James O. Benor Is Re-elected To Chairmanship

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 15. — (ENS).— James O. Benor who has served as chairman of the Water and Light Commission for the past seven years and was for a second time accorded re-election by acclamation at the civic nominations here in December, was again chosen chairman of the Commission by his colleagues at their inaugural meeting.

In previewing the year members expressed the unanimous opinion that a substantial amount would have to be invested in distribution lines throughout the system in 1940. This it was felt would have to be done to provide increased efficiency to consumers due to the increased consumption shown both from higher revenues and K.W.H. consumption during the preceding year. "This load has been steadily growing and it is imperative that this work should be done in order to give our customers the best possible service," said Manager P. C. Denyes.

Chairman Benor said that future copper needs should be anticipated and a supply arranged for as soon as possible. A saving of perhaps one and a half light per standard per year would be effected according to Mr. Denyes, who spoke with reference to the efficiency of the new type of lighting standard being adopted in town. He told commissioners that the peak load had raised from 750 K.W. in 1932 to 112 K.W. in 1939 and during the same years the number of K.W.H. had jumped from 2,679,000 to 3,626,600. Total revenues for the year 1939 from both domestic and commercial light, power and water were $49,003.00 as against $45,534.00 in 1938. This represented an increase of $3,469.00, of which all but $277.00 was from the light and power department.

On motion of Mayor F. F. Long and Commissioner Davidson it was decided to continue to absorb the eight per cent tax on all domestic light accounts. "The more money we leave in the people's pockets the better off the town will be,' declared Chairman Benor in urging the adoption of this proposal. It was decided to hold the next meeting on February 14th owing to the M.E.U. convention in Toronto from Feb. 5 to 7th.

Tuesday

Highlight of this week's bowling in the Dominion Woollens League was the 412 single game rolled by Mike Doris. After a string of 10 strikes Mike unfortunately picked a headpin which seems to be coming a regular habit this year. Mike picked a 5-pin with his last ball in the tenth frame to make an exact duplicate of the score rolled by George Robertson of Jay's Cigar Store team in the City League. These two bowlers, with 412 each, have the high single league game of the season to date being exceeded only by Ches Grant's remarkable 441 scored at Duffus' Alley in a turkey roll on Christmas Day. Mike had high three for the league, also trundling 865 (412, 232, 222). Other bowlers to top 600 scores for the evening were Vince McDonald 634 (202, 263), George Pryde 658 (255, 226), Alex Wedlock 617 (211, 203, 203), Jessie Stevens with 586 (207 had ladies' high three for the evening with Ethel Dobson's 529 (235) good for second place.

By HERB MARTIN

Many names live in history because some great personality noticed them; but there are names that live in our towns and villages because of that personality impressing itself upon the lives of those with whom they come in contact. Such can be said of Harry F. Foote, the popular secretary-treasurer of the Peterborough Curling Club.

It was away back around 1898-99 when Harry first joined the club, which at that time was situated exactly on the same spot as the present rink. In those days the club was divided into two sections, "the Thistles" and "the Granites." Harry threw in his lot with the Thistles and has been a member of the club ever since. He holds the distinction of being the oldest curler for continual membership. Last year at the annual meeting in March the club bestowed on him an honorary life membership, the only one in the club. He was elected president of the club in 1913-14, an office he filled well by commanding the confidence of all. He was for many years secretary-treasurer of the old open bonspiel committee, the days when the entries used to run as high as 52 rinks from all over the province. Three years ago he was appointed to the position he now holds, and in fact he has occupied every position in connection with the club. He is looked upon as an authority on curling, and is at present acting as umpire for the District Cup games to be played here on Tuesday. We could dig through the records and discover that Harry has won many honors on the ice, but probably the most outstanding were when in 1908 he skipped one of the rinks that brought the Ontario District Cup championship to the club and then again in 1910 as he skipped one of the rinks that won for the Peterborough club the district championship of that year.

He is looked upon by all curlers as the "daddy" of them all; he is honored and respected by every one; he is a real friend, a real sport and a true gentleman. We feel sure all the curlers will join with us when we say' Harry—

"Here's health to you and wealth to you,
Honors and gifts a thousand strong;
Here's name to you and fame to you,
Blessings and joy a whole life long."

Two Spectators Die

MONTREAL, Jan. 15 —(CP) — Two persons collapsed and died Saturday afternoon during a hockey triple-header at the arena in suburban Lachine.

James Benson Antley, 22, died after congratulating the Eastward goalkeeper on the team's last-minute 2-1 victory over Lachine. Albert Wall, 45, arena caretaker, was sweeping the surface before the third game when he crumpled to the ice. He died a few minutes later.

Antley jumped to the ice to congratulate the Eastward players and then pushed his way to the refreshment stand to treat companions on the strength of a small wager. He went into the Eastward dressing room to compliment the goalkeeper and fell to the floor.

The Stars Say . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Tuesday, January 16.

THE afflicted aspects of three of the major planets may make this a difficult day. There are signs of conflicting impulses and decidedly opposite objectives, although there will be much force and enterprise to be brought to bear when plans and programs are finally decided upon. This energy may be fitful, erratic and possibly belligerent, with fluctuations between strife turbblence and discouragement. However, there are definite auguries for composing discords and hostility by tact or strategy, but in all contrasts and correspondence be alert and cautious.

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves confronted by a year of confusion and conflict, with great difficulty in making a choice between two or more contradictory urges. The energies are under high pressure and the mind torn between two fields of operation, with alternate aggressiveness and frustration, initiative and depression. In writings of every nature use caution.

A child born on this day may have many conflicts of character and impulses, with much tension and indecision and eccentrity. Proper training might eradicate such idiosyncrasies.

In Addition To The Vast Improvements In Living And Social Developments Women's Clubs Have Raised The Standards Of Individual Members To Higher Degree.

HARK from the tombs, what doleful sounds arise! Most of us thought that the women's club problem was settled some thirty odd years ago and was as dead as the proverbial doornail, but here comes along Mr. Theodore Dreiser, who tells the sweet young things of the Junior League that all women's clubs are baloney.

Of course, there was a time when the question of whether women should belong to clubs or not was a burning issue. Preachers fulminated against it and declared that it would unsex women to belong to Browning societies and that feminine study clubs would bring about the downfall of the home. Husbands forbade their wives to take part in a movement that might take them out of their sacred sphere in the kitchen, and politicians, with prophetic foresight, gloomily predicted that if women ever found out the strength there was in union they might even stick their fingers in the political pie.

Well, women went along and formed their clubs and the heavens did not fall, and listening to lectures on early English dramatists or trying to find out what Mr. Browning thought he though when he wrote some of his poetry didn't seem to corrupt any one's morals or break up any homes. Husbands still got their meals on time, politicians who came to scoff at women's clubs remained to pray for their support and women's clubs came to be accepted as one of our main sources of sweetness and light.

Maybe they are, as Mr. Dreiser says, baloney. But what of it? So are men's clubs, for that matter. But why scorn baloney, which is a spicy and palatable dish with many of the needed vitamins in it to keep us going, whether you consider it as a soul-satisfier or a body builder?

Of the evolution of the women's clubs, from the little groups that gather to read each other's papers that they dug out of the encyclopedia to the powerful Federation of Women's Clubs and of the work they have done, it is needless to speak. Their deeds speak for them. They have been behind every movement for better government, better schools, better housing, better care of the children and the old. They have not only cleaned up their own back yards, but also have made the whole country garden-conscious, so it blossoms like the rose. Millions of women banded together have done what no one woman could do in making our country a better place in which to live.

If this is baloney, pass the dish. Let's have more of it. But if the women's club had performed no public service, it would be a thousand times justified by what it has done for the individual woman. For it has been the escape valve that has saved many a discouraged and desperate woman from madness or suicide.

There are so many women doomed by Fate to live lonely and purposeless lives, with no congenial companionship, no vital interests, with nothing worth while to do with their brains or their hands. In olden times these women were a menace to the communities in which they lived, but now they are its greatest blessing. For in the women's clubs they find an outlet for their abilities and the way to happiness for themselves.

Men have long ceased opposing women's clubs because they have found out two things about them that militate to their own good. One is that the best preventive of peevishness and fretfulness in wives is for them to break the monotony of housekeeping and child-rearing by going to their clubs, where they make fresh contacts and get new ideas and pass a pleasant hour or so that sends them back refreshed to their jobs.

Another thing that husbands have found out is that a clubwoman wife, who goes about and hears things and sees things and does things, and who keeps in touch with all that is going on in the world, is a far more interesting companion than one who has nothing to talk about except what goes on in her own household.

And, lastly, husbands have discovered that inasmuch as all women have the reformation complex it is far, far better for their wives to belong to the Association for Suppressing Polygamy Among Savages or the League for the Promotion of Domesticity Among the Zulus than it is for their dear Marias to do home work on them. Women's clubs baloney? Not on your life!

DEAR MISS DIX—I am terribly in love with a fine young man, but his mother has been hopelessly insane for fifteen years and is in an asylum. We both love children and marriage wouldn't seem right, somehow, without them. Yet would it not be a sin to bring human beings into the world knowing that they have this taint in their blood and that the fate of their Grandmother's may be theirs? What am I to do? Marry him and leave it in the hands of God or give him up?

TROUBLED.

ANSWER:

You have a right to decide your own fate and to marry this man you love if you will deny yourself the happiness of having children. But in my opinion you have no right to take a chance of sending such a curse down to future generations. I do not think that anybody who is afflicted with a hereditary disease has a right to have children. The least we can do for those we bring into the world is to give them a sound mind and a sound body.

DOROTHY DIX.

FASHIONS

There is a return to the old-fashioned kind of nightgown, the kind that grandma wore. Now you, too can have a warm cotton batiste nightie to grace your nights. Ruffles and ribbon-run beading at the neck, sleeves and waistline all give a glamorous charm to a practical style. The school crowd love them to take back to school and career girls like them because they are so quaint. Long or short sleeves, to suit your requirements, but you simply must have this night-fashion from the old days.

Style No. 3116 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 36, 38 and 40. Size 16 requires 3⅞ yards of 39 inch material with 3 yards of beading.

New Organ Is Dedicated At St. James'

With impressive ceremonial their new organ was on Sunday dedicated at St. James' United church. The dedicatory sermon was preached to the large congregation, which included many former members and friends, by Rev. A. L. Sisco, B.D., chairman of Peterborough Presbytery.

The opening devotions were led by the pastor, Rev. Fred Craik, in the call to worship and invocation, as well as in the responsive services especially arranged for this occasion.

In honour of the new organ, a musical program of high order was presented by the choir under the able leadership of Cecil E. Lapp, the church organist.

At morning service the soloists included Mrs. R. C. Searles who sang in beautiful soprano voice "O Lord Be Merciful" (Bartlett) with violin obligato by Mr. Searles.

The Creation Hymn (Beethoven) sung by Mrs. E. Kitney was a delightful variation, in contralto voice.

The well chosen anthems brought out the fine organ tones with the harmonious blending of voices in the well trained choir, and included "O God Our Help in Ages Past" (Martin), and "Glorious Is Thy Name," Twelfth Mass (Mozart). At the offertory the beauty of the organ chimes were heard in "Carillon du Soir" (Duddy).

After the hymn of consecration, "Breathe On Me Breath of God," the actual dedication of the organ took place, when A. E. Prest, as secretary of St. James' United Church Trustee Board, presented the organ, which was accepted on behalf of the congregation by the minister, who, in turn, gave the key of the organ into the hands of George Cuff, chairman of the organ committee, who in that capacity presented it to the organist, Mr. C. Lapp, signifying that the organ is now to be used only in the service and to the glory of God.

With the congregation reverently standing, they took the dedication vows, with response by the organ, as follows;

"To the worship of God our Father, through Jesus Christ our Saviour and Lord, under the guidance of the Holy Spirit, we dedicate this organ."

Organ response, "O Worship the King."

"To the telling through music of the old, old story, that men may be led to surrender their hearts and lives to Christ, we dedicate this organ."

Organ response, "Tell me the old, old story."

"To the deepening sense of all that our Saviour has done for us, we are led through deeper penitence we dedicate this organ."

Response by the organ, "Rock of Ages."

"To the memory of apostles, saints, and martyrs, to the recollection that we are the spiritual heirs of all the ages, we dedicate this organ."

Response, the stirring hymn "Faith of our Fathers."

"To the promotion of peace among the nations, by spreading Christian brotherhood through the world, we dedicate this organ."

The response came clear and strong, "More Love to Thee, O Christ."

"To be a perpetual challenge to this church to go forward unitedly, steadily, persistently, and mightily in the service of the crucified, risen and conquering Christ, we dedicate this organ."

In triumphant tones the organ gave the final response, "Onward, Christian Soldiers."

The minister concluded with the prayer of dedication.

Dedicatory Message.

In the words of the ancient psalmist, "I was glad when they said unto me, Let us go into the House of the Lord," Rev. Mr. Sisco brought his inspiring and fitting dedicatory message. In spite of the persecution of the early church, its adherents were glad of the privilege of attendance. To-day, it is right that we should share this feeling especially when we think of the distraction and disturbed condition of the world. Citing some reasons why we should be glad to come into the church, the speaker used several figures of speech in illustration. First, he likened the church to an ark, a place of shelter in the rampant flood of sin. Another figure of comparison was the church symbolized by a lighthouse sending its beams over the uncertain waves of our troubled world, revealing the rocks of destruction. Again he declared the church is like a rock which cannot be moved or shaken, or on the other hand, like a voice crying in the wilderness. There are many voices in these days crying out for destruction; only the church speaks of building a brotherhood of love.

He again averred that we should be glad to come into the House of the Lord, not only because of the beauty of its edifice, or the new organ, but because of Christ's transforming power in our hearts, lives and purposes and because the church teaches us faith in the coming of God's Kingdom. So let us earnestly join our church and worship through the Word of God, its beautiful sacred music, and the service of prayer.

"Lead on, O King Eternal" was the concluding hymn, followed by the doxology and benediction, with the organ postlude "March Triomphale" (Lemmens).

At seven o'clock a special choral service was held, opening with the beautiful organ prelude "Finlandia" (Sibelius), while the evening anthems were: "The Lord is My Shepher" (Brother James Air) and "Sun of My Soul" (H. E. Nicol), with Mrs. H. F. Doig taking the solo part in fine voice.

The sermon text, "O magnify the Lord with me and let us exalt His name together," was taken by the visiting minister, whose theme was reverence in worship, and was concluded with the postlude, "Festivity" (Jenkins).

The committee responsible for the installation of the new organ includes: Rev. Fred W. Craik, A. E. Saunders, W. Rose, Cecil E. Lapp, A. E. Prest, secretary Trustee Board; George Cuff, chairman Organ Committee; Bert Pitchford, secretary; Gerald Cuff, treasurer.

Shows Women Up

Arnprior, Ont., Jan. 15 (CP)

THE good women of Arnprior are disturbed these days because of 86-year-old Charles Stavenow and his flying knitting needles.

Stavenow, an active man for his 86 years, uses a distinctive stitch on his own, and by their own admission, it has the good women of Arnprior a trifle jealous.

He has shown no inclination to instruct others in his art but they say Stavenow's socks for Canadian soldiers are the finest knitted goods turned into the Arnprior Red Cross.

Says Stavenow: "I've been knitting socks for 70 years so I guess I know how to do it better than they can show me by now."

Jap City Burns, 300 Lives Lost

TOKYO, Jan. 15.—(AP). — Fire raging uncontrollable through Shizuoka southwest of Tokyo, was believed to-day to have taken 300 lives and destroyed 1,000 homes.

Domei, Japanese News Agency, said half of the city, the centre of Japan's tea shipping industry, had been destroyed by 3 p.m. (1 a.m. EST), four hours after the fire was discovered.

It reported the flames spread on a strong wind despite attempts to dynamite fire-breaks in its path and had consumed the railroad station, post office, some municipal buildings and many railroad cars.

An airplane pilot reported he felt the heat of the conflagration flying over Shizuoka at a height of 4,500 feet.

The News Agency said two schools, one temple, a telephone exchange, a department store and two branch banks were among the buildings destroyed.

Train service was disrupted.

The members decided to plan and work for a bazaar, to be held during the summer. Mrs. Elmer Sherwin extended the hospitality of her home for the February meeting.

The theme of the program was "The World Outlook of Jesus." Biblical references in keeping with the theme were read by members.

Mrs. J. E. Glover read a prayer to be used in time of war, written by Rev. Dr. Haddow.

British Troops Celebrate New Year's Day On Western Front

The lighter and grimmer sides of war are depicted in these pictures of British troops on the Western front, which have been released by the British censor. Tommies on duty at the front celebrated New Year's, LEFT, with the customary party spirit, that included paper hats and music. A grimmer task fell to the lot of the Bren machine-gun crew, RIGHT, in the nest they burrowed in the snow that blanketed this part of the front.

DAILY WAR SUMMARY

(By Canadian Press.)

The reality of Finland's victory over the invading Russian armies is demonstrated by a review of the six weeks of fighting on Finnish soil, fighting which has brought heavy losses to the invaders and gained them little in the way of strategical advantages.

It was on November 30 that the Russians marched into Finland by nine different routes, seeking to repeat Germany's lightning conquest of Poland and crush the small Finnish army under a mass of men, tanks, shells and bombs.

At the end of six weeks the Finnish forces are still fighting, have stopped the Russians at five of the nine points of invasion and actually thrown them back out of Finnish territory at the other four points. Moreover, in three areas at least Finnish patrols are operating on Russian soil.

The greatest advance into the Finnish interior made by the Russians is a little over 35 miles.

While the Finns were outnumbered and poorly equipped as compared with the Russians, they apparently enjoyed particularly favorable weather. The Russians had to contend with a winter which was three weeks late in settling down and then turned out to be unusually severe.

Not for eight years has Finland had such a heavy fall of snow or such intense and prolonged cold in a corresponding period of the year.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

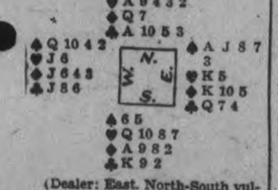
WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

"The Authority on Authorities"

PREVENTING END PLAYS

WHEN a defender holds guarded honors in all suits, none of them in sequence, he is in a tough spot every time he gets the lead. Each time he does, his return is likely to present the declarer with a trick which could not be won otherwise. It is therefore wise for him to exert his cerebellum in order to figure out ways to throw the lead to his partner or the declarer.



(Dealer: East. North-South vulnerable.)

There was not much to the bidding, but plenty to the play of this duplicate deal. East called 1-Spade, West, 2-Spades, North doubled, South 3-Hearts and North 4-Hearts, West leading the spade Q at both tables, covered by the K and A.

East was in a bad situation, hating to lead. At one table he next played his spade J, then led the diamond 5, the J falling to the Q and ending any chance for declarer to lose a trick there. The diamond 7, 10 and A trick was followed by a ruff of the diamond 9, killing the K. Next came the heart A and a repeat to the K. East was end-played again. A spade lead would have given declarer a club discard and ruff, so East led his club 4 to the J and A, and a finesse then prevented any club losers, so that the contract was made.

At the other table East, after winning with the spade A, used foresight. Rather than be end-played, he led a small spade, hoping West had the 10. He did, then led the diamond 3, the 10 forcing the A. South now saw he probably had to win all the trump tricks, so led the Q and let it ride. When the K won, East returned the trump 5 to the A. The diamond Q was returned, losing to East's K. He returned another diamond, so that later his side got a club trick, setting it two because he was not end-played at all, whereas the other East got end-played twice.

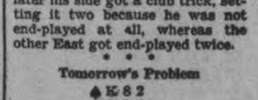
Tomorrow's Problem



(Dealer: North. North-South vulnerable.)

If along the way East doubles North's cue-bid in clubs, how should South play for 7-No Trumps against a lead of the club 10?

New Layout In Market Hall Fails To Bring Buyers To Those Placed At Either End Of Building

Producers at the Polar ends of the upstairs market on Saturday told the Examiner around 11.30 a.m they hadn't seen a buyer in so long that they probably couldn't recognize one—him or her—if he did come along.

That is an obvious exaggeration, but there is also some truth and fact in it, and farmers who find themselves along those end aisles complain that they have too much time on their hands while the main stream of buyers is sifting through those central paths, and leaving most of the business and the money there.

Some folks think the changed layout is an improvement, but that opinion is not found among the vendors along the north and south fringes. They want the lengthwise or longitudinal aisles back again, and an observation of Saturday's drift of business seemed to justify their complaint that the present arrangement of tables tends to keep buyers in the central part of the big hall.

"Buying At Home."

Alderman Herb McCannan can give that grievance a little thought if he thinks it worth while, and there is another observation that can be passed on to buyers. And that is, buy produced-in-Peterborough district fruits and vegetables, and that does not exclude any of the producers who sell on this market. It is a reminder that money can be kept at home by buying local carrots, parsnips, and so on, also apples, instead of taking the easy way of buying imported vegetables and fruits, thereby sending money across the border that could be kept working here at home.

The producer group has to pay its share to help win the war, and their contribution will be collected by taxes and otherwise taken as toll from money remaining in this country. Once it gets across the border, where the country has other things to buy, it yields nothing more to Canada. If local producers were organized they could speak for themselves in the way of advertising their position, but most of them think so little of their industry from which, presumably, they obtain their livelihood, that when an organization meeting is called most of them stay at home and perhaps wail about nobody doing anything for them.

A Spotty Market.

Business at the week-end was livelier outdoors than in the big hall. The fruit, vegetable and meat men reported a fairly brisk demand, and were able to show fairly well filled order books along about noon. The upstairs division offered a lot of chickens and eggs for which the demand was rather slow.

Chickens were quoted at 17 to 20 cents, with quite a big supply on hand. Eggs ranged from 20 to 25 cents, and butter was 29 and 30 cents. One turkey was noticed at 22 cents.

Harry Gill's meat prices outdoors were: Pork 13 and 15 cents, beef 12 and 14 cents, baby beef 13 and 15 cents, and lamb 18 and 20 cents. George Mullen & Son were asking 13 and 15 cents for top beef, and 14 and 16 cents for pork. The meat dealers reported an active morning.

Potatoes were generally $1 a bag, with some up to $1.15. Norman Moncrief quoted McIntosh Reds at 35 and 40 cents, and $1.40 a bushel for his best; Spies 40c, Delicious 40c. Russets and Baldwins 25 cents, and Bellflowers and Greenings 30 cents.

Pleasant View Gardens of Bowmanville priced Spies, Reds and Delicious at 40 cents a peck, Tolman Sweets 35 cents, and cooking varieties at 30 cents.

Ben Isaac of Warkworth had Snows at 35 cents, McIntosh Reds at 35 cents, Spies (all sold for the day) at $1.50 a hamper, Tolman Sweets 25 cents.

Fred Stinson's prices were: Onions 30c a peck, carrots 75c a bushel, parsnips also 75c the bushel or 25c a peck, potatoes 25c a peck or $1 a bag, cabbage 8c each or two for 15c, turnips 50c a bushel.

Wood prices were unchanged, with a rather large offering, about the usual winter Saturday array.

Dog Delivery

Lindsay, January 15 (ENS)

RESIDENTS of Donald village, Haliburton County, believe they have something unusual in the matter of milk deliveries. Their supply of the beneficial beverage is brought to their homes by Mossom Harrison and his faithful dog "Sport." "Sport" doesn't get a day of rest on Sunday because he supervises the attendance of Harrison's three-year-old daughter at Sunday School. The dog pulls her sled to Sunday School and waits until it is finished to bring her home.

Balkan Juggling, Finns Feature 19th Week Of War

By DON GILBERT
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

Air fights over the North Sea and a new crop of German mines sown in the path of sea-going commerce provided what little activity there was in the 19th week of the war. Each side lost a few planes and about 35,000 tons of Britain's merchant fleet of more than 20,000,000 tons was destroyed.

While actual fighting was meagre, there was intense diplomatic activity in southeastern Europe, with the trend of discussion strongly favoring the Allied cause. Effective opposition led by Italy to any Soviet thrust into that part of the world seems assured, and some observers think a similar barrier might block Germany's path should she attempt a manoeuvre of the kind.

A further note of tension was introduced in the "pact of steel" between Rome and Berlin when Germany refused transit through the Reich of Italian aircraft consigned to Finland. Whereupon Italy routed supplies through France. Spain, critical of Germany's about-face with respect to Bolshevism, sent the Finns war materials left over from the civil war, much of it equipment of Russian and German origin used on opposite sides in the Spanish conflict.

The Finns, now receiving aid from practically every European country except Germany, continued successful resistance to the Soviet invader. A third division of Soviet troops was reported destroyed as a fighting unit, and at several points the Red army was pushed back to Russian soil. The blunders of the Soviet generals were made the occasion of a purge of the Russian command, and some reports said there had been executions.

Sees Lull Almost Over.

An early end to the lull in hostilities in the west was predicted by Prime Minister Chamberlain in a speech broadcast throughout the Empire. The Prime Minister delivered a careful review of the progress of the war, and, peering into the future, foresaw the completeness of the wartime cooperation between Britain and France as a possible pattern for peacetime collaboration among all nations.

The Prime Minister had nothing to say about the resignation the previous week of the Secretary of State for War, Leslie Hore-Belisha, and authoritative explanations for the minister's reparture were not forthcoming from other sources. A possible clue to the differences between Mr. Hore-Belisha and his colleagues was seen in the creation of a separate, independent command for the Royal Air Force in France. The War Minister had been represented as insisting on army control of the R.A.F. in France.

Rationing of a group of basic foods was begun in the United Kingdom, with the people accepting cheerfully the sacrifices required of them. In contrast, Berlin dispatches to the neutral press told of widespread grousing in Germany at the shortage of coal during the current cold wave. The Nazi authorities were said to contemplate deducting 10 per cent from all wages to combat hoarding of commodities by the inflation-conscious public. Script payable after the war would be given for the 10 per cent deducted.

Glancing Back 25 Years: On Jan 9, 1915, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry was reported in action in France for the first time. Heavy fighting marked an advance by the Allies in the region of Soissons. Heavy rains slowed up operations on the eastern front.

U.S. Cattle, Beef Imports Up 44 p.c. In 1939

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—(AP)—Cattle and beef imports into the United States increased 44 per cent during the first 11 months of 1939 over the like period in 1938, the Agriculture Department reported to-day.

The figures provided fresh material for argument in the United States' House of Representatives over the proposed extension of the government's trade agreements program. State Secretary Cordell Hull and Agriculture Secretary Henry Wallace have contended at the House Way and Means committee hearings that the facts have not injured American farmers, but Congressional critics have disputed this and much of the program's opposition has come from cattle-producing states.

Support for continuation of the program came, meanwhile from the group of 60 industrial and financial leaders comprising the comerce department's business advisory council. A resolution of support for the program was adopted yesterday at the group's annual meeting and transmitted to Commerce Secretary Harry Hopkins.

The Agriculture Department reported that 424,200,000 pounds of cattle and beef and been shipped into the United States, principally from Canada and Mexico, during the first 11 months of 1939, compared with 294,840,000 pounds in the like period of 1938.

Swedish Arctic Forces On Alert

Because Finland has put up such an amazing defence against Soviet aggression, Sweden is fearful that Germany may come to the aid of her new-found ally, attacking Scandinavia from the south, thus enabling Russia, ultimately, to sweep down with overwhelming manpower from the north. Consequently, Swedish forces are on the alert, with crack units particularly active in the Arctic region where Sweden and Finland have a common frontier. The ABOVE photo shows Swedish soldiers, clad in white, hooded fur coats, riding in a motorized sleigh.

Shortage Of Soviet Supplies Seen Behind Lull Upon Karelian Isthmus

Attempt To Maintain 400,000 Red Troops Claimed Bogging Railroads; Suspect Traitors Guiding Invading Hordes

WITH FINNISH FORCES ON THE KARELIAN ISTHMUS, Jan. 16—(AP).—Soviet Russia's difficulties in sending supplies to her forces of invasion on the Karelian front may prove as helpful to the Finns here as the paralyzing cold has on other fronts.

A Finnish colonel, who chatted with this correspondent in a snug dugout with the temperature outside 25 degrees below zero, attributed slackening of warfare on the isthmus to Russian transport inadequacy and added that there were indications that some of the Red troops were receiving short rations and these only frozen meat and bread.

The colonel said the isthmus terrain was "overloaded" with Red soldiers—he estimated the number at 400,000—and said:

"A very heavy strain must have been placed on the railway lines to Leningrad which are needed now both for the population of the city iself and for maintenance of Soviet troops on the isthmus."

Leningrad, a city of 2,776,000, is about 50 miles southeast of this point.

In Finland's Favor

The officer declined to speculate on the ultimate result of the Russians' transport difficulties but foreign observers familiar with peacetime difficulties suggested that the question might be answered in the Finnish favor—just as the numbing cold has worked for the defenders elsewhere.

While by ordinary standards the 25 degress below on the Karelian front might be considered a terrific handicap to military operations the hardships here by no means compare with those brought by the 40-below in the far north.

Finland is undergoing the coldest weather in 10 years.

With the Russian troops apparently largely busy digging in and trying to keep warm there was only desultory artillery fire yesterday. Meanwhile Finnish ski patrols were reported active at several points beyond the Russian border in the north.

The war seems to be settling down again to guerrilla combat and

Quadruplets

Nauvoo, Ala., Jan. 16 (AP)

MRS. CLYDE SHORT, a coal miner's wife, was the proud mother today of quadruplets—three girls and one boy.

They were born Sunday night at the Short's rural home near here and later taken to the Walker County Hospital.

A small town physician, Dr. H. J. Sankey, said he delivered the babies in good health within an hour and 15 minutes with the help of several neighboring housewives.

Each of the children, he said, weighed a few ounces over three pounds. The girls were named Faith, Hope and Charity. No name has been chosen for the boy.

Dr. Sankey said he was surprised at the birth of four children. He had expected twins.

Claim Swede Jobless Sent To War

Taken Off Public Jobs Forced To Fight For Finns Say Reds

COPENHAGEN, Jan. 16 —(AP)—A Russian broadcast accusing Sweden of forcing the unemployed to fight for Finland increased today the strain of relations between the Soviet Union and Scandinavian countries.

Russia previously expressed dissatisfaction with replies of Sweden and Norway to her complaint that they were sending men and supplies to the embattled Finns and permitting anti-Soviet press campaigns.

Meanwhile, the Swedish and Norwegian Governments last night directed their ministers in Moscow to protest alleged violations of their borders by Soviet planes.

The Swedish foreign office said 10 bombs had been dropped on the Swedish Island of Kallaks Sunday and that one of the nine Russian planes sighted was believed to have made a forced landing in Sweden.

The Norwegian foreign office, protesting "a breach of neutrality," said several Russian planes had flown over Norway between January 12 and 14 and that one landed on Norwegian soil.

Norwegian anti-aircraft guns were fired at some of the planes Sunday near Kirkenes, on the extreme northern border of Norway and Finland.

Russian Tanks Busy.

Observers from Kirkenes reported that Russian tanks and trucks were moving in great numbers on the Finnish side of the line yesterday between Salmijaervi and Hoyhenjaervi, 30 and 60 miles south of the Arctic coast, respectfully.

They said the fact that the traffic was moving both ways might mean that replacements were being made for a renewed Russian offensive in that region.

Warfare in Finland was confined largely to the Russian bombing campaign. More than 20 cities were bombed yesterday.

The newest Russian criticism came too late for editorial comment, but

At 7:30 a.m. the alarm goes off, throwing a switch which starts the phonography. Then William hears himself tell himself:

"Get up Bill, get up."

The recording of Richter's voice begins gently but persuasively.

"Now Bill, don't give us any of that stuff," it says. "No, don't turn over again. You know what will happen if the dean hears about your sleeping through another eight o'clock class." Then it roars: "Do you hear me. Hey, hey, get up."

John McColl Is Elected County Warden

A three-cornered contest for the wardenship of Peterborough county was decided on the third division this afternoon which gave Reeve John McColl of Asphodel a clear majority of 10-8 over Reeve Wallace Shearer of Harvey after Reeve Allan B. Mann of Smith retired on the second vote.

Warden McColl was nominated by Reeve M. H. Johnston of North Monaghan and Reeve Norman Lean of Burleigh-Anstruther.

The first division gave McColl 8 votes, Shearer 6 and Mann 4. The same alignment was repeated on the second call, and on the third Reeve Mann retired from the field.

Reeve E. W. Seeney of Havelock was also proposed when Miss Jennie Batten, county clerk and treasurer, took charge of the preliminaries of organization at the opening of the first sessions of the new year.

Reeve Shearer was nominated by Reeve James Gifford of Ennismore and Reeve W. A. Anderson of Otonabee.

Reeve Mann was proposed by Reeve Martin Coughlin of Douro.

The last reeve of Asphodel to be Warden was Rork Ferguson M.P. who went on from that experience to be elected Member of Parliament for Hastings-Peterborough.

Premier Denies Army Pressure Behind Act; Fighting Force Policy Unchanged; "Saw Difficulties In War Chief's Qualities"

Minister Absolves Colleagues Of 'Knifing Him'

LONDON, Jan. 16 (CP)—Prime Minister Chamberlain and the man he removed as war secretary on Jan. 5, Leslie Hore-Belisha, buried an incipient ministerial crisis in guarded statements before parliament today which drew approval even from the opposition.

Mr. Chamberlain, declining to give detailed reasons for the change in the war office, said he "had become aware of difficulties arising out of the very great qualities" of Mr. Hore-Belisha "which in my view made it desirable that a change should occur."

He said no change of army policy was anticipated.

Mr. Hore-Belisha, saying he knew of "no conflict of policy with any of my colleagues," declared he was "reluctant to believe" that high army officers would have made "representations" that led to Mr. Chamberlain's decision.

Although there were scatered opposition cries of "What was the reason?" leaders of the opposition talked in a calmer vein today of the cabinet shakeup.

Mr. Chamberlain told the house it was "pure invention" to suggest there had been pressure on him from the army to replace Mr. Hore-Belisha.

Clears Colleagues.

In his personal statement, Mr. Hore-Belisha said he wished "to clear those who have worked with me of any aspersion," of knifing him in the back with the Prime Minister.

He declared the reorganization of the army during his administration had been "carried out with a degree of agreement which offers a remarkable contrast to the stormy history of most reforms."

He said differences of opinion had been "no deeper than must occur in any association of men bent on pressing tasks of more than transitory importance."

Democratization of the army, he said, was the "result of our common endeavors."

"It did not occur to me to consider that we were making an army too democratic to fight for democracy," the resigned minister declared.

Both Mr. Hore-Belisha and his successor, Oliver Stanley were cheered by the house.

All Seats Full

Every seat in the House was taken in anticipation of the statement of Leslie Hore-Belisha on his resignation from the war cabinet. The Earl of Munster, who is on the staff of General Viscount Gort in France and formerly was Mr. Hore-Belisha's under-secretary, was in the peers' gallery.

House Disappointed At Explanation; No Word Of Rancour

LONDON, Jan. 16 — (CP Cables)—It was billed as a dramatic clash between two political giants—Neville Chamberlain and Leslie Hore-Belisha but it passed off without a word of rancor or ill feeling.

Seven hours before the House of Commons met this afternoon members began to gather for the much-advertised scene when Mr. Hore-Belisha and the Prime Minister would explain why the former war minister was asked to resign.

If they looked for the proverbal fireworks they were disappointed.

Standing "below the gang-plank" on the Government side of the House, Mr. Hore-Belisha spoke only a few minutes. His voice was husky but there was no bitterness in it. His speech was a model of restraint.

In the middle of it David Lloyd George walked in to take a seat across the floor. It added an historical touch because the grey-haired Welshman was a storm centre as War Minister in the First Great War. But he stayed in office and later became Prime Minister.

No Interruptions.

Mr. Hore-Belisha was not interrupted in his opening remarks, but when the House discovered he intended to make no trouble for the

Canadians Take 57 Per Cent Of Loan 1st Day

OTTAWA, Jan. 16—(CP). — Finance Minister Ralston's hope that the first Dominion loan of the second Great War would have a wide distribution among smaller investors seemed certain of fulfillment today when the Bank of Canada was deluged by a wave of subscriptions of $5,000 or less.

Indications today were that the $200,000,000 loan, which opened yesterday morning, would be heavily oversubscribed but the books will remain open another day at least in order that subscriptions from the most remote districts may be registered.

The first day's canvass brought subscriptions of 57 per cent. of the loan, investors turning over $114,650,600 to the Dominion war chest.

Officials at the Bank of Canada, which is handling the loan, struggled with a mass of returns from all parts of the Dominion this morning and endeavored to arrive at the total amount subscribed.

An indication of the popularity of the issue among small investors was the report of one agent who had 343 orders averaging $5,000 each.

Some Big Ones.

Outstanding among the larger subscriptions announced today was one from the Canada Life Assurance Company for $4,000,000. The City of Toronto applied for $1,500,000.

Insurance companies, trust companies, distillers, manufacturers and municipal sinking funds were heavy subscribers. There were numerous large orders from wealthy private citizens.

Canadian branches of United States companies figured largely in the subscription list, including Imperial Oil, S. S. Kresge Company, William Wrigley, Jr., Company, Kelvinator of Canada and others.

"It is this type of distribution of the bonds which will make the issue of this loan an unqualified success," he said, "and the books of the loan will remain open as long as possible to ensure that purchas-

17 Plot Suspects Stay Jailed; Bail At $50,000

NEW YORK, Jan. 16—(AP).—A woe-begone group of 17 men accused of plotting to overthrow the United States Government fretted in jail to-day, unable to raise $50,000 bail each, as federal agents sought other alleged conspirators of the "revolution" syndicate.

While federal, state, National Guard, and New York City police authorities pressed investigations of the fantastic scheme to launch an anti-Semitic pogrom, assassinate a dozen Congressmen and set up a Hitleresque dictatorship in the United States, jail attendants described the 17 prisoners as greatly subdued.

All pleaded not guilty yesterday when they were arraigned on a charge of seditious conspiracy.

J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, said he had evidence to support every jot of the charge that a conspiracy was aimed at establishing a dictatorship.

Ottawa Reopens Jobless Insurance Move

OTTAWA, Jan. 16 (CP)—Negotiations have been reopened with the provinces with a view to obtaining approval of necessary amendments to the constitution to enable the federal government to establish unemployment insurance, Justice Minister Lapointe announced today.

The announcement was made to a delegation of the Confederation of Catholic Workers of Canada, Incorporated, who made their annual legislative recommendations to the government.

Mr. Lapointe recalled that certain provinces had objected in the past to any modification of the British North America Act looking toward transferring jurisdiction to the federal government.

"I am not divulging any secrets when I tell you the government has reopened conversations with the provinces on this problem," Mr. Lapoint said.

In the absence of Prime Minister Mackenzie King the justice minister was spokesman for the cabinet. Others of the cabinet who received the delegation were Labor Minister McLarty, Fisheries Minister Michaud, and Revenue Minister Ilsley.

Alfred Charpentier, Montreal, president of the federation, was spokesman for the delegation.

To the delegation's request that Communism in Canada be suppressed Mr. Lapointe said the government would stop propaganda, not only Communistic but of all subversive ideas, particularly Nazism."

Mr. Lapointe said it was impossible to adopt a national plan for unemployment insurance until such time as the provinces would agree to a modification of the British North America Act.

Labor Minister McLarty promised to call to the attention of his colleagues in the cabinet the various recommendations submitted.

The delegation left with the cabinet ministers an offer to co-operate with the government during the war.

Utilities Cut City's Water Bill By $2,000

The Utilities Commission handed the City Council a gift of $2,000 today by reducing to $18,000 this year's charge for water required for fire protection.

The Commission's bill for this service has been $20,000 a year for the last three years, was $22,000 in 1935, and has been steadily declining since 1929 when the charge was $32,000.

"This is the lowest charge to the city since filtered water has been supplied by this Commission," Gordon S. Matthews, chairman, said.

"The plant is getting to the point where it is paying dividends," E. R. Shirley commented.

The Commission's decision was made this afternoon as a means of facilitating the Council in preparing its estimates for the 1940 civic budget.

Branch Sub-Station.

Aproaching need of increased sub-station capacity was mentioned by Mr. G. S. Matthews.

The December electric peak was 12,000 horse-power as compared with 9,783 horse-power in December, 1938, R. L. Dobbin, manager, reported.

The incerase was 2,217 horse-power over December, 1938, and 1,300 over November, 1939. The average monthly peak for last year was around 9,600 horse-power as against 9,000 horse-power for 1938.

Mr. Matthews suggested the Commission might consider acquiring from the city a vacant lot or two

Greek Ship Runs Aground Off Bermuda

NEW YORK, Jan. 16 — (AP) — The 4,291-ton Greek freighter Pelinaion, formerly the K. Ktistakis, radioed today she was aground off St. Davitts, Bermuda, with "big damage" and water in her hold and engine room.

The coast guard here said it picked up this message from the tramp vessel:—

"Big damage. Engine room and hold full of water. Position bad, weather bad.

Coast guardsmen said the message was sent to station VRT in Bermuda and they assumed British ships had gone to the rescue.

The ship's identity was not learned at first because the message was signed with her former name. Built in England in 1907, the 350-foot craft has recently been in the coal trade. She once was named the Hillglen.

200 Stoves For Aldershot Bring C.A.S.F. Cheers; 500 Radios Another Gift

ALDERSHOT, England, Jan. 16.—(C Cable)—Lieut.General Sir Walter Venning, quartermaster general of the British forces, accompanied by Lieut.-General Charles Broad, commander of the Aldershot area, paid a visit to the First Canadian Division today.

General Venning was taken by Colonel E. W. Sansom on a tour through the newly-constructed billets. He met Brigadier G. R. Pearkes, V.C., whose troops are at present occupying the more modern quarters of the camp.

The quartermaster general expressed himself as highly satisfied with the building program already accomplished and promised that everything would be done to make the Canadians as comfortable as possible.

Today stoves were being installed in the older huts and barracks where fireplaces have given insufficient heat. Already 200 stoves have been set up. The move was met by cheers and shouts of joy from the lads who have found it hard to adjust themselves to Old County standards of warmth.

The troops also were greatly heartened by news that 500 radio sets would soon be distributed among the various units. The gift of Garfield Weston, formerly of Toronto and now a member of the British House of Commons, the sets will provide the boys with welcome diversion in off hours and will enable them to listen occasionally to programs direct from Canada.

Majority of the soldiers hanker for news from their home towns. They would give anything for newspapers from Canada even if the news were a trifle out of date. There also is a demand for other reading material.

Troops who have been on leave over the length and breadth of the British Isles during the past few weeks received tribute from the Canadian military headquarters in London.

A message received at divisional headquarters congratulated the men on their splendid behavior and for upholding the honor and prestige of their respective units.

There have been very few cases of "absent without leave" and there has been no serious offence in the division, requiring drastic punishment.

Legion Terms Attack On M.O.H. As Cowardly-Seeks Retraction

The attack made in city council on Monday of last week by Ald. Walter Stocker upon Dr. G. Murray Fraser, the city's medical officer of health who is in England with the 1st Division of the Canadian Active Service Force, was condemned as "cowardly" and "at variance with the tenets of good taste and the sense of British fair play" by the Peterborough branch of the Canadian Legion at its regular monthly meeting Monday night.

Resentful of what Ald. Stocker was declared to have said, (and one of the speakers declared that the papers hadn't published all that the alderman had said "or it would have burned the paper") the veterans unaimously passed the following resolution by a standing vote:

Moved by Comrade James Mitchell, seconded by Comrade F. Biddle:

That as our Comrade Dr. G. M. Fraser has gone overseas in the service of His Majesty, the Peterboro Branch of the Canadian Legion resent the cowardly attack made upon him by a member of the City Council. We consider such an attack on a city official in his absence is at variance with the tenets of good taste and that sense of British fair play that we expect our representatives to possess.

We therefore request the City Council to ask for a retraction of the statements from the member concerned, and in the event of his refusal we leave the matter there for the public to judge.

Spirited Discussion.

In the spirited discussion that followed the introduction of the motion several of the members declared that Ald. Stocker's remarks were a breach of the wartime regulations regarding statements considered as likely to prejudice recruiting and there were suggestions that a copy of the resolution should be sent to the Department of National Defence and the Attorney-General of Ontario.

In regard to these proposals it was decided to leave the matter in the hands of the executive to decide whether or not the proper authorities should be notified of the tenor of the remarks credited to the alderman.

After the resolution had been read, Comrade Joe Mackness declared that in his opinion the remarks made by Ald. Stocker were harmful to recruiting and should be dealt with as such.

"Dr. Fraser did splendid work as head of the Boy Scout Association. There is no finer gentleman in Peterborough than he is," declared Comrade Albert Hope.

An Efficient Officer.

"The fact is," said Vice-President Dan Douglas, "that Dr. Fraser was a very efficient officer, so efficient that Ald. Stocker could not do much with him. The expressions the alderman used were not at all decent. I very much regret that he did not open his mouth in November. He would have got his answer then."

"Here is a man,' another member said, "who served in the last war. He has offered himself again and has been accepted and the

Rumania Uses Nazis' Need Of Oil To Obtain Guns, Planes, Subs To Fight Off Reds

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16 — (A P). — Germany, in return for continued shipments of Rumanian oil, was reported to-day to be sending Rumania war implements and supplies which would help that country fight off any aggression in the Balkans.

Authoritative sources in Washington disclosed to-day that the Nazis had delivered 70 Hienkel bombing planes, 70 Hienkel pursuit planes, anti-tank guns and ammunition to the Rumanian army. Regular deliveries were continuing, these sources said.

All munitions and equipment contracted for the Rumanian government with the Skoda arms plant before the outbreak of war have been delivered, it was reported, and Germany has pledged deliveries of recently-ordered military supplies.

Skoda, one of Europe's greatest arms manufacturing plants, was taken over by Germany when the latter occupied Czecho-Slovakia.

In Rumania it is said to be common knowledge that Germany is shipping Diesel engines and periscopes to the Galatz (Rumania) Shipbuilding plant. German technical experts there are supervising construction of submarines, under German licence, for the Rumanian navy.

Germany's need of Rumanian oil is so great, it is pointed out by analysts of international affairs, that she is providing equipment and supplies which might be used against Russia, her partner, in order to ensure continued shipments.

Packers Know, But Producer, Ont. Ignored In Hog Deal, Dewan Admits

TORONTO, Jan. 16.—(CP).—Ontario Agricultural Department will start at once on its program to assure that there will be sufficient feed for the increased hog production expected in the province to meet the British bacon demand, Agriculture Minister Dewan said today in a memorandum presented to the Legislature Agriculture committee.

To meet the British quota of 40,000 hogs a week, Canada will have to produce 10,000 more hogs weekly than in 1939, said Mr. Dewan. Ontario's increased quota will be approximately half. Working through existing organizations, the Ontario Department will seek larger yields of feed per acre through better quality seed and more intensive cultivation.

A survey of available supplies of seed grain and small seed by district agricultural representatives is expected to be finished to-morrow and meetings will be held in halls, barns or seed cleaning plants to promote the production program.

At the moment there was a good supply of feed grains and bran and shorts available. Animal protein concentrates necessary to produce quality bacon were sufficient at the moment but prices have advanced. A shortage of dried buttermilk and dried skim milk for feeding purposes was becoming evident. Quality of Ontario cheese definitely improved in 1939, said Mr. Dewan.

"No doubt as the result of the bonus of one cent a pound on cheese scoring 93 and under and 2 cents for cheese scoring 94 and over."

Grow Soy Beans

Mr. Dewan urged that every farmer should grow enough soy beans for immediate requirements for his cattle.

The agricultural representatives will tell the farmers of the varieties best suited to particular districts. In 1939 more than 2,000 bushels of hybrid corn were produced in Ontario, said the minister.

Three year's tests have shown the superiority of hybrid corn over roginal strains.

Yields are seven to 10 bushels an acre higher and the hybrid which stands storms better, thus making harvesting easier.

Concerning potatoes, the minister said:

"The export of potatoes to the United Kingdom in any form, except seed, may not be great during the war, but Ontario should produce sufficient to meet home requirements and if necessary to replace other products more easily transported to Great Britain."

W. G. Nixon (Lib. Temiskaming) was re-elected chairman of the agriculture committee.

Only Packers Informed

While the packers know all the details of the Canadian bacon agreement with Britain, neither the Ontario Government nor the producers have been officially informed, Mr. Dewan said.

"I understand the packers know all the details of the agreement," said Mr. Dewan. "I hope the Dominion Government or the Bacon Board itself will let all the facts of the arrangement be known to the producers. They are entitled to this information. We have no official information ourselves in the matter."

Britain Sees Neutral Zone One Vast Sanctuary For Germany's Warcraft

Claims Safety Belt Involves Abandonment Of All Belligerents' Rights, Asks Pledge Of Barring German Trade

RIO DE JANEIRO, Jan. 16—(AP).—A Pan-American neutrality committee today sought concrete means of enforcing the 300-mile "neutrality zone" designed to keep South American and United States waters free from belligerent naval activities.

The committee has received Great Britain's note describing the zone as "ineffective" as outlined at present, but so far has made no formal comment upon it.

In a note to the President of Panama as representative of the 21 republics, Great Britain expressed concern that the zone would provide a "vast sanctuary" for German warcraft.

The note, released in London, declared the safety belt involved the abandonment of belligerents' rights and asked assurance that German merchantmen would not be permitted to engage in inter-American trade.

"Britain must be certain the zone would not be used to deprive the Allies of their fruits of superiority at sea," the note declared. It observed that "it would be necessary to intern" German merchant ships in American harbors if Britain is to forego the opportunity of capturing the vessels.

The note was in reply to a protest against violation of the zone delivered by Panama as representative of the republics after the December 13 battle between three British cruisers and the German pocket battleship Admiral Graf Spee off the coast of Uruguay. The Graf Spee was intercepted by the British vessels as she was shadowing the French merchantman Foremose.

The Tacoma's Crew

It was understood that Uruguay delegates had asked the committee for an expression of opinion on the interment of the crew of the German freighter Tacoma on the grounds it served as a supply ship to the Admiral Graf Spee before the warship was blown up off Montevideo Dec. 17.

The committee, consisting of seven experts named by the Pan American Union governing board, had for consideration in its closed session today the following proposals to enforce the zone:

We cannot make this resolution too strong."

Comrade W. L. Lewis, a member of the London, Ont., branch, who was a visitor at the meeting said that he had read of the occurrence in the newspapers and wondered if the people of Peterborough were going to stand for such an attack upon a man who had left the country with Canada's fighting forces.

"It seems a mean way to wait until a man has gone overseas and then bring up such a matter," said Comrade F. Biddle.

The motion was carried unanimously when put to the meeting, the members rising to their feet to support the resolution.

New Members Initiated.

It was a well-attended meeting and in addition to the Stocker matter was featured by the initiation of five new members by President Geo. Gimblett, who was in the chair. The baby legionnaires were H. S. Longhurst, 55th Battery, H. J. D. Jones, 4th Battalion, Harry Wood, 2nd Battalion, William Earl Green, 2nd Battalion, and Lavergne Neals, 1st Divisional Signallers, and assisting in the initiation ceremonies carried out in accordance with the Legion ritual, were Vice-Presidents Dan Douglas and Doug. Loomis and Comrade Robert Hotrum.

During the routine business portion of the meeting reports were given by Dan Douglas for the Finance Committee, Robert Hotrum for the House Committee, reporting the temporary appointment of Robt. Mitchell as caretaker and increased profits from the canteen, Robert Mitchell for the Entertainment and Recreation Committee, stating that the Wednesday night games were as popular as ever, and Harry Coit for the Sick Committee.

President Gimblett stated that every credit was due the Entertainment Committee which, since the games had been started a year ago, had turned in a profit of over $900.

A letter was read from Mrs. L. Gibson, with a donation of $100 from the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Legion and a vote of thanks was passed to the Auxiliary on motion of Vice-Presidetns Loomis and Douglas.

Other correspondence read by Secretary Gar. Torrance included letters of thanks from returned soldiers and their families who were remembered by the Legion in the Christmas season.

Ontario Session To Hum Now Says Hepburn

TORONTO, Jan. 16 — (CP). — Premier Mitchell Hepburn promises that the Ontario Legislature will be more active from now on than it has been since the opening last Wednesday.

The House sat for only 20 minutes yesterday and put a number of Government bills, most of them minor amendments to the statutes, through a committee stage. But the Premier promised to have enough legislation brought in this week to keep the Chamber humming.

The address of Lieut.-Col. George A. Drew, Conservative Leader, in resumption of the budget speech was expected to warm up proceedings to-day. The Premier's address is to follow and there is little likelihood the debate will end this week.

The Premier enlivened yesterday's brief sitting with an exchange arising from passage through the committee stage of an act respecting survivorship in common disasters. It provides that where two persons die simultaneously the elder shall be presumed to have died first, to prevent litigation over estates.

The Premier, speaking jocularly of "common disasters," recalled that Conservative Governments in Ontario and Saskatchewan were defeated on a single June day in 1934.

Col. Drew suggested that the alliance of Mr. Hepburn and former Premier Maurice Duplessis of Quebec met disaster when Mr. Duplessis' Government went to the polls recently and said the Premier evidently had changed his mind about the Ontario-Quebec axis.

"I don't care how many times I change my mind as long as I'm right in the finish," Mr. Hepburn said.

tary of war was to a question about the commissions in the army granted to men with different types of education.

"I regret the information asked for is not available," was the reply.

Prime Minister Chamberlain told the House that Germany apparently is pursuing a "policy of deliberate depopulation" in Poland and that it appeared intellectual leaders were being singled out for execution. He said it seemed clear that the number executed was "considerable."

Mr. Chamberlain said reports of executions were generally confirmed by such evidence as was available and that the Polish government planned to issue a white book on the subject.

Mr. Stanley left the House after the question hour and was not present when Mr. Hore-Belisha rose to make his personal statement. The resigned minister was given an ovation.

No Conflict of Policy

Discussing the reasons for his resignation, Mr. Hore-Belisha defended his co-workers in the army, declaring "I am reluctant to believe that any of the high officers with whom I have been associated would have been so unfaithful to the code which imbues the whole army as to make any representations irregularly, or that if he had done so it would have been countenanced."

The former minister said there had been, "so far as I know, no conflict of policy with any of my colleagues."

The Prime Minister must be free to make appointments as he sees fit, Mr. Hore-Belisha continued.

"His reasons may or may not commend themselves," he said. "I declined the Board of Trade post because I could not feel assurance that the consideration which had persuaded the Prime Minister to make the change would allow of my energetic discharge, in the national interest, of the other office."

Mr. Chamberlain, following the resigned Minister, told the House he had not heard of any serious difference of opinion between Mr. Hore-Belisha and the Army Council or any member of it, and no serving officer at any time ever had said one word to him which was inconsistent with his duty to his ministerial chief.

Policy Unchanged

He declared no change in army policy was to be anticipated in consequence of the change.

"It is natural to human nature," said the Prime Minister, "that changes which affect personalities, particularly when those personalities are as vigorous and well known as that of my right honorable friend, should attract sympathies and interests in an exceptional degree.

"There was no difference of policy between my right honorable friend and his colleagues. It ought to have been obvious that the resignation could not be connected with the reforms which had taken place because the cabinet shared the responsibility."

Denying he was faced with the alternative of releasing the Minister or receiving the resignations of officers holding high rank, Mr. Chamberlain said "that story is pure invention from beginning to end."

Wanted To Keep Him.

"I did not want to lose my right honorable friend," Mr. Chamberlain went on, "and, therefore, I offered him another very important post. I much regretted his decision but I respect it and do not make any complaint.

"I judge all matters by one criterion alone—whether they will or will not contribute toward the early and successful conclusion of the war."

He said that in war time it was essential that the machinery of government should work with a maximum of efficiency and a minimum of friction.

There was some commotion from the Opposition benches and shouts of "Put it all on the table!" and "Why don't you change yourself?" when the Prime Minister said:

"To make changes among his colleagues is often the most distasteful of all the duties that fall on the Prime Minister. If the man holding his office had to make public all his reasons for making a change it would be impossible to make any changes at all."

An indication that the change had been contemplated for some time before it was made was contained in Mr. Chamberlain's statement that he had been aware of difficulties but "I thought the changes could best be effected when I had to make other changes at the same time."

Prime Minister applause from government supporters began to punctuate his remarks. He sat down amidst prolonged cheers which almost drowned out his reference to the need of a united nation in time of war.

The Prime Minister, who followed him, received a les sorderly House. Labor members constantly interrupted to demand the real reason why Mr. Hore-Belisha was asked to resign.

"Be frank with us!" and "Tell us all about it," were thrown across the floor at the Prime Minister.

At the end the Belisha mystery was almost as big a mystery as ever. But it was quite apparent the former war minister would not desert the government ranks or attempt to make political capital out of the incident.

It was openly predicted in the lobbies that it would not be long until the resigned minister would be back in the government in a job of some sort.

HOW TO OVERCOME ITCHING PILES

If you are annoyed with itching piles or rectal soreness, do not neglect the same or run the risk of an operation. Any itching, soreness or painful passage of stool, is nature's warning and proper treatment should be secured at once. For this purpose get from McDermid & Jury and Bond's Drug Stores or any druggist, a package of Hemroid and use as directed. This formula, which is used internally, quickly relieves the itching and soreness and aids in healing the sore, tender spots. Hemroid is highly recommended, is easy to use and it seems the height of folly for anyone to risk an operation when a simple remedy, which is so pleasant to use may be had at such a reasonable cost. —(Advt.)

Two British Subs Sunk In Heligoland Bight Berlin Claims—Part Of Crews Saved; Admiralty Admits Not 2 But 3 Missing

LONDON, Jan. 16 — (CP). — The Admiralty to-day announced the British submarines Seahorse, Undine, and Starfish now are regarded as lost since they have failed to return to their bases or report during the past week.

The Starfish and Seahorse were sistership, belonging to the seagoing Swordfish class and having normal complements of 40 men each. Their surface displacement was 640 tons.

The Undine, 540 tons, was a smaller coastal type and normally carried 27 men.

Both the Starfish and the Seahorse were completed in 1933. Each had six 21-inch torpedo tubes and a three-inch deck gun.

The Undine was one of Britain's most modern submarines, having been completed in September, 1938. She had six 21-inch torpedo tubes but no deck gun.

BERLIN, Jan. 16—(AP).—Germany claimed today that two British submarines, the Undine and the Starfish, had been destroyed in Heligoland Bight and part of the crews rescued.

The German army high command's communique said:—

"The British submarines Starfish and Undine were destroyed through German defence measures in the German (Heligoland) Bight. Part of the crews were rescued."

The action was said to have taken place yesterday.

The Starfish, with a normal complement of 40 men, was a seagoing type of submarine completed in 1933, with a surface displacement of 640 tons, according to Jane's Fighting Ship.

The Undine, a coastal type with a normal crew of 27, was of 540 surface tons, completed in September, 1938.

Each was equipped with six 21-inch torpedo tubes.

A month ago the British Admiralty announced successes for two submarines in German waters, the Salmon and the Ursula, sister ships respectively of the Starfish and the Undine.

The Salmon sank a German submarine on December 12, let the German merchant liner Bremen pass the same day rather than attack her without warning, and the next day struck the 6,000-ton cruiser Leipzig and another German cruiser with torpedoets.

The Ursula was credited with sinking a German cruiser of the Koeln class on December 14.

"Nevertheless," the submission said, "to obtain the desired result, the collaboration of employees is as necessary as that of Labor Unions. The surest means of assuring it lies in the generalization of collective labor agreements.

"The Federal administration should find it easy to reach an understanding with the Provincial Governments, in view of the exceptional circumstances of the present time, legally to oblige both em-

Passenger Train Strikes Auto

Harry T. Miller, 571 Elm Street, an employee of the Canadian Raybestos Company, had a narrow escape from serious injury at noon to-day when his automobile was struck on the Lake Street crossing of the C.N.R. by a south-bound passenger train, the noon train for Port Hope.

Miller was driving west on Lake Street and failed to notice the oncoming train, driving on the rails just in time to get hit. Fortunately the train was travelling slowly and although the automobile was pushed to the side of the road by the impact it was not badly damaged and the driver escaped uninjured.

Miller said afterward that he did not see or hear the train until it was too late to avert an accident.

The Stars Say . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Wednesday, January 17.

A difficult though not dull day is forecast from the mixed astrological portents. There may be an unexpected change, journey or other upheaval, probably of a rather unsatisfactory or depressing nature, possibly incited by a below-par status of health or illness at home. All may combine to create disagreements or want of approbation from employers, superiors, or those in authority. However, there will be social or affectional compensations.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year of unforeseen change, with removal or travel, possibly connected with changed employment or conflict with employers or others in authority. Illness or depressi may be at the root of such adverse conditions which will be benefited by the change of scene. There also will be domestic social or emotional comforts, with sympathy and understanding.

A child born on this day may be talented, creative and original, either in art, science or invention, although its delicate health may prove a detrimental factor to high success unless it be given proper care in its early years.

Delightful Costume Recital Is Presented By Westbye Sisters

The costume recital of duets and songs by Olga and Margaret Westbye in the Y.W.C.A. Recreation Room Monday evening, presented before a capacity audience, was an enjoyable event of the music season. The young artists are from the studio of Dorothy Allan Park, and were accompanied at the piano by Gwen Craw.

The second half of the program was sung in charming costume, Miss Olga in a quaint frock of orchid satin—Miss Margaret in rose, and Mrs. Craw in pastel pink.

A group of delightful British folk songs, arranged with descants by Evelyn Sharpe, opened the program, the two voices showing the great similarity that was to make the duet work outstanding throughout the evening.

A group of six beautiful Grieg songs displayed the control of pianissimo possessed by both singers. The delicate freshness of Miss Maragret Westbye's voice made a fine complement to the fine variety of tona' colouring that characterized her sister's sinning.

Possibly the most outstanding singing of the evening was heard in the four duets by the great Henry Purcell. The technical difficulties were surmounted with such ease that the talented singers received a real ovation. The second and fourth in this group will linger in the memory of all who heard these exquisite songs of a bygone age.

The group of early Italian songs and five 'Songs of Old London," were sung with beauty and understanding, both young artists giving interesting verbal explanations that added greatly to the enjoyment of the numbers.

Miss Olga Westbye demonstrafed her fine dramatic ability in A. A. Milne's "King's Breakfast." She gave a most amusing interpretation, combining the spoken narrative and the sung verses with humorous appreciation of the clever verses. Mrs. Craw's work was outstanding in this delightful musical nonsense and her artistic support throughout the evening was a large factor in its success.

The complete program follows: British Airs, arranged by Evelyn Sharps, (1) 17th Century Tune, "Gathering Daffodils"; (2) Old Irish Air, "The Gentle Maiden" (3) Old Irish Air, "The Snowy Breasted Pearl"; Songs by Edward Grieg, 1843-1907; "Sunset"; "Marguerite's Cradle Songs"; "Rosebud" (sung by Miss Margaret Westbye), "My Song Shall Be Thy Sweet Spring-time"; "The Princess"; "Good Morning" (sung by Olga Westbye). Duets by Henry Purcell, 1658-1695, "Let Us Wander" "My Dearest, My Fairest"; "Shepherd Leave Decoying"; "Sound the Trumpet."

Group of Early Italian Songs (Miss Margaret Westbye). Alessandro Scarlatti, 1659-1725, O cessate di piagarmi; Giacomo Carissimi, 1604-1708, Vittoria, mio core; Guiseppe Torelli, 1650-1708, Tu lo sai. "Songs of Old London' by Herbert Oliver; "Londoin Spring Song"; "May Day at Islington;" "Down Vauxhall Way" (Olga), "The Nightingales of Lincoln's Inn"; "Buy My Strawberries" (Margaret).

"The King's Breakfast" by A. A. Milne, with music by Fraser-Simon, introducing the following characters, The King, the Dairymaid the Queen, the Cow, alias "The Alderney"; Godfrey, Nutting, "Sing! Sing! Birds on the Wing." and Old Scottish Air, "The Keel Row," (sung by Olga Westbye).

May Reopen Registration Roll

Requests to reopen enrollment in connection with the Voluntary Registration of Canadian Women are coming in from all over the Dominion, Senator Iva Fallis, national chairman, remarked on Monday. Members of the committee in charge of this scheme feel that registration might have been more satisfactory at the time it opened if women had realized, as they do now, how greatly it was needed, and had not confused it with other enrollments in connection with war work.

"Unless the Ottawa government decides to undertake national registration, which is unlikely, there is a strong possibility that registration will reopen in the spring," Senator Fallis said.

West of the Great Lakes there has been a much greater interest taken in registration than in the East. In the Prairie Provinces, women went on horseback to spread word of the scheme throughout the rural areas, and telephone operators gave the "alarm ring," bringing every housewife to the 'phone, as a unique method of broadcasting this information.

Although figures are not yet complete, the response from the Province of British Columbia has been remarkable. From Vancouver, Victoria and the southern areas mainly, comes word of 32,000 registrations—very little work having been done in the Peace River district and all isolated places. Senator Fallis expressed regret that Ontario has not measured up as well in proportion to its population and opportunities.

Through the registration committee, over 600 women have been place in positions in and around Toronto, said Senator Fallis. Indexing in other parts of Canada have not as yet been completed.

DOROTHY DIX

Parents Must Remember That Girls Today At Fourteen Are Just As Worldly Wise As Their Mothers Were At Twenty And Should Base Their Guidance Accordingly.

DEAR MISS DIX—I live with my in-laws and we get along very peaceably together, but I have a problem in what to do about my girl, who is 14 and just beginning to go out with the boys. My father-in-law is very strict and he objects to her going out even with her girl friends. Every time she steps out he wants to know where she is going, how long she is going to stay, etc., and if she isn't home on the dot he is very much displeased. I can't say anything because I don't want to make trouble in the house, but my daughter thinks she is very badly treated. What privileges do you think a girl of that age should have?—A TROUBLED MOTHER.

ANSWER:

I do not think that any girl of 14 should be permitted to go to parties or have boys come to see her or step out with boys during the school week. For the minute the girl gets boy-crazy and has her mind on good times instead of her books her education virtually ceases. Week-ends you may grant her more liberty and let her go to subdeb affairs and the movies with boys you know. But she should be home by 12.30 at the latest. Growing children need their sleep.

There is no question harder to solve than how much liberty an adolescent girl should have when she first begins to emerge from childhood. She is so young, so ignorant of the world, so helpless to take care of herself, and she is so threatened on every side with dangers that she does not even perceive. And she is so avid for life, for pleasure, for excitement. So curious about the new world she is entering; so thrilled over the discovery that she has power to attract the opposite sex; so certain that she knows all the answers; so resentful of parental control and so determined to live what she calls her own life.

Who knows how light and strong must be the rein with which the modern girl must be driven to keep her going a steady gait instead of her either kicking over the traces and bolting or else balking? In considering this problem parents must bear in mind two facts that we oldsters do not always remember: One is that we have speeded up youth just as we have everything else and that a girl of 15 is really as old and sophisticated as her mother was at 20. The other day I heard a woman say: "When I was 15 I was playing with dolls, but at 15 my daughter is playing with life."

And that is true. Mamie has studied biology at school. She has grown up at the movies. She has read all the books that used to be taboo to the young person. And so she is older than she looks. She is not the baby her parents and her grandparents think she is. Then, Mamie's guardians must realize that children as well as grown people must do in Rome as the Romans do. They must conform to the customs that rule their community. They can't make their own code of conduct for Mamie, much as they might like to. She must go with the gang or else be shelved and left by her lonesome.

This is inhuman cruelty so far as Mamie sees it, because she is young and her feet ache to dance and her soul longs to be out having a good time with the other youngsters. Worse than that, being segregated from the herd blights Mamie's chances not only of having a good time, but of marrying. Many a girl passes into being an old maid because her father was too strict with her and wouldn't let her have boy friends until she was so old the boy friends didn't want her.

And another thing parents must remember is that if they are too strict with Mamie all that they accomplish is making her a liar and taking away from her all the protection that a home offers a girl. When they lock the door on her she climbs out of the window, and if they forbid nice boys the house she picks up cowboy sheiks at the corner drug store.

So the best bet with Mamie is to play fair wit her. Give her her head a little, but keep a firm hand on the reins.

DEAR MISS DIX—When I was 23 I married a woman five years my senior and soon learned that we had nothing in common. We never wanted to do the same things or have the same pleasures, and I have stood it about as long as I can. We don't quarrel much, but I have lost all taste for her and cannot do and say the little things that would make her happy. I know she is unhappy, too, though she denies it, but she does this to save her face and keep our home together, as we have a child 11 years old. She is good-looking and could easily get another man. I would give anything to be married to some woman who was compatible, and I think she would also like a husband who would be more congenial than I am. What must we do?—JOHN.

ANSWER:

You have a charming plan for rearranging you and your wife's lives. You are to swap her off for some woman who is nearer to your heart's desire, and she is to exchange you for a more appreciative husband.

It seems such a satisfactory arrangement that it is a pity to throw cold water on the scheme by suggesting that there is a hitch in it. There is somebody you have failed to take into consideration—the 11-year-old child that you brought into the world. What are you going to do about him? How do you think he is going to like the new deal? Do you thing he is going to like having no permanent home, but being a sort of little tramp, spending his life being shifted from pillar to post between his father's house and his mother's house? Children are funny about liking their own homes and their own things. They strike roots deep down into the home soil and they do not flourish if they are dug up and transplanted too often.

Do you think your boy would love his stepmother in the way he loves his own mother, or that any stepfather could take your place with him? Do you think that any other man would take the interest in rearing your boy into the kind of a man you would like him to be that you would? You know well enough that the divorce of parents blights every child's life, and that is an awful price to pay for your own selfish happiness.

Chest Wheezing Means Bronchitis

The principal symptom of bronchitis is a dry, harsh, hacking cough accompanied with a rapid wheezing and feeling of tightness across the chest.

There is a rising of phlegm, especially in the morning. This phlegm is at first of a light color, but as the disease progresses becomes yellowish or greenish, and is sometimes streaked with blood.

You will find in Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup a remedy to stimulate the weakened bronchial organs, subdue the inflammation, soothe the irritated parts, loosen the phlegm and mucus, and help nature to easily dislodge the morbid accumulation.

Admittedly It Is Confusing

Moscow has warned Norway and Sweden that newspapers in those countries must cease making attacks on Russia, and there must also come an end to the business of allowing military supplies for Finland to pass through their territory. Likewise the act of allowing men to cross their territory when joining the Finnish army must be eliminated. These Scandinavian people must leave Finland alone and allow Russia to have her way without interruption. Answers have been sent to Moscow by Norway and Sweden, but Molotoff declares the replies are not at all satisfactory. (In which case they fall into the same rating as the Russian invasion of Finland).

What will come of this we do not profess to know. It is all part of a situation which is becoming complicated. No person knows what was written in the pact between Russia and Germany. The belief that it had to do merely with the spoiling of the land of the Poles and the rearrangement of affairs in the Baltic area appears too shallow. It is entirely within reason to say it included much else.

Germany always entertained the hope of controlling the Danube, and would not welcome Russia being in the way if she sought to come into possession of what Germans term their life-line to the Black Sea.

Russia also has a dream which would be the invasion of Afghanistan and the cutting through of India to the Arabian Sea. Russia is immediately north of Afghanistan and Baluchistan. There have been reports in recent days of Russian troops being gathered in that area, but no move has been made.

Germany is interested to the point of being forced to make a decision, and here again there is doubt because no one knows whether Germany wants to keep Russia tied up in something difficult or try to have her actions centred elsewhere. Germany counted on a good deal from Russia in the way of supplies which she has not been getting and which she is less likely to receive in future because Russia needs everything she has to pull her own chestnuts from the fire.

The warning of the Scandinavian nations may be something which Russia is doing because she has to do something, but we doubt if Germany will back that move. It is just as likely that Berlin would advise Stalin to return to his former dream of extending his territory down through Afghanistan toward the Persian Gulf or the Arabian Sea. In that way Germany would be relieved of having to give active aid to Stalin and it would give Stalin a chance to try in a new sphere to recover the prestige lost in Finland.

Stalin's other dream is that of domination of the Black Sea and that means marching through Rumania, and if he ever makes a move there it means more war at once because Turkey, Bulgaria and Italy would fight such an invasion and it would also interfere with Hitler's plan of domination of the Danube which empties into the Black Sea through Rumania.

We admit that is confusing all the way through, but it is exactly what is in the mind of world thinkers today. It is giving rise to the belief that Germany must strike soon against the Allies on land, something which has not yet been done in a serious way. If the blow does not come soon then complications arising out of the tie-up with Russia may force Germany to fight on two fronts, and that is something which German strategy will avoid if possible. The day is close for major engagements.

He Stands High

When Winston Churchill became First Lord of the British Admiralty there were those who brought out at once the blunder he made in seeking to force the Dardanelles in the last war, and at once they concluded he would not do.

Today one hears or reads nothing of the kind about Churchill. He appears to command respect and confidence, and one reason for it can be found in his attitude toward the raid of the German submarine in Scapa Flow several months ago, when Britain was shocked that such a thing could possible have taken place. British people believed Scapa Flow was so thoroughly mined and guarded that an enemy vessel could never enter and depart. But it was done.

Churchill had come to the Admiralty post about that time, and it would have been easy enough for him, had he been seeking an alibi, to have let it be known it was the poor work or the neglect of others. But he said no such thing. Churchill could not be blamed, but if there were any blame going he could put out his chin and take it. Right there we believe Churchill was reinstated in the good will of Britain.

So They Shot Them

Peter Becker of Hay Tp., in Huron county, bought a pair of black bears from a man in Baden, who had received them from some individual in Northern Ontario. They were no longer cubs for one was 300 pounds and the other 250, and Farmer Becker had kept them tied up on his property. A couple of days ago Mr. Becker's father had been badly clawed by one of the animals and they were both becoming decidedly ugly.

Then they broke loose and the countryside was alarmed. Children were kept indoors and adults were none too keen about going out. It was necessary to bring in a number of constables and finally one who used a sawed-off shotgun despatched the animals. They were tracked to a farm property three miles from where they belonged.

Why any person would want to keep a couple of black bears tied up on the premises is too deep for the average mind to fathom. It would be necessary to feed the animals, and two bears of 250 and 300 pounds would require a deal of stoking. They would never be pets, nor is there any useful service they could perform. At best it was a miserable trick to play on the bears from the day they were caught up north and shipped down to Baden and then on to Huron county. No wonder they turned ugly. The people who kept them in captivity forced an ugliness upon them which the black bear does not possess in his native haunts.

Can't Go Wrong Here

Not very often does a newspaper care to recommend an investment. But there is no doubt about the present Government War Loan. That is one place where the person with much or little money cannot go wrong. A Federal Government Loan takes precedence in the matter of security and the reason is that the Government has the power to compel revenue to discharge its obligations. Your bond, in case of necessity, will always find a buyer.

There is the added feature of participation in the country's war effort. With many people that will be of prior interest at the moment. It may be you have only a small amount you can invest, but the answer to that is that the bonds have been brought down to $50 and $100 denominations, and when you clip your coupons there is no doubt about cashing them. They will be honored any place.

Today is the time to attend to this if you have not already done so. We recommend it as a war effort or as a safe investment, or as a combination of both. If your money is not safe in a Government Bond then there is no safety to be found.

Starting a New Paper

Ralph McAllister Ingersoll announces that a new evening paper will appear in New York on June 1. The name is not announced, but one feature will be the absence of advertising as such, although advertised articles will be treated as news for the benefit of readers, but this service will not be sold to advertisers. The paper will be sold for five cents and that will provide the needed revenue. There are a good many people who will admit that a paper devoted to news only should be a good thing. If the New York paper is sold regularly at 5 cents per copy it would mean a subscription price of $15.60 per year.

News in this proposed paper will be brief, but "background, interpretation and significance" will be featured. We had a feeling when starting to read the announcement that these things would be mentioned. There have been a number of papers entering the field as weekly publications, and always they seek to create the feeling that they alone can delve into that peculiar stuff called "background" and "interpretation." They profess to claim they can and will tell the reader something which the daily newspaper is afraid to say or something which the daily paper does not know. In some mysterious manner they will tell the public why Ribbentrop went to Moscow and why Mussolini does not go to Berlin to scratch Hitler's back.

The plain truth is that writers on these papers where background and interpretation are features have little chance to find out anything that is not known. Background and interpretation are merely other words for speculation, and the creation of the feeling that there are a half dozen keyholes in Europe through which these writers can look exclusively is the worst kind of journalistic nonsense ever dumped on a gullible public.

However we do admire the people who have enough backbone and common sense to say they are going to charge five cents for their paper, but we wish they were not going heavily into the "background and interpretation" business. For that is just a dressed up way of describing plain guessing.

Short Of Editors

Possibly some of the larger papers have a sufficient supply of editors to care for all the communications which come addressed to a newspaper office. But the smaller daily papers have not; of that we are sure to the point of being positive about it.

At one time or another we have received letters addressed to various people who are supposed to be in this office. The list may not be complete, but as we have kept jotting them down from day to day it has grown to this size:

Editor	Sports Editor
Managing Editor	Women's Editor
Editor-in-Chief	Cable Editor
Chief Editorial Writer	City Editor
Financial Editor	District Editor
Dramatic Editor	Moving Picture Editor
Radio Editor	Farm Editor
Feature Editor	Sunday Editor

So it must be that in the smaller offices a person has to be three, four, five or six times an editor. We can't send all the letters back and say we have no such individual around the place. The sad truth is that a great many of the communications contain something or other which ought to be of great interest to our readers, although it is of greater interest to the person who sent it in. But at the moment we have not enough aditors to go around and fit in with all those addresses on the incoming envelopes.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Quebec lady who has reached the 100 years mark says the way to live long is to keep happy, and that's not a bad idea for any age.

United States farm income the first 11 months of 1939 was placed at $6,360,000,000 and that is an enormous amount. But it is well to remember the number of farmers there is also enormous.

Two Indians from Port Franks went out shooting rabbits and brought home a couple of wolves. Something like shooting at clay pigeons and bringing down a bear.

A farmer who found no results from a "No Trespassing" sign on his premises, was delighted when he changed the sign to read "Beware the Bull on This Property."

Newspaper reports say the Dionne Quints "Take $20,000 of War Loan." Or is it not a fact that Guardians did it for them and the quints know nothing about it?

Soviet Russia developed a secret weapon to use against Finland, a sled tank. The Finns captured them, tried them out and said they didn't think much of them.

There were 441 reported traffic accidents in Peterborough in 1939 and four of them were fatal. And that means 17 accidents each two-weeks period. This is a very fine city, but that is a very nasty record.

Police say they have no clues about the man who robbed a Baden bank of $960. There is one clue there which is present in every similar case—the robber had a revolver. And that one clue keeps on sticking up like a sore thumb.

We notice where an award of $12,000 has been made in one traffic case tried in court. Perhaps such an item does not interest you, but it may if you pause to consider that the insurance rates you pay on your car are probably based on that and similar awards.

DECISION

(By A.H.R.)

¶ My friends go forth in winter time, where sun in heat will daily shine, to sniff the softened air; they need no mittens on their hands, when stopping in those favored lands, no winter underwear.

¶ And there they have no chores to do, their daily efforts are quite few, they say it's quite a change; they heave no snow from here to there, no hold their ears in winter air, no crank the kitchen range.

¶ They hang their vest upon a chair, content to leave it staying there, no earlaps on their bean; they fritter out their happy hours, at sniffing at the colored flowers, see everything so green.

¶ And then they write back cards to me, explaining what there is to see, and what they find to do; they add they wish that I was there, they have for me a vacant chair, and I'll be welcome too.

¶ And palm trees wave upon each card, with posies blooming in the yard,
I gaze upon each one; I see 'em sitting in a chair, just sopping up the balmy air, and browning in the sun.

¶ I pay the rent and buy some coal, and find I'm slightly in the hole, I've got the chores to do; I'll wrap a quilt around my chest, and face the wind from north and west—and see the winter through.

Stalin Now Has To Ask Germany To Lead Him Out

MONTREAL.—This war is the end of Stalin and the end of Communism in Russia, declared General Kerensky, head of the Provisional Government in Russia in 1917, and later picturesque leader of the anti-Red forces, who came here to speak as the People's Forum.

To General Kerensky it was no surprise that Hitler and Stalin kissed and made up, for they had been ideologically identical for some time. Most people in Russia were against present Kremlin organization, and would be glad to help otherthrow it. There would be some internal trouble there, perhaps in the early future, which would oust Stalin and his crowd, he predicted.

General Kerensky doesn't look as old as he is, particularly when he takes off his thick-lens glasses. He speaks in a loud, almost booming voice, with a noticeable Russian accent, but his vocabulary is amazing. He is equally fluent in French.

In speaking of the present offensive against Finland by the Russians, General Kerensky demanded:

"What is an army without brains? In 1937 Stalin destroyed all his best Red generals, especially his general staff. He got rid of 25,000 of them. After that happened, I wrote in a Russian paper that this was a national catastrophe, and that the defensive power of the U.S.S.R. was thereby completely disorganized. So today you have the shameful picture of a country of 160,000,000 people, a colossal country, unsuccessful against a little country like Finland. Russia today is in chaos, paralyzed by the present regime."

Three things worked against Russia today. General Kerensky pointed out. First, no army could win on numbers alone. Secondly, to win a war today, there must be excellent transport. The Reds' transport also is in chaos. Thirdly, a government must organize quick supplies of food, and be able to move those supplies rapidly.

"Today in Finland," said Kerensky, "the Red soldiers are fighting without shoes, food, and medical supplies in many instances. Their feet are frozen—how can men fight in that way? They have no gloves. You Canadians know you cannot touch steel in zero weather with bare hands.

"WHAT is more, the Russian people do not understand the aims of this war. The majority of the soldiers do not want to fight for the glory of Stalin and the Third Internaitonalle."

Kerensky also said this war was part of Stalin's vast plan. World revolution was impossible in peace. But just as Lenin and Trotsky chose their time in the last war to make an external war an internal one, so did Stalin hope European countries would break up internationally in this war.

"It is their hope that Europe at the end of this war will be like Russia at the end of the last war, and therefore ripe for an internal revolution," he said.

"But this war is not popular with the Russian people, most of whom secretly are against the present regime."

"Will the regime keep power?" he was asked.

"For Stalin, I am sure it is the beginning of the end," Kerensky said.

In his Forum address he urged his large audience not to confuse the desires of the Russian people with the objects of the Stalinist regime.

"Civil war has been going on in Russia for the past 20 years," Kerensky said; "for the vast majority of Russians do not like Bolshevism. If they liked it by this time the Bolsheviks would have been able to build up an independent economy of their own. By this time they would have been able to create a serf army that with the Germans would have been unconquerable. But they have failed in both these objects."

In Kerensky's opinion Stalin has long plotted war in Europe, feeling that only through war and the resultant chaos can the democratic governments be overturned.

Hitler gained the knowledge that Germany would not have to fight on two fronts out of the pact with Stalin. The Russian leader gained non-interference on the part of Germany in the re-establishment of Russian control of the Baltic republics and of eastern Poland.

"Supposing that he had got the same terms from France and Britain," Mr. Kerensky said, "What would his position be now? The Germans, having taken Warsaw, would have advanced just as easily into the Ukraine as they did into Poland, for Stalin had killed off all the generals and all the officers who had warned him of the inherent weakness of the Bolshevik system.

"Stalin is now absolutely dependent upon the goodwill of the Germans for his continued existence."

PERENNIAL

WE HAVE SEEN Owen Sound under license, local option, O.T.A. and L.C.A. And it has always had some bootleggers — especially under license when every one of the eleven licensed bar rooms was accessible 24 hours in the day and seven days in the week. In addition to the unlicensed places on the outskirts. It is not immaculate now, though the police are doing good work; but the Owen Sound of today, is as different from that of 1900 as day is from night. Which does not seem to be the case with Windsor with a "legal" beverage room for about every 1,000 of its population.—Owen Sound Sun-Times.

• What To Do With Communists ?

IN THE Ontario Legislature a talk has arisen, in which leaders of both parties have gravely considered the idea of barring Communists from election to municipal councils—and, of course, by parity of reasoning, from the Legislature. And, of course, it is just a joke. A joke solemnly put on, with the idea of letting people know how much our politicians abhor Communism. The cold fact is that probably hardly any member of the Legislature, including the leaders, could give you a useful definition of what Communism is. They think it is something terrible, and so do most people in this country, because they think it is necessarily represented by Soviet Russia, which is nominally Communist.

But the Communist is not necessarily a Bolshevik.

The Ontario Legislature cannot frame any law to bar Communists as electoral candidates, for the simple reason that the Legislature would have first to define what Communism is. Now, here is what the Oxford Dictionary of the English Language says Communism is:

"Vesting of property in the community, each member working according to his capacity, and receiving according to his wants."

Let us imagine, therefore, the Ontario Legislature setting forth to frame a law like this:

"Nobody shall be a candidate in elections who believes in each member of the community working according to his capacity and receiving according to his wants."

Or let us suppose that the Attorney-General of Ontario who is one of those who seems to think that Communists should be taboo, may go to the Encyclopedias to decide how to define Communism. Here is what he will get from the Encyclopedias:

"Communism is, broadly speaking, a plan for the reconstruction of economic society along lines at variance with the present dominant social arrangements called Capitalism.... Common ownership of the means of production....equality in the distribution of goods."

The real menace of Communism lines in the fact that some of its prophets—not Carl Marx, the chief—have advocated violence to achieve its aims; and that some of its followers would like to try violence. Well—law of the majority can attend to that, so long as the majority is not Communistic. So far as The Journal is concerned a Communist who advocates violence should be put in jail—as indeed he can be under our present laws. But if he merely argues peaceably our idea is that he has as much right to argue as anybody else; and to be elected to anything if he can find enough people to vote for him.

We are for free speech, free ballot and free elections, even for people whose views we don't like, so long as they propose to be peaceful. Authority, even the authority of a Legislature, should not be used to suppress free expression of opinion which aims only to influence votes. We do not believe in tyranny by a majority any more than in tyranny by a dictator.—Ottawa Journal.

• Keeping The Russians In Ignorance

MOMENTOUS things have been happening to the Russian army in Finland and the Russian people must be wondering why things appear to be going so slowly since the day, five weeks ago, that they were informed the Finns had invaded Russia. Certain progress was reported the first week or two, but during the last two weeks the Soviet bulletins, except for one guarded admission, have laconically announced that "there is nothing of importance to report." Illiterate as most Russians are, they must suspect all is not well. The grapevine routes in Russia, notes St. Thomas Times-Journal, operate effectively; they have been part of the Russian system for generations because the revolutionaries had to find ways of thwarting the secret Czarist police. If the news that filters back is even no worse than it should be—and it will probably be worse because stories of disaster grow in the telling—even Stalin may be shaken off his throne. Foreign correspondents are agreed that he is in a precarious position and that the foundation of it is peace.

The Communist regime has always clamped down a firm censorship. Dr. Goebbels' department in Germany is almost an exact copy. It was one of the things the Nazis took from their political foes at a time when they were condemning everything Russian as evil. It suppresses and it manufactures. Last May the Communists suddenly changed their policy. They allowed foreign writers a free hand to send our what stories they cared to write. That decree was recently stopped. The reason for this is now clear. Away back then, not long after the Russians were negotiating with the Anglo-French mission over Poland, Stalin had evidently made up his mind to come to an agreement with Nazi Germany if he failed to get what he wanted from the British and the French. Stalin realized that the making of such a pact with Germany would annihilate the effects of Communist propaganda against Germany for years past so there was no purpose in continuing the censorship.

The war with Finland has changed the picture. Stalin must hide Soviet weaknesses as far as he can. News is now juggled in such a way that official Russian reports get a day's priority over outgoing dispatches from correspondents. As these are censored anyway, the combined result is to counteract, for what it may be worth, the effect of reports interpreted by foreign writers.

But as all the world, except perhaps Germany, knows what is happening in Finland, Stalin appears to be dealing with his problem at the wrong source. He should reorganize his army.

FUMBLED

FOR WEEKS after war broke out we watched men drilling without uniforms, even without boots, and we were not too harsh in our criticism of a government which had declared that its policy was not to recognize events until after they had occurred. We have been wrathy, but relatively silent, at a censorship which seemed stupid, but which the authorities stated was necessary, even to the extent that when 5,000 people watched a Hamilton unit move off for an "unannounced destination," the Spectator was forbidden to mention it for fear the enemy might learn of our troops movements. But yesterday it was different. On Saturday and Sunday the radio carried an official announcement that reinforcements would be recruited for the C.A.S.F. units. On Monday morning hundreds of men besieged the recruiting offices, many coming from long distances in their desire to enlist. They were told that no "formal" order had been received from headquarters. Somebody blundered. Who? And why?—Hamilton Spectator.

WITHIN HIS RIGHTS

BECAUSE W. E. N. Sinclair, of Oshawa, onetime Liberal leader in Ontario, has been somewhat critical of the Hepburn Government in respect to its relationship to the municipalities, the Premier speaks of Mr. Sinclair as being "politically dead."

Mr. Sinclair may be politically dead inasmuch as he happens to be out of politics at this time, but this does not take from him the right to inspect and criticize the acts of those now occupying office. And certainly Mr. Sinclair is properly interpreting public opinion in this province when he takes issue with Mr. Hepburn's proposal to curtail the right of municipal voters through extending the terms of municipal office-holders. The people have definitely registered their opposition to that idea. —Windsor Star.

NOT A SECRET

WHEN the Edmonton Regiment left here some three weeks ago four or five thousand persons were at the station to bid the soldiers au revoir and good luck. Yet the newspapers had not announced the impending departure.

Stranger still, although everyone in Edmonton knew late that afternoon that the regiment had gone, the newspapers were not permitted to publish pictures or an account of the departure. Obviously, the troop movement was not kept secret simply by prohibiting publication of the information in the newspapers.—Edmonton Journal.

WITH PIPES AT PEACE

SPENCER LEIGH HUGHES, member of Parliament and writer of considerable renown, was one of those rare spirits who find their greatest amusement in laughing at themselves.

Once, at a public dinner at a famous Holborn restaurant, Hughes was preparing to propose a toast, when a bagpiper, belonging to a party of Scots in an adjoining room began to skirl merrily upon his pipes.

The speaker paused, waited until the piping ceased, then dryly remarked: "Now that the rival windbag in the next room has finished, I will proceed."—Wall Street Journal.

GULLIBLE GERMANS

THIS inordinate gullibility, which has been a German characteristic for centuries, can turn into fury when the full extent of the deception becomes clear. Little by little, over the years, they learn. I believe they will learn from the fire and steel of the west, that Hitler has failed to tell them the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth.

The German, sooner or later, is going to find out how he has been fooled, and his rage will turn not on foreigners as much as on those who have fooled him, the Nazi leaders. —Vincent Sheehan, U.S. Writer.

Quite Honest

A lady with a very nice house and garden took in two little brothers, evacuated from a nearby town.

She did all she could to make them happy and comfortable. Evidently she was successful. After the first week, she asked them:

"Are you both quite happy here?"

"Oh, yes!" came in chorus; then the older lad, aged eleven, added:

"If I had known it was such a nice house, I would have brought my watch with me."

A Bible Message For Today . . . .

News Is Speeded In Test Of Facsimile

TORONTO, Jan. 16—An intriguing laboratory plaything only a few years ago, a novel exhibition piece as late as last September, facsimile news transmission has moved solidly into the business world within the past two months, it was learned yesterday, and is now in full-time operation on one of the heaviest traffic circuits in the world.

Chosen by the world's largest news-gathering agency, to supplement its elaborate telegraph and teletype equipment for the rapid transmission of news to member papers, Hogan facsimile machines are now being used to speed important news copy by wireless over a 660-mile air jump from New York to Chicago. Functioning at a speed of 300 words a minute—almost six times as fast as teletype transmission—the facsimile equipment has been handling a daily flow of copy amounting to hundreds of thousands of words.

The equipment used is identical with that placed on exhibit by The Globe and Mail at the Canadian National Exhibition last fall, by means of which war bulletins were flashed to Exhibition Park throughout the day, and over which the first news story ever transmitted by facsimile in Canada was sent from Exhibition Park to The William H. Wright Building on August 23.

Major Triumph

Selection of the Hogan facsimile machine and its consistent performance over a period of several weeks is regarded as a major triumph for its inventor, J. V. L. Hogan, one-time radio technician, who has watched his product grow from the stage of vague theory to accomplished fact. The machine can be operated over a telephone or telegraph circuit, or by wireless.

Indication that the revolutionary equipment is on the verge of other important commercial adaptations is seen in the fact that the apparatus has already been subjected to rigid tests by at least one important military power and has passed each test with flying colors. Its next news transmisison test will be between New York and Paris.

Operated over a land line, described by military authorities as "the worst circuit imaginable" for telephone reception, the machine functioned perfectly, carrying despatches and maps and reproducing them clearly. Results obtained in wireless trials were equally successful. Static and other disturbances seriously affecting radio reception had virtually no effect on facsimile transmisison, it was reported. In many tests conditions had been too bad for receiving radio programs, but facsimile copy had come through with perfect clarity.

Higher Earnings For Mutual Life

Preliminary figures on the year's operations just released by The Mutual Life of Canada at the conclusion of seventy years of business show continued progress during 1939. The company has maintained an unbroken record of growth in insurance in force since its establishment in 1869.

New insurance written during the past year amounted to $45,525,000 (excluding annuities and revivals) compared with $44,855,000 in 1938, while insurance in force increased by $13,010,000 to a total of $572,110,000.

Total assets at the end of the 70th year reached $187,635,000, an increase of $8,660,000 in 1939. Surplus earnings were $4,765,000 as compared with $4,650,000 in 1938. Payments to policyholders and beneficiaries were $15,130,000.

Anglo-French Bond Should Hold In Peace Says Envoy To Canada

MONTREAL, Jan. 16 — (CP). — Count Robert de Dampierre, French Minister to Canada, said to-day the sort of peace France desires will be possible only if the present co-operation between France and Great Britain is continued successfully after the war.

Count de Dampierre told the Montreal Canadian Club this co-operation now constitutes a marvellous instrument of war which after peace has been restored, should remain as clase and as trustful as it is to-day.

"This co-operation of two great Empires which ask nothing of anyone, and want, for themselves, and for others, only the opportunity of leading a free life devoted to useful work, and not punctuated by the steps of marching legions, will, in the world of to-morrow, ensure the supremacy—for all time, let us hope—of our Christian civilization with its principles of humanity, of solidarity, of progress and of peace."

The minister said that when the time comes to draw up the terms of peace, those responsible "will certainly have sufficient imagination to find solutions which will satisfy at the same time our desire for equal justice for all and our imperative need of permanent security."

He saw reflected in the words of the French philosopher, Pascal, the kind of peace France seeks: "Justice without might is a contradiction, because there are always evil men; might without justice stands accused. Justice and might should go hand in hand; we should therefore see that what is just is strong, and that what is strong is just."

Count de Dampierre said a French writer had expressed the situation aptly when he declared that "Germany is entitled to be Germany, but her right in that respect should end there."

Love For Canada

"Need I tell you that the step taken by the Canadian parliament had a profound effect in France?" he asked. "The co-operation decided upon unanimously by a people to whom we are bound by so man ties was learned without surprize, because we knew that apart from all other considerations you could not remain absent from this crusade for Christian civilization and freedom, but with deep satisfaction, because the memory of the Canadian Legions of the last war has remained too vivid with us, for the soldiers of France not to be eager to extend once more a fraternal hand to the men of Canada who will be coming soon, under the leadership of able commanders like Major - General McNaughton, to take their place of honor and of glory in the great common test.

"And since then, all the manifestations of the magnificent war effort pursued by the federal government under the enlightened direction of Rt. Hon. Mr. Mackenzie King, have had profound repercussions in France, and so have all manifestations of your ever-growing unity, which appears to us, Frenchmen, as the extension on the American continent—not to say the synthesis—of the intimate union of two races and two empires closely united for struggle and for victory."

Believe Germany Would Hail Pan-American Safety Zone

LONDON, Jan. 16—(CP). — The Daily Mail predicted editorially today that Adolf Hitler would jump at the chance to accept a 300-mile "safety zone" around the Americas as proposed by the Pan-American Conference.

Commenting upon Great Britain's refusal to recognize the zone as outlined at present, the paper said such a "safety-belt" around the American continents would be a life-belt for Hitler—that is the British reply to the Pan-American protest against infringement of the belt.

"It is questionable whether such a zone can be legally declared. The first condition—as in the case of a blockade—would be the possession of means to enforce it," the paper said. "And of course, the American countries could not possibly maintain an effective patrol over so vast an area.

"The protest arose over the battle of the River Plata. That action clearly broke the peace of the 'safety-belt.' But it followed the sinking by the Graf Spee of British merchant vessels well within the 300-mile limit. Is Britain to hand her naval superiority over to Hitler on a plate?

Not Tossing It Away

"Clearly, she cannot throw away a weapon without which she could not win the war. So argues the British note — unanswerable, the Americans may well think.

"It paints a picture of a sanctuary crammed with German warships and with German merchant ships earning foreign exchange to 'promote subversion and sabotage abroad.' That phrase will be noted by the United States.

"Outside the zone, the British fleet would lurk impotently, a victim of hit-and-run raids but unable to pursue the enemy and engage him.

"Hitler would jump at the chance. But it is not a situation which American countries could welcome. As the British reply points out, the Royal Navy does not imperil, but rather contributes to American safety. The whole argument is academic. It raises no live issue and is not likely to have any effect upon the war at sea."

Film Actress Joan Bennett's First Husband John Fox Takes Overdose Sleeping Tablets

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 16 — (AP). —Film Actress Joan Bennett's first husband, John Marion Fox, 38, lay gravely ill in a hospital to-day, a victim of poisoning from an overdose of sleeping tablets.

"I didn't like the idea of Joan Bennett being married to that other guy." Fox was quoted as saying by Dr. A. D. Trotter, police surgeon.

Miss Bennett was married last week in Phoenix, Ariz., to Walter Wanger, motion picture producer.

Dr. Trotter said Fox—once wealthy but listed at the hospital as a salesman—told him he had taken 100 tablets of a hypnotic drug. The physician gave him a chance of recovery, but added, "It will be some time before we can tell."

Fox, a former Seattle broker, is the father of Miss Bennett's daughter Diana, 11. He and the actress were married in London on September 15, 1926, and divorced on August 1, 1928.

He attributed his divorce from Miss Bennett to his fondness for alcohol, but contended he had given up drinking.

Janetville W.I. Plans Painting

JANETVILLE, Jan. 16—(ENS).—Mrs. W. G. Bradburn was the gracious hostess for the January meeting of the Women's Institute at her home in the village on Thursday afternoon when thirty-five members and a number of visitors were present.

The president, Mrs. Charles Deyell, was in the chair and after the opening exercises the minutes and correspondence were read by the secretary, Mrs. M. Armstrong. The latter included a letter from Mrs. F. Sanderson, of Lindsay, in regard to a meeting in Lindsay to arrange the Institute exhibit for Lindsay fall fair; a questionnaire from the department with reference to local activities of the Red Cross Society.

Unusually interesting was the Christmas card to the local Institute in which was a photograph of the group of 60 Scottish Institute women who toured Canada last August. The photo was taken while at Ottawa and was sent here by Miss Mary Johnstone of Ayr, Scotland.

Letters of thanks for remembrances at Christmas and during bereavement were received from Mr. and Mrs. W. Armstrong, Mrs. Leslie Wright, Mrs. C. McGill, Miss M. Johnston, Messrs. Charles Deyell and Ross Davidson and Mrs. Oswald McGill and son, Mr. Guy McGill.

Mrs. Charles Deyell was appointed to represent the local institute at fair board meeting in Lindsay in February.

The roll call was responded to by 'My favorite fruit and where grown.'

It was announced that next month will be the grandmothers' meeting, when all are requested to bring antiques.

Suggestions were made on ways to raise money for the painting of the park buildings.

Groups were then formed under the leadership of Mrs. J. Jackett, Mrs. J. Capstick, Mrs. W. Sanderson and Mrs. Bruce Heaslip and a number of euchre parties were planned.

The program included a splendid paper on 'Tuberculosis, Causes, Symptoms and Cure' by Mrs. G. Wilson; address, 'The Perfect Woman,' based on the 31st chapter of Proverbs, by Rev. T. E. Kennedy; guitar and mouth organ selections by Mr. Leonard McNeil.

Mrs. E. A. Bradburn extended the vote of thanks to the speaker, Rev. Kennedy and to all on the program, as well as to Mrs. Bradburn for the use of her home. Lunch was served by Mrs. Charles McNeil's group.

artillery duelling on the front lines and attempts by the Russian air force to crush civilian morale — as well as military targets—behind the fronts.

Brother Slays Brother.

WITH THE FINNISH ARMY ON THE SALLA FRONT, Jan. 16 — (A P). — A Finnish patrol commander to-day told him how brother fights brother in Finnish Lapland where Communist sympathizers jumped the border into Soviet Russia and returned with the Red army.

The commander said one of his men discovered his brother, who fled to Russia seven years ago, among a group of Russian prisoners captured on this front.

"Brother, look what you have done," the officer said the Finnish soldier cried.

Then, said the officer, the Finnish soldier drew his revolver and killed his own brother.

Finnish officers say the guidance and advice of some of these Finnish "border jumpers" attached to the Red army are one reason why the Russians have been able to hold out so long in this sector, despite bitter cold and wild terrain.

They guided the Russians in the first days of the offensive here, and enabled the Russians to make rapid progress.

A Red Hotbed.

Six or seven years ago Salla was one of the most Communistic areas in Finland, and during the depression about 200 local Communists went across the border to Russia.

Two Finnish soldiers who were captured and later escaped said they had identified some of their Finnish-speaking captors as former Salla inhabitants.

Finnish officers say units of the Communist youth organization, Komsomol, attached to the Red army here, are another reason the Russian Salla column has been so hard to dislodge from its position.

The Komsololists, ardent disciples of Joseph Stalin, are rated by the Finns as the best Russian troops they have encountered on any front.

On the battlefield these Communist boys shoot to their last round of ammunition and then defend themselves with bayonets or rifles swung like clubs in hand-to-hand encounters.

the papers generally took a firm stand in favor of continuing unofficial aid to the Finns.

The Moscow broadcast said Sweden was reducing her public works program, promising high pay for volunteers and taking other steps to get the unemployed to enlist in the Finnish army.

The Copenhagen newspaper Berlingske Tidende said the Swedish and Norwegian replies to Russia "expressed the interpretation and feeling which is the entire north's opinion."

The replies denied violations of neutrality, said any aid for Finland was of a private nature, and that sympathy for Finland was natural.

In Stockholm, the Dagens Nyheter said, "Finland's struggle for liberty never can leave the northern states indifferent," and the Nya Daglight Allehanda observed, "we must prepare for all eventualities."

Sikes Up to 3 Million.

The subscriptions during the first day for the 12-year, 3¼-per cent interest bonds ranged from $3,000,000 down to the modest investments of ordinary wage earners.

The Finance Department of the Bank of Canada made no announcement concerning the extent to which the holders of three percent Dominion of Canada bonds maturing next March 1 have been offering for conversion. Such bonds may be converted at par for the new bonds but the $200,000,000 specifically offered is for cash subscriptions.

Among the large subscriptions were Mutual Life Assurance Company of Canada $3,000,000, London Life Assurance Company $2,500,000, and T. Eaton Company $1,500,000. Dozen of subscriptions were far more than $100,000 and hundreds were about $10,000.

Employees in many concerns grouped together to purchase the bonds and in several cities employers extended help to employees to participate in the loan by offering to deduct amounts from their weekly pay cheques.

Professor Charles Fenwick, United States representative on the committee, said he did not propose that American Republics "fight for the right to be neutral," but declared that belligerents could be kept out if the Republics united on means of enforcing the zone.

In line with this, President Getulio Vargas of Brazil told the opening session yesterday that the Americas expected belligerents to "respect" the zone established at Panama last October by the Inter-American Conference.

Dr. Oswaldo Aranha, Brazilian foreign minister, said the committee would proceed on the keynote that "if European nations have the right to establish a war zone, then American nations have the right to establish a peace zone and American nations have as much right as European nations to insist upon respect."

TOKYO, Jan. 16 — (CP). — Japan's new moderate premier, Admiral Mitsumasa Yonai, completed a cabinet today.

He chose as his foreign minister the veteran diplomat Hachiro Arita, who will succeed Admiral Kichisaburo Nomura.

The new premier rose from the ranks to become commander of Japan's fleet and was naval minister in 1937 during a naval expansion program.

Arita preceded Nomura at the foreign office, serving under Baron Kiichiro Hiranuma, who resigned on August 28 and he also served as foreign minister in the government immediately before that under Prince Fumimaro Koncye.

THE WORLD OF 1880...

Dawn of a New Era!

Sixty years ago the Bell Telephone Company of Canada was organized.

Let's step for a moment into the world of 1880—into the stuffy parlour where furniture was ornate and uncomfortable; where heavy draperies deepened the gloom of the lamp-lit room. The "what-not" in the corner carried a varied assortment of sea-shells, family photographs, glass-enclosed flowers.

By the dim light of the prismed hanging lamp people were reading the debates in Parliament on the Canadian Pacific Railway contract; of Peter Redpath's gift of a Museum to McGill; of the assassination of Honourable George Brown of the Toronto "Globe".

Came the telephone with its insistent ring, its amazing ability to get things done. The Victorian household was never to be the same again.

The pace at which life moved began to speed up. A new era had begun. Perhaps more than any other single factor, the telephone is responsible for the changes these sixty years have seen.

The Amazing Progress

of telephone communication since this company was formed sixty years ago will be told in a series of advertisements, of which this is the first. The story is based upon authentic records in the Company's Museum in Montreal. Illustrations also are made from original data.

Intelligent Criticism Is Needed Of Government Affairs Senator Iva Fallis Declares

At the special session of Parliament in September, the Conservative leaders, Hon. R. J. Manion in House of Commons, and Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen in Senate, pledged their fullest co-operation with the Government in vigorous prosecution of the war and avoidance of petty criticism for the sake of political gain. That pledge has been scrupulously kept, Senator Iva Fallis told members of the Peterborough Women's Conservative Association at their annual meeting Monday afternoon in the Paragon Hall.

"While I, personally, most heartily subscribe to this theory," she said, "I also feel that the idea of no criticism of a Government in war time can be carried too far for the good of the country. If, as now appears, there is not going to be a National Government in which all parties would be represented and have an opportunity to give expression to their views, then surely in this land of Democracy and Free Speech, one party should not have the entire say as to what is to be done, and all others muzzled for the duration of the war!"

War Concerns All

On the contrary, there was never a time when intelligent, constructive criticism was so necessary, the speaker believes. "After all," she said, "this is not a war which concerns only one political party or one particular Government. This is Canada's war, and by the sacrifices which they will be called upon to make, every Canadian citizen earns the right to have an active interest in its vigorous and successful prosecution.

"Nothing could be more damaging at the present time than that the impression should prevail that it is unpatriotic to offer criticism," Senator Fallis said. "It is not so done in England. When the Prime Minister recently let Mr. Hore-Belisha out of the Cabinet, the press and the general public were not at all backward in expressing their several opinions upon the matter."

Doing A Good Job

Senator Fallis believes in giving the Government full credit for the effort it is making. "Every Cabinet Minister is working to the utmost of his strength," she said. "Every member at Ottawa, regardless of political affiliation, regretted the enforced retirement of Mr. Dunning and welcomed the return of Col. Ralston to act as Finance Minister. No one doubts that he is doing a good job, but every thinking Canadian must realize that it is all too one-sided."

When Parliament assembles on January 25, Canada will have been at war approximately five months. During that period, Parliament has sat for seven days only. Not once has the leader of the Conservative Party been consulted on any matter —criticism of the Government is condemned as unpatriotic—and so a handful of men control the destiny of our country without once consulting the people's representatives, the speaker continued. "I agree with many others that Parliament should merely have adjourned in September and have been called together once or twice in the interval to permit an expression of opinion upon important matters. Now, after these months of inactivity on the part of Parliament, we read in the press that Liberal members are telling their constituents that the coming session will be very short, followed by an early election. Well, Conservative members of the House of Commons, while few in number, have a fighting leader, and they will have something to say about this, as will Conservative members of the Senate."

Awarding Of Contracts

There are many matters to be discussed, Senator Fallis continued. The awarding of all these important contracts; the suffering caused by with-holding pay of soldiers' dependents; the lack of proper equipment for soldiers while one hundred million dollars was voted for Public Works in an election year, and many other important questions.

"It seems to me," she said, "that there are more important matters before us at the moment than the question of how soon the session can be closed in order to bring on an election, and the Opposition at Ottawa would be negligent in its duty if it did not insist that the most important business facing this country now is to see that Canada is pulling her full weight in the war."

Senator Fallis was introduced by Mrs. J. F. Strickland, president of the Association.

President Presented

Details in connection with the newly-formed Young Conservative Association of Peterborough were outlined by Gordon K. Fraser, official Conservative candidate for West Peterborough. He presented Lorne H. Farley, president, who asked the support of members present, and announced the dance that is to be given in the Canadian Legion Hall on February first under the auspices of his organization. Mrs. T. Skinner is to be convener of the refreshment committee, assisted by members of the Peterborough Women's Conservative Association.

Mrs. J. F. Strickland, whose resignation as president was regretfully accepted, will be succeeded by Mrs. J. H. Cridland. Senator Fallis presided for the election of officers, appointed as follows: Honorary President, Senator Iva Fallis, Mrs. G. C. Cameron, Mrs. J. F. Strickland; President, Mrs. J. H. Cridland; 1st vice - president, Mrs. Charles Wright; 2nd vice-president, Mrs. T. Skinner; 3rd vice-president, Mrs. H. M. Wilson; secretary, Mrs. R. E. Clarke; treasurer, Mrs. R. G. Cottrell.

Mrs. Cridland, the new president, conducted the election of Ward Captains, as follows: West Ward, Mrs. J. Mills, Mrs. N. Pogue; North, Mrs. H. Staunton; East, Mrs. Douglas Miller; South, Mrs. E. Fisher; Centre, Mrs. Pickering; Claraday, Mrs. W. H. Anderson.

Mrs. G. C. Cameron, a past president, spoke briefly and appreciatively of the fine work of Mrs. Strickland during her years of presidency, and of the efficiency and ability of her successor, Mrs. Cridland.

It was decided that the Association would meet the first Monday of each month for the next four months.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon K. Fraser entertained at tea following the meeting.

Wage Action Is Dismissed

In a trial before His Honor Judge Smoke yesterday, which lasted until after 6 p.m. and which brought witnesses through heavy snows from Clydesdale and Oak Lake, an action brought by Ray Gibb of Havelock against John E. Wood of Oak Lake for $496.60 for wages was dismissed with costs, if demanded.

The action arose out of a claim for services rendered in the year 1935. The defendant alleged that he had settled with the plaintiff in November, 1935, and that the plaintiff had never made claim upon him in any way until he received a letter from the plaintiff's solicitor in September, 1939. The plaintiff claimed he had made verbal but no written demands upon the defendants and produced time books showing much overtime and claiming wages at an hourly rate and the defendant claimed he was hired by the day as were all of his employees.

The defendant, through his counsel, informed the court that he would not ask for costs against the plainiff.

W. J. A. Fair acted for the plaintiff and A. L. Elliott for the defendant.

W. J. Thompson Re-elected Head Cemetery Board

W. J. Thompson was re-elected president of the Little Lake Cemetery Company at the 89th annual meeting held Monday afternoon in the board room of the Toronto Savings and Loan Company. Other officers are Dr. J. E. Middleton, vice-president, Miss E. J. Saunders, secretary-treasurer, Edward Humpage, auditor, C. F. Kitney, superintendent. Board of Directors was elected as follows, Mayor James Hamilton, Arthur Stevenson, E. A. Peck, K.C.; Roland Denne, R. J. Kidd, Harold A. Morrow, W. J. Thompson, Dr. J. E. Middleton, and E. H. Howson.

A survey commenced last year has been completed and shows that 4,213 lots have been sold, the superintendent's report revealed. After reserving space for ornamentation there is ground for approximately 2,000 five-grave lots still for sale. Taking the population at the time the cemetery was first opened and the population at present as a basis of calculation, the cemetery will supply the need of the district for at least 25 or 30 years, Mr. Kitney estimated. There have been 14,587 interments to date. During the year there have been 232 interments, 25 plots put under permanent care, 26 foundations laid for monuments, and 19 lots sold.

The directors have continued and enlarged upon their policy of improvements during the year, the result of which they feel will be appreciated by the lot owners visiting the cemetery, said W. J. Thompson president.

The superintendent's report showed that the new roads and those widened in 1937 and 1938 have been surfaced with 475 yards of crushed stone and gravel. They have been olled, sanded with fine stone and rolled at a cost of $1,065.75.

The stone wall has been continued to a distance of 600 feet from the entrance, and backed with filling. The bank has been graded and given a coat of top soil, and sodded. The road has been graded and gravelled from the front entrance to the Tool House, at a cost of $572. The old office and ladies' waiting room have been removed and preparations made for the erection of new rest rooms more centrally located.

A total of 1,678 yards of fill were used in levelling up more of the south sections, and they were given a coat of top soil and are ready for seeding. Cost was $432. The Ware street house has been painted and decorated inside and the name of the cemetery has been set in the front terrace overlooking Haggart street.

Edward Humpage, as auditor, paid tribute to the efficient administration of the company's affairs during the year by the various officials. His report to the directors was comprehensive and comparative, showing clearly the result of operations for the past year, as well as for 1938. The company's securities were carefully examined by the auditor and found to be in perfect order.

This year's officers saw two changes. Miss E. J. Saunders replaced Felix Brownscombe as secretary-treasurer. Mr. Brownscombe resigned after serving in that post for 20 years. Miss Saunders had been his assistant. E. H. Howson was named to the board of directors to replace the late W. G. Morrow.

Effective Speaking Group Organized

A number of the members of the Y.M.C.A. effective speaking group met last night to discuss the formation of an organization for the present season for the purpose of gaining further experience in effective public speaking together with the consideration of procedure and conduct of meetings and discussion groups.

It was decided to meet each week on Friday evening, commencing Friday, January 26, at 8 o'clock, when an effective organization will be set up and a strong program committee chosen to work out details. Mock trials, debates, current topics, parliamentary procedure and conduct of meetings as well as practice in speaking are suggestions for consideration. Any person interested in joining this group will be welcome.

Canadian Legion Planning Drive For War Service Work At Front

It was announced at the regular meeting of the Peterborough branch of the Canadian Legion Monday night that next Monday night the aims and objects of the Canadian Legion War services Inc., will be discussed at a public meeting at which the principal speaker will be Rev. J .Maxwell Allan, first vice-president of the Pembroke branch of the Legion.

The War Services Incorporated is a new organization allied with the Legion and formed to provide entertainment recreation and sports for troops in training here and overseas, to establish huts in the forward areas at the front and to assist Canada's fighting forces in every way possible.

A drive for funds is to be staged throughout Canada on February 12, the objective for the Province of Ontario having been set at $230,000. President George Gimblett announced Monday night that he has been asked to take hold of the campaign in Peterborough, Lakefield, Norwood and possibly Marmora.

The public will be invited to the meeting to be held here next Monday.

Order-In-Council Found Necessary To Stop Work On Tweed Post Office

OTTAWA, Jan. 16.—Unless the Cabinet steps in and by Order-in-Council cancels the contract let some months ago, Tweed will get a $15,000 post office it does not want.

All that the opposition of the Reeve and council of Tweed has accomplished has been the delay of construction for at least six months. The Department of Public Works now says that to stop work just started would necessitate compensation being paid to the contractor and the sub-contractors.

Tweed post office is not the only one being built regardless of war conditions and the apparent need for drastic economy.

Contracts for a $250,000 public building in Oshawa will be let today. Work is going ahead preparing for a quarter-million-dollar post office in Peterborough, and a half-million-dollar addition to the postal terminal in Montreal, and unless action is taken higher up, these contracts will be let within a month. Once the contracts are let, the same difficulty will exist as now exists in Tweed; it will require compensation to the contractors to call a halt.

When the Government laid down its financial policy in the budget speech in September it was stated that public works would not be curtailed until war industry had been geared to pick up the slack in employment. There are indications that the slack is being picked up rapidly. Employment improved 26 per cent in November, as compared with November a year ago. Saturday, in Port Arthur, Transport Minister C. D. Howe predicted that within a few months there would be a labor shortage in Canada. When parliament assembles on January 25 there will be questions asked about the Government's policy of starting unessential construction works now that will not be finished until after a real shortage has developed in labor.

The trouble is that in all departments the feeling persists that money once voted is lost if it is not expended before the vote expires. Every department realizes that revotes will be few under the pressure of war.

While most of Peterborough's citizens snuggled cosily under the blankets during Monday night a Boaord of Works gang was hard at work removing the snow from downtown streets, and this morning most of the effects of the bad weather of Sunday and Monday had disappeared.

FEELING NEW TAXES

"Prices of goods now coming from the Old Country are not showing a decided increase as a rule," stated a merchant to the Examiner. "In some of the more recent invoices though there is the reflection of a tax which has not been noticed before and it was listed as Air Raid Precaution Tax. I just can't figure out what it had to do with goods sold in Canada but there it was on the bill."

A SAD CASE.

There was a sad case before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in Police Court this morning when a woman said to be suffering from the effects of drugs was charged with vagrancy. She asked that she be allowed to go home, but at the request of the police was remanded until Thursday without plea or election.

Police Spot Bottle Of Wine In Pocket Of Man Seeking Lodging; Gets 3 Months

John Smith, transient, suffers from absent-mindedness and this morning it proved decidedly costly for him. Monday night Smith strolled into the police station and asked for a night's lodgings. There was nothing particularly wrong with that but there was about the fact that a bottle was protruding from his pocket, especially when the bottle was found to contain a quantity of made-in-Ontario wine.

As a result of John's carelessness and the police watchfulness he found himself lined up before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., today, charged with illegal possession of liquor. There was nothing he could do but plead guilty to the charge, there was nothing the magistrate could do but fine him $100 and costs or three months and there was nothing the accused could do but take the jail sentence.

In short Smith's failure to park his wine before applying for shelter caused the night's lodgings to multiply into ninety of them in the county bastille.

The Rambling REPORTERS

LATE CHRISTMAS CARD.

Thomas Miller, Maude Street, former regimental sergeant-major of the 93rd Battalion and years before that a member of the Scots Guards, has received a belated but novel Christmas greeting in the form of a regimental Christmas card from the Earl of Stair, Lochinch Castle, Stranraer, Scotland. The card is featured by a photograph of His Majesty the King in the uniform of the Scots Guards, of which regiment he is the Colonel-in-Chief. The Earl of Stair was Tom Miller's lieutenant when the Peterborough man served with the Scots Guards in the South African War, and afterward he became commanding officer of the regiment. In his Christmas message, he has noted the fact that one son and a son-in-law are serving with the Scots Guards in the present war and his fourth son is just joining the regiment.—C.

Stolen Goods Are Returned

Goods stolen from Harry Watson's garage and service station at Havelock and from Reeve's service station at Madoc were returned to their owners by Provincial Police who arrested at Pembroke three young men who pleaded guilty to those thefts and were also convicted of having stolen an automobile at St. Catharines where they were tried and sentenced to terms in the Ontario Reformatory and Kingston Penitentiary.

They were Percy Tapley, 21, two years less a day in the Reformatory; Gordon McAvilla, 23, two years in the penitentiary, and George Cunningham, 26, twenty-nine months in the penitentiary. They are all of Hamilton.

Goods stolen from Watson's service station were valued at $200, and all but a few items were returned to Mr. Watson who accompanied Provincial Constables John Rogers of Havelock and Dymond of Madoc to Pembroke, where he identified the Havelock and Madoc garage loot found in the stolen car, sctolen car.

The district thefts occurred during the first week of November, and the trio were tried in St. Catharines on January 9. They pleaded not guilty to stealing the automobile, but were convicted and then admitted the Madoc and Havelock break-ins.

Dr. P. C. Donovan Died At San Jose

Few of his pupils of the early seventies are living in Peterborough today to whom a belated report of the death of Dr. P. C. Donovan of San Jose, Cal., would be of special interest.

James J. Sheehy of Chicago, in the city this week attending the funeral of his brother-in-law, the late John Corkery, informed the Examiner today that Dr. Donovan died in San Jose on December 15 last, and was buried there on the 18th, the ninety-second anniversary of his birth. He and Mr. Corkery were contemporaries in the Peterborough of 1372-74. He had come to Peterborough to teach at the old Murray Street School, present site of the armouries, remained here a few years and then went to the United States.

He was elected to the legislature of Minnesota, took up the practice of medicine, and practiced his profession in San Jose, where he is survived by his wife, two sons and one daughter.

Mr. Sheehy visited his old Peterborough teacher about a year ago recalling incidents and pupils of the school in those days of about sixty-eight years ago.

Ontario Contributed $87,954.55 Of $143,715.69 Relief Bill; City Has Surplus Of $1,318.29

Peterborough's relief department reports a surplus of $1,318.29 in its financial statement for 1939 mailed by Relief Officer Metheral to the members of the City Council this morning.

Total expenditure was $143.715.69, of which $48,681.71 was charged to the city whose appropriation for the year was $50,000.

The Ontario Government contributed $87,954.53, and credited to the Ontario Medical Association, whose members are paid directly by the Government for their services, was the sum of $7,079.45.

Details of expenditure last year included: Provisions $68,973.66, milk $9,677.73; fuel $13635.62; clothing $5,407.62, rent $24,091.28, doctors $7,289.78, relief gardens $542.43, delivery and cartage $2,535.54, light and water $32.48, and it was on these disbursements the Government's grant was received.

Other items were: Medicine $227.54, ambulance service $103, funerals $398.50, transportation $840.71, salaries $8,321.89; office rent $225, office supplies $794.54, telephone $82.83, fuel $196, miscellaneous $339.54.

The miscellaneous group of costs mentioned such items as seed potatoes, stove pipes, glasses, tools, files, saws, and so on.

Recipients Decline.

The total number of persons on relief in December was 1,293 as compared with 2,007 in the last month of 1938. But the per capita cost was up from $6.96 to $7.39.

The number of dependent heads of families in December, 1938, was 443, individuals in their families 1,459, single men 47, and single women 58.

Last month the number of heads of families was 276, individuals 922, single men 40, single women 55 — total 1,293.

The decrease in the number of persons getting relief, as shown by comparison of those two months a year apart, was 714.

Committee Pleased.

Early last year, after estimating $50,000 for the city's part of the relief cost for 1938, the committee encountered increasing costs that threatened a bulky item in the red by the end of December. However, as the seasons advanced, employment conditions improved, the relief list began to shrink considerably from its winter peak, and as the year wore on Alderman Dutton's committee began to build up a little hope that their deficit might not be serious after all. And that expectation eventually brightened to the hope of breaking even; and finally Alderman Dutton announced the other night that the relief department was able to show a surplus of $1,318.29, in spite of the fact that the cost of relief per person had gone up from $6.96 to $7.39.

1938 Recalled.

The statement for 1939 is based on the vouchers issued, and may not be quite complete, depending on credits or otherwise that may be received before the books are finally closed.

The department's finances in 1938, to the last detail, showed expenditures amounting to $135,773.74; and approximate government rebate and medical association item together were $82,763.83; there were also minor credits from other municipalities and similar items amounting to $3,240.69; leaving the balance of $49,769.22 to be charged to the city, and the appropriation for 1938 was $47,500. In that year the operations of the department showed a small deficit.

Grain-Laden Car Jumps Rails

Breaking away from the middle of an eastbound C.N.R. freight train shortly after midnight last night, a wheat-laden freight car rolled down a twenty-five foot embankment and was almost completely wrecked.

The accident happened just east of the C.N.R. bridge over the Otonabee above the locks, and the cause of it is a complete mystery to railway authorities.

For some unknown reason the wrecked car simply jumped out of the train, breaking loose from its couplings at both ends and careened down the bank to crash into the ditch. No damage was done to the rails or roadbed, and the train was re-united in a short time and proceeded on its way, while C.N.R. Constable Ray Morden, called from Lindsay, guarded the wrecked car.

One end of the car in the ditch was smashed open by the crash and a quantity of the wheat cargo spilled.

Trenton Goalie Is Injured In Game

GANANOQUE, Ont., Jan. 16. — (CP).—Driscoll, goalie for Trenton Fliers, who were defeated 11-0 here by Gananoque Intermediates last night, was taken to the hospital at Kingston shortly after midnight, suffering from a concussion.

Dr. Kenneth Gray, Medical Officer of the Gananoque Battery, said today he believed the player must have been struck in the last few seconds of action. He appeared to slump to the ice in his net and was assisted from the ice by fellow players. When he reached the dressing room he became unconscious and Dr. Gray was summoned.

An X-ray examination will be made to determine extent of the injury.

JUNIOR COLTS KEEP LEADERSHIP WITH JUNIOR W IN IN LAKEFIELD

Take A 5-1 Nod In Neat Tilt For Fourth Win

In an O.H.A. Junior B game here last night the Lakefield Juniors lost to Peterborough Colts 5-1 before a small crowd. Before the game snow was put on the ice to soak up the water, but in the last two periods it began to tighten up and play was fast from starting time to the final bell. The heavier Colts led by Wade and Pammett, proved too powerful for the locals, but rough ice played havoc with them making passing plays impossible.

The game was well handled by Tommy Miller of Peterborough, and only one fight broke out in the third period between Jewell and Foster. Morrison in the Lakefield nets robbed the Colts many times in their attempt to beat him.

Play Is Even.

Play opened fast in the first period and the Lakefield squad were pinned in their own territory till Craig went off for boarding Cauley. When he returned Wade intercepted a nice pass from Foster in behind the defence, scoring the only goal in the first period. Foster went off for cross-checking, but the Juniors could take no advantage of the shortage and the period ended 1-0 for the Colts.

The second opened better for the Juniors and Cauley was robbed by Agnew close in, only to come right back and beat him tying the score 1-1. Birch got the gate for tripping and Craig scored on a swell pass from Mason in the corner, putting the Colts one up. A fight nearly started with Stewart and Foster but was avoided by Foster drawing a penalty. The score at the end of the second period was 2-1 for the Colts.

Colts Get Three.

The third started with Lakefield playing well up. Parnell went off for tripping, but Agnew held the locals to no score. When Parnell returned he started to mix it up in the corner with Stewart, and both of them drew major penalties. The referee had some trouble with spectators jumping on the ice during the melee. Mason carried the puck down into the Lakefield zone, and shot, the puck sliding off Chappell's stick into the net. Pammett scored again on a rebound. In the last minutes of the game Vitarelli broke away on a nice pass from Rochetta in the centre area scoring the fifth and last goal for the Colts.

Pammett, Wade and Rochetta looked best for the Colts, with Morrison in the Lakefield nets and Bullock, Cauley good for the losers.

The teams:

Colts, — Goal, Agnew; defence, MacDonald and Parnell; centre, Wade; wings, Foster and Pammett; alternates, Rochetta, Craig, Mason, Vitarelli, and Nicholls

Lakefield — Goal, Morrison; defence, Birch and Graham; centre, Bullock; wings, Jewell and Cauley; alternates, Giardino, Chappell, Stewart, Connelly and Calhoun.

Referee—Tom Miller of Peterborough.

Summary:

First Period.

Colts—Wade (Foster) 6.00
Penalties—Craig, Foster.

Second Period.

Lakefield—Cauley 5.00
Colts—Craig (Mason) 10.00
Penalties—Birch, Foster.

Third Period.

Colts—Mason 7.00

Team Managements To Buy War Loan Bonds For Cain And Sands If They Score Tonight

MONTREAL, Jan. 16 — (CP). — The Government will be a winner tonight if either Manager Art Ross of Boston Bruins or President Ernest Savard of Montreal Canadiens has to pay off on a little side bet of the National Hockey League clash between their clubs.

It all goes back to before the start of the N. H. L. schedule when Canadiens swapped Herbie Cain, with them a season after a long stretch with Montreal Maroons, for Charlie Sands of the Bruins. Both Savard and Ross claim to have come off best in the trade.

Oddly, both Sands and Cain have scored 18 points apiece so far but Herbie has a great edge in the matter of goals. He has collected 13 and has helped in five, while Sands has reversed these figures.

Anyhow, if Cain scores a goal tonight Canadiens—through Savard and Manager Jules Dugal— have agreed to buy him a Canadian War Loan Bond. The same goes for Sands only in this case the Boston Club will be the buyer. Nothing was said about what would happen if neither scored or if Cain goes on a scoring rampage as he did recently against Toronto Maple Leafs and nets four.

Boom Turf Year Says Col. Winn Of 1939 Season

By COL. MATT WINN
(President, American Turf Association)

CHICAGO, Jan. 16 — (AP) —The 1939 season on the United States turf was a boom year.

Increased attendance, many thrilling races and consistently fine performances by the thoroughbreds marked a season which ended with the champions remarkably defined in all divisions.

Challedon, owned by W. L. Brann of Baltimore, was the horse of the year, capturing both the three-year-old championships and the championship of the handicap division. Bimelech, sporting the famous green and white silks of Col. E. R. Bradley, was undoubtedly king of the juveniles. Winner of all six starts, This brilliant two-year-old earned $135,000 and in my opinion will be the horse to watch in 1940. Challedon was the biggest money winner of the year, earning $184,535.

In 17 out of 18 starts, where thoroughbred racing is legal, $397,633,113 passed through the mutuel machines, an increase of almost $20,000,000 over 1938— the sharpest climb in a decade.

The year also was marked by the failure and eventual death of El Chico, which began his 1939 campaign as the Kentucky Derby favorite after winning the two-year-old title the previous year.

The purse for the 1940 Kentucky Derby has been increased from $50,000 to $75,000 added and there are indications that the crowd on May 4 may exceed the record breaking throng of some 80,000 spectators at last year's classic.

PRO PUCK PERSONALITIES

DOUG BENTLEY
Black Hawks

By Central Press Canadian

A feature of the Drumheller Miners in the Alberta Senior league last winter — in fact a feature of the entire dominion hockey scene — was the fact that five brothers were playing together on the team. The boys are somewhat scattered this year and the youngest member of the clan is whirling over N.H.L. ice surfaces for Paul Thompson's accent - on - youth Black Hawks. That's Douglas Wagner Bentley, who can lay claim to two major league distinctions already—that of being the lightest player in the league (134 pounds) as well as one of the fastest. Manager Thompson says he's the fastest player he has ever seen, and he makes quite a picture whizzing down the ice with his black hair rising and falling with each drive of his legs. He plays left wing on a line with a veteran, Mush March, and a near-veteran Bill Thoms. He had never seen a National league game until he took the ice with the Hawks in November, and he got his first goal his fourth time out. Of Indian descent, Doug was born at Delisle, Sask., 22 years ago. Played his amateur hockey at Delisle, Saskatoon, Regina and Moose Jaw as well as Drumheller. Twenty-five goals and three more assists attracted the eye of Paul Thompson, seeking to rejuvenate his team on a western scouting trip.

Landis Using Law 36 Years Old Frees 91 Tigers

CHICAGO, Jan. 16.—(AP)—A lot of baseballs have been knocked out of the park since 1906, but even back in those days the rules campaigned against the violators of the professional game's rules governing player transactions.

The game's struggle to keep player manipulations within legal bounds was emphasized again this week by Commissioner K. M. Landis' edict freeing 91 baseball players owned by the Detroit Club and valued at $500,000.

In freeing four Detroit players and 87 minor leaguers and ordering payment of almost $50,000 to 14 other players, Landis warned the club owners and executives that continued "covering up" of players would result in banishment from baseball of the guilty parties.

Just 36 years ago this spring the National Baseball Commission, composed of Ban Johnson, Harry C. Pulliam and August Hermann, drew up what is thought to be the first rule striking at such practices. For violation of rules on player transaction, the Commission set fines of $1,000 on major league clubs, $750 for Class "A" league and so on down the line.

A Stern Warning

The commission warned that a second offense would lead to the withdrawal of the protection of the games' governors — which would amount to wrecking a club since its hold on its players would have no legal status.

Since that time there have been repeated warnings and repeated violations. Less than two years ago Landis lashed out at the St. Louis Cardinals. He charged the club with mishandling players, gave free agency to more than 100 and levied fines against the Cards and some of their affiliates.

Landis' latest action struck a damaging blow at Detroit's plans for rebuilding the Tigers. They have only 78 players, 35 of whom are with the parent club, 30 with the Beaumont Texas League club and 13 with Henderson of the East Texas league. Beaumont and Henderson are the only minor league clubs owned outright by Detroit.

Bees May Shift Cuccinello

BRADENTON, Fla., Jan. 16—(AP) Tony Cucinello, veteran infielder of the Boston Bees, may be replaced at second base by Sebastian Sisti, a kid he tutored. If he is, it'll be okay with Tony.

"Sisti is a great prospect," grinned Cuccinello as he arrived here for a few weeks' vacation prior to the opening of the National leaguers' spring training camp.

"He's shown a lot of ability," continued Cuccinello. "He should develop into a great player. He's a great kid."

If Manager Casey Stengel should shift Tony to third to make way for the kid, then Tony won't mind.

"It's okay with me," he grinned again, "just so long as I have a job and can play baseball."

Tony, a "team player," spent many hours with Sisti here last spring, showing the youngster the fine points of the game he had picked up in his years of play.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

Comes a copy of the Ontario Church Basketball Assoc. year book. It contains pictures of two Peterborough teams, St. Paul's and St. John's. The picture includes as officials: Rev. Brain, Coach Vic Coleman, Bert Graham, Howard Clegg and Charles Jeffries, and these players: Eric Taylor, Al Marshall, Ken Gillespie, Les Ascott, Ted Clarke, Jack Craig, Bob Dyer and S. Amys. St. Paul's won the O.C.B.A. and Inter-provincial church chamionship in intermediate "A" ranks and the team was: Manager George Broadley, Lloyd Grose of the executive, and Jack Gemmell, Pete McArthur, Harry Marsh, Ross Pulkinghorn, Jim Thorburn, Gord McIntyre, Don Sedgewick, Walter Ward and Doug McPherson. The Saints may enter O.C.B.A. competition again this semester.

Don't forget the Industrial Hockey League triple-header this Thursday after twilight at the Brock. Outboard Marines (who used to be Johnson Motors) tackle Raybestos at 7.30, with Quakers playing Watercraft — the first appearance of this team—at 8.30, and Westclox tangling with the Brintons at 9.30. Packers get the bye, and we're told the games will start on the dot. They're not blood and thunder tilts, but they're full of action and with plenty of good hockey dished up. At the low price (and with a war on prices are inclined to soar instead of sink) fans will see three good tussles Thursday. Last week's winners were Quakers, Westclox and Marines. This loop should build up a lot of keen inter-factory rivalry.

Shooting At Airmen

The Petes are off tonight to tackle the Fliers in Belleville and they'll all be on deck, except Jack Jopling. Fresh from their win o'er the Fliers —who were all decked out like the Royal Guard—last Friday, the locals are rather confident of carrying home their third straight win. Yet one never knows in sports. A bit of carelessness, or too many penalties, early in the fray might give the opposition a sufficient margin to carry 'em through. Nevertheless, we believe the Buckaroos can battle their way through the schedule without a loss. Possibly it's a form of optimism or even wishful thinking, but we like the super-speedy homebrew outfit this season.

* * * * * *

Up in Lakefield last night, the Colts copped a 5-1 win over the improved Lakefield laddy-bucks in a fair fray. It puts the Colts atop the junior group by a scant margin over Oshawa Bees—whom they meet here Friday. Yet the homesters did awfully well to hold the fast-stepping Colts down to that count, something Lindsay, Cobourg and Port Hope couldn't accomplish the last coupla weeks. It was a good game most of the way, pretty fast, rough in spots, and with some good hockey shown the fans. The Colts got the only tally in the first frame, while the second was even with each side scoring. The Colts finally pushed through to show superiority in the third with three markers and no returns. But they had to hustle for the win.

* * * * * *

A Bit Too Scrappy

Goal scoring for the Weir-coached crew was well spread around with Wade, Foster, Craig, Mason, Pammett, Vitarelli and Rochetta all having a goal or assist, Mason being in on two. Cauley tallied for the home crew, all of whom made it right interesting for the rather cocky Colts. Foster and Pagnell led the locals in penalties, the former getting one in each period, the third being for a fight with Jewell. Now Nels is a fine puckist—and we like the big fellow—but too many penalties to any guy is unfair to the rest of the team. We hope Nels and the other two or three scrappy lads on the squad learn to control themselves in a tight tilt, or the Colts won't go far. But don't forget to fight, altogether—as we need scrappy players, so long as they use their heads, too.

* * * * * *

This item was noted in the Ontario Intelligencer, which is a lengthy way of saying the Quinte sheet: 'The Petes aren't out in the clear as yet. For instance, the Liftlock City sextette come to Belleville on Tuesday to play the Air Force, and then return again Friday for a tussle with the Redmen. Coach Toots Holway informed us he believed the Petes are a better balanced club this year over last year's group winners. However, I think our club will beat the Petes in the playoffs,' he said, 'because we've got a better team than we had last year, also. We didn't get a single break in Peterborough, while Referee Hap Day couldn't have helped the Petes any more if he had worn a Liftlock City uniform. Give us fast ice here on Tuesday and chalk up a win for the Fliers,' predicted Coach Holway." Baloney.

The Lock Co. Eagles

Local entry in the Omemee District Puck Loop — winner to enter O.H.A. intermediate "B" playdowns—is the Lock Co. Eagles, and they open their schedule in Omemee 'gainst the Black Hawks on Wednesday eve at eight. That's tomorrow night. The Eagles, with Ed Prete as coach and manager—aided by Al Watkins and Bill Murphy when required — will likely be picked from this bunch of puck-chasers: Goal, Earl McNabb; defence, Joe White, Rocky DeCarlo, Louie Giardino and Ed Prete; forwards, Red Gilbert, Al White, Roy Burke, Al Watkins, Joe Rochetta and Julian Wade—though the latter two Colts may be doubtful starters, we're told. Other prospects for the lineup are Cec. Cockerel, Leo Burke and H. Coombes. Looks like a good squad to us.

Let's see what is in the basketball grab-bag locally this coming week-end. Our three P.C.I. crews—senior gals, senior boys and junior boys—chug-chug up the highway to Lindsay on Friday after sundown for scholastic cage debates. At the Y.W.C.A. hoop emporium on Friday, three girls' fixtures are listed. Westclox meets "Y" Gym at 7.45, followed by St. John's vs. Orfuns, and then Quaker Debs 'gainst the Aces. And on Saturday e'en in the Y.M.C.A. gym, two City Basketball League senior men's frays are on tap. The Bees clash with C.G.E. at 7.15, with Independents playing Dominions an hour later.

Bata Outfit Is Beaten 9-3 By Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 16.—Just when everyone thought Campbellford might be in for a series of defeats Bata came to play their return game here and the locals walked away with a 9 to 3 victory on Monday. Compared to their encounter with Stirling last Friday it was a walk over for the locals who played some brilliant hockey during the first two frames.

Campbellford was back again at full strength with Robinson in the lineup. He figured in five of the nine counters during the evening getting credit for two goals and three assists. MacLearth, a new recruit to the local line lived up to the reputation he gained with the Trenton Couriers last year. He lit the light three times during the evening. He was transferred to Campbellford on a Hydro job in the early fall and played his first game last night. Manager Perry teamed him up with the Robinson-Blake line of sharp shooters. Hendy who went back on the defense for the evening was found to be just as much at home in this position as on the forward line and combined well with Blake and Robinson in thrusts through the Bata defense and was twice rewarded for lightning attacks he made on the Rogers guarded net.

It was E. Godden, also seen for the first time wearing local colors, who counted the opening tally of the game when he picked up a well-timed pass from Mac Atkinson with Bata a man short. Hendy got his first during the same period with Reid, Guay and Meyette down the ice pressing the attack in an effort to even up the score. It was at this stage that Hendy picked up the puck at centre ice and very skillfully evaded the Bata defense to score without any assistance. This was apparently the cue for the visitors to turn on the pressure as they fairly swarmed in around Donold who was using everything he had to stop them. The disc finally found its mark as Guay centred out from the corner to Reid who scored from in front of the net making the score two to one at the end of the period.

During the second frame the Bata snipers lead the attack but were continually harassed by Godden, and when Foster, Reid and Meyette did get through they found it hard to get in shooting position. Not until Blake had tallied one of the neatest goals of the game on a difficult angle shot, and Hendy, who had just returned to the ice after paying a visit to the penalty box, combined with Robinson to put the winners in the lead by three did the visitors manage to notch their second counter of the evening. Reid did the scoring on Hubert Foster's pass. MacLerath notched two more during the session with Robinson and Blake getting credit for the assists.

The third had hardly started when MacLerath and Robinson swooped in on Rogers to give the locals a five goal lead. For getting a little over enthusiastic in his efforts to stop Hendy, Stojan was given a penalty and Hendy was awarded a penalty shot at Rogers. One bit of excitement that wasn't scheduled during the evening was when the goal light refused to function. Robinson had clearly tallied but when the goal umpire pulled the string nothing happened and as the fans began to clearly show their disapproval Referee Finnigan skated over to learn what the trouble was. He made the face off at centre ice and meanwhile a white light was substituted for the remainder of the evening. There were less than three minutes left to play when Guay dribbled one in on Meyette's pass to make the final score 9 to 3.

By HERB MARTIN

The cold snap that blew in from the north west made conditions O.K. for the playing of the District Cup starting this morning.

Umpire H. Foote expected five clubs to be represented and play got under way about 9.30 a.m. These games will last all day and the public is cordially invited to attend.

Our tankard boys did not do very well up in Lindsay yesterday, they were down 12 shots and while we're not offering any alibis for the defeat we believe the conditions under which the games were played could be greatly improved.

It's more than likely we will hold the week-end bonspiel on Saturday afternoon.

And we believe the ladies social committee is staging something for Saturday night.

Joe Stands Pat With 1939 Yankee Lineup

NEW YORK, Jan. 16 —(AP) — New York Yankees, like a poker player with a fistful of aces, are going to stand pat.

And there is a suspicion that Manager Joe McCarthy's statement, "naturally I plan to start the season with the same lineup I had last year" will bring joy to a lot of Yankee hearts—and to Ellsworth (Babe) Dahlgren's in particular. Joe made that remark yesterday while here to check over the Yank's rookie list with President Edward Barrow.

Di Maggio, Selkirk, Keller, Gordon, Rolfe, Dickey, Ruffing, all appeared certain to start again where they left off last fall. The lone figure of first baseman Dahlgren seemed to be the exception.

Babe, who took over baseball's toughest job when he replaced Lou Gehrig last May, hadn't measured up to the rest of the Yankees at bat. Afield, he is almost perfection and has made the Yank infield again a co-ordinated unit almost without a defensive weakness.

But McCarthy's statement, plus the knowledge that Babe is seriously trying to improve his hitting by taking lessons from wise old Lefty O'Doul, means that the cavalcade of players who suddenly decided to become the Yanks' first baseman, can now go back to the bull pen or the bench.

McCarthy, in town for the first time since the series, also said he was not interested in anyone cut loose from Detroit via the landslide.

Grand National Opened Wide With New Rules

LONDON, Jan. 16 — (CP). — Weight, taken from the saddles of the super-horses who bound over the tough Grand National obstacles, has settled on the brows of paddock pundits studying the wartime cut-price Aintree steeplechase.

The most unpredictable contest of the National Hunt Season, which seemed destined to join the Derby on the "cancelled for the duration" list has, after all, been rescued and slated for April 5.

New factors confront the experts poring over form and chart to guide their investments. For they claim the race has been opened high, wide and handsome by cutting seven pounds off the topweight, making it 168 and relaxing the qualifying rule. Now a horse need be placed only in races of thee miles or more, worth £80 (356) to the winner instead of £200 (890) as in the past.

The wartime National will be worth only £5,000 ($22,250) including £3,950 ($17,577) stake money and a £200 ($890) trophy for the winner. The stake is about £3,000 ($13,350) less than won by Workman at the last National.

NORWOOD AND STIRLING BATTLE TO A DRAW IN T. V. LEAGUE

Stirling Shells Tie Hornets In 1-1 Battle

HAVELOCK, Jan. 16.—(ENS)—The Norwood "Hornets" and the Stirling "Shells" battled to a 1-1 tie in overtime last night at the Stirling arena, in a rough and ready tussle which produced some fast and furious hockey, pleasing to the customer's eye.

Undefeated in their last three starts of the current Trent Valley Hockey League schedule, the Hornets are in full swing for their initial encounter with the Bata entry, when the latter visit Norwood this Friday evening.

The goal-tending feats of Foxx, the Shells agile netminder, were nothing less than sensational in last night's session. He managed somehow to kick out rubber from every direction as the Hornets practically swarmed around the Stirling cage, in their eager search for victory. McMaster was also kept busy in the visitors' goal, but his shots were nothing compared to the number Foxx had to handle.

After nineteen minutes Hill, a new addition to the Norwood lineup, combined with Roddy Webb to open the scoring. The only penalty of this stanza went to Webb for charging.

In the second the Stirling squad equalized at the halfway mark, Morton tallying on a pass from Richardson. Pep Rogers and Morton drew majors for fighting.

Deadlocked 1-1 going into the final stanza, both sides tried continually, but good work by Foxx and McMaster kept them off the score sheet. Each played short-handed for a time during this session, Aboud of the Hornets going off for charging while Morton drew his second penalty of the game for a butt end. The overtime period was fast and clean with Foxx robbing the Puffer brothers on several neat attempts.

The Norwood line of "Gordie" Puffer, "Mickey" Puffer and "Pep" Rogers was the smoothest clicking forward combination on the ice. Hill was most outstanding among the remainder of the Norwood squad which all turned in a nice effort.

Foxx outshone his buddies by far in his exhibition in the nets, but Morton, Armstrong and Jones were the pick of the other members of the line-up, Morton in particular proving very effective.

The teams:

Norwood: Goal, McMaster; defence, Webb, Brady; centre, G. Puffer; wings, B. Puffer, P. Rogers; alternates, O'Leary, Hill, W. Rogers, Rothwell, Richardson.

Stirling: Goal, Foxx; defence, Jones, Walker; centre, Armstrong; wings, Dainard, Richardson; alternates, Morton, Long, Fraser, Mayes.

Referee, R. Ennis, Norwood; linesman, E. Wells, Stirling.

Summary:

First Period

Norwood—Hill (Webb) 19:00

Penalties—Webb.

Second Period

Stirling—Morton (Richardson) 11:00

Penalties — P. Rogers (major), Morton (major).

Third Period

No score.

Penalties—Aboud, Morton.

Terriers Wallop Madoc 11 to 3

TWEED, Jan. 16.—(ENS)—In the first game between the Tweed Terriers and the Madoc aggregation at the local arena this season, the Terriers handed their old rivals an 11 to 3 lacing, before the largest crowd of the season, on Monday night.

In the first period, four goals were scored, with both teams getting two apiece. Wagar tallied the first counter for the Terriers on a pass from Tummon, and Madoc came right back to tie the count with Keller scoring on a solo. The Tweed boys went one up when Elsbury took a pass from Wagar, but when Tummon got the gate for tripping, the Madoc team tied the count with Stewart scoring.

In the second period Elsbury took a pass from Storms to put the home boys one up, and Storms then took a pass from Elsbury to give the Terriers a two-goal lead. The Terriers until the second period were short two players, when Orr and Storms entered the game.

The last period proved to be a field day for the Terriers, who tallied five more goals before the Madoc team got their third counter. Elsbury opened the scoring on a pass from Storms, and then tallied on a solo rush, and to get his third goal of the period, took a pass frm Tummon to run up a 7 to 2 count. Wagar tallied the eighth, while Tummon did a solo, and banged in his own rebound to make the count nine to two. Stewart, for the Madoc boys, scored on a scramble from the side of the nets. The last goal of the game was tallied by Storms on a pass from Elsbury.

Both teams played a fast game, with the Terriers making use of their pasing plays to good advantage. The addition of Storms to the team, with his tricky passing, added a tower of strength to the Terriers, who were minus their front line centre player, Joe Courneyea.

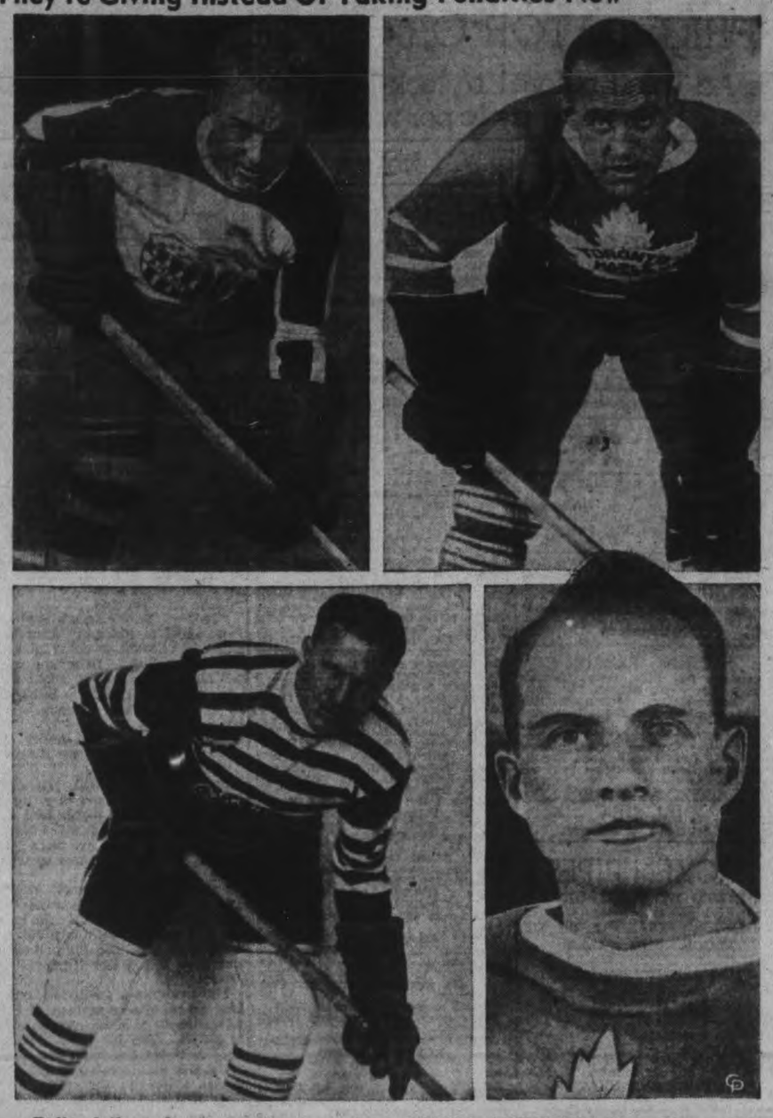
Martin in the Madoc nets played a spectacular game, and prevented the Terriers from running away with the score, as they had him at their mercy on several decisions in the last period.

Lineups:

Madoc: Goal, Martin; defence, Embury, F. Stewart; centre, Keller; wings, Akey, Hayworth; subs, G. Gillman, Larone, McGibbon, Hailston.

Tweed: Goal, Reeves; defence, Tummon, E. Woodcock; centre, Wagar; wings, Elsbury, H. Leal; subs, A. Courneyea, Orr, Marsh, H. Long, Storms.

They're Giving Instead Of Taking Penalties Now



Bulk of the refereeing assignments in the National League this winter are going to the veterans Mickey Ion and Bill Stewart, and fairly-recent-addition Norman Lamport, but edging their way into the picture are these latest additions, all former stars in the major puck loop, unlike the older arbiters, none of whom played N.H.L. hockey. The newcomers are Rabbit McVeigh, TOP LEFT; King Clancy, TOP RIGHT; Teddy Graham, LOWER LEFT, and Hap Day, LOWER RIGHT, shown here as they appeared in their playing days, McVeigh with Americans, Clancy with Toronto, Graham with Chicago, and Day with Toronto. All have won approval from players and scribes and even the league management committee.

Warsaw School Wins From Oaks

WARSAW, Jan. 16.—(ENS)—The Warsaw rink was the scene of a hard-fought game between the two village entries on Friday night, a battle that went to overtime before the speedy school team took the decision from their aged and weather-beaten rivals, the Oaks.

Only a moderate crowd took advantage of the mild weather but they received their money's worth in a contest that see-sawed back and forth the entire time with the decision in doubt till the final bell.

The school showed two well-balanced and speedy forward lines, well supported by their heavy sixty-minute defence of Cooper and Dunford. The Oaks had not the condition or combination of their younger opponents, but were more dangerous around the nets, and were saved from a bigger defeat by the starry goal-tending of Art Payne.

Oaks: Goal, A. Payne; defence, E. Thompson, A. Darling; centre, I. Drain; wings, P. Hamblin, S. Allen; subs, T. Davis, N. Selkirk, A. Sharpe, H. Munro.

School: Goal, E. Clements; defence, G. Cooper, H. Dunford; centre, H. Dunford; wings, D. Bell, R. Payne; subs, G. Clements, L. Lonsberry, E. Payne, G. Payne.

Norwood Pastes Trents 4-2 In Rural Tilt

HAVELOCK, Jan. 16 .—(ENS) — The East Peterborough Rural League finally swung into action, last evening, at the Norwood Arena, with the youthful Norwood entry winning a 4-2 nod over Trent River in the initial fixture of the schedule.

The second half of the double-header was postponed, since snow-blocked roads prevented members of the Westwood and Indian River teams from being present.

Despite rather slow ice, which made for scrambly hockey, there was plenty of action packed into last night's tussle. The two squads were fairly evenly matched, and although the going was rough at times, play was quite clean. Only five penalties in all were handed out, of which Trent River drew four.

The Norwood line centred by Johnson, with Cole and Rusaw on the wings displayed the best passing attack of any other forward combination on the ice. Johnson collected a pair of counters, Rusaw one goal and one assist, and Cole a couple of assists, to account for three of Norwood's tallies. Gill secured the winner's other marker. Outstanding also for Norwood was the fine work of goalie Bob Parcells.

McLaughlin was the most effective member of the Trent River lineup, with Jim Brown, Jay Brown and Chaplin best among the remainder.

Gill took Cole's pass two minutes after the opening bell to give Norwood an early lead, which was increased when Rusaw scored a minute later, on his shot from behind the net which rebounded off a Trent River player into the net.

The only scoring in the second was Trent River's marker by Jim Brown, with McLaughlin handling him the pass. There were no penalties in either of the first two periods.

Johnson opened the scoring in the last stanza, with Russaw assisting. McLaughlin grabbed the puck in Norwood territory about the halfway mark to sink their second and last goal. Then Johnson combined a few minutes later with Cole and Gill to conclude the scoring. In this period Jim Brown and Hadsley went off together for mixing it, and the former, Van Volkenburg and Chaplin each drew penalties before the end of the session. Manager Doug. Dart yanked his goalie and put on six forwards as a last minute effort by the Trent crew, but the strategy failed to work.

Trent River: Goal, Hill; defence, Jay Brown, Van Volkenburg; centre, Jim Brown; wings, George Brown, McLaughlin; alternates, Chaplin, Carnrite, Jack Brown, Hamilton.

Norwood: Goal, Parcells, defence, Gill, W. Buck; centre, Johnson, wings, Rusaw, Cole; alternates, Jamieson, Hamilton, Yeo, Hadsley, Backett, Godin, Longhurst, Lochheed.

Referee: G. Rathwell, Norwood.

Shore Is "Loaned" To His Own Team

BOSTON, Jan. 16.—(AP)—Manager Art Ross of Boston Bruins announced today the "loan" of Eddie Shore, all-star hockey defenceman, to his own team, Springfield Indians of the International-American Hockey League, as a home-game player for the balance of the season.

Ross said the Bruins retained the right to recall Shore at any time to play in Boston home games or to take part in the Stanley Cup playoffs, but that Shore was assured he would not be recalled except in an emergency.

THE SPORTS ROUND-UP

By EDDIE BRIETZ

Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 16.— (AP).— The Doc Kearns-Jimmy Johnston-Jack Dempsey combination (which will stage Pastor vs. Burman) is out to break Mike Jacobs' fistic monopoly and don't let anybody kid you about that....Judge Landis has his little list and the big league barons are wondering which club is next on same.

The Hogue twins of San Diego, two of the likeliest ring prospects of the coast, are looking for a manager ....Gov. Murphy of New Hampshire, who was reported interested in the Yankees, is no novice in baseball. He was once president of the Central League and operated the Nashua, N.H., franchise.

Short and snappy: Comedian Bert Wheeler has bought a half interest in Steve Souris, the welterweight ....Lefty O'Doul is giving Babe Dahlgren secret batting lessons on the coast....The fair Sonja and her 65 supporting stars dazzled the Garden customers yesterday with costumes costing 65 grand....Old Lou Brouillard, the middleweight, who jams England arenas every time his name goes up, has an offer to fight in Hawaii.

Uneasy Batman

With the British Expeditionary Force Somewhere in France, Jan. 16 (CP Cable).

ONE BATMAN back at Aldershot must be a little worried about what his officer will say when he gets back from France.

He packed the bag of Brigadier G. R. Pearkes, who came to France with Major-General McNaughton. Then he locked it and put the key in his pocket. The key probably still is in his pocket.

What he doesn't know is that Brigadier Pearkes, after an embarrassing time aboard the transport, was helped by a fellow officer, who produced a bundle of keys, one of which opened his baggage.

"TELL BILL GOODBYE"

By Marie Blizard

SYNOPSIS.

The Charasters:
FABIENNE SEYMOUR, rich, young and beautiful.
NICKY BARTLETT, wealthy and in love with Fabienne.
ELLEN CHAPMAN, young and capable mistress of Willoughby House.
DR. BILL MALLORY, close friend of Ellen's.

YESTERDAY: Fabienne goes to church with Ellen and Bill on Christmas Eve.

CHAPTER SIXTEEN.

When they came out of the cathedral, the bells were pealing joyously. Fabienne looked up at the spires and said that the stars were clear and bright against the midnight sky, the avenue very still about them. She half expected to hear the angels sing.

"Like it?" Bill said.

"Yes." She couldn't say any more about it. She'd say something silly or irrelevant to cover up what she was feeling. Later she could tell Mark about it. She might have been able later to talk to Bill about it, if things were different. To Nicky, never.

"Taxi," he whistled.

Fabienne said, "Will you come back with me? It isn't very Christmasy, but I'll have supper sent up."

A cab pulled up beside the curb.

"Let's go back to my place. It's a mess, but there's a tree to trim," Ellen urged.

Fabienne found herself in the cab in spite of her protests that were not exactly feeble. In the mood she was in, she definitely did not want to go back with Bill and Ellen. But they would not listen to her protests.

The tree was a small one, but it took an inordinate amount of consideration to find the proper place to put it. The big table wouldn't do. Nor would the small one. What about the wide window ledge? No, it was better on the small table. They tied silver and gold balls on it, hung candy canes and popcorn balls. They tied red ribbons on the green wreaths and lighted candles in the window.

Ellen made coffee and somthing with chicken and cream in a chafing dish. Bill got out his pipe and for a little while Fabienne forgot that Bill was Ellen's Bill.

At three o'clock, Fabienne said: "Good heavens, is it as late as that? This has been a wonderful Christmas Eve. I had no idea...."

"I'll take you home," Bill said.

He kissed Ellen. Fabienne had turned away and so she only knew that he had kissed her. She did not know it was not a lover's kiss. "Nice work, Ellen," he said.

The stars were gone when they came out into the street and a light snow was filtering from the skies, powdery and dry and somehow warm.

"Hope we can get a cab. Don't seem to be any around," Bill said, turning up the collar of Fabienne's coat.

"Could you stand a walk?"

"I could," he said promptly. "What about you? You've had a long day."

So she had, and a long, long walk before. But she felt no fatigue. Years seemed to have passed since the early evening and she was refreshed, light. Her feet had wings on them. "I'd prefer to walk," she told him.

They were silent for a little time, walking with matching footsteps on the clean white sidewalks in the still, white night.

"Tell me what you were going to do before the bad news came," Bill said.

"Nothing important. It didn't seem a bit important then. If she had told him how disappointed she was because she was not going to the Christmas ball at the Hunt club, she wouldn't have done it well, because now she couldn't remember why she had been disappointed. "I would have done what I've always done. Given and exchanged presents. Gone to parties."

"And they're no longer important?" he asked, not conversationally, but as if her answer meant something important to him.

"At the moment they seem too remote to consider their value. But you, Bill? What do you usually do on Christmas Day?" That was important to her.

"Drop in at the hospital. Wait for calls."

"It sounds dreary."

"I thought it might— to you. I find it pretty interesting.

"Of course," she said contritely. "But I thought .... oh, Christmas one likes to spend with people one loves."

"Does one?" he said, smiling at her, amused.

She said, "Id like a cigaret if you've got one.

"Sorry, I haven't. You smoke too much anyway."

If anyone else had said that to her, she'd have given him a cool look and mentioned politely that that was her business. But because Bill said it, she felt a small glow. He had noticed her. He was giving her orders. Not professional orders, but nice friendly ones, as if he felt a right to give them.

She said, "I prefer a pipe. But it takes a strong, silent man to get away with it. Are you a strong silent man, Bill?"

He shook his head. "I yap all the time, am afraid of mice, blondes and efficient nurses. Do I disappoint you?"

"Yes," she said, "you do."

He said, 'I do, huh?"

"I wish you had an adam's apple, two feet less of height and a voice that squeaks." There, silly, she'd said it, spoken her thoughts aloud.

They walked for perhaps half a city block before he said anything. Then all he said was, "Why?"

But Fabienne had got herself in check by then and so she said, "Because then I wouldn't have found you a good walking companion and I'd have had another hour's sleep." It was pretty weak, but that was the best she could do.

They were in the Fifties and nearly to her hotel. The rest of the way they walked in silence. Or talked of things that made no matter.

There was no one in the lobby when they walked in. Bill took her to her elevator.

She stood there for a moment looking at him. His face looked a little grim. She had hurt him by what she said, but she didn't know how to unsay it.

She said, "Bill, I didn't mean anything by that silly speech. You know the inane things one says at three o'clock in the morning? I'm so tired my tongue doesn't make any more sense than my mind."

His gaze flashed to her hair, lingered there as if pleased. "The snowdrops have melted. They hang like diamonds on chains of fine gold."

She thought it quite the nicest thing she had ever heard. "Really?" To cover up her pleasure she drawled. "I'll bet you tell that to all the nurses you pretend intimidate you."

"I'll bet it's nice hair to touch," he said, crinkling his eyes at her.

Hastily she held out her hand. "Good night, Bill. Thank you for making this the ..... the most memorable Christmas eve I've ever spent.

"Good night, Fabienne."

Then quite suddenly he bent and kissed her on her cool cheek—the way that he had kissed Ellen.

She was pink and hot and disturbed when she got in the elevator and reminded herself that it was a brotherly kiss. She didn't want any more brotherly kisses and she had resolutely put the thought of any other kind out of her wishes.

But she wanted Bill for a friend THAT was the way to conquer wanting him any other way.

"The Authority on Authorities"

FORCING A READING

USUALLY the running of all your set-up tricks is for the purpose of making the defenders discard down to the point at which they unguard some winners, as in the squeeze plays, or get themselves timed so that you can throw them into the lead and make them present you a trick via an end-play. On other occasions, you do it with the idea of getting a reading of their cards, so that you may decide whether to try a finesse or play for the drop of some particular honor.

The brilliant and thorough Fred B. Slater got a clear top on this deal in the Metropolitan open pair championship by bidding and making 7-No Trumps. His partner, William B. Hill, Jr., started in the North with 1-Diamond. Mr. Slater bid 2-Hearts, Mr. Hill 3-Clubs and East doubled, Mr. Slater then 4-Clubs as an artificial call to scare the opponents from that lead, then Mr. Hill 4-Hearts and Mr. Slater 7-No Trumps.

Because of his partner's double, West led the club 10. Mr. Slater put up the A in dummy, then ran five diamonds, followed by four hearts, making ten tricks in all. On the spade K then both defenders followed, and East followed also on the lead of the spade 8. This left East only one card, sure to be the club K because of his double, that being kept to guard the dummy's queen. With still another club yet unplayed, West was bound to have it, so his other card was the now singleton spade Q. Mr. Slater consequently played the spade A, dropped the Q and got the last trick with the spade J.

Those who didn't run their set-up tricks first, but tried the finesse of the spade J instead, of course failed to make the grand slam.

Joint Meeting Held By Y.P. Societies

LAKEFIELD, Jan. 16—(ENS). — "Prayer" was the theme carried throughout the first united meeting of the Young People's societies of the Lakefield United Church, the Baptist Church and St. Andrew's Church, when the members gathered in St. Andrew's Church on Friday evening.

Miss Winnifred Rosborough was in the chair and Miss Mary Blewett presided at the organ. The scripture was read by Miss Jean Clark. "Prayer in the Home" was the title of the prayer read by Alex Nicholls. A definition of prayer, he said, is the lifting up of one's voice to God. Our prayers should be heart utterance and mere lip service.

Miss Cora Charlton contributed a pleasing solo, "Lead Kindly Light."

Mrs. C. Lee spoke of "Prayer in the Church." A church should consist of all those who believe in Christ. Prayer should be encouraged in the church. There are the different forms of prayer, both individual and those in which the minister leads.

Robert Spence took as his topic "Prayer in the Community." He spoke of that large community which met in Amsterdam during the past summer for the youth conference when two hundred and twenty religious groups from sixty-seven different countries came together. He spoke of a prayer offered by a Chinese leader. "Revive thy church beginning with me," which was an old Chinese prayer.

Prayers were offered by Walter Walker, Miss Ora Dunford and Mrs. (Rev.) J. M. Young, representing the three societies.

Miss Rosborough opened the service by reading, "Breath On Me Breath of God," accompanied by soft music. Suitable hymns were used throughout the meeting.

CAMPBELLFORD

Farmers Urged To Take Care In Cooling Milk

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 16. — (ENS)— Farmers should themselves shoulder more of the responsibility for keeping milk cool before it reaches the factory according to Dairy Instructor W. J. Moore who addressed patrons of the Trent Valley Cheese and Butter Company Limited at their annual meeting held here Friday. He told seventy-one patrons of the factory, which is the largest in the district, of the various ways of keeping the milk cool during the warm summer months and stressed the inevitable result of bringing warm milk to the factory.

The care and value of pasture crops was emphasised by Ian MacLeod, District Agriculture Representative from Brighton who also addressed the patrons. President G. G. Stephens presided for the meeting. According to the financial report presented by secretary-treasurer Marshall H. West patrons had sent 213,846 pound of milk less than in the preceeding year. The statement showed a total of 2,848,539 pounds of milk delivered to the factory which yielded 236,607 pounds of cheese or 12.03 pounds of milk per pound of cheese. The total amount of butter fat was 91,173 or 2.59 pounds of cheese per pound of fat. The amount received for cheese which was sold at an average price of 12.4 cents a pound was $29,380.09 and from 6,400 pounds of whey butter $1,312.14. The premium paid on the cheese amounted to $566.67.

Officers and directors for the coming year were all re-elected as follows: President, G. G. Stephens; secretary-treasurer, M. H. West; auditor, Owen Clarke; directors, Henry Forestell, Albert Stephens, Art Russel, William Findlay, D. Meiklejohn and William Stephens.

Officers Named By Lakevale L.A.

A short devotional period was conducted by the president, Mrs. H. Fowler reading the scripture reading. The treasurer, Mrs. Deyell, gave her report for the year's work, showing a small balance on hand after turning over $74 to the church treasurer.

The ladies decided, by an unanimous vote, to hold the regular meetings at the various homes of the members, the February meeting to be held at the home of Mrs. Dave McAdam. There are two completed quilts on hands, which the Society will endeavor to dispose of in the near future. It was also decided that each member would be responsible for the program at the meeting to be held at her home.

"Mary's Castle In the Air," a three-act comedy, was presented by members of the King Edward Home and School Association, Peterborough, in Lakevale Presbyterian church on Tuesday evening, there being only a fair attendance.

Each member of the cast was well chosen and the play was directed by Mrs. Henry Turner, who also favored the audience with a reading between the first and second acts.

Members of the cast were: Mrs. Jenkins, a neighbor of Estabrooks, Mrs. H. Turner; Jane Jenkins, her flirtatious daughter, Grace Kimball; Bill Bronson, Jane's chaffeur suitor, George Martin; Lenny Taft, the grocer's boy, Ken Moffatt; Mary Estabrooks, the air-castle girl, Dorothy Drysdale; Daddy Allen, the village philosopher, Henry Turner; Mrs. Estabrook, Mary's mother, Mrs. Wood; Jim Ruggles, a young attorney, Harold Fife; Mimi Carlysle, a spoiled darling of fortune, Alma Baldry; Edward Carlysle, Mimi's father, E. At the conclusion of the play, lunch was served to the players, a vote of thanks for which was moved by Mrs. E. Chambers, president of King Edward Home and School Association.

Stomach and Kidney Troubles Gone; Praises Syntona Tonic

Tells of Grand Relief From Gastritis, Cramps, Dizzy Spells, Headaches and Constipation. Had Rheumatic Pains in Shoulders and Joints.

MR. ROBERT THOMBLISON

How many times have you said you would give ANYTHING to be able to eat three good meals a day without getting that heavy, bloated feeling in your stomach that almost makes you gasp for your breath? Those cramps, dizzy spells or nervous headaches; pains in back and limbs caused by excess acids and impurities in the system. Do you know that EVERY DAY reputable men and women who have suffered with one or more of these distressing ailments tell how Syntona has relieved them after everything else they tried had failed? Here, for example, is the experience of Mr. Robert Thomblison, well-known Burlington man, residing at 5 Caroline Street West, as reported only recently:

"I suffered with a gassy, upset stomach and cramps after every meal and I had to take strong laxatives for constipation. When I would stoop over or get up quickly I would get dizzy spells and I was subject to frequent severe headaches. At night I had to get up at all hours to relieve my kidneys so I felt tired out and weakened right from the beginning of each day. Then, rheumatic pains set into my shoulders and joints.

"I had tried every treatment I ever heard of, but I couldn't get any satisfactory results, and I often wondered if I would ever feel any better. It was my son who first got me started taking Syntona. He brought some home one day and suggested I try it. Well, I could tell it was helping me right from that first bottle. I liked the way it acted on my stomach and bowels, so I took a full treatment and it fixed me up fine. I soon got so I could eat regular meals and my food digested well. Then the kidney trouble and rheumatism left me. It surely was a great relief and I would take Syntona any time if my system gets upset again."

If you live in Peterborough or vicinity, go to Elliott's Drug Store, 393 George Street, and get yourself a treatment of this pure herbal compound that is being so widely recommended. Remember the name Syntona, and avoid disappointment. —(Advt.)

Bonuses Paid Hoards' Patrons Totalled $1,767

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 16. — (ENS) — Patrons of the Hoards' Cheese and Butter Company have every reason to be satisfied with their yearly report. At the annual meeting held in the factory on Friday it was revealed that patrons had collected a total of $1,767.41 in premiums on high scoring cheese during 1939. This, according to district Dairy Instructor, J. A. Murray, who was there to address patrons on dairy matters, was the largest bonus paid to any factory in the district exceeding the record set by Menie Factory by $14.84.

Earl McAdam, president and secretary of the company presented the financial statement and spoke of the extensive improvements made at the plant during the season. He complimented the maker, Douglas Rowe on the number of high scoring cheese which had made possible the large bonus.

S. L. Lucas, manager of the Bank of Montreal, Stirling, and who was a veteran of the last Great War told patrons that cheese was always a favorite item of the soldiers diet when "in the line" and he felt sure that in the days just ahead its production would not only be profitable but a patriotic duty.

The statement for the year showed the following, total milk 1,986,174 pounds, total cheese, 164,656 pounds; total fat, 60,502 pounds; average milk per pound of cheese 12.06 pounds; average price per pound of cheese 12.56 cents; average price per pound of fat, 31.63 cents; average cheese per pound fat 2.72 pounds.

A vote on the matter of whether or not artificial refrigeration should be installed showed patrons were in favor of the plan.

Cheesemaker Douglas Rowe addressed the meeting briefly thanking patrons for their cooperation during the preceeding year and soliciting their continued support. Officers for the year 1940 were elected as follows: President and secretary, Earl McAdam; auditor, Charles Hoard; directors, H. Whitton, William Jeffs, Charles Hoard, A. Parr, R. Anderson and F. Heagle.

To Soften Blackout

In the early weeks of the war, more casualties were suffered in England as the result of blackout accidents than in the front lines. To partially relieve the situation, these lights have been devised. They are planned for use with low-intensity street lighting, and direct their beams directly downward—not upward or outward where they might give a clue to raiding aircraft. This particular model is designed to fit on London's gas lamp standards.

TORONTO, Jan. 16 — (CP). — Plight of workers in the paper and sulphite industry of Northern Ontario, operating on short time for a long while past, is being laid this week before the Ontario Government in a series of conferences.

Deputations from many Northern Ontario points were in Toronto today to see Hon. Peter Heenan, Minister of Lands and Forests, and Hon. Eric Cross, Minister of Municipal Affairs.

Brief of the deputations said that the industry has operated only 50 per cent. of capacity for two years and that the reserves of employees are used up. Affected are Iroquois Falls, Ansonville, Smoothrock Falls, Sault Ste. Marie, Fort William and Port Arthur.

The Deputations asked that construction of new mills be banned until the productive capacity of the present ones is overtaken by demand. It was said that the expansion of the 1920's resulted in the industry being capitalized and built up beyond needs for years to come.

Drew, Hepburn Turn Guns On Mackenzie King Regime; Charge War Effort Lagging

Assail Delay In Equipping Canadian Forces, Score Treatment Of Men Who Quit Jobs To Enlist And Failed—2-Year Bill Changed

TORONTO, Jan. 17—(CP).—The Ontario Legislature turned today to consideration of the Government's bill for extension of the terms of municipal officials to two years, after a broadside by leaders of both major parties against conduct of the war effort by the Federal administration.

Lieut.-Col. George A. Drew, Conservative leader, roused the House yesterday after a succession of quiet sittings by attacking the Dominion Government's "inefficiency" in prosecution of the war, and his words were echoed and enlarged upon by Premier Mitchell Hepburn.

The legislation governing municipal terms, called the Local Government Extension Act, was brought in before the leaders trained their guns yesterday by Hon. Eric Cross, Minister of Municipal Affairs. One-year extension of the terms of municipal officers in office on February 1, 1941, is provided in the bill, but electors in any municipality may vote themselves out of the Act's provisions and retain annual elections.

Mr. Cross said the Government did not wish to divide public opinion on the matter in time of war and was dropping any move to make the extension compulsory. Another change from original intention is that the bill will not become effective until after the next municipal elections.

Included in the Act's provisions are municipal councils, school boards, technical school boards, utilities commissions, transportation commissions, library boards, parks boards, police village boards, and generally all municipal bodies appointed or elected for a definite term.

The question set forth in the Act to be asked of the electors in these municipalities deciding to take a vote is: Are you in favor as a war-time measure under the Local Government Extension Act, 1940, of the municipal council elected for 1941 holding office for the term of two years?

Mr. Cross said the purpose of the bill was economy in war time.

Condemn King Regime.

In a surprise speech, Col. Drew condemned alleged inefficiency by the Government of Prime Minister Mackenzie King and found himself

Ald. W. Stocker Makes Reply To His Critics

The following statement has been received from Alderman Walter Stocker in reply to a resolution of the Canadian Legion demanding an apology for his criticism of Dr. G. Murray Fraser, Medical Officer of Health, now overseas with the First Canadian Contingent. Alderman Stocker has always contended in Council and as a member of the Board of Health that the public service of the city affecting the well being of the people should be regarded as more important than the police and fire departments, or at least rating on par with them, and in the following letter he asserts that his strictures were directed at Dr. Fraser only in his capacity as Peterborough's Medical Officer of Health.

Editor,Examiner,
City.

Dear Sir.—Replying to the vote passed by the Canadian Legion, requesting that the City Council censure me for my remarks regarding Dr. Fraser, made in Council, January 8, may I state emphatically that I did not wait until Dr. Fraser had enlisted and gone away before I expressed my criticism of his services as Medical Officer of Health.

I have repeatedly criticized Dr. Fraser's services to the city for more than a year at the Board of Health meetings, and Dr. Fraser was always present. He knew that I considered he was falling down on the job of managing our public health work, and he knew my reasons for thinking so.

Although I recommended Dr.

Girl Teacher Badly Injured In 2-Storey Sub-Zero Leap; Six Others Burned, Frozen

Home, 3 Miles From Lonely Mountain Grove Little North Frontenac Hamlet Burns Before Mile Dash Brings Neighbors

MOUNTAIN GROVE, Ont., Jan. 17—(CP).—A 53-year-old woman and an 11-year-old girl were burned to death early today when fire destroyed a home three miles north of this Frontenac county village. Seven other occupants of the house suffered burns and frost bites.

The dead are Mrs. Adeline Barr and her granddaughter, Irma Barr. Most seriously injured was Isabel Watchorn, a school teacher staying at the house, when she jumped from an upstairs window to safety.

The two-storey frame house burned quickly and was destroyed. The cause of the blaze is believed to have been overheated pipes. It has not been decided if an inquest will be held.

Others in the house were the owners, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Barr, parents of Irma, and their son Cyril; Mr. and Mrs. Victor Peterson and their son Carl.

Cyril also jumped from a top-storey window to escape the flames and suffered serious injury.

Peterson had arisen before the others and lighted the fire while the others slept. He absented himself from the house for a few minutes and on his return found the residence in flames. He sounded an alarm and Earl Barr ran to the home of Robert Cox, a mile away, to seek help. He suffered severe frost bites on his journey in the zero weather.

District residents rushed to the Barr home but could do nothing to save the structure, although none of the other smaller buildings about the home caught fire.

Mountain Grove is 65 miles north of Kingston.

Blast Kills Two Rocks Area For 20 Miles

GIBBSTOWN, N. J., Jan. 17. —(AP)— Two men were killed today and a third was injured in a nitroglycerine explosion that wrecked a unit of the Dupont Company Powder Works and shook an area of 20 miles.

A company announcement listed the dead as:

Earl Leslie Harbison, 30, Clayton, N. J.

Edward M. Bundens, Jr., 31, Paulsboro, N. J.

Although 500 yards away from the blast-torn unit of the Repauno plant of the company here, Raymond Hicks, Gibbstown, was injured by the explosion.

It was part of what employees term the "N. G. line"— A scattered row of buildings where nitro glycerine is used in making high explosives.

The shock was so great that it led to reports the tri-state area of New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Delaware had been shaken by an earthquake. The plant is about 20 miles south east of Philadelphia.

At least 20 persons have been killed in other explosions here. The most serious explosions damaged the plant in January, May and October of 1916—taking 18 lives.

Workers in factories along the Pennsylvania side of the river, said they could see a cloud of smoke rising from the vicinity of the powder works.

Thousands of telephone calls showed the shock of the blast was felt in Philadelphia and for 15 miles around the plant.

Belgians Keep Army Alert; Finns Advance Near Salla; Hint Major Victory In Sight

Red Bomber's Maps Trace Routes To Norway, Sweden

HELSINGFORS, Jan. 17. — (AP) —Finnish troops, fighting in sub-zero weather, were reported driving the Russians back in the Salla region and advancing towards a new victory today.

Today's army communique laconically confined itself to the assertion that "our troops are fighting successfully in the direction of Salla," Finland's eastern border just above the Arctic circle.

However, other Finnish sources said developments in the Salla sector raised hopes of further successes.

The Finns reported they had routed a Russian Company north of Lake Ladoga, killed 70 men and capturing two tanks.

The Finnish Air Force, the army announced, carried out several bombing raids on enemy columns and concentration sites. One Russian plane was reported shot down.

A Swedish police chief studying Finnish air raid precautions said maps taken from captured Russian airmen showed detailed routes from a Soviet airfield southwest of Leningrad to points in Sweden and Norway.

"This looks like evidence they ex-

Boosting Air Force Ready For Tanks Says Belgian Chief

BRUSSELS, Jan. 17 — (AP). — Mobilization steps which Belgium took over the week-end, calling technicians to the colors—a stage next to complete mobilization—are to be maintained "for some time," General Henri Denis, Deefnce Minister, said in an interview to-day.

"Our information and general impressions made it necessary," he said, "We must always be alert."

The cold has affected defence plans somewhat, he said, because invading troops could cross on the ice, although boats have been busy keeping defensive waterways free. All necessary trench digging was completed before the freeze, which improved the trenches, General Denis said.

Asked about the Finnish war, General Denis said it was comforting for Belgium and similar countries to see it demonstrated that a small country and a small army, if adequately equipped and commanded, could face a much stronger enemy.

"It proves to us," he said, "that we made no mistake in our armaments and no one is better equipped than Belgium against tanks, thanks to our 4.7 anti-tank guns.

Sudbury Creaks In 34 Below To Top Ontario

TORONTO, Jan. 17 — (CP). — A wave of bitter cold swept down through Ontario to-day, sending the mercury in most districts to the lowest points for the winter so far.

Lowest temperatures were reported from Northern Ontario. At Sudbury, driving cold winds sent the mercury down to 34 below zero, while North Bay experienced a minimum of 24 below.

Meanwhile reports from all points in the Province indicated that snow crews had succeeded in clearing away the last drifts hanging over from the heavy week-end storm.

In Eastern Ontario temperatures ranged from 13 to 22 below zero, while Toronto and district was comparatively warm at a few notches below the zero mark.

In western Ontario temperatures hovered just below zero with a gradual rise forecast by the London airport meteorological bureau. At Galt, the mercury skidded 19 degrees during the night to 3 below zero.

The cold wave was accompanied with brilliant sunshine and little wind was reported.

Ski Troops Rout Reds; Weather 51 Below Zero

By THOMAS HAWKINS
(Associated Press Staff Writer.)

WITH THE CENTRAL FINNISH FORCES IN RUSSIA, Jan. 17 — (AP). — Here in the rugged, wooded hills east of Lieksa, Finnish soldiers are holding a front five to 10 miles within Soviet Russia, guarding two vital highways, 45 miles apart.

By automobile, horse-drawn sled, and afoot I visited this front an hour after Finnish ski troops had routed a patrol of 60 Russians in the marrow-chilling cold.

In parts of Finland, the cold ranged down to 51 degrees below zero, making major military operations virtually impossible. It is the severest winter in 25 years.

Only in the skirmish here, where the temperature was 30 blow zero, and in a vain Russian attack north of here on the Salla front, was there any action.

Hints Pulpwood Export Used For Newsprint

TORONTO, Jan. 17 — (CP). — Whether Ontario pulpwood exported to the United States is being used for the manufacture of newsprint, even though exported under affidavits it is not to be so used, was the question raised to-day by Conservative Leader George Drew in the Select Committee of Ontario Legislature investigating administration of timber resources.

Hon. Peter Heenan, Minister of Lands and Forests, resumed testimony as the committee under the chairmanship of Hon. Paul Leduc, Minister of Mines, resumed its inquiry. Mr. Heenan presented several statements concerning timber cuts, particularly in the Thunder Bay area from where the chief export is.

Mr. Heenan said he was satisfied that the export of Ontario pulpwood, 612,000 cords in 1939, was not being used to make products that compete with Ontario mills. Affidavits were taken from exporters and from buyers to forestall its use in newsprint, manufacture. The Ontario mills manufacturing the same classes of paper that are made by the United States mills using Ontario pulpwoods are working full time, said the minister.

Col. Drew said he still held to the belief it would be proper to prohibit export "within reasonable limits" to encourage production in Ontario.

"It is of the utmost importance your department assure itself that the pulpwood exported is not actually being used for some other purpose than intended," he said to Mr. Heenan.

May Be Into War Any Moment Italians Warned

ROME, Jan. 17.—(AP)—Ettore Muti, secretary of the Fascist party, warned Italians today they might be compelled "at any moment" to fight in the war.

His warning was published after a conference with party leaders from 26 provinces.

The communique advised the Italian people not to be too greatly impresed by "the recent demonstration of international sympathy."

"There is no need to lull oneself with the illusion that Italy's present situation wih regard to war may last forever," Muti declared. "Fascist Italy may face the necessity and duty at any moment of picking up arms.

"It must therefore be prepared in its resources and above all in its spirit. It is well to add that it is absurd and dangerous to derive too much satisfaction from recent demonstrations of international sympathy which are without justification or foundation and not even in harmony with the true sentiment of the Italian people which has learned not to forget the history which it has learned not to forget the history which it has lived dramtically, especially in these recent times."

Muti's announcement said relaxation of Fascism's "anti-democratic, anti-Bolshevist and anti-Bourgeois policies would be pernicious, particularly at the present time."

Truck Driver Hurt

BELLEVILLE — (AP). — Herbert Hewton, 32, tractor driver for the Sawyer Stoll Lumber Company at Massanoga, 100 miles north of here, was brought to hospital in Belleville today in a critical condition with injuries suffered when he was crushed by a falling tree in the bush. Hewton suffered a fractured back, fractured leg and internal injuries.

Seek To Prohibit Interference By Employers

TORONTO, Jan. 17. —(CP) — Legislation to prohibit interference by employers with workers in exercising their right to form or join a labor union, was asked today of the Ontario Government by a deputation from the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada.

The deputation's brief said labor desired to avoid all unnecessary controversy in the present critical period. The Government could aid by passing the legislation suggested and also by giving labor representation on boards and commissions where labor's interests are particularly effected.

Other points in the brief were:

Enactment of legislation to prohibit the issuance by local judges of injunction in labor disputes until both parties to the dispute have been afforded an equal opportunity to be heard.

War Loan Goes Over Top By $50,000,000

OTTAWA, Jan. 17 — (CP).—Canadians on the home front gave an enthusiastic answer to the Government's appeal to support the $300,000,000 war loan and in two days oversubscribed the issue by nearly $50,000,000.

In a final burst of buying, investors swamped war bond dealers and late last night the Bank of Canada, on behalf of Finance Minister Ralston, announced that the loan was "over the top" with cash subscriptions to the close of business yesterday totalling $248,804,500.

Books Remain Open

Officials of the bank expressed "extreme satisfaction" at the response to the offering and said that the books of the 12-year 3¼-percent. interest loan will remain open in order that small subscribers, particularly those in the more distant parts of Canada, may have an opportunity to enter their applications.

Such subscriptions, however, can only be taken subject to allotment. The total issue will be limited to $200,000,000 and subscriptions not already confirmed cannot be allotted in full.

Financial experts said that the books probably will be closed tomorrow night as it was suggested earlier that three days were necessary for all citizens wishing to participate to get their orders registered. When the loan was originally announced it was stated that the books were to be open a maximum of two weeks, but could be closed at any time at the discretion of the Finance Minister.

This Dominion of Canada issue was a $115,000,000 loan to cover note issue by the Bank of Canada and the great bulk of the bonds still is held by the Bank of Canada. Col. Ralston said he would accept offers to convert whatever of these bonds

His Hometown In Complete Ruins Finn Takes Time To Aid Stranger

By WADE WERNER
(Associated Press Staff Writer.)

SOMEWHERE IN FINLAND, Jan. 17 — (AP). — This is the story of bombing raids, a frozen nose and Finnish solicitude toward a stranger.

Like most other towns in Finland, this one was expecting another air raid, and foreign correspondents were prepared to spend part of their time in cellars.

Several of us were listening to an officer's translation of letters received from some soldiers at the front when a siren howled.

We reached for our hats and coats, intending to stroll over to an air raid shelter nearby. At that moment we were thrown off our feet by three terrific detonations in quick succession.

Glass fell all around us, and a crash on the floor above—we were on the third floor—made us think the building had been hit.

We had to make a dash for it.

The stairs were still intact, although cluttered with debris. As we ran into the street and toward an air raid shelter, we noticed the sidewalk covered with shattered plate glass from shop windows.

We stumbled into an underground refuge just as the roar of power-diving bombers warned us another cluster of bombs was about to hit.

Beat Bombers To It.

They did, but we already were under cover with about 50 other persons at least one-third of them women.

After an uncomfortable two hours, we came back to street level. The thoroughfare had been turned into an inferno of smashed and blazing buildings.

Office chairs and desks had been blown through windows into the street. Show window mannikins lay in the snow.

As I walked along in a daze, a Finn approached me in evident alarm.

"Has he seen another bomber?" I asked myself.

But he looked straight at me, bent to the ground and scooped up a handful of snow.

"For heaven's sake," he said in Finnish. "Look out for your nose!"

He began rubbing my face with snow. Sure enough, my nose was numb.

I continued the treatment that the Finn had started, but his action has left me wondering.

What do you make of a people who, with their hometown in ruins, can take time to think of a stranger's frozen nose?

Not Beached

London, Jan. 17 (CP)

AUHTORITATIVE naval circles today denied reports that the British cruiser Exeter, damaged in the battle off Uruguay with the German pocket battleship Admiral Graf Spee, had been beached at the Falkland Islands, the British crown colony in the South Atlantic.

"The Exeter has not been beached anywhere," the naval men declared.

Cashier Skips With $447, Sees NY, Capital Too Fat At 210 For Hollywood, Gives Up

CHICAGO, Jan. 17. — (AP)— Naomi Taylor's odyssey ended today in the Summerdale Avenue police station.

She forged through a snowstorm before dawn to tell of her wanderings since Nov. 4, the day she disappeared while taking $447.62 to the bank for her employer.

Lieutenant Michael Ahern said Miss Taylor, 28, told this story:

Notified by her employer that she would be laid off from her her one-day-a-week job as cashier at a meat market she decided not to deposit the money but to have "one glorious fling and then come back and face the music."

First she flew to New York where she saw six Broadway shows. Then she flew to Washington and saw the sights. Another plane took her to San Francisco and still another to Los Angeles and Hollywood.

"I looked at the homes of many of the movie stars and tried to get a job, but I'm too fat. Men don't like fat women. That's one reason I want to go to jail—to reduce. I've tried dieting but I haven't got the will power."

Miss Taylor exhibited a card from a drug store scale. One side gave her weight—210. The other told her "fortune"—"your pleasant manners will make you many friends."

"A lot of good that will do me," she sighed.

Resignation Of Hore-Belisha Is Still Mystery To British People

LONDON, Jan. 17.—(CP Cable.)—The British press agreed to-day that the resignation of Leslie Hore-Belisha from the War Office was as much of a mystery as ever despite yesterday's statements in Parliament, but held the general view that Mr. Hore-Belisha's restraint would soon be rewarded with a new cabinet post.

"The great Belisha drama was a flop," was the way the Daily Mail summed up the House of Commons session in its headline. The newspaper mildly criticized Prime Minister Chamberlain for leaving things obscure and added:

"He cannot complain if there is continuation of the wild speculations which he deplored in his statements which he depored in his statement."

Dissecting Mr. Hore-Belisha's speech, the Mail wondered whether the former war secretary hinted that someone acted against him behind his back when he was reluctant to believe that high army officers had offended against military tradition by making "representations irregularly."

Reforms Resented.

The paper also asked whether Mr. Hore-Belisha meant that the "brass hats" resented his reforms and exerted pressure to have him removed when he said it hadn't occurred to him that "we were making an army too democratic to fight for democracy."

The Daily Herald said:

"The debate was like a mystery novel with the last chapter torn out."

It added that "it must be a serious issue, not sufficiently serious apparently in Mr. Chamberlain's eyes, to make Mr. Hore-Belisha unsuitable for a high cabinet rank in another post, but sufficiently serious to make Mr. Hore-Belisha think it not good for him to accept."

"Frankly, Mr. Chamberlain," the Herald added, "we do not believe that you have given the Commons as complete or as frank an account of what happened as the public has a right to expect."

Hannen Swaffer, political correspondent of the Herald, said: "Never in my life have I known a Prime Minister so blatantly to get away with nothing—or seen one sit down so self-righteously complacent."

Just As Well For Britain

NEW YORK, Jan. 17. — (CP) — The New York Times concluded today that it is "probably just as well" for the success of Great Britain's war effort that both Prime Minister Chamberlain and Leslie Hore-Belisha were reticent in the British House of Commons Tuesday in their explanations of Mr. Hore-Belisha's resignation as Secretary for War.

"Frank disclosures on either side, followed by a quarrelsome debate, might have satisfied public curiosity, but could only have given comfort to Germany, and perhaps valuable information as well," the newspaper said editorially. "So the riddle of Mr. Hore-Belisha's sudden resignation remains unsolved...

"The actual points at issue, and the specific cause of the final Break, may not be known until the actors in the drama write their memoirs. The events of the next fateful weeks may show whether, as a result of the

In the eastern section of the district Hastings reported 24 below and Campbellford 18 below.

Two Nations Deny Nazi Claims

1,000,000 Men Are Under Arms In Lowland Countries

BRUSSELS, Jan. 17.—(AP)—Tension over fears of a German attack lessened today, but lowland defence forces were kept on the alert and there was an acceleration of unexplained diplomatic activity.

Both Belgium and the Netherlands followed up a weekend of military preparedness moves with official declarations that their views on the international situation were formed only on information from sources controlled by themselves.

The German version of the scare in the low countries over the possibility of a Nazi invasion to sidestep the French Maginot line was that the anxiety was "made in Paris," to "provoke" Germany into an aggresive move against those two neutral neighbors.

Belgium had found the situation sufficient to warrant calling technicians in a next-to-final mobilization step, while the Netherlands had cancelled military and naval leaves. The joint steps gave the two nations close to 1,000,000 men under arms.

John Cudahy, the United States ambassador who arrived here early today from Dublin by way of Paris, was understood to be under urgent orders from Washington to assume full powers as quickly as possible. He is former minister to Ireland.

The coming of the American envoy was on the heels of unexplained consultations between the Belgian foreign minister, Paul Henri Spaak, and the ambassadors of Germany, Great Britain and France.

Continue Coal Imports

A Belgian economic delegate, who just returned from Germany, is reported to have arranged for continued imports of German coal and smoother passage of Belgian exports to Germany.

The delegate, Director of Commercial Treaties at the Foreign Office, went to Berlin late last month, primarily concerned, it was said, with the coal question.

It was understood at that time Belgium could not continue indef-

Royal Canadian Air Force Has Tripled In Strength Since Starting Of The War

By WALLACE WARD
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

OTTAWA, Jan. 17.—(CP)—The Royal Canadian Air Force has tripled since the war started and still is growing by leaps and bounds. That the structure is steady and the growth orderly arises from the foundation having been soundly laid in time of peace.

Even a year ago Canada had an Air Force that seem a uny thing beside the air arm of any leading world power but none could criticize the efficiency of this peacetime force. Man for man, it was even then the equal of any in the world.

The small R. C. A. F. which started out as the Canadian Air Force in 1920 and obtained the "Royal" prefix in 1924, grew slowly but efficiently and when Canada faced a national emergency last Autumn, the small permanent force provided a perfect nucleus for the rection of a wartime air force.

Operating on a restricted budget and thus with comparatively aged equipment, the R. C. A. F. from the start chose its personal carefully. Foremost in the building of the young force was its present head, Air Marshal G. M. Croll, who joned up February 18, 1920, the day on which the order-in-council creating the Canadian Air Force was signed.

Air vice-Marshall Croll took over actual command of the force, however, only on January 1, 1934. Necessarily small, the R. C. A. F. could well afford to be selective, with the result that the cream of the output of Canadian Universities formed the skeleton of the wartime air force being built up today.

Commissioned officers in the Air Force were required to be graduates of the Royal Military College at Kingston, Ont., or engineering graduates of some recognized university. Airmen and non-commissioned officers had to be graduates of technical schools or with similar scholastic attainments.

It has been from such material that the Air Force now draws its key men. Experience under actual service conditions in air stations across Canada has seasoned the permanent force personnel. In recent months they have had actual service types, the latest models of British military aircraft, to work with. More are on order.

Hard years of study, of actual experience in mapping, air photography, in flying under adverse weather conditions, fitted the per-

Fraser's appointment, I was satisfied some time ago that he was not measuring up to the job, and I so stated almost regularly at meetings of the board.

I have always been frank on my criticisms of civic officials who I found were not doing their work in the best interest of the city. It may be recalled that I criticized Dr. Fraser's predecessor in office of Medical Officer of Health. He also served in the last war with great distinction. However, I satisfied myself that under his direction affairs of the department were not going satisfactorily. I satisfied the City Council of this fact also, with the result that changes were made that have saved taxpayers tens of thousands of dollars and improved the services of the department.

Perhaps the citizens have forgotten these facts, because sometimes they forget rather quickly.

However, they must know that I have always been forthright and open in my criticism. I have never been a "Yes" man for anyone.

And I have tried to serve my city to my best ability, which meant getting efficiency for every dollar spent.

When I found that action which Dr. Fraser had desired and worked for in order to shut off my criticism was going to be taken by the City Council, I did express myself strongly, but no more strongly than I have expressed myself in Dr. Fraser's presence.

Dr. Fraser as a medical doctor, as a soldier, or as a gentleman I have never critized, but as a Medical Officer of Health I have done so for many months.

cabinet shift, there is to be a shift also in the basic policies underlying Great Britain's conduct of the war."

In another editorial, The Times discusses Britain's note to the President of Panama yesterday which rejected the principle of the 300-mile-wide neutrality belt about the Americans, proposed by 21 American republics, including the United States. It said in part:

"A 'safety zone' covering about 5,000,000 square miles of ocean would be unenforceable except by placing a gigantic burden upon the United States Navy and heightening the very risk of involvement which the 21 republics were trying to avoid.

"The proper course now is for the 21 American Governments to approach Germany on the subject how far Germany might be willing of the 'safety zone' and to discover to restrict her war operations in American waters."

The drought situation in the Niagara district, relieved in some areas by Sunday's rain, was worse again today. Farmers were hauling water many miles to supply their stock and large containers and barrels were unpurchasable in the city, the demand having exhausted the supply.

Fears of floods in the Port Hope area were not diminished despite 22 degrees below zero weather as corporation employees, mindful of the serious flood which developed suddenly three years ago in the Ganeraska River began blasting ice jams. The river bed below the business section of Port Hope is filled with ice and snow and a stretch of rapids reduced to a mill pond.

Department of highways snowplows, working all last night had nearly every main road in Stratford district in perfect condition after a two-day storm threatened to tie up motor traffic completely.

Highway No. 19 north from Stratford to Tralee, reported blocked when the storm reached its height yesterday, was open today. Highway No. 83 from Russeldale to Exeter was still very heavy but it will be in good condition today. Plows are working in that district and also on highway No. 4 from Clinton into Wingham. A considerable amount of trouble developed on this latter road between Blyth and Wingham and it was almost blocked to traffic.

The Peterborough Fish and Game Protective Association came near to being left empty-handed by the county council at its opening session yesterday. A letter asking for a donation was read to the council by Clerk Jennie Batten and Reeve W. A. Anderson of Otonabee township called out, "Received." "You don't intend to do any fishing," remarked Warden John McColl. "We'll put it in finance," decided Miss Batten. If it had been marked "Received," it would not have come before the council again.

The blackout has caused a strike here where workers in a plastics factory have complained they must work in steam because of darkened conditions in the factory.

War Bulletins

Received By Examiner Over Canadian Press Leased Wire

BERLIN—(AP) — The German High Command's communique today said:

"No special events."

PARIS—(AP)— Extreme cold accompanied by a heavy snowfall paralyzed action today on the Western front, military sources reported.

Snow fell without interruption yesterday.

This morning's army communique said there was "nothing to report" in the western front.

LONDON—(CP Cable) — J. W. Beaton, senior officer of the Canadian Young Men's Christian Association War Services, is going to France tomorrow to visit Paris and the British military area.

He will plan a program to be put into effect when the Canadian troops reach France.

LONDON—(CP Cable) — The Archbishop of Canterbury today announced a small committee of Bishops has been formed to consider the problem of the moral temptation to which the troops are inevitably exposed.

Speaking before the upper house of the Convocation of Canterbury meeting in Westminster, the Primate said he was also promoting a scheme for "carefully selected women" to visit the camps to give talks on Christian religion.

MELBOURNE — (CP Reuters) — Sir Henry Gullett, minister for external affairs, said in an interview today that enlistments from the militia in the Australian Imperial Force were deplorably low.

"We can lose this war unless we shed apathy," Sir Henry declared.

Service in the militia, for home defence, is compulsory. The A.I.F. designed for service overseas, is voluntary.

LONDON—(CP)— David Lloyd George, Prime Minister during the First Great War, observed his 77th birthday today with the comment that, like the French philosopher Renan, he "had enjoyed the walk through life," but added:

"If I were to say what I thought about the situation today in Europe, I should have to withdraw my first statement."

LONDON—(CP) — During the week ending January 13 the contraband control detained 3,365 tons of goods headed for Germany after inspecting 195 ships, 35 of which had been held over from the previous week, it was announced today.

Of the total, 114 were permitted to resume their voyages with their full cargoes. Forty-seven Dutch, 45 Italian and 30 Norwegian ships were among those examined.

LONDON—(CP) — The Distinguished Service Cross has been awarded to Squadron Leader Richard Kellett, British aviator who led the British Air units which shot down 12 German planes in a recent battle over Heligoland Bay. CAR CATCHES FIRE

Luck was with F. Fair, 471 Reid street, when alcohol fumes from the radiator of his car set it on fire a few minutes before 10 o'clock last night. Luck was with him because the mishap occurred just outside the Fire Hall and he turned in there to get the flames halted. Little damage was done.

Taxi Driver Is Fined Careless Driving

According to Sergt. Gordon T. Puffer in his explanation to the Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in traffic court this mornig Harold Bedford who had entered a written plea of guilty to a charge of careless driving in the village of Havelock was paying more attention to the fair lady who accompanied him than he was to his driving technique.

"He was driving with one arm around his lady friend," said Sergt. Puffer, "and as a result he ditched his car." Bedford was fined $9 and $4 costs.

Joseph Woodward, taxi driver, charged with careless driving on Charlotte street on December 31, pleaded not guilty at first and an adjournment was arranged when the police were not ready to go. "I understood there was to be a plea of guilty," Magistrate Langley stated.

Later Woodward came back into court and asked to be allowed to change his plea to guilty. "I don't want to waste any more time over this," he said.

"I am satisfied with the minimum in this case," said Sergt. Puffer and Woodward escaped with a fine of $5 and 75 cents costs.

A traffic charge against George Dwyer of Haliburton was adjourned for a week.

Three Cars Involved In Traffic Accident

Three cars were involved in a traffic acident near the corner of Water and Dublin Streets on Tuesday afternoon. No one was hurt.

Frederic G. Mann, 199 London Street, was driving north on Water Street when his car skidded into a parked car owned by W. J. Cunningham, manager of Woolworth's Store. Immediately afterward another north-bound automobile driven by R. Allison, Dumble Avenue, collided with the rear end of Mann's machine.

The latter vehicle was the chief sufferer from the accident, being damaged to the extent of $35. The other two cars came off much more lightly.

Stove Burns Hole In Floor Of Store

What might have been a serious fire was averted shortly after noon today when flames broke out in an empty store at 547 George street, formerly occupied by the Brown Radio Repairs.

Pipes were in danger of becoming frozen from this morning's cold and a Quebec heater was placed on the bare floor to heat the premises. The stove burned a hole through the floor to the foundation beneath and the fire department was called. Apartments above the store escaped with only a little smoke and damage to the store was not heavy.

Plan To Cripple Britain's Railway System

LONDON, Jan. 17 (CP)—Great Britain's 600,000 railway workers were reported ordered on the alert today for acts of sabotage against the nation's lines.

The vast "detective" system was understood to have been set up as the Daily Mail and Daily Herald reported that a plot by the German intelligence service to cripple the nation's railway network had been discovered.

The Daily Mail said the plot was aimed at public works and bridges. No arrests have been announced. The newspaper declared the conspiracy had been discovered only a few days ago and that "counter measures" were expected to be put into effect shortly.

Plan New Ministry

A move to set up a ministry coordinating all economic war efforts with Leslie Hore-Belisha as its head was reported to have gained momentum as echoes of his "public hearing" in parliament over resignation as war secretary died away.

The proposed ministry, it was explained, would have a broader scope than the present ministry of economic warfare headed by Ronald Cross. The present ministry's tasks are confined principally to contraband control.

While some sections of the press [illegible] the Hore-Belisha resignation as "closed incident," others expressed disappointment that statements by the former war secretary and Prime Minister Chamberlain in the House of Commons yesterday failed to disclose specific reasons for the change.

Mr. Chamberlain's statement that "it may not be long" before Mr. Hore-Belisha may serve in another position added to speculation that he might become the economic minister.

Defence Minister

Also revived was talk of the appointment of a defence minister in charge of the entire army, navy and air force. The First Lord of the Admiralty, Winston Churchill, has been mentioned for the post.

The Times commented:—

"Two years ago the need for securing the most complete co-ordination of the means of defence by sea, land and air was uppermost in the public mind. No one could claim on the whole that the work has yet been accomplished."

Minister to Italy

Sir Noel Charles has been appointed minister to Italy, giving added importance to the British legation at Rome headed by Ambassador Sir Percy Loraine. Britain has both an ambassador and minister to France.

Sir Noel was counsellor to the Rome embassy, and although his duties remain the same, he now outranks counsellors to other embassies.

Possibly the result of action at sea, a large oil tanker of unidentified nationality exploded in flames and broke in half last night off the southwest English coast. The crew was reported rescued.

Suspend Teacher For Slapping Girl

SOUTH CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Jan. 17—(AP).—Charges of abusing a 17-year-old girl student due to a chewing gum incident to-day brought about suspension of John Snader, 40, junior high school principal.

The school board announced his removal pending a "complete and impartial investigation."

Snader told the board members that he had attempted to punish Josephine Edenbo for chewing gum and falsifying about it and that when she fought back it was a question of self defence.

"I slapped her face—lightly," said the principal. "I turned to go. Then she landed a haymaker on my head. I thought the side of the building had caved in. Then I slapped her face three or four times—both sides. She tripped over a chair and sat down on the floor with a thump."

The student charged Snader hit her in the face several times and added: "I got in one good right lock to the jaw and he turned deathly pale."

Visitor Needs Quick Drink After $20 U.S. Bill Buys Bottle And Brings $20.10 In Change

TORONTO, Jan. 17.—Favorable exchange rates on United States funds this year should stimulate Ontario's tourist traffic, Premier Hepburn claimed yesterday in the Legislature, as he revealed that the Provincial Tourist Publicity Bureau is to be reorganized under a "high-class" director.

In proof, he cited the experinces of a traveller from over the line who entered a downtown store operated by the Liquor Control Board and gave a $20 bill for a bottle of liquor.

"They handed him the bottle and $20.10 in change and he had to take a quick drink to get over the shock," the Premier said.

Mr. Hepburn announced that the bureau would make an intensive advertising campaign in the United States, stressing the effect of the exchange rates and that entry into Canada for tourists was not restricted on account of the war.

C.S.A. Speaks Up

MONTREAL, Jan. 17 — (CP). — Officials of the Canadian Students' Assembly charged in a statement last night that "grossly fallacious statements, anti-democratic and anti-Canadian action on the part of two Mount Allison delegates, are responsible for the retirement of the Mount Allison Student Union from the C.S.A."

(The Students' Union of the Sackville, N.B., University voted on Monday to withdraw from the C. S. A. on grounds that sentiments expressed at the assembly conference at Ste. Anne de Bellevue, Que., last month were "anti-British and anti-war."

Windsor Forgets Cross' Plea Debate Is Bitter

WINDSOR, Ont., Jan. 17.—(CP)—After two pitched battles, one in full view and the other behind closed doors, Windsor City Council stood in doubt today over which way to turn in its wrangling on municipal affairs.

The two heated clashes last night brought no announced decision despite the appeal of Hon. Eric Cross, Municipal Affairs Minister of Ontario, for a calm discussion of the city's problems.

The council forgot the letter from Mr. Cross as its regular meeting began and ended in 20 minutes of debate. Then Mayor David Croll staged an informal meeting of the entire council in his office and, though he announced "some progress was made," opposition members insisted the controversy was no nearer solution.

The mayor, a private in the Essex Scottish regiment, had only time to make his brief statement before hurrying off to barracks to get to bed within the 10 o'clock deadline.

Two special sessions of the council, Jan. 4 and 5, caused the trouble. The mayor insisted the meetings were not legal and the nine members of the anti-Croll faction insisted they were. The sessions, called by the insurgent group and attended by them alone, were designed to throw out legislation effected by the 1939 council in December, after the electors had taken away Mayor Croll's majority.

When neither side yielded last night, it appeared the dispute was headed for the courts. Controller Cyril Cooper, for one, insisted that the only place the matter could be settled is in the courts, while others urged that the insurgent group proceed cautiously until there appears to be no other way out.

QUESTION OF RACE

CANBERRA—(CP).— Enlistment of a full-blooded aborigine in the Australian forces causes a problem, for regulations say applicants must be "substantially of European origin," which an aborigine is not. Aborigines fought in the First Great War.

Wants Wood Pul

He represents a group of Finnish newspapers and is in the U.S. to arrange for shipments of wood pulp in order to enable Finnish papers to continue publishing. Finland, it seems, got all her wood pulp from Russia.

United States May Tie String To Finnish Loan

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17—(AP).—There were indications today that the United States government and congress might tie strings on any future aid to Finland.

Senators usually in touch with the presidential residence talked of granting the beseiged country an additional loan of $25,000,000, but they said that the money involved should not be spent in the United States and not be used for the purchase of armaments.

President Roosevelt was expected to express his views and to transmit those of State Secretary Cordell Hull and Jesse Jones, federal loan administrator, in letters to Vice President John Garner and Speaker Bankhead.

There were some reports that the president would not oppose a loan through the export-import bank, which, with the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, already has made $10,000,000 available to Finland for the purchase of American agricultural and other non-military products.

The senate banking committee had reports that the Finns had drawn none of this advance so far, but that the export-import bank specifically had approved $1,000,000 of credits for the purchase of certain designated supplies.

Whether another loan limited to non-military uses in this country would be of much value to Finland was a subject of conjecture. Hjalmar J. Procope, the Finnish minister, was represented as having said that suggested restrictions would greatly diminish the usefulness of the loan.

Putting First Things First

One has to admit that those people in England know something or other about running a government in war time—or any other time. The resignation of Hore-Belisha as Secretary of War—and it had been asked for—was due to create a scene when Parliament met. The deposed cabinet minister was certain to have something revealing to say; he would surely state why he had been ousted, and it was common talk that the "brass hats" had gained a victory and Hore-Belisha would be found upon examination to have knife wounds in his back.

Prime Minister Chamberlain would probably reply to the heavy attack from Hore-Belisha. He would reveal events which had been hidden behind the door at No. 10 Downing Street. That is why members of the House began to assemble early. There would be a crowded room because there are not at any time sufficient seats for all the members.

But Hore-Belisha made his statement, and Prime Minister Chamberlain followed. And nothing happened. There was no invective, no clenched fists and no strained voice and no tense feeling. Quiet statements. The deposed Minister regretted he had not been able to carry on, but he was certain no British officer had gone behind his back to make representations to his chief asking for his removal; there had been no opposition to his reform of the army and no trouble with its rebuilding; it had all been brought to pass "as the result of our common endeavors." That was about all.

The Prime Minister said he had to judge all matters by one criterion only, and that was the early and successful prosecution of the war. He would have preferred to have Hore-Belisha in another department of the Government; he did not wish to lose his services. Actually the Prime Minister did not open the door where the skeleton was said to have its place of abode. He disclosed virtually nothing at all, apart from the fact that there was no break in the Government and no desire on either side to create anything which might look like a rift in the ranks.

Perhaps that sort of business does not satisfy the public which longs always for something which looks like political tragedy, but in the larger outlook and having in view that the nation is at war, and that the issue of national life or death is at stake, the demonstration in the British House of Commons transcends what we regard as the usual heavy gunning of men with a grievance to be settled by vitriolic debate. Prime Minister Chamberlain and Hore-Belisha apparently regard themselves as secondary to the greater cause of a united front facing toward the common enemy. In the usual course of events there were the makings of a first-class political upheaval. In the British way this material was not used and those who came looking for choice morsels for future gossip went away with empty baskets. There is a lesson there about putting first things first that any governing body would do well to learn.

Boring From Within

J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, unearthed a plot on the part of a society known as The Christian Front, the aim of which was to blow up a certain number of buildings in United States, raid utilities, kill 12 members of Congress, eliminate a number of Jews and finally set up a dictatorship.

Mayor LaGuardia of New York, a fearless enough man at any time, is inclined to chuckle because only 17 members of the society were arrested in his city, and he is certain his 18,000 policemen would be able to handle the 17 without much trouble.

The answer of other officials to that attitude is that the plot had to be nipped at once as some of the deviltry had been planned to start immediately. Admittedly they have only scratched the surface of things.

One of the unpleasant and uncomfortable features of the arrests is that more than one-half of those taken in served in the active or reserve forces of the United States army or were members of the New York State National Guard.

Perhaps Mayor LaGuardia has the right idea when he chuckles about the whole affair, but from this distance we cannot see anything particularly funny about it. The seizing of 17 people at one time because it was essential that action should be taken at once does not mean a thing in giving the correct extent to which the movement has actually grown.

In a general way a citizen is either an honest, patriotic sort of individual or else he is somewhat of a scoundrel and an uncertain quantity. If these plotters had managed to worm their way into the U.S. army, and if their real purpose was to work from within to overthrow the army, then we can't see what Mayor LaGuardia finds in that to chuckle about.

A Busy Year Ahead

The year 1940 is young, and the building season is not yet under way, but it will be an active one in Peterborough. Ottawa has announced plans are under way for a new federal building in this city at a cost of $250,000. The site on Charlotte street has been secured and tenants of present structures have been requested to find quarters elsewhere.

The Canadian General Electric has announced that tenders have been let for a substantial addition to the existing plant where more than 1,800 people are employed. Extending a plant which has long been established here is about as neat a compliment as can be paid to Peterborough as an ideal industrial centre. The C.G.E. is a thoroughly well-managed concern, and it does not erect new premises unless it knows definitely they are going to be used, and expanding premises indicates expanding business.

Indications are that the building of new homes is not going to diminish. The winning of the war is the chief business of the country, but making Peterborough a greater city is not going to halt.

A Bull Can't Be Trusted

It has happened again and this time Melvin Mitz, 34, a farm worker near St. Thomas has become the victim of an attack by a bull. He was driving the animal—a Holstein—into the barn when it turned and jammed him against the doorway. Then it proceeded to roll him and trample him across the yard. The bull was driven off and the injured man taken to the hospital. But there was little life left in him and he died in the evening.

There was the added information that the bull had never been considered cross or ugly; it had no horns, and had given no trouble previously. Almost without exception there is the same thing said following similar tragedies elsewhere. The fact that the bull had never appeared ugly would be the reason why people on the farm would not suspect an attack.

As far as we know, and we have sought the information many times, there is no explanation for the attack of a bull. It is something which may come today and it may never come, but the danger is there just the same. There was never a bull in existence which could be trusted.

Why Finland Suffers

Finland has given the greatest demonstration of all time as to how a small nation can defend itself against one which is greater. And at the same time the conflict has explained to the world how necessary it is for a nation in this age of war to be equipped in all departments.

The one open and unguarded chance Russia has to keep on punishing Finland is from the air, and that is because the Finns have not an armada of the air to meet that of Moscow. Nor is that to be wondered at. Finland was going ahead trying to develop her country and her commerce. Russia was exploiting her own people to the point of serfdom in order to create a great military machine.

If Finland had air equipment in any comparable measure we have not the least doubt that shells would be raining on Leningrad today. Planes have not yet demonstrated that they are the deciding factor in war. If they were China would have been out of business months ago. Finland has been bombed daily for weeks, but Finland is still the master of Russia elsewhere.

It Was a Strange Scheme

A report from St. Joseph tells of the death of Narcisse Cantin at the age of 69 years. It does not mention that this St. Joseph is in Ontario, but it should. This particular St. Joseph has no standing in the list of villages, hamlets or railway or post offices in this country. It is on the Blue Water Highway, some miles south of Goderich on Lake Huron.

In the days of Cantin it began to grow, and it grew like no other little hamlet had ever grown. St. Joseph was going to be a great place and Narcisse Cantin, a very large Frenchman, said so. It was to be a lake port with a canal stretching across from Huron to Erie, and a great place would need a great hotel. The hotel which Cantin actually constructed there was the most imposing place in St. Joseph. Then there was to be a factory where aluminum would be extracted from the clay banks along the lake. Stores, houses, factories—yes, St. Joseph was going to be a large place.

Where Cantin secured his money was a puzzle, but he must have gathered together quite an account. It was reported at the time that good farmers in the district became interested, and afterward had to part with their property to pay for their indiscretion or Cantin's contagious zeal.

But that hotel was a wonder for such a desolate spot. It grew and it grew, and it came to completion. The office and rotunda and the bar, we believe, were furnished from fixtures and trimmings taken from a large hotel in Montreal when that place was being remodelled. And to folk in that lake district they were impressive. The only thing the hotel lacked was people to stay there and spend some money so the thing could survive.

We have heard the story that on pay day when money was plentiful Cantin used to pay off from a wash tub, and then again when there was no money on hand men were selling their week's work tickets for 15 or 20 cents on the dollar. In time the scheme went flat and bats lived in the hotel. Perhaps it was hastily built, but the day arrived when some of the walls began to crack, and the township in its quest for tax money took the bricks and sold them.

Today one can drive along there and see nothing of the St. Joseph that was. A hole in the ground is all that is left to show where the hotel used to be. The Government at one time for some strange reason undertook to build a dock, but by the time Lake Huron had finished a fall, winter and spring storm series there was nothing much to show for the effort. Cantin himself used to drive around the country in the first steamer automobile ever seen. Now that he is gone St. Joseph can be listed as an orphan. The wonder was, is, and always has been that any man could drum up a five-cent piece to exploit such a project. And yet there must have been thousands of dollars poured in there and none of it ever came back.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Some of the mines set out in the last war are now being found by British sweepers and they have been submerged for 22 years.

Young man in Stratford was fined $2 for grabbing a girl around the neck. The girls around the office say they never heard of any one reporting such a thing to the police.

Toronto Star tells us the right way to pronounce ski is "she." Experts have been busy for weeks telling us how to pronounce place names the war world over, but we draw the line on this "she" stuff.

Russia sent word to the Finns that if they did not lay down arms in 24 hours the Germans would come and deal with them. As far as Russia is concerned the wish is certainly father to the hope.

United States wants to stay out of the war but there are many young ladies planning to sail for France to engage in war work. The question at the moment is whether Washington can forbid them going to France.

General Gort of the British army in France when greeted by General Gamelin was kissed on the cheek. When so many ladies are engaged in war work the wonder is that such duties have not been deputed to their tender care.

Perhaps you understand the news better than we do. Here on the same day is a report of Germany going to assist Russia in handling Finland, and another saying that Germany has withdrawn her objection to Italy shipping supplies to Finland through Germany.

KNOWLEDGE

¶ I used to talk with James McStew, and marvel at the things he knew, he made the papers dumb; the foreign secrets that he knew, went on his list that grew and grew, he named them one by one.

¶ He knows the German plan of war, knows what they're waiting for, can tell the hour they'll hit; his Moscow records are profound, none so complete have yet been found, and every piece will fit.

¶ He knows the Allied strength and plan, can number them down to a man, can tell which way they go; knows where the British fleet is now, each lesser boat, each tug and scow, there's nothin' he don't know.

¶ And so my wonder grew and grew, I thought I'd ask this James McStew, just where he got his stuff; if I could gather news his way, I'd know exactly what to say, nor would forecasts be tough.

¶ So James McStew he told me how, the man who came to tend his cow, lived with a friend he knew; he had a brother in Japan, who used to know quite well a man, who lived in Timbuctoo.

¶ This man in far-off Timbuctoo, read every paper through and through, beats all the stuff he knew; and he wrote letters to the jay, who fed the cow her mash and hay—he showed them to McStew.

France Seeks Peace Out Of Present War

HIS EXCELLENCY Count Robert de Dampierre, French Minister to Canada, painted a graphic picture of France at war in an absorbingly interesting address delivered to the Canadian Club of Montreal. His Excellency, whose fluent English, notes the Montreal Star, might well be the envy of many a speaker whose native tongue it is, opened his address by recalling the two wars of 1870 and 1914. This present war, he pointed out, has since its inception borne no resemblance to the war of 1914. The transformation from peace to war footing was accomplished in France with perfect discipline and order. "The great machine continued to turn, though its speed slackened somewhat in its first days, but soon recovered its normal pace, because ....the activities of the rear are as important as those of the Front, and because the women of France know what they have to do when their men have gone to war."

As with the British Empire, so with the French. His Excellency cited various messages of loyalty from different parts of France's colonial Empire, from the Emperor of Annam, from the King of Cambodgia, from the Sultan of Morocco, the President of the Republic of Lebanon, the Prime Minister of Syria, the Chief of the Druses, and the natives of the Cameroon. He also spoke of the profound effect upon France of the steps taken by the Canadian Parliament in declaring war.

The French Minister referred to the pain of boredom, which he described as a form of war, but here also he declared that "the morale of the French people would hold out." The French, he said, seem to have more imagination and resourcefulness than the Germans. "They will find waiting easier, and they will be able to wait as long as may be necessary."

Count Robert wisely urged his hearers against complacency. "When you want to win you must not underestimate your opponent's strength," he said. At the same time he declared that the Allied blockade was having its effect; that in the local encounters that have taken place French aviators and French troops have on numerous occasions demonstrated their superiority; that the French Navy has already destroyed an imposing number of submarines and captured immense stocks of enemy merchandise. In addition, there were essential diplomatic victories such as the agreement with Turkey and the assurance of the moral support of the United States. Against these successes, he asserted, the Germans had only their agreement with Russia, "a victory which we willingly leave to them." "We have," he said, "no desire to be the instruments of Moscovite ambitions, which will certainly prove baneful to Germany and whose first effect was to confirm Italy in a neutrality, the advantages of which are obvious."

In closing, the Minister gave what he said he believed to be the opinion of the present and the ex-soldiers of France in regard to the peace. He asked: "Will it not be necessary tomorrow to protect the Germans against their own selves and against their total incapacity to provide themselves with wise leaders who will not be a danger to themselves and to others?" And he replied to that question by saying: "When the time comes to draw up the terms of peace, those responsible will certainly have sufficient imagination to find a solution which will satisfy at the same time our desire for equal justice for all and our imperative need for permanent security."

But, he added, that sort of peace would only be possible if the present co-operation between France and the British Commonwealth remained as close and as trustful as it is today. "This co-operation of two great empires which ask nothing of anyone, and want, for themselves and for others, only the opportunity of leading a free life devoted to useful work, and not punctuated by the steps of marching legions, will, in the world of tomorrow, ensure the supremacy—for all time, let us hope—of our Christian civilization with its principles of humanity, of solidarity, of progress and of peace."

Count Robert is here expressing the identical sentimants already voiced by Premier Chamberlain and Premier Daladier. The idea seems to be spreading more and more among leaders of thought that in such an international accord lies Europe's best hope of enduring peace. It may well be that the dream of Briand will yet be realized.

THE DAMNED

TO THE 10,000,000-odd unemployed in the U.S., Pennsylvania Railroad last month added W.E.S. Miller of Woodbury, N.J., George Carr of Lindenwold, N.J., 22 other furloughed clerks. Being veteran Pennsy employees and substantial citizens of their communities, Messrs. Miller & Carr decided to do something more than eat up savings, look for Relief, or moan to the neighbors. What they did was to form a "Legion of the Damned" for all 24.

"We decided to think of ourselves as a combat unit," said Mr. Miller, "fightin' together against unemployment and not as 24 beaten, miserable and helpless railroad clerks." Each damned clerk would try "to find or create a job for 23 others." Last week Legionnaires Miller and Carr reported results: eight jobs found, two in sight. Pennsy's President Martin Clement heard about the Legion, praised the clerk's initiative, saw that several (including Mr. Miller) got their old job back.—Time.

• Claims Satan Has Been Active

EDITOR EXAMINER: Sir,—In the fourth chapter of the sixth edition of his book entitled "The Appointed Time" Brig.-General F. D. Frost, C.B.E., M.D., I.A., (retd) gives great enlightenment on the confusion of the times. He writes: "One of the cleverest moves on the part of Satan has been to deny his own existence. He has been so successful in this ruse, that nominal Christians desire to cut out all reference to the Devil in the Bible, and look upon those statements as mere fables. It is difficult to imagine how all this appalling evil and war could come into the world if there was no author of it....God has a definite plan for restoring fallen man to his original opposition of companionship with Himself. Satan opposes this plan, because he wishes man to share his own fate. He is the author of death. Let us bear this in mind as we study the world's disease....How is it that many well-educated and so-called cultured people deny the existence of Satan and even consider the idea childish?" Here Brig.-General Frost cities the assurance of riches, and self-made vanity and continues: "Such are Satan's unconscious allies. Some have moral characteristics, and shine in the world more than many Christians. "The children of this world are wiser in their generation than the children of light" (Luke 16:8) Satan never leaves the children of light alone and is always trying to ruin their witness. The children of this world are preaching "peace and goodwill, and the abolition of war, which is a sin against humanity." Humanity is enthroned as a god."

Christian people all have a great desire for peace, and a healthy abhorrence of war, and many of them have allied themselves with the children of this world in their desire to bring about perpetual peace. Their eyes have been diverted from the Prince of Peace Himself to peace, from the person to the abstract. They are attempting to bring about a state of affairs by compromising with the enemy instead of acting under the direct orders of Him, who alone can bring peace to this sin-stricken world."

Reviewing the tactics of Satan until the Scriptures were opened up in all nations, Brig.-General Frost continues: "Satan's next move was a change of tactics. He made no direct attack to begin with. He used Christian people to over-emphasize certain teaching in the Bible and to neglect others equally important. He raised up false prophets to provide a new interpretation for those who were too lazy to study the whole Book. Satan's apostles counterfeited the teaching of the Holy Spirit, and many Christian people fell into the trap. He preached love, joy, peace, long-suffering, gentleness, which are the fruits of the Spirit (Gal. 5:22). Let us analyze his teaching and compare it with that of the Prince of Peace. In substance Satan says concerning: Love. Love other religions, don't criticize them or show up their errors. Love your enemies (and God's enemies). There is plenty of room in the world for all religions. Judge not that ye be not judged. It is not your business to point the finger of scorn at false prophets."

Joy. I have given thee all things to enjoy, therefore refuse nothing that the world has to offer. Enjoy all her amusements, keep your mind happy and free from the cares of this world. Laugh and the world laughs with you, weep and you weep alone."

Peace. Blessed are the peacemakers. Make peace with those who are murdering unnamed Christian people, with savage and cannibal tribes, with pirates and slave traders. You have no right whatever to be armed. Arms are a menace to world peace. If only you disarm, these will follow your example....Make peace with other religions. It is only a matter of opinion. By their fruits ye shall know them....You are all divided into innumerable sects....you will have peace and wars shall cease when there is one universal religion."

Long-suffering. Allow all these heathen idolatrous religions to prosper in your country and give them sites for building. Expunge the words heathen and idolatry from your vocabulary; it is unkind. Allow witches and necromancers and spiritists to seduce your people from their faith; England surely is a free country. It is neither kind nor fair to be continually criticizing them; there are very many good people in them.

Gentleness. Be very gentle with the hardened criminal, annul the death penalty. It is a relic of barbarism and should not be found in a Christian country. The originators of war should be dealt with kindly, together with all those leaders of your National Church, who are broadening your basis and assaulting all the fundamentals of your faith; but have no fellowship with those who stand by the old-fashioned, narrow-minded religion. To some readers this will appear an unbalanced statement. I am not upholding war or imperialism, but merely showing Satan's methods of attacking things which are wrong to divert our attention from the Prince of Peace."

How cleverly the prince of this world mixes his doctrine with that of the Prince of Peace. Only those who continually study their God-given standing orders are able to see through his devices.

At last, after careful preparation of the human soul, he is able to launch his open attack on the Book, which shows up his plans. He boldly asks: "Do you believe a God of Love inspired the Old Testament?....Would He have allowed Achan and his whole household to be stoned? It is likely that Jonah was swallowed by a whale? Surely no educated person believes in the Adam-and-Eve story? Who ever heard of anyone being born of a virgin? It is contrary to nature."

By such subtle methods has the god of this world attempted to prevent the Prince of Peace from gathering together all things unto Himself. The prince of this world is using every device to keep our eye off the Prince of Peace, by appealing to our human instincts, even our good instincts, such as patriotism and humanitarianism. If Christians are unbalanced he can hinder their witness and prevent them from winning souls for their Master. The only hope for the world is the coming of the King, the Prince of Peace."

• Do We Need So Many Censors?

LORD RAGLAN, soldier, writer, politician and scientist, has resigned from the British Censorship Bureau. Lord Raglan resigned because he refused to draw nearly $3,500 for one hour's work a day. According to the story which Lord Raglan told his fellow-noblemen in the House of Lords, there were four women-examiners who did nothing from 9:20 a.m. until 4 p.m., except a few odd jobs. When he mentioned this fact to senior officers the only answer he received was the appointment of a fifth woman.

The resignation of Lord Raglan, says Kingston Whig-Standard, brings to the fore the matter of Canadian censors. Here again we seem to be over-loaded. There is a censorship board at Ottawa headed by Mr. Walter Thompson, the capable head of the publicity department of the C.N.R., and an old newspaperman. He is ably assisted by Mr. Claire Moyer, the clerk of the Senate. A few days ago the Ontario newspapers were notified that two more censors had been appointed in Toronto to interpret the censorship regulations for the Ontario newspapers.

It may be necessary to have an additional censor in Winnipeg and possibly Vancouver, but there is no more reason for appointing two additional censors in Toronto than there is for adding a couple of extra Speakers to the House of Commons official staff. Most newspaper editors can and do interpret the censorship regulations for themselves. If they are uncertain, they can wire or telephone to Ottawa. The Canadian Press maintains a bureau at Ottawa, so C.P. dispatches from the capital can be passed or rejected right there. Most of the news emanating from Ottawa is official anyway; and the news coming from England is censored before it leaves there.

It looks to this newspaper very much as if the Toronto posts have been created to provide a couple of men with jobs. If so, it is a war extravagance—a small one, maybe, but nevertheless an extravagance.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE

LAST WEEK Imperial Chemical Industries advertised for "a few thousand wireworms," and it has now become disclosed that they received 50,000 by one post. Never before can so many bugs have been simultaneously on the move through His Majesty's mails at one moment, and the pulling power of advertising (as well as the availability of wireworms) is abundantly illustrated.

Many people may have been wondering what the I. C. I. wanted the wireworms for; some may now be conjecturing that we are about to end the war with some "secret weapon" that includes wireworms as an essential ingredient. It is more likely, however, that a weapon being sought to end the wireworms.

Moles, rooks, and pheasants find the infant grub of the skipjack or click beetle (which is what the wireworm is) an edible morsel (in spite of what one authority calls its "firm and chitinous cuticle)", but among agriculturists it is nobody's darling.—Manchester Guardian.

Customs Officer Lets Alcohol Past At $25 A Car

WINDSOR, Ont., Jan. 17—(CP).—The Crown based its case today on the testimony of a former Canadian Customs officer in an attempt to prove that four other former Customs men and Samuel Miller, a Windsor restaurant owner, conspired to bring huge loads of alcohol into Canada without inspection or payment of duties.

Joseph Armaly, 32, testified before Mr. Justice G. F. McFarland yesterday that while he was in the Canadian Customs service from 1933 to 1936 he allowed automobiles loaded with alcohol to pass into Canada from the United States at Windsor on payment of $25 a car from Miller. Before and after he was dismissed from the Customs service, he said, he negotiated with other officers to do the same.

Miller and the four Customs men, Edward Mansell, Norman LePain, Carl Gough and Wilfred Fletcher, are charged with having conspired together and with other persons to combat an indictable offence contrary to the Customs Act. Miller is serving a prison term for manufacture of illicit spirits.

The trial actually is Miller's, though the names of the other four are bracketed in the indictment and their cases will be judged by the evidence produced in his. In all, charges will be heard against 10 persons including Rocco Perri of Hamilton, Ont., self-styled "king of the bootleggers," in connection with Customs Act offences which Royal Canadian Mounted Police allege were perpetrated by a huge smuggling ring between 1933 and 1939.

Rubber Cheque Started It

Armaly said he became involved with Miller after tendering him a rubber cheque in a card game. Miller promised to tear up the cheque if he would let a car pass uninspected through the customs lanes here, Armaly said, and the restaurant owner lived up to the agreement.

They negotiated to let other cars through, at the Ambassador bridge, the Windsor-Detroit tunnel and the Windsor-Detroit ferry docks, Armaly testified. When Armaly was transferred to the customs office he made arrangements with other officers to let Miller's car pass through, he said, implicating Mansell, Lepain, Gough and Fletcher.

After he was discharged from the customs department he drove alcohol-laden cars between Chicago and Detroit and turned them over to Millers' drivers, Armaly said. Later he drove through to Montreal at $35 a trip and it was on one of those trips that he turned a car over in a storm near Napanee, Ont.

Miller refused to pay him for that trip, he said, and he didn't drive for him any more.

Dutch Ship Is Torpedoed

AMSTERDAM, Jan. 17—(AP).—Despite official assurances that Belgium and the Netherlands are in no immediate danger of invasion, armies of the lowland nations bordering Germany remained in a state of "semi-alarm" today.

In the Netherlands where all army, air force and naval leaves had been cancelled over the week-end, authoritative sources declared there was "no acute danger."

The war at sea, however, brought fresh concern. The motorship Arendskirk, 7,906 tons, was reported torpedoed yesterday in the Bay of Biscay, the third Netherlands vessel lost by submarine action since the war started.

Advices by way of London said the submarine sank the Arendskerk after a board party searched the ship. She was carrying a general cargo from South Africa to Antwerp. The Italian ship Fedora picked up the crew of 58 and headed for Lisbon.

The Netherlands has made representations to Germany over the torpedoing of the tanker Sliedrecht in the Atlantic November 16 and the sinking of the steamship Tajandoen in the English channel December 7 is under investigation.

A Belgian government spokesman said that official tension at Brussels was easing but that Belgium's armed forces would be kept in a state of semi-alarm for several days.

It was estimated unofficially that nearly 1,000,000 men were at stations along the German frontiers of Belgium and the Netherlands as a result of joint preparedness moves.

December Exports To U.S. Jump 10 p.c.

OTTAWA, Jan. 17—(CP).—With most European markets curtailed by the war, Canada's domestic products flowed into the United States more freely than ever last December, increasing more than 100 per cent over the corresponding month of 1938.

Figures released today by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics show total value of the exports was $101,021,522 compared with $68,887,665 a year before. Of the 1939 total, the United States took $53,995,864 worth compared with $24,736,460 in 1938.

The United Kingdom was in second place with an increase of $3,775,820 to $29,310,587 from $25,534,767 while Italy out her imports to $23,779 from $172,114. Decreased purchases by Belgium, Denmark, Finland, and Sweden in Europe, and China, French Africa, Japan and Egypt also were recorded.

Translate Ideals Into Understanding

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 17.—(ENS).—Rev. T. S. Gault was guest speaker at Monday's Rotary luncheon. In his opening remarks he declared he had a profound admiration for the business men of the type found in Rotary Clubs since it was they who paid the taxes to a large extent and kept the town going.

Though he confined his remarks particularly to youth, Rev. Gault's massage will probably be principally remembered for its moral which was in effect that ideals should be translated into understanding. His story was the analogy of a boy who on passing a gum vendor had been sorely tempted to remove the penny which had not gone properly into the machine, and use it to buy candy for himself. The boy had walked past the machine several times endeavoring to pluck enough courage to grab the coin and run. Finally his better judgment had predominated and he reluctantly left the money to its fate. This was described by the speaker as a conscience too weak to be innocent and too strong to be honest.

N. Alex MacColl moved a vote of thanks to the speaker.

LINDSAY CURLING CLUB CAPTURES GROUP NO. 3 HONORS HERE

Led Rangers To Record

Spearhead of the National League Rangers' assault on Canadiens' record of 18 consecutive games without a loss, has been Bryan Hextall, ABOVE, right wing on the line with Phil Watson at centre and Dutch Hiller on the other wing. During the Rangers' great rush, which beat the 12-year-old record, Hextall has scored 14 goals, spread over 12 of the games, more goals, and more consistency of scoring than any other member of the team. Last year he bagged 20 over the season, fifth best total in the league.

Win The Finals By 37 To 15 Over 'Caygeon

By HERB MARTIN

To the Lindsay club goes the honor of winning Group No. 3 of the district cup competition. These two rinks will now go into the next round and the best wishes of the Peterborough club go with them.

Playing like two well-oiled machines, Skips A. Carew and H. Millen guided their rinks all day and were rewarded by coming out on top. They deserved the win. They played real curling all the way through.

Commencing with Lakefield in the morning they were victorious by 39-16, and then defeated Peterborough in the afternoon by 13 shots and at night forced Bobcaygeon to concede the game after twelve ends.

The games were played under ideal curling conditions and on a sheet of perfect ice.

Southend Squads Battle To Draw

King Edward Bantams and the Beavers battled to a 2-2 South-end Hockey League draw last night at the Sacred Heart Rink in a fine fixture. Peltz scored in the first for the Beavers and Ferren got one in the third. G. Harrison notched the first King Edward counter in the second, and McNaughton bulged the hemp in the third. The first K.E. goal showed smart combination with Harrison and Ellis. For King Edward, Pirie, Ellis, McNaughton and G. Harrison went best; and Crebar, Ferren, and Delpellaro stood out for the Beavers. The teams:

King Edward — Goal, Smith; defence, D. Harrison, McNaughton; centre, Estlick; wings, Ellis, Pirie; subs, Vannest, Eakins, Dugan, R. Harrison, Curtis.

Beavers — Goal, Delpellaro; defence, Sullivan, VanAllen; centre, Goodwin; wings, Ferren, O'Herne; subs, Pilling, Henwood, Peltz, Dugan, Crebar.

Referee—R. Leether.

Big Four Delegates To Ask Rule Change

TORONTO, Jan. 17.— When governors of the Interprovincial Rugby Union meet in annual conclave at Montreal early in March two suggestions for rules changes will be passed on to the Canadian Rugby Union, it is learned. Delegates to the Big Four annual will suggest the C.R.U. adopt a player limit of twenty-four for C.R.U. play-offs instead of twenty as in past years and a change made in the rule governing the kick-off after touchdown. It will be recommended that the team scored against will have the option of either kicking or receiving the kick after a major score has been made. This rule was in force in The Globe and Mail's special East-West all-star high school teams' game at Varsity Stadium this fall and proved very favorable.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC PERDUE

Lionel Conacher, chairman of the Ontario Athletic Commish, has appointed Percy Bond district supervisor of boxing and wrestling in this section. And Mr. Bond is calling a boxing meeting for tonight at seven bells in the "Y" in an effort to re-organize amateur boxing in this city. He is endeavoring to interest such men as Chris Graham, Gordon Matthews, Ross Dobbin and others, and would like to have representatives of the Y.M.C.A., the C.G.E. Club and others interested present at tonight's session. The general plan is to form one local boxing club for inter-city bouts, and the Ontario Commission chairman has stated definitely that "pioneer clubs now will be given every protection in the future by the Commission." Former promoters here, like Norm Bowler, Harry Low, Art Hunter and others should also sit in at this session tonight. It may develop into something big.

There's been little hockey at the Brock St. rink so far this week—in fact, not a stitch—so local puck fans should turn out in force for the Industrial League triple-header tomorrow night there. Marines play Raybestos at 7.30, Quakers clash with Watercraft at 8.30, and Westclox mix with Brintons at 9.30—all for a very little admission price. Lot of fine hockey players on these teams and the rivalry between the shops will make for keen action every minute. Schedule is short and all tilts are important when playoff hopes are high.

Hornets Are Hot

Norwood Hornets, undefeated in their last three Trent Valley League puck starts, tangle at home Friday e'en with the Bata bunch from down Frankford way. Their first meeting and it ought to be a right interesting one to fans around this district. Several Peterborough players on the Kempt crew and one with the Shoemen. Incidentally, some of these T.V.L. tilts are more modern or N.H.L.-ish than our O.H.A. scraps, as they even use a linesman along with the referee! There is also a Norwood entry in the new East Peterborough Rural League and it won its first fixture the other gloaming over Trent River.

* * * * * *

Next big O.H.A. tussle here is Friday night when the powerful Oshawa Bees—farm club for the Generals—tackle our Colts in a junior "B" fixture. Both quads are undefeated to date and have been winning easily, and this will be by far the toughest hurdle for the Colts this semester. It ought to be a rousing, battling joust every minute—with speed and action galore. Such a struggle rates a big crowd of Friday night fans at the Brock.

* * * * * *

Very Low Indeed

Tooling up the back highway at something after one this a.m., the Petes felt lower than the temperature, following their 2-1 O.H.A. intermediate "A" defeat in Belleville at the hands of the Fliers. And this ex-poet felt about as high as an ant's instep! It was a tough tilt to lose and one the Petes should have won, but the Fliers played fine hockey—with Goalie Gibson having one of his "on" nights—and now the two oldtime puck rivals are tied atop the heap. Some 800 or so fans saw a swell struggle on good ice, both squads fairly flying, with 14 penalties passed out; so ya know it wasn't exactly a pink tea. The Petes outfooted the Fliers all the way and carried play some 75 per cent (well, at least 65) of the time. Yet they had the Soviets' scoring punch in this tussle.

* * * * * *

One of the officials of the Redmen asked us at the end of the second stanza: "Are the Petes really trying?" We said of course they were; just busting their necks to cop the win—and right now were being combed plenty in the dressing-room for their lack of finish on Gibson's doorstep. "Well," he welled, "they're certainly skating faster than the R.C.A.F. gang and they're getting through regularly but they can't do a thing right when in front of the net." Which about describes it, but don't think the locals weren't trying. They're not good enough to stall when they want to, and then go on and win when they take the notion. The Fliers played fine steady hockey last eve and Gibson was about unbeatable. At that, one of the R.C.A.F.-ers' counters was a fluke, glancing in off Ellis' leg.

* * * * * *

It Balances Up

Following the Fliers' 9-5 loss here last week, Coach Toots Holway crabbed at the refereeing, hinting Hap Day should have worn a local uniform. Some of the local puckists last night said they hoped the Airmen would present Army Armstrong with his "wings." However, we didn't think he made a bad job of it, muffing some on both sides—and most of the breaks seemed to go against the Buckland bunch. But it was their own lack of finish—though goodness' knows they were trying hard enough—that proved expensive. Kingdon, Starr and Heal went best up front, the whole defence looked okay and Harding played a dandy game in goal. The Petes will take 'em several times yet this season, we'll bet, including the playoffs.

* * * * * *

And tonight at eight in Omemee, the local Lock Co. Eagles open their district league schedule. Earl McNabb will be in the Eagles' cage, with Coach Ed Prete and Louie Giardino on defence. Julian Wade is slated for the centre slot betwixt Al White and Ray Burke. Second line has Joe Rochetta between Al Watkins and Red Gilbert, while Joe White and Rocky DeCarlo are the other defencemen. The soldiers in Lindsay also have a team in this circuit. Eagles tangle this p.m. with the Black Hawks.

* * * * * *

Dese, dem and dose: Westclox skating party at the Brock is tonight, and next week the Watercraft Co. stages one there....A week from tomorrow is closing date for players' lists in the Industrial Loop....Frank Collins, ex-senior star, visited the Petes in their dressing-room last night; he works now in Bella Villa....And some soldiers from Millbrook, now stationed on guard duty at the Airport, were on hand to cheer the Petes....This contingent includes C. McCarthy and Bob Cathcart—of the old Blood and Thunder League here—and Chuck Puffer, who played lacrosse here....Lindsay juniors trimmed Cobourg 4-2 last night....Finnegan Hill is playing for Norwood Hornets now and going okay....Church hockey was postponed two nights due to lack of ice and the circuit is nine games behind, so teams must be ready on 24-hours notice to play....Church tilts tonight: George St. Bantams vs. All Saints at six, George St. Juveniles vs. St. John's at seven, St. Paul's Juniors vs. All Saints at eight, and St. James Seniors vs. All Saints at nine .... Bill Jackson is coming along okay after an operation for appendicitis....St. John's plan to enter a junior cage crew in the O.C.B.A. this winter....Toronto Goodyears will play the Petes an exhibition game here next Monday e'en ....Southend League tilts run according to schedule....With temperature in Finland about 40 to 50 below zero, we wonder what the heck the Finns and Soviets are fighting over—we wouldn't take that climate as a gift!

Amateur Tennis Slipping Budge Bemoans

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 17. —(AP) — "Amateur tennis," said Don Budge, "is slipping."

Coming from anyone else who earns his daily bread playing the game for money, that might be considered propaganda.

"What tennis needs," added Don, "is an open tournament, as in golf. Whether the amateur tennis fathers realize it or not, that's going to be the final solution.

"With the growth of professional tennis, the amateur standings have become lower. When Bill Tilden was champion, he was the best in the world, amateur or professional. Anyone entering a tournament might have a chance to play against him and everyone was trying to lift his game to match Tilden's.

"Such a thing is no longer possible. The best tennis played by the professionals. A kid set his sights on the top amateur who, just now, is Bobby Riggs. Now Bobby is a fine player, but there are a half-dozen professionals, perhaps more, who could handle him easily."

HAVELOCK

Badminton Club Advances Party

HAVELOCK, Jan. 17—(ENS).— At a special meeting of the Havelock Badminton Club last evening, the members decided to change the date of the annual At Home from Monday, February 5 to Thursday, February 1.

The secretary was instructed also to invite the Marmora Badminton Club to participate in a friendly tournament here on Tuesday, January 23.

Instead of the usual group system in which the club is divided into four groups with definitely appointed playing hours, the local badmintoners have adopted the "ladder system" with all members free to come on either Tuesday or Thursday evening. The club members have been paired off and a list posted with the weaker teams at the top and the stronger at the bottom. The teams may challenge any pair above them to a game, and if they defeat them taken their position in the list, while the defeated pair are placed at the bottom. The object of the ladder system is to create competition and to determine the clubs strongest teams.

NEW YORK, Jan. 17. —AP) — Jack Zeller, Tiger general manager who is held responsible for the Detroit mess, just missed being exiled from baseball....Well informed Detroiters say Judge Landis would have given Zeller the works if he hadn't neglected to take similar action against Branch Rickey when he cracked down on the Cardinals in 1938....Old Ty Cobb is considering a baseball comeback as coach of the Canta Clara collegers on the coast. Gets His Chance

For the past six autumns Phil Stein, ABOVE, has worked out with Toronto Maple Leafs at their training camps, but always somebody else has occupied the goal-keeping spot when the National league season got under way, and Phil has been sent to the miners. A gashed knee, suffered by Turk Broda, has given him a chance to see N.H.L. service at last, and he faces Detroit Red Wings Thursday night in his first assignment.

"Tis Is My Favorite," Says Billy

Still the subject of controversy as to whether he will ever be a suitable opponent for Joe Louis in the heavyweight ranks, Billy Conn, light heavyweight champion, scored his second win in the no-limit classification when he outpointed Henry Cooper in New York recently. He had previously beaten Gus Dorazio. In this picture, Conn, a fancy boxer with little punch, exhibits his favorite weapon, a stinging left to Mr. Cooper's nose, a blow that reddens the nose, piles up points, and in most cases leads to victory.

War May Boost The Ski Entries At Dominion Meet In Banff

BANFF, Alta., Jan. 17—(CP) — Canadian ski history will be written at the 1940 Dominion Championship meet at the Mount Norquay ski camp here February 20 to March 3. Championships will be decided in four divisions—men's and women's senior and boys' and girls' junior.

For the first time since ski competition was placed on a national scale in 1921, the men's and women's tourneys will be held together. And it will be the first time Dominion junior championships have ever been staged.

The men will compete for six—downhill, slalom and combined, jumping, and the two combined crowns. There will be three events—downhill, slalom and combiner, for each of the other three divisions.

Are Missing.

Ski stars from Europe whose presence added a lot of color to the past three Dominion meets will be missing because of the war. Tournament officials, however, are hoping for a larger entry from the United States than ever before.

For one thing, the Canadian tournament will be about the only foreign one American skiers will be able to attend, practically all of Europe's having been cancelled because of the war. Another reason is that a closer relationship has been cultivated between skiers of Canada and the United States.

The Mount Norquay location is ideal for competitive skiing, having facilities for every sort of event right at the camp. These include the most spectacular downhill course in Canada, a Class A jump from which leaps of more than 200 feet have been made, a cross-country course and three separate slopes all suitable for slalom.

Now nearing completion at the camp is a $6,000 lodge, being built especially for the national tournament. A parking space for 500 automobiles is being cleared.

Herbie Hits Jackpot

Best night in the career of Herbie Cain, hustling left wing with Boston Bruins, came in Toronto, when he banged four goals past Turk Broda to lead his team to a 5-2 win and hand the Leafs their first loss on home ice this season. He was the first player to count four goals in a game this season and appears to be headed for his best season since 1934-35, when he counted 20 for Maroons. He spent last year with Canadiens, and was traded for Charlie Sands just before the current campaign got under way won a War Loan Bond last night when he scored in Boston's victory over Canadiens.

Blackouts have caused curtailment of mail deliveries in Northern Ireland.

Nip-and-Tuck Races In Progress In All Western Senior Leagues

Tears In His Eyes?

Sport's leading jitterbug, Don Budge, was not "jiving" when a photographer found him at one of New York's more sedate night spots, whiling away his time on the dance floor. And being a professional tennis player, he has plenty of time, the touring pro game having hit just about rock bottom this winter. The young lady is a Miss Anne Graham.

WINNIPEG, Jan. 17. —(CP) — Competition has grown keen in Western Canada's senior hockey leagues. Nip-and-tuck races are in progress for the leadership in every loop.

Calgary Stampeders have only a one-point lead over Turner Valley Oilers in Alberta, Regina Vic-Aces have a similar margin over Saskatoon Quakers while in the Thunder Bay loop the Allan cup holders, Port Arthur Bear Cats, hold only a two-point lead over their rivals, Geraldton Gold Miners and Fort William Wanderers. Port Arthur absorbed a 3-2 setback from Fort William last night.

Two Winnipeg teams, Clark's Cruisers and Lombards, have stepped in front in the Manitoba league, with Cruisers two points to the good at present.

Trail Smoke Eaters, winners of the world hockey title in Europe last year and Allan Cup champions the previous winter, have a clear margin in the West Kootenay league. Standings there are reckoned on a percentage basis because Trail and Nelson Maple Leafs have played twice as many games as Kimberley Dynamiters. Up to last night Trail held a three-game lead over Nelson, with Kimberley far behind.

Lethbridge Maple Leafs, Alberta champions last year, have hit a winning stride that may bring them a second provincial crown. They are in third place, four points behind Calgary, after defeating Edmonton Flyers 7-1 on Saturday and Coleman Canadians 11-1 Monday.

Loss of defenceman Pete Slozodzian appears to have slowed Regina VicAces slightly. Slobodzian, considered one of the best professional prospects in the West, broke a leg at Flin Flon, Man., 10 days ago Since then Vic-Aces defeated the tail-end Yorkton Terriers twice, 3-2 in overtime and 5-4, and lost to Moose Jaw Millers 8-6.

TRENTON FLIERS NOSE OUT A CLOSE VICTORY OVER THE PETES

Local Puckists Are Defeated By A 2 To 1 Margin For First Reverse Of Season

Trenton Fliers moved into a top-place tie with the Petes in their O.H.A. intermediate "A" grouping last night in Belleville when they nosed out a 2-1 victory over the locals before 800 fans. It was the Petes' first loss of the season.

Scoring two goals in the second period and holding the Buckland bunch without a counter that frame gave the Airmen the edge, the Petes counting the only marker of the final chapter. It was a good scrap all the way, with the Petes having a margin of play but missing out repeatedly when in scoring position. Play was quite fast and fairly even, with only a few flare-ups between the oldtime hockey rivals.

Time and again, the Liftlock City crew had a perfect setup for a score—as they carried play nearly 75 percent of the time—but they lacked the scoring punch. They outspeeded the R.C.A.F. squad all through, but the winners played steady hockey and took advantage of all breaks. It was an exciting game to view and kept the chilled fans heated up most of the route, the third period being particularly exciting as the Petes ganged up throughout, except when a man short for a penalty.

Harding Goes Good

Ray Harding played a fine game in goal, having no chance on the first marker that beat him, and the second went in off a local defenceman's leg—a glancing shot that would have missed the net. All the defencemen went well, while Kingdon, Starr and Heal were probably the pick of the forwards, though all kept trying every minute. Irvine and Gibson were brilliant for the winners—the goalie sining all the way—and Legris and McLeod also were most effective.

It was fast through the first period, with the Petes having more of the play on the attack but messing up many fine rushes by being offside or missing the net. A Tompkins-Kingdon-Blewett rush came very close to scoring early, but when Crowe was chased for boarding the Fliers began to press. However, an attack by the shorthanded Petes—a la Rangers' style—bothered Gibson till Crowe was back. Gathercoll got the finger for tripping and the locals tried hard to tally. An attack by Kingdon and Tompkins made Gibson jump and another rush later by Crowe and Kingdon almost flash the light. With all back, it was fast and fairly even with some smart hockey shown. Ellis and Irvine were penalized for roughing and later Gardner got it for holding, the Fliers ganging up hotly at the bell.

Score A Deuce

The Airmen kept attacking in the second till all were back and then play was even. Heal and Starr combined for a nice rush, but the Fliers tallied right after when Legris took a corner passout from Cameron and banged it in from the crease-line. Less than two minutes later they got another, Gathercoll's angle shot from just inside the blue line hitting Ellis' leg and glancing into the cage, giving Harding no chance at all. The Petes flew back furiously and pressed the rest of the way but without avail. Jopling was gated for charging and the Airmen ganged up, Gibson robbing Kingdon on a breakaway. Harding had to be good for a few minutes and, with all back, the Petes again carried the attack and buzzed around Gibson. Higgins went off for chopping and the locals did everything but score, but Gibson was unbeatable to the end.

Early in the third, Cameron and Gardner were waved away for roughing and the Petes had a good margin on play, carrying the puck up and through defence but unable to sink the disc. Irvine was chased for slashing and the Petes pressed hard, but all were back before they got a counter. Starr scored their only goal on a forward pass inside the blue line from Jopling, Eddie parking near the net and banging it home. They got another right after but it was offside, and the locals kept peppering Gibson, forcing the Fliers to shoot the puck down the ice to relieve the terrific pressure as the fans roared at the action. Lemieux went off for slashing and a fight threatened with a couple of fans climbing over the boards, but order was restored. Ellis was waved away for tripping on a breakaway and Cameron's try on a penalty shot was blocked by Harding. Burton and Higgings got the nod for roughing it and the Petes kept pressing till Coughlin was chased for tripping a few seconds before the final gong.

The teams:

Petes: Goal, Harding; defence, Gardner and Ellis; centre, Kingdon; wings, Blewett and Tompkins; alternates, Crowe, F. Jopling, Starr, Coughlin, Heal and Burton.

Fliers: Goal, Gibson; defence, Higgins and Cameron; centre, Legris; wings, McNab and Dunning; alternates, Irvine, Denyes, McLeod, Lemieux and Gathercoll.

Claim '27 Yanks Better Than '39

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Jan. 17.—(AP)—The 1927 New York Yankees, in the opinion of George Pipgras who was one of them, were a better al laround team than the 1939 world champions.

Furthermore, he said today he believed only two of the 1939 team could have displaced any of the 1927 regulars.

"Maybe I'm prejudiced because I played on the team," said Pipgras, now an American League umpire, "but I think the 1927 Yankees were better than last year's club."

Pipgras listed Joe DiMaggio and Bill Dickey as "the only players of the 1939 team I think I could replace players on the 1927 club."

"Dickey is the best catcher in baseball," he declared, "and DiMaggio's hitting gives him an edge over Earl Combs, who played centerfield for the '27 team."

They Can't Do This To Us

One of sport's most fabulous figures is Sonja Henie, ABOVE, about whom it is unnecessary to tell you very much. She has run her talented skate-shod feet and natural beauty into millions of dollars in a few short years, but most recently broke into the news when accused by one, Dennis R. Scanlon, of being in debt to him to the extent of $92,000, that very tidy sum representing money he was not paid for seeing that her amateur status was not impaired in days gone by, and that judges were influenced to lean the right way in making their decisions in competitions in which sweet Sonja was participating — says Mr. Scanlon.

Landis Promises To Levy Fines On Secret Player Transfers

CHICAGO, Jan. 17 — (AP). — Kensaw Mountain Landis, Commissioner of Baseball, in a new ruling to-day, warned that in every instance of secret player transfers each club concerned would be fined $500 and each club official or employee participating would be placed on the ineligible list.

Landis also ruled that players must not be signed to blank contracts and that a true copy of the contract must be given the player, also that players cannot be signed for other clubs, directly or indirectly, whether owned, affiliated or independent.

The Commissioner declared that "working agreements" must be executed by the club actually making them and cannot be executed in the names of affiliated or subsidiary clubs.

No Handicap to Tigers.

DETROIT, Jan. 17 — (AP). — Walter O. Briggs, whose Detroit Baseball Club lost 91 players when they were declared free agents by Commissioner Kenesaw Landis on Sunday, said to-day he did not believe the team would be handicapped in 1940 by the decision.

Briggs' statement was sent from his winter home at Miami Beach, Florida, and issued by club officials here. It said:

"I have received Commissioner Landis' recent decision. We have surely been fully penalized for any mistakes or wrong doings within the organization. The cost of this is mine and will be properly taken care of.

"This decision will affect our minor league operations, but I do not think it will handicap the Detroit Tigers this season. We are always in the market for seasoned ball players and we are willing to pay the best price for them.

"We shall now have to bend our efforts more in this direction. I think we can assure the fans of this—the best and most loyal baseball city in our country—of an interesting and competitive ball club for this year. This is the only way we can thank or repay them for their loyalty.

"There is nothing more to be said at this time."

Last Night's Stars

By The Canadian Press.

Milt Schmidt, Woody Dumart and Bobby Bauer, Boston, picked up eight scoring points in a 6-1 victory over Montreal Canadians.

Louis Trudel, Canadiens, scored the only Canadien's goal and his ninth of the season.

Lindsay Juniors Defeat Cobourg

LINDSAY, Jan. 17 — (Special). — In a fast but erratic Junior B fixture here last night, Lindsay took their third win of the season by gaining a 4-2 decision over Cobourg Juniors.

In the opening stanza Owen, midget centre, scored when his puck struck Caine, the latter accidentally pushing it in with his hand. Referee Moe Breslin allowing it. The visitors tied it up shortly after on a shot from Bird. Ellis scored another goal for Lindsay in the second frame. Lindsay netted two counters in the final period, with Sharpe and Ellis, Christie and Logan in the scoring combination, while Cullen counted another for the visitors, on an assist from Bird.

Cleveland Barons Climbing Fast

By The Canadian Press.

The Cleveland Barons are beginning to roll again and the team that was holding down last place in its section a week ago now is in second.

Champions of the International-American hockey league last season, Cleveland broke a three way tie for the second spot in the western division last night by nosing out Syracuse Stars 2-1 in the onlly game played.

Veteran Peggy O'Neil scored the goal that broke up a close game, scoring for Cleveland late in the second period. Cleveland's defence pair of Molyneaux and Robertson sent the Barons into the lead in the first period, with Molyneaux getting the goal.

In the second session Harry Foster scored for the Stars on a blueline shot after taking a pass from Doggie Kuhn but a three-way passing play among O'Neil, Blake and Hansen ended with O'Neil beating goalie Billy Beveridge for the winning goal.

Hemmerling's Spurt Ties Summerhill

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Jan. 17.—(AP)—A six-point scoring spurt by Tony Hemmerling of the top-flight New Haven Eagles sent him into a tie with Bill Summerhill, a teammate until his transfer to Montreal Canadiens, for the lead spot in the International-American League.

Statistics for the week released at league headquarters here yesterday gave each of the players a total of 37 points.

Kraut Kids' Line Has Big Night Scoring Eight Points When Bruins Beat Canadiens 6-1

MONTREAL, Jan. 17.—(CP). — Manager Art Ross of Boston Bruins long has been noted as one of the shrewdest of National Hockey League traders and Herbie Cain doesn't intend to let the Rossian reputation suffer.

Ross swapped Charlie Sands to Montreal Canadiens at the start of the season for Cain, and since then Ross and President Ernest Savard of Canadiens have argued that each came out better in the deal. But the records seem to indicate that the canny Ross got the edge on the trade.

The Bruins swamped the Habitants 6-1 here last night before 5,300 fans to go into undisputed possession of first place in the standing, two points ahead of the idle New York Rangers. The winning goal went to Cain, although the famed "Kraut line" of Milt Schmidt, Bobby Bauer and Woody Dumart paced the Bruins' attack by picking up eight scoring points.

Cain's tally also meant that he picked up a Canadian war loan bond at the expense of Canadiens. Arguments over the Sands-Cain trade had led Ross and Savard to bet one bond on a goal by either of the players.

"It sure made me happy to whip home that goal," said Cain in the dressing room after the game. "Not only because it meant winning the war bond but because I've now scored a goal against every goalie in the league, with the exception of Paul Goodman of the Hawks. And heck, I haven't a chance to score against him because we haven't played Chicago since he replaced Mike Karakas."

Now Has 14 Goals.

Cain, who now has a total of 14 goals and is only one behind Gordie Drillon of Toronto Maple Leafs in this respect, grinned broadly when asked if he thought that he might be the league's leading goal-getter this season. In his seventh season in the big time the 28-year-old left wingman had his best season in 1934-35 when he scored 20.

"Well, there's no harm in hoping anyhow," he said. "Things certainly have been breaking right for me and at times it seems that I just can't miss. When I got four goals the other night against Toronto I only had four shots. It just seemed to be my night to beat Broda (Goalie Turk Broda).

"I had to take quite a ride, especially from people at home in Toronto, when the Bruins lost a couple in a row at the start of the season and Canadiens were away like a ball of fire. But that's all changed now that our club is out in front. Anyhow, I don't care how many goals I get so long as we stay up on top. That's the main thing."

Every Boston goal to Canadiens went to a different player, with Dit Clapper, Schmidt, Dumart, Bauer, and Hill scoring besides Cain. Schmidt also picked up two assists to run his point total to 25 to go into a first-place tie with the injured and idle Gordie Drillon of the Leafs in the individual scoring race. Louis Trudel scored the Montreal goal.

10,000 Fans Boo Castilloux' Draw Decision

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—(CP)—Little Dave Castilloux, Canada's featherweight and lightweight champion, made his debut in the big city last night by fighting to a draw with Charley Gomer of Baltimore, Md.

Castilloux jabbed his opponent repeatedly with a stinging left, hammered him with stiff body blows against the ropes in the fourth round and shook him with a crushing right and left in the third but still was unable to win a decision.

The draw ruling was roundly booed by 10,000 fans in the Bronx Coliseum. The referee and one judge voted for a draw while the third official, Steve Honus, cast his ballot for Castilloux, who seemed to have piled up a wide margin in the early rounds of the eight-round bout.

Oshawa Wins 8th Straight

TORONTO, Jan. 17. — Oshawa Generals knocked Toronto Marlboro's off their top perch and Varsity Juniors won their first game of the season. These were the highlights of the junior O. H. A. double-decker at Maple Leaf Gardens last night. Oshawa won the feud of the McNamaras vs. the McAtees by a 5 to 4 margin to overhaul Baldy Cotton's Marlies in the feature attraction, while Jimmy McPherson's Students punched out a 7-3 win over Native Sons.

Dukes came through with a couple of last-minute goals and almost caught the high flying Generals after the latter's vicious backchecking efforts had caused the Marlies' attack to bog down during the first two sessions. Dempster in the Marlboro goal teamed a sterling effort with a large amount of luck to keep the Generals from getting too far in front during the all-Oshawa second period. Alec Davidson, young brother of big Bob, scored the first and last of the Duke counters and was generally the leader of the Toronto drive.

The McAtee brother act, usually the highlight of any Oshawa game, was almost crowded into the background by the improved work of the other regulars, particularly Wally Wilson, Ritchie, Eddolls and Knott. Eddolls and Norm McAtee were the game's only casualties.

It was the eighth straight victory for Generals and their second one-goal decision over the Dukes. Over 2,500 largest crowd of the junior season, attended.

Norwood Board Threatens To Sue County

The first 1940 session of Peterborough County Council opened with bad news on Tuesday afternoon with the threat that Norwood Board of Education may sue to collect monies they claim are dut to them.

Clerk Miss Jennie Batten read a letter from the law firm of Carley & Standish in regard to non-payment for county pupils attending Norwood High School in 1938. The letter brought to the fore a squabble that has been waged now for some time. It originated when the Norwood School Board requisitioned the Norwood Town Council for $3,000 to carry on for 1938. The Council is said to have asked the Board to lower the requisition by $2,000, and this was done, costs of operation being taken from a surplus that had accumulated over a number of years. The county's stand is that some measure of the surlus is from the county's grants over those years and that they should benefit, too, by the reduced requisition. Reeve W. A. Anderson, chairman of the Educational Committee of the County Council, said that he was quite willing to try to determine, with the Norwood Board, how much of the surplus should be returned to the county.

A committee was appointed, on motion of Reeve James Gifford of Ennismore Township, to consult the county solicitor in regard to the matter and to bring in a recommendation.

Norwood's Case.

The Norwood Board's case was outlined by Mr. Carley as follows:

"We have been asked by the Norwood Board of Education to take up with the Council of the County of Peterborough the question of payment of the amount outstanding for the maintenance of county pupils for the year 1938. This amount is $1,862.31. The amount outstanding for the year 1939 is $2,324.92.

"We are instructed that the Norwood Board of Education has furnished all information and made all requisitions necessary for the obtaining of this amount from the County and that the County has in turn levied and collected taxes for the year 1938 on the basis of the statement, and requisitions so furnished. (Reeve Anderson denied such was the case, said the only monies raised had been paid, and that if other funds had to be turned over, they would still have to be collected by taxes.) This amount having been levied and raised in taxes by the County for this specific purpose cannot be diverted by the County for any other purpose. The non-payment by the County of this amount has seriously embarrassed the Norwood Board of Education in the performance of their statutory duties.

Don't Want to Sue.

"The Norwood Board of Education has endeavored in every way to arrive at an amicable settlement with the County. They have taken the view that as they are a public body performing their statutory duties and as the County of Peterborough is likewise a public body every effort should be made to avoid wasting the taxpayers' money in litigation. With that object in view they have met representatives of the County Council, but more unfortunately the County's position has not been stated to them, nor have they received any definite statement of what the County desires done nor the grounds of their complaint other than vague general assertions that a surplus exists to which the County claims it is entitled to some reduction or consideration.

"The Board of Education take the view that the surplus, if any, has not arisen from excessive levies made by the County but has arisen mainly through overcharges on the port of the Village of Norwood and through changes in the grants made by the Department.

No Other Option.

"The Board is anxious, as we stated, to avoid litigation if possible. However, the County is leaving the Board no other option than to institute action for the grants due it. There can be no question that once the Board has furnished the information required to be furnished and has requisitioned for the amount and these requisitions and statements have been accepted by the County and taxes levied and collected on the basis of the statement, that the County is legally bound to pay the Board the monies so levied and collected. The County cannot now be heard to say that it is going to revise the statements and requisitions made.

"We are instructed by the Board to ask you to place this matter before the County Council and request that representatives of the Board and the writer (T. J. Carley, K.C.) meet the County Council or a committee of the same during its present sittings with a view to seeing if any satisfactory and amicable settlement can be arrived at in regard to the difference existing."

BISHOP RETIRES

LEICESTER, England—(CP). — Dr. Cyril Bardsley, Bishop of Leicester, will retire early this year, on the advice of his physicians. He was a church commissioner in Saskatchewan from 1908 to 1920.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Harmful poisons go into the body, and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

A mere bowel movement doesn't always get at the cause. You need something that works on the liver as well. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless and gentle, they make the bile flow freely. They do the work of calomel but have no calomel or mercury in them. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name! Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c.

Drew, Hepburn

echoed a few minutes later by Premier Hepburn who expressed general agreement with Col. Drew's indictment.

Whereas Col. Drew largely confined himself to general allegations of unpreparedness, Premier Hepburn cited specific examples of what he said was lack of speed in equipping the armed forces.

"Let no one suggest that these are matters which do not concern the members of a provincial parliament," said Col. Drew. "It will be a sorry day for Canada if the doctrine is ever accepted that interest in the successful prosecution of this war is the exclusive prerogative of members of the House of Commons. Every Canadian is engaged in this war."

Col. Drew alleged delay in equipping the Canadian forces, failure to train adequate replacement personnel, poor treatment of men who quit jobs and tried to enlist and could not. He urged the creation of a defence service corps, on a non-combatant basis, to guard utilities and to provide a reservoir of trained men.

"Why should there be any pretence that we are satisfied with what the Dominion Government is doing when nearly every man you meet is talking about the inefficiency of our war efforts," asked Col. Drew. "There is no reason why this war should be waged in secrecy as though it were some shameful thing. From every part of Canada comes the demand that our full fighting strength be organized at the earliest possible moment. Never was there greater unity in Canada than ther is today. That unity must not be destroyed by nerveless indecision.

National Obligation.

Col. Drew repeated his contention that the guardian of public utilities is a national obligation to be performed by armed forces under military discipline. Danger to the utilities rose from a Federal Act, the Declaration of War.

The policy of leaving the guarding of these utilities to non-Federal authorities might lead to private armies.

Men of great skill and reckless courage will attempt to destroy utilities in Canada, prophesied Col. Drew. It would be criminal folly to ignore the seriousness of the threat within Canada.

Col. Drew said he had recommended that the work of guarding utilities should be undertaken by a voluntary force made up of those who could not be accepted for the time being into the C.A.S.F. because of age or any other reason, but who would be fit for non-combatant duty. He suggested the name of the non-combatant force be the defence service corps.

If such an organization were to be set up, it was vital that the task be undertaken immediately. Veterans' organizations could help:

Col. Drew continued:

"We are fighting to preserve democracy and democracy begins at home. The best way to prove our faith in democracy is to maintain the first principle of democracy which is free speech. I intend to assert that right. Only if those things are said in public, which are being said today on all sides in private, will there be any hope of that vigorous direction of our war efforts which will assure the effective organization our manpower and resources for the defence of freedom and security of Canada."

On October 27, Prime Minister King said: "For weeks before as the clouds of war were gathering, we had quietly, but none the less effectively, been preparing for the eventuality of war."

Charge Inaccuracy.

That statement of the Prime Minister's was inaccurate, said Col. Drew. When Mr. King made the statement there were men who had been in the army for eight weeks and hadn't been supplied with underwear, socks, shirts, boots, nightwear, service uniforms, razors and other essentials.

"But in spite of the glaring inaccuracy of Mr. King's statement, those who knew the facts kept silent in the hope that there were men in his Cabinet who would force him to act. That hope has not been fulfilled."

The situation with respect to equipping the troops was disgraceful, alleged Col. Drew. The Canadian public was being lulled into false security by "the propaganda speeches of the Prime Minister and the members of his Cabinet."

"The enemy is not being misled by these speeches," he said. "It is only Canadians themselves who are being fooled. We are asked to become a nation of ostriches and hide our heads in the sands of censorship."

No Need For Unemployment

Premier Hepburn declared there should be no unemployment in Canada. Every man should be engaged in Canada's war effort, either in civil life or in the army.

"Naturally he (Col. Drew) knows where I stand in this matter," said Mr. Hepburn. "The Leader of the Opposition and I agree on those matters which are basic."

Prime Minister King had said that Canada had been preparing for and anticipating the war for two years, said Mr. Hepburn. Yet it was only after he was in hospital with pneumonia that Lieut. Colin Campbell, former Minister of Public Works, now in the Royal Canadian Engineers, could obtain cloth for a greatcoat.

"If he had died, he would have died because of the neglect of the Dominion Government," said Mr. Hepburn, nodding to Lieut. Campbell who sat in the House, still being member for Sault Ste. Marie.

Mr. Hepburn said he had been told by military officers that some recruits in the Canadian Active Service Force had developed active tuberculosis as the result of being improperly clad. They were given underwear "not fit to be put on a human being, and footwear that wouldn't last two weeks."

One case brought to his attention was of a man who didn't have a uniform for 90 days after he was in the army. He was kept on night duty and developed a continuous cold. He was discharged and the Federal Government offered him $15 to buy a new suit.

"This war is going to break out on a collosal scale, on a scale hitherto unknown," said Mr. Hepburn. "There will be a great demand for men and we're going to commit the collosal blunder of sending half-trained men to battle, aviators not half-trained will face Germans who have trained for years. The men who do it will answer some day, regardless of the radio speeches. No one is listening. There are too many soldiers around to tell the truth.

Only 30 Men Take Over

The premier said the new mental hospital at St. Thomas had been turned over to the Department of National Defence. Ontario evacuated 1,300 patients and staff in six days. Two and a half months later there were 30 men of the Royal Canadian Air Force in the buildings and 30 outside to guard them.

Ontario will campaign in 1940 to bring United States tourists to the province, using the favorable exchange rates on American funds as one point in the tourists' advantage, Premier Hepburn said.

The provincial tourist publicity bureau is to be reorganized and a "high class man" named director, the premier announced.

Compulsory pasteurization of milk in Ontario was already showing fruits in the reduced indience of tuberculosis among children, the Premier said he had been told by several doctors.

The premier said the control given the Ontario Municipal Board over capital expenditures by municipalities has been amply justified in the improved condition of municipal finances. Despite the war, the government hoped to maintain and extend the financial air given municipalities.

Amendments to the income tax act to make life insurance annuities taxable, in lines with suggested federal tax revisions, were hinted by Premier Hepburn.

"We follow the Dominion government fairly closely on taxing legislation and will probably do the same," the premier said, mentioning that taxation of insurance annuities had been proposed for the coming session of parliament.

The premier's only other reference to taxes was his declaration that an amendment will be made to the Succession Duties Act to prevent another court controversy.

Long Dynasty's Fate At Stake

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 17—(AP). —Louisiana voters went to the polls to-day to decide the fate of the 12-year-lold Huey P. Long political dynasty.

Nearly 600,000 persons were expected to cast ballots in the Democratic party election primary, which followed a turbulent campaign for the Governorship.

Governor Earl K. Long, brother of the slain Huey, carried the administration's banner. He was opposed by four "Reform' candidates, who sought to displace the "machine" which has ruled since 1928.

Elaborate precautions were taken to assure an honest election and the Federal government stood by to accept any complaints. One candidate sent his men out to "fingerprint" the ballot boxes and prevent "switching."

The Orleans Parish Board of Election Supervisors deputized 1,500 special police to "maintain law and order."

The "Reform" candidates were Sam Jones, James Morrison, and Vincent Moseley, all lawyers, and State Senator James Noe.

The war loan was well received from the time the books opened on Monday morning. In the first day subscriptions amounted to $114,650,600, more than half the total offered for sale. By early yesterday afternoon the total climbed to $136,717,950 and during the afternoon the entire amount was taken up and the over-subscription registered.

Finns Aroused.

On the Salla front, the Finns yesterday were aroused by the stentorian voices of the Red army political commissars, exhorting their troops.

With some of the soldiers shouting "Urraa," about 400 Russians charged, while the commissars yelled encouragement from the trenches.

So intense was the cold that the attackers ran forward with their arms folded for warmth, rifles slung on their backs. Finnish machine-gunners held their fire until the Russians could be slaughtered most economically, and the charge broke. The number of dead was not known.

Leaving Finnish troops billeted in a camouflaged tent, in a series of dugouts and in a sheltered farmhouse, I was taken on the narrow road by automobile past a village of which only blackened chimneys remain. We crossed a bridge which the Finns were mining, and transferred to a low, two-passenger sled for four miles more. Men on horseback towed their captain and adjutant who were on skis.

On the border, the party stopped at a farmhouse while ski troops fanned out to reconnoter.

Guard Against Tanks.

I walked with others for an hour, through a tree-blocked valley, past Finnish dugouts and through gaps in barbedwire entanglements. The Finns had felled the trees to make way for artillery action, the stumps and logs remaining to guard against Russian tanks.

On Russian soil, we prowled for more than an hour in a clearing beside a frozen lake.

(Hawkins' description of the location indicates this probably was Tuulijaervi, a narrow lake about five miles inside Russia).

Although there was a skirmish here two days previously, no war-like sounds broke the wintry silence.

The sun faded early, and we made our way back by the dim light of a quarter moon. The patrol stopped occasionally to listen intently and peer into side-paths into the woods.

Back at the tent that was headquarters, my captain-host served a dinner that included cocktails, beef stewed with macaroni and coffee, followed by cigars. The staff lolled on blankets, toasting their feet at the camp stove.

Still farther behind the line, at a modern railway base, I had breakfast in bed, served by two members of the Lotta Svard, the Finnish Women's Auxiliary Corps.

UK Plane Plants Best In Europe

OTTAWA, Jan. 17 — (CP). — C. A. Van Dusen, first vice-president of the Consolidated Aircraft Corporation of San Diego, Calif., said to-day that a visit to Great Britain convinced him the British aircraft industry when fully under way, would have a capacity "twice that of United States plants."

Here on a visit to his brother Frank, the United States aircraft executive said he travelled extensively throughout Europe in 1938, visiting England, France, Germany, Russia, and other countries.

Van Dusen also said that the methods of manufacture of the British aircraft industry were "superior to anything I saw in the rest of Europe, including Germany."

Opening Day Of 1940 County Council Is Bad For Chandos' Veteran Reeve

All in all Tuesday was a hectic day for Allan Caldwell, Reeve of Chandos township.

The first thing that happened was shortly after he started out by cutter from his northern constituency to attend the opening session of the 1940 Peterborough County Council. He was getting along fairly well despite near-blocked roads and a wind that whipped his face, and the face of his companion, W. Ayotte of Chandos, until they reached Brown's store in Apsley. They struck a snowbank and over the cutter toppled, plunging the spry Reeve and his companion head first into the cold snow.

Second mishap occurred when Reeve Caldwell arrived in Peterborough to find that the Clerk of Chandos township had neglected to send in the certificate declaring him to be re-elected to his post. When the session opened, however, members were lenient and voted to permit him to cast a vote without the certificate being filed. They could have sent him home until it was signed.

Britain's Tanker Tonnage Gains

LONDON, Jan. 17—(CP)—British tanker tonnage has gained since the war began, the Admiralty announced today, denying a German broadcast that 26 tankers had been lost.

The report said losses actually were less than half that number.

For the week ended January 13, British ships totalling 34,077 tons and four neutrals totalling 7,792 were sunk by enemy action, it said. Allied and neutral ships convoyed up to January 10 totalled 3,363 with 12 lost.

The Admiralty listed two German ships sunk during the past week, the Bahia Blanca, 8,558 tons, by an iceberg off Iceland, and the Dietrich Hasseldick, 172 tons, by an explosion.

Obituary

ARTHUR GRAHAM.

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 17. — (ENS).—Funeral service for the late Arthur Graham were largely attended here on Monday afternoon. The late Mr. Graham's sudden death occurred Friday morning while he was at work in his shop, and was a shock to the entire community as he had been in apparently good health. He came to Campbellford nearly fifty years ago and after working several years for the late John Shannon entered business for himself and had carried on up to the time of his death nearly forty-five years. He was born in Port Hope 72 years ago and was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs Peter Graham.

Surviving him besides his widow, the former Jean Donald of Campbellford, are two daughters, Jennie of Washington, D.C.; Edna of Detroit, Mich. and one son, Donald, also of Detroit.

The funeral service was conducted from his late residence, George street, by Rev. B. Simpson Black of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church and interment was at Mount Pleasant cemetery.

Pallbearers were Messrs. Harry Redden, Walter Lowe, John S. Wallace, H. M. Donald, Ralph Rowe and W. Sloggett.

Lindsay Arsenal In Production Before Spring

OTTAWA, Jan. 17.—Work is going full speed ahead turning the Dominion Government arsenal at Lindsay into a plant for the manufacture of shells. It will be in production, officials expect, before Spring.

All the Government small arms are being made at the Dominion arsenal at Valcartier, which was fully equipped and in operation before the war started. Experts from Valcartier will likely assist in getting the plant in operation.

The Lindsay arsenal was built by Sir Sam Hughes when he was Minister of Militia, but it has long lain idle. Operations at both arsenals are being conducted by the Ordnance Division of the Department of National Defence. All othe munitions operations in Canada are being handled by private industry.

"It Is About Time."

LINDSAY, Jan. 17.—News the Department of National Defence is planning to extend operations at the Dominion arsenal here drew expressions of approval to-day, mingled with skepticism.

"If this is really true, and I can hardly believe that it is, after so many rumors, then I can only say that it is about time," declared L. M. Jordan, acting mayor. "The town spent thousands of dollars extending sewers and sidewalks when the arsenal was first built, and it will give us a chance to secure some return on that investment, in addition to creating employment for men and prosperity for our merchants."

"There's a possibility this manufacture will continue when the war is over. I would like to have seen operations start sooner, but perhaps we are expecting too much."

2 Less U-Boats?

London, Jan. 17 (AP)

A SALVO of bombs from a Royal Air Force plane was believed today to have sunk a German submarine in the North Sea.

An official announcement last night said the plane swooped over the undersea craft as it was submerging and after the bombing a tell-tale patch of grease and bubbles arose.

PARIS, Jan. 16 (CP-Havas) A French naval announcement today credited the French navy with having seriously damaged or possibly destroyed a German submarine in the past few days.

A German freighter, identified as the "Janus," was scuttled by her crew to avoid capture by the French, it was added.

Reeve Morrow Is New Warden United Counties

COBOURG, Jan. 17—(Special).—Reeve W. H. Morrow of Murray Township was elected warden for 1940 of the counties of Northumberland and Durham when counties council convened for the January session here last night. He was opposed by Reeve R. R. Mallory of Percy Township. The new warden was elected on the first ballot, polling 23 votes to his opponent's 18. A large contingent from Colborne was on hand and it looked as if they were to lend moral support to Reeve W. J. Troop of Colborne, who was said to be in the running for warden. However, if they came to see their reeve elected warden or even nominated, they were disappointed, as they apparently had not reckoned with the "caucus" over in the hotel which had drawn up the slate some time before the meeting.

When nominations for the warden had closed, it was evident that the "little parliament" had whittled down the list of aspirants for warden to only two candidates. Reeve Morrow's nomination was moved by Deputy-Reeve W. Smith of Murray Township and seconded by Deputy-Reeve W. W. Brown of Cavan. The nomination of Reeve Mallory was moved by Reeve Charlie Quinn, Castleton, and Reeve W. R. Prouse of Hope Township. The voting went as follows:

For Mallory: Reeve A. W. Annis of Darlington, Reeve W. E. Ball of Millbrook, Reeve C. R. Carveth of Newcastle, Deputy-Reeve W. Cole of Hamilton, Deputy-Reeve W. J. Crowhurst of Port Hope, Deputy-Reeve H. M. Donald of Campbellford, Deputy-Reeve Alan Field of Cobourg, Reeve S. Gifford of Port Hope, Reeve A. J. Harnden of Haldimand Township, Reeve R. Mallory of Percy, Deputy-Reeve T. A. McMillen of Percy, Reeve R. Perrin of South Monaghan, Deputy-Reeve W. R. Pickle of Darlington, Reeve W. R. Prouse of Hope, Reeve C. Quinn of Cramahe, Reeve T. G. Shield of Cavan, Deputy-Reeve H. Sirett of Cramahe, Deputy-Reeve A. Stephen of Haldimand.

In his inaugural address the new warden thanked the council for the honor bestowed upon him when he was elected warden. He congratulated the old members on their re-election and welcomed the new ones. He reviewed briefly the financial condition of the counties, pointing out that its present strong financial state had progressed from the debt that had marked the condition of the counties a few years ago.

Liberty at Stake

Warden Morrow stated that this year the council was starting the year under the circumstances of a war. It was the duty of each of the council to carry on with the object in view of working to carry on successfully the war. Liberty and privileges were at stake, he said, and the war must be won.

Warden Morrow was born near Perth in Lanark County, 44 years ago. He was 11 years in the council, of which 10 were spent in counties council.

A number of minor communications were received and then referred to their appropriate committees. A resolution from Kent County Council, commenting on the high cost of school books as a result of the new course, asked that the government take action to lower the costs. Referred to the schools committee.

A resolution of Hastings County Council asked that the Public Hospitals Act be amended so that no indigent patient could be admitted to the hospital unless an emergency, without an order from the local M.O.H. Referred to the Legislative and By-laws committee.

A striking committee under C. G. Morris of Bowmanville as chairman, brought in the following committees; the chairman to be elected by his own committee later:

Finance — Timlin Ross (G.R.), Devitt, Shields, Reid, Smith, Pickle, Stephen, Burrison, Woodley, Boggs, Perrin, Smith, Mallory, Ross, Morris, Tougas, Donald, Field, Troop, Kelley, Ball, Carveth and Gifford.

Schools. — Timlin, Ross, Devitt, Shields, Patton, Quinn, Annis, Stephens, Cole, Prouse, Payne, Perrin, Smith, Mallory, Rowe, Edmonstone, Tougas, Calver, Dodge, Troop, Kelley, Ball, Carveth and Crowhurst.

Agriculture—Timlin, Gooding, Devitt, Brown, Patton, Sirett, Annis, Harnden, Cole, Prouse, Boggs, Perrin, Smith, McMillan, Morris, Tougas, Donald, Field, Troop, Kelley, Ball, Carveth and Crowhurst.

Brass Removed From Hydrants Commission Told

An attempt to steal one of the city's hydrants might appeal to some persons as an amusing effort of misdirected enterprise, possessing at least the space of novelty, but the report of the incident by R. L. Dobbin, apparently didn't seem funny to the members of the Utilities Commission. To G. S. Matthews, E. R. Shirley and Roland Denne it was an encroachment on community property, something that called for preventive action.

Mr. Dobbin, as manager of the city's utilities, was informing the Commission yesterday that some person had stripped five hydrants of brass fittings on the Burnham's Point property, and recommended that the water connection be cut off at a valve near the bridge over the C.P.R. Presumably hydrants are screwed on to the top of vertical pipes leading to the main. An employee of that department recently found in his rounds that removable brass was gone from the quintette of hydrants, and that one of them had been nearly separated from its mooring. Whoever had conceived the notion of walking away with a hydrant had evidently weakened before giving it the final freeing twist.

The inference from the Dobbin report was that brass has comparatively high junk value, and that some transient or other forager, who should at least be credited with spotting opportunity when it appeared in his path, had walked off with the brass parts and turned them into money.

Then it was said that the Peterborough Lumber Company who seem to be the owners of three of the hydrants would not be averse to cutting off the water supply to the Burnham's Point acres, that the company's mill buildings over there are now of negligible value, and the service supplied by the hydrants was no longer needed. Mr. Dobbin proposed that it might be agreeable to everybody to close the main valve, and take up the hydrants before somebody beats him to it.

So, inquiries are to be made, and it may be that the five hydrants will be stored away in safe keeping.

Just a passing reference was made to the fact that Burnham's Point was laid out some years ago as a residential subdivision, with a plan showing streets, one of them with water frontage following the shore line of Little Lake, and with water mains somewhere in the background.

And with that conception of civic development was associated at that time the project of stringing a bridge across the river from Burnham's Point to McDonald's Point, incidentally providing a convenient short cut between Ashburnham and the industrial south end of the city. The Utilities Commission yesterday did not wander into that field. It is not their concern anyway. It is one of those nebulous things which member of the city council once in a while mention as a possibility when they think of that narrow stretch of water between the two opposite points, and tell themselves a bridge should be built there for "the future Peterborough" and also for the present, if they only had the money to spend on it.

Here is an extensive property, it has been said, right in the centre of the city with ample room for a couple of hundred houses, with a private swimming beach right at the front door of imaginary houses, lake view and all the rest of it. In such conversations it has usually been pointed out that a sewerage system would be needed for the development, and the customary answer to that objection has been along the line that eventually the Ashburnham sewer will have to be connected with the sewer on George Street, probably by laying pipes across the river between the two points, and of course passing through the Burnham's Point property. And that prospect injects new life into the idea of converting the Point area into streets and taxable dwellings, and it all sounds expansive and constructive until the straying thoughts arrive at the end of the road where the bridge should be, and that brings everybody back to the reality of building a bridge, and there the whole project fetches up, streets and houses, a veritable new community, with a secondary and direct highway running from the south end of the city into the heart of Ashburnham.

And all that remains of it for the present is the likelihood that the five hydrants will be lifted, minus their brass fixings, and put beyond the reach of any person who might look upon them as old iron that possibly might be sold as junk.

DOMINION PAYS PART

In the possibility that it may not be generally known that the Dominion Government pays a share of local relief equal to the provincial contribution, it should be said in connection with the report of the city's relief financing last year that the basis of contributions is 20 per cent by the city, 40 per cent by the province and 40 per cent by the Dominion Government.

Police Commission Ask Council For An Additional Constable

Chief Constable Samuel Newhall's recommendations for the appointment of another police constable and for the purchase of a new motorcycle to replace the machine now in use by the department met with the approval of the board of commissioners for police when the annual estimates were considered at the regular monthly meeting Tuesday afternoon.

"I do not believe the council is going to be too happy about appointing another man," was Mayor James Hamilton's comment after the matter had been decided.

Chief Newhall recommended the addition of another officer in order to make it possible for members of the department to have a regular day off.

"Ald. Gordon has advocated the appointment for another reason," Judge S. L. Smoke, chairman of the board, stated. "He says that the council have taken a policeman for traffic duty at Charlotte and Aylmer streets."

Same As Last Year

The chief constable's estimates were in the main accepted by commission with a little whittled off several of the items to keep the total down to last year's figure. When they got through the commissioners had succeeded in arriving at exactly the same demand as last year—$32,825, made up as folows:

Salaries $25,250, police commission and secretary $550, telegrams and telephones, $400, clothing and equipment $1,700; printing and stationery $200, postage $75, incidentals $250, upkeep of cars, bicycles, motorcycle and radio $1,900, insurance $150, conventions Halifax and Sault Ste. Marie $200, new constable's salary $1,200, new motorcycle $350, overdraft from 1939, $100.

The salary schedule adopted was as follows: Chief Constable Newhall $2,600, Inspector James F. Reid $1,900, Detective Sergt. W. E. Meagher $1,900, Sergt. W. Wigg, $1,600, Sergt. John Thompson, $1,600, Sergt. G. T. Puffer $1,500, Constable John Naples $1,500, Constable W. R. McGillen $1,500, Constable Gordon K. Hardy $1350, Police Matron Mrs. Maguire $800.

The only changes in this schedule as compared with last year is that during 1940 Constables Murphy and McGillen attain the status of first class constables and Constable Hardy the ranking of a second class constable.

Chairman Judge S. L. Smoke presided and Magistrate E. A. Gee and Mayor James Hamilton were also present.

Traffic Bridge At London Street Meets With Strenuous Opposition

Although the council has neither the money nor the mandate to construct a traffic bridge across the river at the foot of London street, a broader substitute for the footbridge which is slated for building this year, the mere mention of the possibility, however tenuous, has caused a flurry in the smart Waterford-Dublin residential section.

One of the property owners overlooking the river told the Examiner on the day after the election that he went out to vote for two special purposes, one to make sure of a ballot for his neighbor Fred Tuggey, and the other to support the bylaw for the footbridge, designed as an accommodation for the people living in the Nicholls Park area to Ashburnham.

A few days ago, following the report of the council meeting, he was considerably pertrubed about the wider bridge idea, although he felt sure that nothing would come of it.

"Still," he said, "where there is smoke there might be some fire. A traffic bridge would certainly cause a slump in property values in our neighborhood and the houses up there are all modern and worth some money. The footbridge isn't likely to be an asset either, but if it is going to be a help to the folks across the river they might as well have it."

Further word about the agitation came from a Dufferin street woman this morning who told the Examiner she heard Leo W. Copp, another of the Waterford-Dublin residents, was circulating an anti-bridge petition, and she and her neighbors were alarmed about the possibility that this might extend to the footbridge.

According to the neighborhood news the folks on both sides of the river have been upset by a passing and irrelevant mention of a traffic bridge, the group on the west being alarmed about the prospect of a bigger bridge, and those on the east side that plans and conversation may result in no bridge at all, foot or vehicular.

The fact is that the council has directed City Engineer Parsons to prepare plans, specification and prices for a footbridge, and the bylaw passed by the ratepayers authorized that work which is estimated to cost $10,000.

Survey Renewed For Suitable Airfield Site

Official expectation of getting an air field for Peterborough were dimmed again yesterday during a survey of proposed local sites by three representatives of the federal government accompanied by Mayor Hamilton, Alderman Dutton and Alderman Bradburn.

They accompanied J. R. K. Main, F. J. Palmer and Lieutenant A. J. Pearce, of the R.C.A.F., all of Ottawa, in a cold trip around the countryside visiting properties which have been regarded as the most promising for the needs of safe landings and takeoffs.

The visitors and their municipal companions of the fact finding expedition set out from the Empress Hotel Tuesday morning, took no thought of the weather that was uncomfortably pressing down in the near-zero section, and made a round of fields about which further information was obtained for the guidance of Departmental engineers in their prospective choice of a location somewhere in the Central Ontario district.

It is understood that Mayor Hamilton and J. J. Duffus are going to Ottawa again next week, following up previous efforts to obtain the field for Peterborough if it is all practicable.

From earlier information given to the council the opinion has been growing that the type of hilly country in the local townships is not suitable for a landing field, and that it would be futile to build up strong hopes that Peterborough is going to be put on the new air map of this country.

From various conversations of late it was learned that rolling hills, swamps and woods, comprise an unfavorable ground condition for fliers, especially for the training of young men for the air force. This fact has been mentioned before. It was intimated that Peterborough has no intention of trying to emoarrass the government by pressing unduly for preference in such a serious undertaking as the development of an air field.

Inimations have been coming from the Omemee-Reaboro section of the district that its comparatively level stretches of land have been receiving attention of late, and if the Government's final selection goes to that area, between Peterborough and Lindsay, Peterborough is going to take the attitude of co-operation.

One of the fields visited yesterday was west of the city on the Peterborough-Port Hope road. It has seemed to lay opinion as having certain features which should recommend it. The comment was expressed by the engineers that the development of that field, only a couple of miles from the city, would be at least three times as costly as another one at Collins Bay which has been turning out considerably more expensive than the Department's engineers had estimated.

The inference from that statement was simply that if a field which had been hopefully regarded by members of the council was so defective as all that, then there wasn't much else to be done but prepare as strong a case as possible right up to the time of the Department's decision.

An air field between Peterborough and Lindsay, even if it does reach over into the Lindsay vicinity is only about twenty minutes from here, and if the element of safety is going to be increased by a location in that section Peterborough, it is said, will accept the Department's choice, especially in the awareness that a thorough examination has been made of the topography of fields nearer this city.

Company Protests Council's Bylaw

It looks as though the Bell Telephone Company is at the end of a blind road in its persistent endeavour to have the county council follow its wishes.

For some time the company tried to get the county to pass a by-law governing erection of poles on county roads. It would, in effect, according to Reeve W. A. Anderson of Otonabee township, have the county give permission in advance for any work the company wanted to do at any time in the future. "We have no right to commit future councils," declared Reeve Anderson. He said a by-law passed by the council last year had not met with the company's approval.

Yesterday the council heard read a letter from the company in which it was hinted that the matter might be taken before the Board of Railway Commissioners.

Reeve Anderson said he had looked into the matter. "I don't think it would be wise of them to do so," he said.

COLD ASSIGNMENT.

If there are any more trips to be made into the country at 3 o'clock of a morning with the weather just above zero, Mayor Hamilton will probably suggest an issue of coon coats, or at least a shot of Demerara. He and Aldermen Bradburn and Dutton set out with the airfield engineers yesterday morning, and spent about five hours looking over mighty cold country before they got back towards one o'clock. That's part of the municipal service that is generally not taken into the reckoning of duty by the man on the street.

'Twas Grand Night To Stay At Home

Yon was a mean night for anyone abroad on the Monaghan moors or main street. There was pain on the wind that blew in from the city's western rim. It was no night for weak batteries and soft, unprotected ears. Somehow, knees managed to get by, and the suspicion lingers that those silk hose must be lined with wool. Even the Apsley wolves, if there are any, and Charlie Kingan and his fusiliers are starting out Thursday morning to settle that question up in the hardwood country, even those wolves if they had any sense must have been banked down in the snow and the shelter of cedar thickets. Verandahs cracked explosively as the frost seized them, and furnaces fought it out with the cold that tried to sneak through door chinks and keyholes. But, it was a grand night to watch dry birch logs flaming on the hearth, or to hear the kettle singing on the range, that is in homes still clinging to some remnants of old fashions, and it was pleasant, too, to watch the coffee perking in the Alparka percolating gadget and smell its fragrance in a bouquet of toast. Alparka lasses parked parkas along the coffee bar—but that alliterative effusion calls for a halt. It was probably grand, too, for those young couples homing from rinks and ski slopes, but in the serio-comic phrase of W. C. Fields it could be said by others: "'Taint a fit night for man nor beast."

Canadians Given Hearty Welcome

The arrival of the first contingent of Canadian troops in Great Britain —"on the shores of Auld Scotia, and at ———, too," is referred to in a letter received this week from his sister in Scotland, by a citizen of Peterborough. An armada of ships and convoy anchored off-shore, and a glorious sight met the gaze of onlookers who lined the wharfs and the roads adjacent, watching the liners and warships dropping anchor on that "dry, but very cold, and perfect day."

The cheers that went up from the Canadian lads in khaki could be heard several blocks away from the anchorage, and was re-echoed from the folks who welcomed them, in no uncertain manner.

A rousing welcome was later given the troops as they speedily landed from the tenders and proceeded to the waiting trains for the journey to their camp in England.

"It was a great day—and we thanked our Maker for bringing them in safety here—and to their Ain Countrie, in many instances," concluded the writer.

His father, T. Frank Matthews, now a resident of Toronto, was also chairman of the Commission for many years, first as head of the Water Commission and later when the electric department was added and the name of the body was changed to its present form.

Reeve Morrow Is New Warden United Counties

COBOURG, Jan. 17—(Special).—Reeve W. H. Morrow of Murray Township was elected warden for 1940 of the counties of Northumberland and Durham when counties council convened for the January session here last night. He was opposed by Reeve R. R. Mallory of Percy Township. The new warden was elected on the first ballot, polling 23 votes to his opponent's 18. A large contingent from Colborne was on hand and it looked as if they were to lend moral support to Reeve W. J. Troop of Colborne, who was said to be in the running for warden. However, if they came to see their reeve elected warden or even nominated, they were disappointed, as they apparently had not reckoned with the "caucus" over in the hotel which had drawn up the slate some time before the meeting.

When nominations for the warden had closed, it was evident that the "little parliament" had whittled down the list of aspirants for warden to only two candidates. Reeve Morrow's nomination was moved by Deputy-Reeve W. Smith of Murray Township and seconded by Deputy-Reeve W. W. Brown of Cavan. The nomination of Reeve Mallory was moved by Reeve Charlie Quinn, Castleton, and Reeve W. R. Prouse of Hope Township. The voting went as follows:

For Mallory: Reeve A. W. Annis of Darlington, Reeve W. E. Ball of Millbrook, Reeve C. R. Carveth of Newcastle, Deputy-Reeve W. Cole of Hamilton, Deputy-Reeve W. J. Crowhurst of Port Hope, Deputy-Reeve H. M. Donald of Campbellford, Deputy-Reeve Alan Field of Cobourg, Reeve S. Gifford of Port Hope, Reeve A. J. Harnden of Haldimand Township, Reeve R. Mallory of Percy, Deputy-Reeve T. A. McMillen of Percy, Reeve R. Perrin of South Monaghan, Deputy-Reeve W. R. Pickle of Darlington, Reeve W. R. Prouse of Hope, Reeve C. Quinn of Cramahe, Reeve T. G. Shield of Cavan, Deputy-Reeve R. Sirett of Cramahe, Deputy-Reeve A. Stephen of Haldimand.

In his inaugural address the new warden thanked the council for the honor bestowed upon him when he was elected warden. He congratulated the old members on their re-election and welcomed the new ones. He reviewed briefly the financial condition of the counties, pointing out that its present strong financial state had progressed from the debt that had marked the condition of the counties a few years ago.

Liberty at Stake

Warden Morrow stated that this year the council was starting the year under the circumstances of a war. It was the duty of each of the council to carry on with the object in view of working to carry on successfully the war. Liberty and privileges were at stake, he said, and the war must be won.

Warden Morrow was born near Perth in Lanark County, 44 years ago. He was 11 years in the council, of which 10 were spent in counties council.

A number of minor communications were received and then referred to their appropriate committees. A resolution from Kent County Council, commenting on the high cost of school books as a result of the new course, asked that the government take action to lower the costs. Referred to the schools committee.

A resolution of Hastings County Council asked that the Public Hospitals Act be amended so that no indigent patient could be admitted to the hospital unless an emergency, without an order from the local M.O.H. Referred to the Legislative and By-laws committee.

A striking committee under C. G. Morris of Bowmanville as chairman, brought in the following committees; the chairman to be elected by his own committee later:

Brass Removed From Hydrants Commission Told

An attempt to steal one of the city's hydrants might appeal to some persons as an amusing effort of misdirected enterprise, possessing at least the space of novelty, but the report of the incident by R. L. Dobbin, apparently didn't seem funny to the members of the Utilities Commission. To G. S. Matthews, E. R. Shirley and Roland Denne it was an encroachment on community property, something that called for preventive action.

Mr. Dobbin, as manager of the city's utilities, was informing the Commission yesterday that some person had stripped five hydrants of brass fittings on the Burnham's Point property, and recommended that the water connection be cut off at a valve near the bridge over the C.P.R. Presumably hydrants are screwed on to the top of vertical pipes leading to the main. An employee of that department recently found in his rounds that removable brass was gone from the quintette of hydrants, and that one of them had been nearly separated from its mooring. Whoever had conceived the notion of walking away with a hydrant had evidently weakened before giving it the final freeing twist.

The inference from the Dobbin report was that brass has comparatively high junk value, and that some transient or other forager, who should at least be credited with spotting opportunity when it appeared in his path, had walked off with the brass parts and turned them into money.

Then it was said that the Peterborough Lumber Company who seem to be the owners of three of the hydrants would not be averse to cutting off the water supply to the Burnham's Point acres, that the company's mill buildings over there are now of negligible value, and the service supplied by the hydrants was no longer needed. Mr. Dobbin proposed that it might be agreeable to everybody to close the main valve, and take up the hydrants before somebody beats him to it.

So, inquiries are to be made, and it may be that the five hydrants will be stored away in safe keeping.

Just a passing reference was made to the fact that Burnham's Point was laid out some years ago as a residential subdivision, with a plan showing streets, one of them with water frontage following the shore line of Little Lake, and with water mains somewhere in the background.

And with that conception of civic development was associated at that time the project of stringing a bridge across the river from Burnham's Point to McDonald's Point, incidentally providing a convenient short cut between Ashburnham and the industrial south end of the city. The Utilities Commission yesterday did not wander into that field. It is not their concern anyway. It is one of those nebulous things which member of the city council once in a while mention as a possibility when they think of that narrow stretch of water between the two opposite points, and tell themselves a bridge should be built there for "the future Peterborough" and also for the present, if they only had the money to spend on it.

Here is an extensive property, it has been said, right in the centre of the city with ample room for a couple of hundred houses, with a private swimming beach right at the front door of imaginary houses, lake view and all the rest of it. In such conversations it has usually been pointed out that a sewerage system would be needed for the development, and the customary answer to that objection has been along the line that eventually the Ashburnham sewer will have to be connected with the sewer on George Street, probably by laying pipes across the river between the two points, and of course passing through the Burnham's Point property. And that prospect injects new life into the idea of converting the Point area into streets and taxable dwellings, and it all sounds expansive and constructive until the straying thoughts arrive at the end of the road where the bridge should be, and that brings everybody back to the reality of building a bridge, and there the whole project fetches up, streets and houses, a veritable new community, with a secondary and direct highway running from the south end of the city into the heart of Ashburnham.

And all that remains of it for the present is the likelihood that the five hydrants will be lifted, minus their brass fixings, and put beyond the reach of any person who might look upon them as old iron that possibly might be sold as junk.

DOMINION PAYS PART

In the possibility that it may not be generally known that the Dominion Government pays a share of local relief equal to the provincial contribution, it should be said in connection with the report of the city's relief financing last year that the basis of contributions is 20 per cent by the city, 40 per cent by the province and 40 per cent by the Dominion Government.

PLANS COMPLETE

Plans for the joint banquet of the City Council and Exhibition Board with the County Council as their guests, at the Empress Hotel on Thursday evening have been advanced to the point of completion. The guest speaker for the event will be George D. Leacock, brother of the writer and humorist, Stephen Leacock. Mr. Leacock in addition to being president of an industrial concern, is the owner of a farm near Aurora, and should therefore qualify readily as speaker for a gathering where agriculturists will gather with industrialists and business men. The committee in charge anticipates an unusually large attendance.

Police Commission Ask Council For An Additional Constable

Chief Constable Samuel Newhall's recommendations for the appointment of another police constable and for the purchase of a new motorcycle to replace the machine now in use by the department met with the approval of the board of commissioners for police when the annual estimates were considered at the regular monthly meeting Tuesday afternoon.

"I do not believe the council is going to be too happy about appointing another man," was Mayor James Hamilton's comment after the matter had been decided.

Chief Newhall recommended the addition of another officer in order to make it possible for members of the department to have a regular day off.

"Ald. Gordon has advocated the appointment for another reason," Judge S. L. Smoke, chairman of the board, stated. "He says that the council have taken a policeman for traffic duty at Charlotte and Aylmer streets."

Same As Last Year

The chief constable's estimates were in the main accepted by commission with a little whittled off several of the items to keep the total down to last year's figure. When they got through the commissioners had succeeded in arriving at exactly the same demand as last year—$32,825, made up as folows:

Salaries $25,250, police commission and secretary $550, telegrams and telephones, $400, clothing and equipment $1,700; printing and stationery $200, postage $75, incidentals $250, upkeep of cars, bicycles, motorcycle and radio $1,900, insurance $150, conventions Halifax and Sault Ste. Marie $200, new constable's salary $1,200, new motorcycle $350, overdraft from 1939, $100.

The salary schedule adopted was as follows: Chief Constable Newhall $2,600, Inspector James F. Reid $1,900, Detective Sergt. W. E. Meagher $1,900, Sergt. W. Wigg, $1,600, Sergt. John Thompson, $1,600, Sergt. G. T. Puffer $1,500, Constable John Naples $1,500, Constable W. R. Piercy $1,500, Constable John Stevenson $1,500, Constable Archie Menzies $1,500, Constable Percy Sexsmith $1,500, Constable W. A. Clarke $1,500, Constable Leo. Murphy $1,500, Constable C. J. McGillen $1,500, Constable Gordon K. Hardy $1350, Police Matron Mrs. Maguire $800.

The only changes in this schedule as compared with last year is that during 1940 Constables Murphy and McGillen attain the status of first class constables and Constable Hardy the ranking of a second class constable.

Chairman Judge S. L. Smoke presided and Magistrate E. A. Gee and Mayor James Hamilton were also present.

Traffic Bridge At London Street Meets With Strenuous Opposition

Although the council has neither the money nor the mandate to construct a traffic bridge across the river at the foot of London street, a broader substitute for the footbridge which is slated for building this year, the mere mention of the possibility, however tenuous, has caused a flurry in the smart Waterford-Dublin residential section.

One of the property owners overlooking the river told the Examiner on the day after the election that he went out to vote for two special purposes, one to make sure of a ballot for his neighbor Fred Tuggey, and the other to support the bylaw for the footbridge, designed as an accommodation for the people living in the Nicholls Park area to Ashburnham.

A few days ago, following the report of the council meeting, he was considerably pertrubed about the wider bridge idea, although he felt sure that nothing would come of it.

"Still," he said, "where there is smoke there might be some fire. A traffic bridge would certainly cause a slump in property values in our neighborhood and the houses up there are all modern and worth some money. The footbridge isn't likely to be an asset either, but if it is going to be a help to the folks across the river they might as well have it."

Further word about the agitation came from a Dufferin street woman this morning who told the Examiner she heard Leo W. Copp, another of the Waterford-Dublin residents, was circulating an anti-bridge petition, and she and her neighbors were alarmed about the possibility that this might extend to the footbridge.

According to the neighborhood news the folks on both sides of the river have been upset by a passing and irrelevant mention of a traffic bridge, the group on the west being alarmed about the prospect of a bigger bridge, and those on the east side that plans and conversation may result in no bridge at all, foot or vehicular.

The fact is that the council has directed City Engineer Parsons to prepare plans, specification and prices for a footbridge, and the bylaw passed by the ratepayers authorized that work which is estimated to cost $10,000.

Survey Renewed For Suitable Airfield Site

Official expectation of getting an air field for Peterborough were dimmed again yesterday during a survey of proposed local sites by three representatives of the federal government accompanied by Mayor Hamilton, Alderman Dutton and Alderman Bradburn.

They accompanied J. R. K. Main, F. J. Palmer and Lieutenant A. J. Pearce, of the R.C.A.F., all of Ottawa, in a cold trip around the countryside visiting properties which have been regarded as the most promising for the needs of safe landings and takeoffs.

The visitors and their municipal companions of the fact finding expedition set out from the Empress Hotel Tuesday morning, took no thought of the weather that was uncomfortably pressing down in the near-zero section, and made a round of fields about which further information was obtained for the guidance of Departmental engineers in their prospective choice of a location somewhere in the Central Ontario district.

It is understood that Mayor Hamilton and J. J. Duffus are going to Ottawa again next week, following up previous efforts to obtain the field for Peterborough if it is all practicable.

Fror earlier information given to the council the opinion has been growing that the type of hilly country in the local townships is not suitable for a landing field, and that it would be futile to build up strong hopes that Peterborough is going to be put on the new air map of this country.

From various conversations of late it was learned that rolling hills, swamps and woods, comprise an unfavorable ground condition for fliers, especially for the training of young men for the air force. This fact has been mentioned before. It was intimated that Peterborough has no intention of trying to embarrass the government by pressing unduly for preference in such a serious undertaking as the development of an air field.

Inimations have been coming from the Omemee-Reaboro section of the district that its comparatively level stretches of land have been receiving attention of late, and if the Government's final selection goes to that area, between Peterborough and Lindsay, Peterborough is going to take the attitude of co-operation.

One of the fields visited yesterday was west of the city on the Peterborough-Port Hope road. It has seemed to lay opinion as having certain features which should recommend it. The comment was expressed by the engineers that the development of that field, only a couple of miles from the city, would be at least three times as costly as another one at Collins Bay which has been turning out considerably more expensive than the Department's engineers had estimated.

The inference from that statement was simply that if a field which had been hopefully regarded by members of the council was so defective as all that, then there wasn't much else to be done but prepare as strong a case as possible right up to the time of the Department's decision.

An air field between Peterborough and Lindsay, even if it does reach over into the Lindsay vicinity is only about twenty minutes from here, and if the element of safety is going to be increased by a location in that section Peterborough, it is said, will accept the Department's choice, especially in the awareness that a thorough examination has been made of the topography of fields nearer this city.

Company Protests Council's Bylaw

It looks as though the Bell Telephone Company is at the end of a blind road in its persistent endeavour to have the county council follow its wishes.

For some time the company tried to get the county to pass a by-law governing erection of poles on county roads. It would, in effect, according to Reeve W. A. Anderson of Otonabee township, have the county give permission in advance for any work the company wanted to do at any time in the future. "We have no right to commit future councils," declared Reeve Anderson. He said a by-law passed by the council last year had not met with the company's approval.

Yesterday the council heard read a letter from the company in which it was hinted that the matter might be taken before the Board of Railway Commissioners.

Reeve Anderson said he had looked into the matter. "I don't think it would be wise of them to do so," he said.

COLD ASSIGNMENT.

If there are any more trips to be made into the country at 8 o'clock of a morning with the weather just above zero, Mayor Hamilton will probably suggest an issue of coon coats, or at least a shot of Demerara. He and Aldermen Bradburn and Dutton set out with the airfield engineers yesterday morning, and spent about five hours looking over mighty cold country before they got back towards one o'clock. That's part of the municipal service that is generally not taken into the reckoning of duty by the man on the street.

'Twas Grand Night To Stay At Home

Yon was a mean night for anyone abroad on the Monaghan moors or main street. There was pain on the wind that blew in from the city's western rim. It was no night for weak batteries and soft, unprotected ears. Somehow, knees managed to get by, and the suspicion lingers that those silk hose must be lined with wool. Even the Apsley wolves, if there are any, and Charlie Kingan and his fusiliers are starting out Thursday morning to settle that question up in the hardwood country, even those wolves if they had any sense must have been banked down in the snow and the shelter of cedar thickets. Verandahs cracked explosively as the frost seized them, and furnaces fought it out with the cold that tried to sneak through door chinks and keyholes. But, it was a grand night to watch dry birch logs flaming on the hearth, or to hear the kettle singing on the range, that is in homes still clinging to some remnants of old fashions, and it was pleasant, too, to watch the coffee perking in the Alparka percolating gadget and smell its fragrance in a bouquet of toast. Alparka lasses parked parkas along the coffee bar—but that alliterative effusion calls for a halt. It was probably grand, too, for those young couples homing from rinks and ski slopes, but in the serio-comic phrase of W. C. Fields it could be said by others: "Taint a fit night for man nor beast."

Canadians Given Hearty Welcome

The arrival of the first contingent of Canadian troops in Great Britain —"on the shores of Auld Scotia, and at ——, too," is referred to in a letter received this week from his sister in Scotland, by a citizen of Peterborough. An armada of ships and convoy anchored off-shore, and a glorious sight met the gaze of onlookers who lined the wharfs and the roads adjacent, watching the liners and warships dropping anchor on that "dry, but very cold, and perfect day."

The cheers that went up from the Canadian lads in khaki could be heard several blocks away from the anchorage, and was re-echoed from the folks who welcomed them, in no uncertain manner.

A rousing welcome was later given the troops as they speedily landed from the tenders and proceeded to the waiting trains for the journey to their camp in England.

"It was a great day—and we thanked our Maker for bringing them in safety here—and to their Ain Countrie, in many instances," concluded the writer.

Gordon S. Matthews Is Re-elected Chairman

Gordon S. Matthews was re-elected chairman of the Peterborough Utilities Commission at Tuesday's meeting of that body.

This is the thirteenth term for Mr. Matthews as chairman of the Board. He has been a member for fifteen years.

His father, T. Frank Matthews, now a resident of Toronto, was also chairman of the Commission for many years, first as head of the Water Commission and later when the electric department was added and the name of the body was changed to its present form.

WOMEN'S WORK AND INTERESTS

DOROTHY DIX

Wives Who Fear An Uncared-For Future Should Study The Art Of Housekeeping From a Professional Standpoint And Their Worries Will Be Ended.

EVERY woman who is married to a man whose earnings do not permit him to establish any security for his family lives with the cold fear gnawing at her heart of what would happen to her and the children if he should die.

In her imagination she sees herself, as she has seen so many other widows, helpless in the face of the catastrophe, that has befallen her, with no education, no trade, no profession, no talent by which she could support herself and those dependent upon her, and their slowly eating up the little insurance money that was left after the funeral expenses were paid.

And after that, what? The tragedy of breaking up her home. The horror of dependence. The humiliation of accepting grudging charity and being "poor Maryed" by her family. The agony of seeing her children hungry and ragged and slipping deeper and deeper, day by day, into the abyss of poverty. She has known so many weeping women like that, desperate women who did not know which way to turn to make a dollar. They had gone from the school room to the altar. Their only occupation had been that of wife and mother and housekeeper and that did not fit them to compete in the business world with alert young girls with their specialized trainings.

Their old fingers were too stiff to gain speed on a typewriter. Their old brains that had thought of nothing for years and years but baby formulas and making over the Sunday pot roast for Monday's dinner were not quick and accurate enough to meet the demands of the modern office. They were not pretty enough to be an attraction behind a counter. And so they faced the bitter truth that there is no one in all God's world so helpless as the middle-aged domestic woman who is suddenly thrown on her own resources.

Now inasmuch as so many women face this dreadful fate that they fear so much, and inasmuch as it is impossible for them to leave their husbands and children and homes to study some gainful occupation and perfect themselves in it, it has always seemed to me surpassing strange that they did not safeguard their futures by making a career of housekeeping.

Apparently it never occurs to the average woman that making a home can be a lucrative profession instead of a chore, and that if she will attain only moderate skill in it she and her children will never be in want, and that if she makes herself tops they may ride in automobiles. Moreover, it is a profession she can acquire in her own home, and while she is pursuing her studies and making her experiments her family will profit by them in happiness and in health.

Every woman who has a gas range and a cookbook has the opportunity to acquire a trade in which she can always cash in in times of need. For the one thing for which every human being will cheerfully pay is good food, and the one profession that is never overcrowded is the domestic one. There is always a crying need for good cooks.

"Oh, but somebody will say: 'Look at the women who start boarding houses and fail!' Certainly. But they fail at running a boarding house just as they would fail at anything else—because they are incompetent. Because they do not know how to cook, or serve a meal, or manage; or they are too lazy to do it, or have the false pride that makes them call their boarders "paying guests." And even at that the boarding house is their best bet, for it feeds and shelters their children and they could not possibly do that at any other occupation. And any woman who runs a good boarding house, who is an artist with the pots and pans, and who serves her boarders delectable meals invariably grows rich and has her house crammed to the doors.

Also, if a woman in her prosperity is noted for being a marvelous housekeeper and serving dinners that should be eaten on one's knees, she does not have to look for a job when evil days come to her. Employers are beating a path to her door because there is a never-filled need for women with grace and refinement and social experience, plus an expert knowledge of how to plan and superintend the preparation of good food, to fill paying positions in hotels and clubs and schools. So I urge every woman to make a profession out of housekeeping. It is the best security she can take out.

DEAR MISS DIX—I am a girl of 13. My parents are divorced and I live with my father and his wife. Every Sunday I go to see my mother. Mother spends the time criticizing my father and when I come home Daddy talks against Mother. This nearly breaks my heart. What can I say to them to make them understand how it hurts me for them to abuse each other?—MARY LEE.

ANSWER:

Tell your mother that you love her, but you love your father also and that it breaks your heart to have her say unkind things about him. And tell your father the same thing. Tell them both that it is hard enough on a child to be deprived of its natural right to a peaceful home, with both a mother and father in it, without her being torn to pieces between them. It is jealousy that makes them do it.

Canadian Apples Rank High In World Trade

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 17 — (ENS).—A discussion on Apples formed the timely and interesting topic at the monthly meeting of the Seymour East Women's Institute, which met at the home of Mrs. George Craighead. Mrs. William Hume led the discussion, in which nearly every member took part. In her remarks she placed particular emphasis on the Ontario apples but generalized to some extent by stating that the Annapolis Valley in Nova Scotia had received world wide importance as an apple producing centre. In Ontario, the principal area of production is the Niagara Peninsula, while moving to the West Coast the prevailing winds provide another important growing centre in the Okanagan Valley in British Columbia. "Canada as a whole produces the world's best apples," she declared. Most perfect from the point of quality, frost resistance and productivity is the McIntosh, which excels as an eating apple. The McIntosh is a native of Ontario, having been first produced in Dundas County by a man of the same name. From it has come many seedlings, one of which the Melba, was first produced by the late Dr. W. T. Macoun, who is a brother of Charles Macoun of Seymour West. During the time he was engaged in his experiments, Dr. Macoun was associated with the Dominion Horticultural Department at Ottawa.

The discussion which followed by Mrs. John Rannie emphasized the qualities of the Talman Sweet, which adapted it particularly as a pickling apple. Mrs. John Thompson spoke of apples generally, outlining their use as a vegetable substitute and in salads. A number of different ways of cooking the tart apples as a dessert were advanced by Mrs. R. Walker, and methods of baking the winter variety were spoken of by Mrs. John Murray.

An interesting part of the program was the table setting demonstration and mock meal provided by five members of the U.R. Welcome group, which is a girls' club affiliated with the Institute. Those who took part in this were Misses Elsie Rannie, Jean Murray, Doreen Pollock, and Grace Ingram. Mrs. Burke Stephen contributed a humorous reading, "The Lizard and the Polar Bear," following which members joined in singing a number of Scotch songs to mark the anniversary of Bobbie Burns. Miss Elsie Rannie assisted at the piano.

During the meeting it was revealed that most members were sewing and knitting in co-operation with the Campbellford and Seymour Branch of the Red Cross Society, and yarn from that organization was distributed among the members by the president, Mrs. Jesse Locke, who presided for the meeting, and Mrs. B. Stephens.

The roll call was well responded to by members, many of whom resolved during the year to do more to comfort the sick by visiting them and also to attend church regularly. Several resolved to endeavor to contribute more to make the meetings of interest.

It was announced that the February meeting would take the form of a Valentine Party for which Mrs. J. Murray kindly offered to loan her home. Members of the Girls' Club were named to prepare the program and Mrs. J. Thompson, Mrs. R. Walker, Mrs. J. Locke and Mrs. B. Stephens were appointed to the refreshment committee.

Cut Down Frills War Slogan Experts Predict

By MURIEL ADAMS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

TORONTO, Jan. 17.— (CP). — The luxury loving Canadian has had to economize on his purchases since war was declared but so far the ordinary home budget has been little affected by price increases.

Caviar will likely be scratched off swanky menus since the cost of the little black luxury, imported from Russia and Finland, already has trebled in price. Some imported cheeses are harder to get than before the war and special jams, marmalades and sugared fruits are higher or the luxury list.

Tea and coffee are costlier because of increased duties, sugar is up about 50 cents per 100 pounds, and butter is up about five cents a pound. But most household groceries are lower in price than a year ago, balancing the total cost of living to about its pre-war level. Experts predict there will not be the sharp advance in prices there was in the last war because many products are under control of government agencies.

Importers of special food brands say their stocks do not average an increase in price of more than five per cent. but there will doubtless be a larger increase shortly because of war-risk insurance and other war expenses.

Effect On Imports.

Perfumes are hitting the higher brackets and many imported French scents are becoming scarce. Jewelers believe their business will not suffer materially during wartime. New sources in neutral countries have been discovered to replace the novelty and jewel wares usually imported from European countries now at war. But orders of china, glass and silver are filled more slowly because of transportation difficulties.

Wardrobes may be more expensive for the person who likes tailored English suits made-to-measure for there will undoubtedly be a delay in filling orders and shipping materials. French model gowns will not be so readily available as war progresses. But the average woman can find plenty of bargains in dress salons where prices are still within her reach. Stockings are a bigger worry than ever for women. Their cost has jumped 10 per cent and is still advancing.

Mrs. R. H. Turner Re-Elected President Of Red Cross Successful Year Reported

Satisfaction with the success of the financial canvass undertaken by the Peterborough branch of the Canadian Red Cross Society at the time of the National appeal was made was expressed at the annual meeting of the local branch on Tuesday afternoon in the Public Library. The campaign total at the close of 1939 was approximately $28,000. In her annual report, Mrs. H. R. H. Kenner, secretary, remarked that the Society attributed much of the success of the enterprise to the inspirational addresses given at the opening public meeting by His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor, who was accompanied to the city by Mrs. Matthews, and Colonel Baker. The organization of the campaign was undertaken by the Advisory Board, under the chairmanship of His Honor Judge Smoke and conducted by a committee capably directed by D. T. Diplock.

The extension and readjustment of Red Cross workers everywhere to gird themselves for wartime service has entailed much thought, time, and labor, and it is a source of general pride and satisfaction to know that this organization has been successfully carried out, both nationally and locally, and that now war work is in full swing, but without curtailment or suspension of necessary peacetime obligations, Mrs. Kenner said.

In order to cope with the increased work and responsibilities which Canada's entry into the war brought upon the Society, she explained, the National Red Cross sought to extend its organization and to form new branches and War Work Committees in the smaller towns and villages throughout the country. The aid of the older established branches was sought in this work, and the Peterborough Branch did its utmost to co-operate in this respect, and to lend all aid possible. Correspondence was entered into with fifteen municipalities explaining the procedure of organization and the nature of the work, and in seven of these, Red Cross branches have been set up, while in most of the others, War Work Committees are established. In addition, the president, Mrs. R. H. Turner, and other members of the executive, have personally visited and spoken at ten different centres where war work was being instituted, and were able to render assistance in the formation of working groups.

Committee Reports.

Reports of the various conveners in connection with the Society were presented at yesterday's meeting. The Relief Committee, under the leadership of Mr. R. M. Glover, had a variety of applications for assistance to consider throughout the year, which entailed considerable investigation before help was meted out. Favorable consideration was given to those who were not on city relief, but who were in a straitened state through unavoidable circumstances. The same committee undertook this year, at the request of Red Cross Headquarters and the Government, to ascertain through the assistance of the various churches and organizations those in need of a greater supply of butter, and gave out orders for its distribution. Three hundred pounds of butter were given out in this way.

Under the experienced convenership of D. A. Loomis, the work among ex-service men was capably carried out, with 130 interviews; 78 soldiers assisted, and 22 visits made to soldiers' homes. With the improved social and economic conditions, it was found possible this year to limit the assistance given to ex-service men living in Peterborough, and the amount spent on this type of relief amounted to $196.45.

Mrs. C. Graham, reporting for the Purchasing Committee, said that substantial Christmas parcels containing new warm clothing and good used articles of apparel were provided for families recommended by Headquarters to the consideration of the local branch. Altogether, eleven families were cared for; seven in 1938 and four in this past December, totalling in all 54 persons. Christmas work of the two seasons also included a dozen well-stocked baskets sent out in co-operation with the city relief to families who otherwise might have fared slimly at the festive season.

The Visiting Housekeeper Service was continued, though the need for the service seemed to be less insistent or widespread. Mrs. C. Ray is in charge of this branch. Mrs. F. J. Lynch, outlining the activities of Home Nursing, said that two sessions of classes were held during the year. Early in 1939 three classes were organized. After war was declared, renewed interest in the work necessitated the organization of another series of classes, in which the registration was 275. Mrs. Lynch was assisted in this work by Mrs. W. Perks; for the Work Room, Mrs. C. B. Muir gave an excellent report of sewing completed, and listed the various organizations assisting; 1,494 knitted articles, of which 1,250 have been socks, have been received by the Wool Committee, of which Miss Helen Munro is convener, assisted by Mrs. John Mills. Since the committee was formed in 1939, 1,100 pounds of wool have been purchased at a cost of $1,216.16.

Three Consignments Shipped

Mrs. Ray, in her report of the Packing committee, said three different consignments had been sent out. Arrangements were made with the head offices of the C.P.R. and C.N.R. by the Provincial Red Cross to carry war supplies by freight, free of charge; of the total of 6,351 pledges received, 2,128 were still outstanding, T. Mackay said in his campaign report.

Mrs. R. H., Turner presided for the meeting. It was decided, on the suggestion of Mr. Loomis, that an amount of $50 be set aside by the society to be used for the purpose of supplying school children with milk if present funds do not hold out.

Officers of the local Red Cross Society for 1940 are as follows: Honorary president, Mrs. R. Harstone; president, Mrs. R. H. Turner; 1st vice-president, Mrs. G. B. Boucher; 2nd vice-president, Mrs. C. Ray; secretary, Mrs. H. R. H. Kenner; treasurer, Miss E. Warren.

Officers of the Advisory Board: W. C. Ackerman; W. R. Breyfogle; R. S. Cotton; R. Denne; R. M. Glover; James Hamilton; W. F. Huycke, K.C.; F. D. Kerr, K.C.; D. A. Loomis; T. Mackay; V. J. McElderry, K.C.; A. Mowatt; G. H. Thompson; Judge S. L. Smoke; R. H. Turner; D. T. Diplock.

Because of the increase in the society's activities since the outbreak of war, a large executive was appointed this year. Members are: Mrs. John Mills, Miss H. Munro, Mrs. C. B. Muir, Mrs. C. Graham, Mrs. W. Perks, Miss W. Rush, Mrs. F. J. Lynch, Mrs. F. Hooper, Mrs. Joseph Mills, Mrs. H. Fitzgerald, Mrs. S. L. Smoke, Mrs. G. Matthews, Mrs. W. Blackwell, Mrs. R. T. E. Hicks-Lyne, Mrs. F. Reduce On a Low-Calory Diet

A miracle? This transformation of Mrs. Buxom, size 40, into Mrs. Slim, size 36? No miracle at all—it's just what happens when you follow a sane and healthful low-calory regime.

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Thursday, January 18.

Very productive and enterprising conditions are presaged for this day, according to the lunar and mutual aspects. There may be much stress and excitement, probably in the effort to put over new and original programs. The mind will be attuned to surprisingly novel and constructive levels in fresh fields.

Those whose birthday it is may look forward to a very progressive and productive year, with much energy and talent applied to putting over major programs. Originality novelty, and improved techniques will attract proper support and capital for promotion. The mind will be keyed to innovation and creative ability, receiving due recognition and profit. Personal affiliations also give happiness and gratification.

A child born on this day may have much creative ability and originality, with a definite trend toward the new, untried, and novel or modern, in art, science, philosophy, invention or romance.

Peace Offer Made To Gen. Kai-Shek

SHANGHAI, Jan. 17—(CP Havas)—Wang Ching-Wei, prospective head of the new Japanese-sponsored central Chinese Government, today telegraphed an appeal in General Chiang Kai-Shek to join him in making peace with Japan.

Wang declared Japan had offered peace terms which would "preserve national liberty and allow China's reconstruction on the basis of Sun Yat-sen's principles."

"In the present internal conditions in China and the International situation, it is not possible to win by fighting to the end," Wang's telegram said in part. "You know it and I do not need to insist upon it. You also know that the whole people desires peace. Nevertheless, it is indespensable that the entire country be united to re-establish peace. The people hope the Japanese troops will evacuate China as rapidly as possible. Japan does not want to maintain troops outside its territory any longer than is strictly necessary. But is it possible to speak of evacution if you continue resistance?"

Mother Asks $25,000 For Baby-Switching

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 17—(AP)—Mrs. Frances Mahoney, 20, declares that as the result of a hospital mix-up she never will be certain whether her son was the baby with the red hair or the one with black.

The former juvenile actress said in a deposition she gave in her $25,000 damage suit against a hospital yesterday that a son was born to her September 12, 1938.

A nurse showed her a red-haired baby and told her it was hers, she testified, but five hours later brought a black-haired baby for her to nurse. When she left the hospital; she was given the red-haired boy and has cared for him 16 months.

Mrs. Mahoney expressed her willingness to give the red-haired baby back and take the black-haired one, but declared the uncertainty has caused her great mental torture.

Mrs. Anna Boaz, the other mother in the baby mix up, sued the hospital also, but has settled the case out of court.

"TELL-BILL GOODBYE"

By Marie Blizard

SYNOPSIS

The CHARACTERS:

FABIENNE SEYMOUR, rich, young and beautiful.

NICKY BARTLETT, wealthy and in love with Fabienne.

ELLEN CHAPMAN, young and capable mistress of Willoughby House.

DR. BILL MALLORY, close friend of Ellen's.

YESTERDAY: Bill takes Fabienne to her hotel, after they had trimmed Ellen's Christmas tree, and his good-night kiss, on her cheek, surprises and disturbs her.

CHAPTER SEVENTEEN

CHRISTMAS DAY dawned cold clear. At noon, when Fabienne Seymour awoke, the sun had melted the night's snow and splashed in broad golden beams into the bedroom where she lay.

In the first few moments of waking it seemed like any other day. Then her eye fell on the unopened packages in their bright wrappings and she realized that it was Christmas and she was all alone. Because she had never before been sorry for herself, she did not recognize the emotion that came over her.

Scampering across the floor to gather up those parcels and bring them back to her bed for opening, she had little interest for what she was doing. Even the sight of the handsome gifts—frocks from Gertrude in Paris, gloves and lingerie from the same source with the twins' name childishly scrawled on cards from Switzerland, a brocade evening bag from Dick, and a litter of small gifts from friends in New York—could not life her from her depression.

She ordered breakfast and dressed hastily, trying on the frocks. One was a lovely thing, a frock of tulle the same pale gold as her hair. She was taking it off when the telephone rang the first time.

"Darling, it's Camilla," the voice said. "Whatever are you doing in New York? . . . and without waiting for an answer, "Ned saw you at midnight mass and I took a chance on calling you. . . . We're having a small party tonight. I want you to come in."

Fabienne looked at the golden gown and her spirits went up. "I'd love to," she said promptly.

Do you want to come alone? Or will I have Ken Hemingway call for you?"

"I'll come alone," Fabienne said.

The party wasn't until late evening and the whole blank day stretched ahead of her, but now it didn't seem interminable.

The telephone rang again. It was Ellen to ask her for Christmas dinner.

Fabienne hesitated, though of the things she wanted to remember from the night before, and declined with thanks. It would be better to be alone.

But what does a girl do when she is all alone on Christmas day?

Fabienne dressed in her smartest suit, slipped a silver fox cape over it, tilted a dashing hat over her brown, pinned on the corsage that Uncle Mark had wired to her, and ordered her car.

She was going to Willoughy house.

She parked the car a block away and let herself in the big front door. Contrary to what she had expected, no voices echoed through the halls. There was only Miss Porter there and two very old men, who dozed in the reading room.

All the world stayed at home on Christmas Day.

Fabienne went up to the office where she had left her work. Work was a panacea for loneliness.

She took off her hat and threw it on the chair with her fur cape. Then she sat down at her desk and took a folder of papers from the drawer. A letter from Anita Cheeseborough, which announced that she planned a gift of fifteen hundred dollars to the settlement house, lay on top of all the rest.

Fabienne put it aside. Ellen had told her that it's use would rest in Fabienne's hands. She had plenty of time today to consider it and she meant to.

"Hello, Miss Seymour!"

Surprised, Fabienne looked up to see little Rose Riccio standing in the office doorway.

"Hello, Rose. Merry Christmas! And what are you doing here today?"

Rose's eyes were rimmed with red. "The old man's raisin hell, so I got out," she said with simple candor.

"Oh!" Shocked, Fabiene was unable to offer any comfort.

"So if there's anything I can do to help you, I'd be glad to. I ain't got anything else to do."

Acting on impulse, Fabienne said, "You can keep me company, Rose. Have you had your Christmas dinner?"

Rose gave her an eloquent glance and shook her head.

"Would you like to have it with me?"

"But—but—" Rose turned bright pink with pleasure.

"Come on, Rose. Get your hat. We'll go to a movie and then we'll have a real dinner with turkey and plum pudding and . . . and conversation."

The movie and the dinner, handsomely served in Fabienne's apartment were a great success. Conversation was not so easily achieved, however. Rose, in the presence of unfamiliar surroundings, was stricken dumb with admiration and social embarrassment.

In an effort to find a common ground for talk, Fabienne said, "Rose, I want to ask you for some advice. We're going to have a gift of a few hundred dollars to spend at the house. We want to do something for young people like yourself. For both boys and girls. We thought of putting a removable dance floor over the cement floor in the gymnasium. What do you think of the idea "

Rose's coal black eyes danced. "You know what I think, Miss Seymour? It would be swell if we had a real little theater! Not just the auditorium. But a place where we could have real shows and dramatic clubs and things like that. Anyway, the gym is too small to make much of a dance floor and it ain't cosy there. But if you had a theatre and could take seats out. Gee, a lot of the kids in our neighborhood would like to be actors. You know real prize fighters and real artists started from classes and if we had . . ."

Fabienne's enthusiasm took fire at once. "Rose, you may have a wonderful idea there! And tonight I'm going to see what can be done about it. You're a bright little girl."

Ken Hemingway would be at Camilla's party and Ken was an archiect.

Ken would be delighted to go down to Willoughby House the next morning and give her an estimate after looking over the layout, he told her when she explained her idea.

There wer four rooms on the top floor that would make an ideal little theatre. They could knock out walls—

Ellen joined Fabienne and Ken in their enthusiastic exploration.

"It would cost about two thousand," Ken estimated.

"We could make up the extra five hundred somehow," Fabienne promised. "We're getting fifteen hundred. How soon could be begin?"

Two days later, when Ken brought hastily drawn plans down to Willoughby House, Ellen had to tell them that they could not manage it. Mrs. Cheese borough was very sorry, but she found that she would have to postpone her gift for an indefinite time.

Apologetically, Fabienne told 16-year-old Rose that their fine plan had fallen through.

Rose was to play a more important part in her life than she realized The girl was a living symbol of the responsibility that Fabienne had taken on, for all that she thought that she could give only what and when she wished to give.

The high-spirited girl who had gone to work in a settlement house to pay off her resentment toward her mother was developing into a woman who could never again consider herself apart from her fellow human beings. Their troubles were to be forever after her own.

She knew it the night that she went out with Drusilla and Tomm Ryan.

"Let's go see jitter-bugs!" Drusilla proposed after a dull movie. "There's a cheap dance hall over in the Fifties they say is a real dive. Shall we?"

It sounded amusing. Fabienne thought it was until she saw Rose Riccio, with a highball in her hand, sitting between two Filipino boys.

She went directly to the table where the girl sat and said, "Rose go home. You don't belong here."

Rose's cheeks were bright and her eyes were defiant. "Beat it," she said thickly. "Go home where you belong, Mrs. Silver Foxes! I gotta have some fun, don't I? It's my own business what I do, ain't it? This is no settlement hours I do what I like here. Scram."

"The Authority on Authorities"

THE MARGIN OF SAFETY

IT IS, OF course, a general principle of contract that you and your partner want to bid up to game whenever game can be made. But when no game is in the deal, you should ordinarily prefer to buy the contract as cheaply as you can. Thereby you may possibly eke out a smaller score "below the line" than if you were a bit higher, getting perhaps a partial score of 60 instead of 90 toward game, but you add an element of safety which you may require. How badly you feel when you bid three, only to find that you could barely have made two!

	♠ Q 7 5 3 ♥ J 10 8 ♦ Q J 6 ♣ 10 9 7
♠ K 9 6 ♥ Q 7 6 4 ♦ K 10 7 2 ♣ 8 2	W. N. E. S.	♠ J ♥ 5 3 ♦ A 9 4 3 ♣ A Q J 6 5 4
	♠ A 10 8 4 2 ♥ A K 9 2 ♦ 8 5 ♣ K 3

(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

South began this rubber deal with 1-Spade. West passed and so did North, although he could have been pardoned for giving a single raise if he knew South as a very conservative bidder. East kept the bidding alive with 2-Clubs, whereupon South showed his other suit at 2-Hearts. This time North came in with 2-Spades, a mere shift from 2-Hearts and not in any sense a raise.

This encouraged South to make a mild try for game with 3-Spades, which North passed, and at that it was played. As the cards lay, the declarer lost one trick in spades, one in hearts, two in diamonds and one in clubs, so was down one. Had he not given that unjustified raise, he would have made a contract of 2-Spades and a nice little part score.

Had South figured a bit, he would have realized that his own hand was good for about three tricks in spades, two in hearts and probably one in clubs, a total of six. To take ten, he would have to find four in the hand of North, who had passed his opening bid and therefore could not have any such strength.

British Flier Captured

Sergeant Herbert Ruse, CENTRE, a British aviator, is shown with his German captors at an unnamed air base, after he was taken prisoner during an air battle over the North Sea on December 18. Ruse was piloting a Wellington bomber which was set afire by attacking planes. He managed to land the craft on a German island, but was the only one of the crew to crawl out alive.

Nazi Demands And Allied Blockade Complete Nightmare To Balkans

NEW YORK, Jan. 17 — (AP). — The jittery and highly vulnerable Balkans are engaged in a desperate economic warfare which is playing an important and, perhaps, decisive role in the struggle between Germany and the Allies.

The pounds sterling and francs lavishly spent, the pyramiding threats and pressure strains, the trouble-breeding spies and propagandists, and the revived traditional jealousies of the land-hungry Balkans daily add fuel to the conflict they fear will leave the map of South-eastern Europe unrecognizable.

Germany's mounting demands for more and still more food and munitions, conflicting Russian and Italian dreams of empire, and Anglo-French blockades and manoeuvres designed to isolate the Germans politically and economically area fashioning themselves into a Balkan nightmare.

Political unrest sprouting from their strangled trade and enforced economies, racial minority dangers, and enforced and ruinously costly mobilization of armies add to the Balkan headaches.

The Germans have broadcast that their major aim in South-eastern Europe is to have the Balkan nations maintain peace and neutrality so that they may continue supplying Germany with food and munitions. Rumanian's oil is essential to German's preparedness for the spring.

All Balkan countries have bowed to German demands, sending increased quotas of products and granting Germany more favorable exchange rates.

Before the war Germany dominated Balkan trade, at times accounting for more than half of the nations' commerce, taking Balkan tobacco, wheat, raisins, fats, oil, and meat, and paying for them in iron, steel, coal, sugar, chemicals and manufactured products.

Nazis Handcuffed.

Blockaded by sea, severely handicapped in overland transportation, and lacking foreign exchange, Germany is no longer able to purchase and transport Balkan products in quantities needed.

Trade and commerce are an immediate economic necessity for every Balkan country and neutral observers expect the policies and ultimate position in the European struggle of each will hinge largely on which warring aggregation provides the greatest practical assistance.

Turkey's trade with Germany (50 to 60 per cent. of its total) has been cut off by the blockade. The British and French have pledged Turkey liberal economic and financial assistance. In return for Turkey's signature to a pact guaranteeing passage of Allied vessels through the Dardanelles, Turkey has been granted armament, trade and currency stabilization credits of approximately $200,000,000.

The Balkans, working like beavers to satisfy the Allies and Germany, are praying that the war will soon end.

Friends Shower Mrs. C. Foster At Millbrook

MILLBROOK, Jan. 17—(ENS).—The Parish Hall of Trinity church, a short distance west of the village, was the scene of a happy social gathering on Friday at 8 p.m., when friends of the entire neighborhood gathered to do honor to Mrs. Charles F. Foster (Jean Todd), a bride of recent date, and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Todd, highly-respected residents of that community.

When all had gathered, the guest of honor was invited to the platform, and presented with a miscellaneous shower, Mr. Roy Marshal reading the appreciative address, and the daintily - arranged gifts being brought in by Henrietta Wood, Muriel Powell, Dorothy Porter, Hazel Morton and Barbara Patton.

Suitable reply was made by Mrs. Foster, and after the pleasant task of opening the many parcels and reading the enclosed cards, had been completed, and the singing of "For they are jolly good fellows," Mr. Foster being included with his bride in the enjoyable occasion, lunch was served by the committee in charge, Mrs. R. Wood and Miss Mildred Wood, assisted by others.

The party concluded with dancing for which the Porter family supplied music. Mr. and Mrs. Foster are residing on Anne street, Millbrook.

Birthday Party.

Miss Mary Smith observed her seventeenth birthday with an enjoyable party at her home, Bank street, on Friday at 8 p.m., a 'treasure hunt' out of doors, with the guests divided into two groups, and games and contests after return was made to the house, being outstanding features of the occasion.

Mrs. Russell Smith assisted her daughter in receiving her guests, and at the supper hour, Mrs. Alex Miller helped the young hostess and her mother with the service of refreshments.

A highlight of the evening was was the presentation to Miss Mary of a dainty Adrienne set; cards and dancing, after the supper hour, completed a very happy party.

The guests included: Misses Marjorie and Beatrice McDowell, Leitha Edworthy, Eleanor Bigelow, Mary Armstrong, Dorothy Sisco, Lois Paul (Port Hope), Helen Ellsworth and Messrs. Earl Edworthy, Wilmott Widdis, William Kerr, Ken Little, Joe Armstrong, Ken Morton, Jack Whittington, William Sayles, Byron Foster, Morris Nelson and Peter Paul, the two latter of Port Hope.

Budget Estimate Slashed For FDR

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—(CP).—Denying funds for two agencies created by President Roosevelt, the House of Representatives' Appropriations committee slashed budget estimates for the government's "independent offices' to-day by $43,492,166.

In recommending that Congress appropriate only $1,100,212,307 of the $1,194,704,473 asked by Mr. Roosevelt, the committee trimmed $75,000,000 from the Maritime Commission's estimate of $200,000,00 for the ship construction fund.

The National Resources Planning Board and the office of government reports — formerly the National Emergency Council—were the agencies denied funds by the committee.

The committee turned down President Roosevelt's request for $1,060,000 for the planning board and $1,055,000 for the reports office with the explanation that it could not find nothing in "legislative history" authorizing their existence.

Toad Buried 20 Years In Cement Wakes; Turns Natural Color, Goes Back To Sleep

CROWELL, Tex., Jan. 17.—(AP).—Airles Joe, an old toad that slept 20 years in a concrete slab, went back to sleep to-day.

Rival of old Rip, the Eastland county horned toad that assertedly dozed 31 years in a granite stone, Airless Joe is not interested in anything but sleep.

Henry Ashford, newspaperman, says Airless Joe rolled out of a concrete slab, white and apparently dead. But thats the way old Joe sleeps—soundly.

The sun awakened him; he blinked and changed his color, blushing that folks caught him napping.

W. H. McGonagle of Hobbs, N.M., admitted sealing a frog in cement 20 years ago. He thinks it was a "dirty deal" but old Joe semed to enjoy the quiet rest.

Airless Joe belongs to the Genus Bufo, a leaping type of amphibian that burrows in the earth at day and prowls at night.

Scientists disagree whether a frog could live in stone for any length of time. Most argued that the toad woudd die.

Owners of old Rip and Airless Joe's new friends argue these two freaks did not "croak" for lack of food, water or air.

It is known toads hibernate and often share the winter quarters of a prairie dog or a few snakes, all of which sleep through the cold months.

Old Rip, pulled from a courthouse stone in 1928, died in receivership after several claimants laid hands on him.

Airless Joe? He's sound asleep behind the newspaper office.

New Safety Fuel Developed For Airplanes

DETROIT, Jan. 17—(AP). — By making airplane fuels almost as easy to handle as ordinary kerosene, engineers have taken a step toward a reduction in the hazard of fire aloft.

The development of "safety fuels" for plane engines was described today in a paper by two oil development company engineers, Robert E. Ellis and William J. Sweeney, presented before the annual meeting of the Society of Automotive Engineers.

The United States navy is experimenting with such fuels for greater safety in the operation of the planes based on its aircraft carriers.

Concurrently, experiments are being carried on with direct fuel injection engines, which have no carburetors, because gasoline which will not explode or ignite readily in a crash fails to vaporize like that in the ordinary automobile engine.

Gasoline more nearly crash-proof than that normally used in aviation engines is produced, Ellis and Sweeney explained, by raising its boiling point or volatility.

Moreover, they said, enough of it appears to be available to "satisfy the aviation industry for many more years of expansion." Possibly other uses will be found for safety fuels, they added, such as in boats equipped with gasoline engines.

Adding to the interest of the commercial airlines and the armed services in safety fuels and fuel injection engines has been the discovery in recent years that power increases of as much as 10 per cent. have been obtained from engines of that type for a given amount of gasoline.

Judge Francis Bergan, citing Miss Murray's "singular" lack of interest in the boy, son of Prince David Mdivani whom she divorced in 1933, decided he should remain in the custody of a family in nearby Averill Park.

How Canada's Jews See The War Loan

OTTAWA, Jan. 17 — (CP). — For Canadian Jewry participation in the first Canadian war loan represents "an investment in freedom—a bond against bondage," Samuel Bronfman of Montreal, president of the Canadian Jewish Congress, said to-day in a message to Jews of Canada.

"Here we of our own free will lend our money; there it is ruthlessly taken away. Here the voluntarily mobilized savings of the people are dedicated to the decent way of life; there the confiscated necessities of regimented subjects is spent upon the dissemination of hatred and the financing of Hitler's aims for world domination."

Allies Loan Turks 111 Millions To Buy Up Arms

LONDON, Jan. 17—(CP)—Prime Minister Chamberlain informed the House of Commons to-day that Great Britain and France signed economic and financial agreements with Turkey at Paris on Jan. 8 providing for a loan of £25,000,000 ($111,250,000) to Turkey for the purchase of armaments, and loans of £17,000,000 for other purposes.

Expressing his sympathy for the Turkish government and people in the earthquake and floods which ravaged Anatolia, Mr. Chamberlain said he was happy to announce that negotiations at London and Paris with the secretary-general of the Turkish Foreign Ministry had been successfully concluded with signature of economic and financial accords at Paris.

"The arrangements are evidently of close collaboration and association in every sphere, which, after the signature of the treaty of mutual assistance in Angora (Ankara) October last, His Majesty's and the French governments have been able to establish with the Turkish government," he said.

In a report on the progress of the war after replying to the personal statement of Leslie Hore-Belisha on his resignation as war secretary, the Prime Minister said "at any time within a few weeks or even a few hours the lull (in military operations) may be broken by events which will reshape the history of the world."

War Loan Goal Draws Praise

LONDON, Jan. 17—(CP).—Canada's $200,000,000 war loan shows the greatness of the Dominion's determination "to play a full part in upholding the liberties of the world" The Times said editorially to-day.

"There can be no question of the ability of Canada to carry an internal loan of this magnitude for the war brings with it a great demand for Canadian foodstuffs and Canadian industrial products," the Times said, citing the great increase in British purchases made in Canada as a result of war requirements.

"The inevitable strain on exchange between sterling and the Canadian dollar it is expected, will be eased by the increase in Canadian purchases in Great Britain, and be offset by Canadian expenditure in Great Britain and France on the account of the expeditionary force.

"The agreement over financing the air training scheme shows that there are always ways of overcoming difficulties of this kind when both sides are anxious to make their co-operation effective. What is certain is that in Canada and the other dominions, as in Great Britain and France, there is the most complete determination not to let the second front line fail the first."

Produce Leaders For Struggle Due Is Challenge Flung Universities

MONTREAL, Jan. 17 — (CP). — Canada's universities had before them today challenges from abroad and at home to produce men of leadership to guide the Dominion through a "long and bitter" war and a reconstruction period that will come with peace.

The challenges were voiced in messages from Major General A. G. L. McNaughton and Sir Edward Beatty, read last night at a banquet tendered Principal F. Cyril James of McGill University by McGill graduates in Montreal.

More than 500 persons, among them presidents of Ontario and Quebec branches of the University's Graduates' Society, attended the banquet at which Dr. James, installed as principal and vice-chancellor last Friday, was the principal speaker.

General McNaughton, general officer commanding the first division of Canada's Active Service Force, and himself a McGill graduate, sent his greetings to the new principal from France.

Democracy On the Spot

"Democracy has been challenged and is on guard. The struggle will be long and bitter, and its successful outcome largely depends on a steady stream of leaders in all walks of life—military as well as civil. For this we look to our universities."

Forecasting the military outcome of the war as a victory for the Allies, Sir Edward sent his message from a Montreal hospital where he is resting under doctors' orders.

"The problems presented by the establishment of lasting peace will be grave—but they will be solved," said Sir Edward who is chancellor of McGill.

"It must be evident that whatever the outcome of the war, and whatever the nature of the political restoration of Europe which is accomplished as a result, we shall face an indefinitely difficult task in the economic restoration, not only of Europe, but of the world.

"In short, if this university is to play its part by providing this nation with the leadership which it will require, it is more than ever necessary that that leadership should be of men trained to consider the whole field of economic problems."

Bethany Guild Curtails Lunch For War

BETHANL, Jan. 17—(ENS)—The Women's Guild of St. Mary's Church, Manvers Parish, held their regular monthly meeting on Thursday at the home of Mrs. Cephas Staples, with eight members present.

Rev. and Mrs. Mason attended the meeting, and Mrs. Mason was unanimously requested to be honorary president, which she gracefully accepted.

The ladies are quite elated that the entire debt against the new covered shed has been fully cancelled.

Ways and means received full discussion for raising more funds to carry on the work. Wool was received and distributed from the Red Cross Society.

At the close of the meeting a sumptuous lunch was served by the hostess, assisted by her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Lawrence Staples.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. A. B. Sisson, Eighth Line, by invitation of the hostess.

For the coming year, lunches will be prepared by the hostess who entertains the ladies, and restricted during war time, to a sandwich and one other item, with a cup of tea. The extra may be the choice of the hostess.

The congregation of St. Mary's will be present at a social reception in honor of the Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Mason on Thursday evening, January 17.

Radium Best Treatment In 3 Sites Of The Body Says Clinic Expert

LONDON, Jan. 17 — (CP). — As a clinician who has worked with radium for 16 years, B. T. Ross, in a letter to the Daily Telegraph has submitted a reply to Sir Leonard Hill's declaration before the Royal Society of Arts that radium is useless in the treatment of cancer.

Mr. Ross writes: "In three sites in the body radium is the best method of treatment and gives far less mutilation than surgery, and in these sites, all very common, its efficiency cannot be replaced by x-rays or surgery.

"Radium treatment is a drastic method of a terrible disease, much more so than surgery, and unless the right dose is given it is liable to be followed by necrosis of the tissues. In expert hands the dosage is now much more accurately ascertained and radium necrosis is relatively rare.

"Radium thereapy is expensive and should, therefore, be used only for cases unsuitable for treatment by x-rays or surgery. The field of cases treatable by x-rays and surgery has enlarged of recent years, while that for radium has contracted, but even so its is essential in certain cases. Radium treatment is available for all the population whatever the person's means."

(The Ministry of Health supplies public clinics with radium purchased in Canada).

"Any surgeon of experience will admit that cancer in its many aspects requires all the weapons that can be brought against it. Surgery, x-rays and radium are those weapons in the order of their applicability, but each case varies and requires the appropriate agent for its relief."

"Fruta Bomba," a recently discovered disease in Cuba, threatens to cause heavy damage to agriculture there.

TERRIFIC FACTORY EXPLOSION ROCKS LONDON

2 Norwegian Ships Torpedoed

British, German Craft Are Mined, Dane Goes Ashore

LONDON, Jan. 18. —(CP)— Germany, Great Britain and Norway today counted new losses of their merchant shipping from mines and torpedoes while a Danish vessel was wrecked on the rocky Norwegian coast.

Norway was the heaviest loser with two vessels reported sunk by torpedoes in European waters. Fourteen of the crew of one vessel, the 1,590-ton steamship Fagerheim, were missing after she went down in the Bay of Biscay on her way from Africa to Britain.

A second Norwegian ship, the 1,140-tan Enid, was sunk off the Shetland Islands, but all her crew was saved.

The German casualty was the 2,342-ton steamship August Thyssen which sank near the Aaland Islands, at the mouth of the Bothnian gulf, after striking a mine believed to be Swedish. The vessel was carrying iron ore from Sweden to Germany.

Crewmen of the 5,494-ton British vessel Cairnross landed at a southwest English port to report their ship sank an hour after striking a mine last night.

The 803-ton Danish ship Olga was wrecked near Torungen lighthouse on the south Norwegian coast.

A group of survivors from a torpedoed Norwegian vessel, presumably the Fagerheim, reached Vigo, Spain, last night aboard the Greek merchantman Iris. Five persons were injured, including the captain who had two legs broken.

Reports were received that a second Norwegian ship, the 1,140-ton Enid, had been torpedoed and sank within the last 24 hours. She was said to have gone down last night off the Shetland Islands, North of Scotland. All her crew were reported saved.

Clarion Manager Stewart Given 2 Years

TORONTO, Jan. 18. —(CP) — Douglas Stewart, 36, business manager of the Clarion, a communist weekly, was sentenced today to two years in Kingston Penitentiary on three charges of printing, circulating or distributing a newspaper or periodical containing reports or statements contrary to defence of Canada regulations. He was convicted yesterday by a general sessions jury.

"If you had been tried in Soviet Russia there is little doubt as to what would happen to you," Judge Ian Macdonnell said in pronouncing sentence.

"I'm not sentencing Stewart as a man who would commit an armed holdup. From his evidence it is not hard to tell that he is a well-educated man. I think he would do it again if given the chance."

"Quite possible, your honor," Stewart interrupted from the prisoner's box.

Stewart pleaded not guilty on Tuesday at which time special Crown Prosecutor Walter Martin said that Sam Scarlett, Joseph Cline and Thomas Sims were charged jointly with Stewart but had not been apprehended.

The jury was told by Mr. Martin that reports or statements objected to were contained in the November 11 issue of the Clarion. Approximately 200 copies of the issue were seized in a police raid on a printing shop here on November 13.

5 Men Killed, 50 Hurt; Fire Follows

Throngs Fill Streets Believing Nazi Air Raid On

LONDON, Jan. 18.—(CP Cable.) —Five men were killed and at least 50 injured in a series of terrific explosions in a London factory today.

Three rapid-fire blasts, felt over a radius of 20 miles, brought thousands tumbling into the streets in the belief German planes were bombing the empire's capital, but police quickly circulated the assurance there had been no enemy action.

Two accidents in other parts of England took three lives and injured several soldiers. An accident of undisclosed nature killed three members of the Queen's Royal Regiment in Dorsetshire and injured a fourth seriously. Several soldiers were injured by a boiler explosion in a garrison in southeast England.

The Supply Ministry issued this communique:

"The Ministry of Supply greatly regret that an explosion occurred this morning at a factory in North London. Five men were killed and a number of employees were injured. Fortunately most of the injuries are slight. Inquiry into the causes of the accident is being made."

Several hours after the explosions flames were sweeping the plant and the loss is certain to be great. Flames leaped high in the air and a pall of smoke covered the area of London's northern outskirts.

Windows of hundreds of residences and other factories were blown in, but the fire did not spread immediately.

Police Claim Accident

While police ascribed the blasts to an accident, a statement by other officials had not been issued up to late this afternoon.

Grave-faced women and other relatives of employees kept an anxious vigil. Police established a cordon a quarter-mile from the plant and it was impossible to determine the full extent of the damage.

The extent of the casualties also was difficult to learn as the plant has its own hospital and the injured were not brought out.

In addition to thousands of windows destroyed, many ceilings collapsed, causing a number of minor casualties. Damage in the surrounding area would have been grater but for sandbags bolstering buildings and ther aid raid precautions.

An idea of the force of the blast was given by Mrs. Harry Hale, who lives two miles from the plant.

Thought Bomb in Garden.

"A terrific boom blew in the front door from its hinges," she said. "I thought a bomb had dropped in the front garden. Many of us raced to A. R. P. shelters."

One of the women waiting outside the factory said: "We shall not know until the shift comes off about 3:30. It is a terrible thing to be kept i nthis suspense."

A former employee of the factory told inquiries that the normal procedure in the event of an explosion was to hold a roll call of every worker.

greenhouses in the district said: "When the first bang occurred I thought it was an air raid. Glass began falling all over the place. I had to dive under a bench for safety."

Another nursery worker 1½ miles away told of this experience: "There was a little dog with me and the explosion lifted him off his feet. A great sheet of flame shot into the air and the blast cut a path through trees and hedges like an express train."

Most witnesses agreed that two big explosions were heard "right on top of each other," followed by a third which was less violent.

Fire brigades were fighting the flames inside the plant.

One woman said the noise was "terrible — indescriable," adding, "We thought it was an air raid and made a bee-line for a dug-out. Five minutes later we thought it was safe to come out and saw a great column of smoke over the works."

Golden Weddings

Newton, Mass., Jan. 18 (AP)

THERE'S nothing unusual about a golden wedding in this family.

Another brother, John W. Gaskin and his wife, will observe their golden wedding anniversary in Gunningham, N.B., Feb. 1, while still another sister, Mrs. Annie Gaskin Taylor of Quincy, Mass., will have been married 50 years in July, 1941.

Mystery Lights Over Bridge Baffle Police

WATERTOWN, N. Y., Jan. 18. —(AP)— The mysterious twinkling of red and green lights seemingly suspended high above the Thousand Islands International Bridge area had New York State Police and border patrol investigators engaged in a stubborn hunt today.

At the same time, Watertown police turned over to the Federal Bureau of Investigation a report that two young men were overheard discussing in German their difficulties in crossing the border into Canada.

State Police Lieutenant L .G. Fenelon said the lights appeared to be suspended from small balloons, and that they had been seen at intervals over a period of two weeks.

Motorists first reported seeing the lights, Fenelon said, and later investigating troopers also saw them, high in the air and on both sides of the United States-Canadian border.

The lights, investigators said, were seen usually between 9 and 11 o'clock at night, hanging high enough so that low clouds at times obscured them. They swayed noticeably, according to some reports, and did not appear every night.

One report described the lights as seen from the International Bridge, between Redwood, N. Y., and Ivy Yee, Ont. One group of lights was seen over Redwood, another over Grindstone Island in the St. Lawrence River off Clayton, N. Y., and a third on the Canadian shore in line with the bridge.

Wild, Wooded Areas

The region at either end of the bridge is wild, rocky and heavily wooded.

Lieut. Fenelon offered no possible explanation for the lights, except to say that they had been studied with binoculars, and that investigators were taking into consideration the possibility of radio-directional antennae, weather bureau balloon instruments, and Canadian army signalling activity in seeking an explanation.

Nor did the state police connect with the lights the report of the Germans' conversation, made by the operator of a roadside lunch stand.

The lunch stand operator said the men, about 25 years old, joked in German about their failure to cross into Canada at Niagara Falls and the Thousand Islands bridge, "When we've been over to Germany and back to the United States several times without passports."

Helsingfors Never Bombed By Reds Says Leningrad; Deny Nazi Press Reports

Msocow Boasts 11 Finn Planes Shot Down During One Aerial "Dogfight"; Apologizes For Item Urging Rumanian Deal

MOSCOW, Jan. 18—(AP).—Soviet Russia today claimed a victory over the Finnish air force—destruction of 11 planes in combat.

The Leningrad military headquarters communique covering yesterday's operations noted scouting and minor artillery and rifle fire in some war sectors and added:

"Soviet aviation made reconnoitring flights and bombed several railways junctions and military objectives. Eleven enemy airplanes downed in air combat."

The attention of foreigners also was drawn to Russian denials of published reports on the war with Finland and Russo-Rumanian relations. In connection with the war reports, the Leningrad command denied that Russian planes ever had bombed Helsingfors.

The magazine Communist International, official publication of the executive of the Communist International, apologized in a new issue for its article of last month suggesting that Rumania sign a pact with Russia similar to those signed by Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania.

The Russian Foreign Office already had disavowed the article as not representative of Russian policy or of "the present state of Soviet-Rumanian relations." The new issue of the magazine carried this note:

"The editors of Communist International consider it a mistake to have printed an article which contained a number of completely incorrect statements. The editors have adopted necessary measures to avoid such mistakes in the future."

Nazi Reports Denied.

The Finnish war reports, one ascribed to a German news agency, another to a nimportant German newspaper and the third to the Daily Herald of London, were denied in communiques relayed by Tass, Soviet news agency, for the Leningrad head-quarters.

It challenged "German trans-ocean news agency reports" that Finns had found the frozen body of the Red army's 44th division commander. Previously a Russian communique had denied Finnish reports of virtual destruction of the division.

The communique contended that the commander, named Vinogradoff, "is now in the area of the 44th division." The same communique also characterized as "not corresponding to the facts" a report attributed to the Daily Herald to the effect that Russian planes had bombed a working class district in Helsingfors.

"Red army aviation has not bombarded and will not bombard the city of Helsingfors, still less the working class districts of that city.

A second communique of denial called a "fabrication" a report it ascribed to the German newspaper Frankfurter Zeitung— that return of the Petsamo arctic region was one of the most important demands of the Soviet Union on Finland in the fruitless negotiations that preceeded the war.

Supplies Cut Off 40,000 Reds Flee Salla Area

COPENHAGEN, Jan. 18—(AP).—Forty thousand Soviet Russian Legionnaires fell back from Finland's Arctic Salla sector today in a general retreat before the twin scourges of the worst winter in 25 years and the dogged pursuit of Finnish troops, according to dispatches reaching here.

The Finnish army communique reported merely that the Finns were "fighting successfully in the direction of Salla," but other Finnish sources said the situation heightened hopes of a new victory.

The correspondent of the Copenhagen newspaper Berlingske Tidende on the northern front said 40,000 Russians were involved in a retreat and that they apparently had given up hope of holding that front for the winter.

Previous Scandinavian reports had portrayed the Russians as bringing up reinforcements for a determined

Poilus, Germans Swap Shells In 3-Hour Duel

PARIS, Jan. 18—(CP-Havas). — A three-hour artillery duel west of the Saar River between French and German guns, one of the heaviest since the war began, was reported by military authorities today.

Despite the intense cold along the entire front, French patrol and scouting activity was resumed at its normal tempo yesterday. The Germans remained behind their lines.

The only German reaction to the forays of the French patrols was a fairly heavy bombardment of French positions, especially west of the Saar River, late in the afternoon. French batteries immediately replied.

The German guns lengthened their range to aim at the French artillery positions and one of the most intensive artillery duels yet recorded took place over a period of more than three hours.

Firemen Battle Warehouse Fire In Zero Weather

With the temperature standing squarely on the zero mark, firemen last night battled a blaze that demolished a large warehouse on Bethune Street, just north of Charlotte Street, and almost directly behind the Fire Hall.

Fire Chief George Gimblett estimated damage at between $2,000 and $3,000. It was the first serious fire in several months in the city.

Origin of the fire is unknown, but flames were first seen about eight o'clock, shooting out of the windows and roof of the frame structure. The warehouse was filled with baled paper and rags, old rubber tires and other junk. The building was owned by Bradburns, Ltd., and the contents were the property of the Peterborough Metal and Waste Company. Both were a total loss. Attached to the building was a coal shed owned by Noel Rishor and leased by W. J. Nelson. It caught fire and was destroyed but no coal was burned. Adjacent buildings were not damaged by the flames.

Firemen fought in the zero weather for several hours to bring the blaze under control and Fire Chief Gimblett kept two watches pouring water into the building all night. He feared another outbreak from the smouldering bales.

Despite the intense cold and the icy water that was whipped back into their faces by a strong wind, firemen did not suffer from frostbite, Chief Gimblett said.

The evening C.N.R. express was halted for some time by hose laid across the tracks while firemen were working.

50 Turks Killed In Second Major Quake

ANARKA, Jan. 18.—(AP)—Turkey's second major earthquake in three weeks was reported today to have killed 50 persons and injured 160 in the Nigde district, some 200 southeast of here.

This district, which escaped the disastrous earthquake of Dec. 28 which killed at least 30,000 persons in northeastern Anatolia, suffered a series of heavy shocks last night accompanied by terrifying underground rumblings.

New Quakes were felt in the devastated region of the December shocks—about 200 miles northeast of the new quake area—but no casualties were reported from there.

Hunter, Frost Hit Ottawa Effort, Hughes Extolled

TORONTO, Jan. 18. —(CP) —For two days the throne speech debate in the Ontario Legislature has been devoted almost entirely to the Dominion Government's conduct of the war effort, rather than to Provincial affairs.

The legislators still were discussing the broadside delivered Tuesday by Premier Hepburn and Conservative leader George Drew when Col. Fraser Hunter (Lib.-Toronto St. Patrick), a soldier with a long record, opened up yesterday in a renewal of the criticism of the Dominion administration's war policies.

Col. Hunter said, as he resumed the throne speech debate, that Canadians were wondering at scarcity of evidence of Canada's war activity. People were beginning to feel, he said, that not all the information that might be given was being given to the public.

"In this war it will go hard with politician or the party seeking selfish advantage," he said. "Our people will stand for no more Lindsay hierarchies with their trail of graft and waste of young life, their Ham and Ross rifles."

Not Hughes but Flavelle.

Leslie Frost (Con. Victoria), interpreting the Lindsay reference as being to the late Sir Sam Hughes, who was Minister of Militia from 1911 to 1916, rose to Sir Sam's defence. He was assured that the reference was not to Hughes but to the late Sir Joseph Flavelle.

Canada's chief contribution to world sanity and peace will be to put her youth into the skies, said Col. Hunter. She must work her way out of the "Bow-and-arrow" stage. Canada should get busy making tools and dies to produce the machines of victory.

"Canadians in every sphere still wonder how it is that little actual evidence in the way of equipment for our troops or serious expansion of the arms industry, which is to make us the arsenal of Empire, ex-

A written confession he had given Provincial Police on the day of the fatality had been under dispute at the trial. Mr. Justice J. G. Kelly is presiding. The case is expected to go to the jury this afternoon.

TrapperBreaks InsulinHypo Needle Dies Before Pal Can Bring Aid

MATTAWA, Ont., Jan. 18 (CP)— The frozen body of Charles Loveridge was brought here last night by Game Warden Dave Gauthier and Thomas Montreuil, a guide, from Timber Lake, about 25 miles northwest of here, where Loveridge is believed to have succumbed from diabetes after he accidentally broke the hypodermic needle which he took insulin treatments.

Loveridge went into the bush last Thursday with Hubert McLeod, Huntsville trapper. On the way in Loveridge broke the hypodermic and, unable to continue insulin treatments, he collapsed Saturday and was unable to move.

McLeod left immediately for help but the rescue party found Loveridge dead in his tent on Tuesday morning.

Dr. A. J. Bergeron, coroner, said a post mortem would be held today to determine definitely cause of death but it was not nown if an inquest will be conducted.

Tough 6-Mile Trek

The rescuers told of a gruelling six-mile trip through broken country to reach the dead man's tent.

"We had to break trail all the way after we left the railway," said Game Warden Gauthier. "The trail had to be brushed out in several stretches, fallen trees had to be cleared away and when we reached the camp we were all in."

When the rescue party caught sight of the tent, they realized they were too late.

"We could see the snow on the tent and knew the fire had been out for some time," said Guthier. "We found Loveridge dead, his body frozen stiff. There were no tracks on the snow outside, so it seems certain he had not been out since Sunday."

Loveridge came to North Bay several years ago from the Orillia district. He is reported to have relatives living near Coldwater but their names are not known here.

No Other Method

TORONTO, Jan 18 (CP)—Commenting on the death of Charles Loveridge, a diebetic is believed to have died in his bush camp when a broken needle prevented him from taking vital insulin treatments, University of Toronto medical authorities said today they knew of no other method than the syringe and needle for administration of the serum.

Loveridge's body was taken into Mattawa late last night by a rescue party who found him frozen stiff in his camp 25 miles northwest of Mattawa. A companion told of the accidental breaking of the insulin needle.

The medical authorities said it was usual for diebetics using insulin to carry spare needles and a spare syringe.

Canadian, Australian Warships On Patrol Off 'Frisco Stop Columbus Crew Sailing

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 18.— (AP)—Reports that two Australian and one Canadian warships were patrolling the coast apparently caused cancellation of plans for 512 Nazi sailors to sail from San Francisco today for Germany via the Orient.

The Germans, greater portion of the crew of the Nazi liner Columbus, scuttled in the Atlantic last month to avoid capture by a British destroyer, seemingly were headed for government detention quarters on Angel Island in San Francisco Bay.

It was arranged originally that the Nazis should leave at noon today on the N.Y.K. liner Tatuta Maru for Japan, from where they would go to Siberia and eventually to Germany. N.Y.K. officials, however, said the ship would sail without the Germans.

The change in plan was attributed to waterfront reports that two Australian cruisers and a Canadian destroyer were cruising 100 miles outside San Francisco, ready to remove the Nazis from any ship on which they might sail.

King, Queen Tour 50 Miles of Troops Never Reach Canadian Division

ALDERSHOT, England, Jan. 18.— (CP Cable)—The King and Queen spent more than four hours today among their subjects in khaki who have been undergoing rigid training under the Aldershot command.

Their majesties did not visit the Canadian divisional area. That will come later. But a number of Canadians had a ringside view along the route of inspection.

In bitter cold their majesties toured informally more than 50 miles of troop-lined highway, many miles of which were covered on foot. They visited parade grounds, messes, cookhouses and billets. They inspected the men together and occasionally separately, the Queen meeting officers and men from famous British regiments while the King strolled along the ranks.

Wherever the royal couple went they were greeted with roars of cheering from the troops and shouts of "God bless you" from civilian spectators.

The King was in the uniform of field marshal with riding breeches, knee boots and British warm. The Queen was dressed in a royal blue ensemble with matching hat and blue fox fur. On the side of her hat she wore the badge of the Black Watch regiment of which she is colonel in chief.

There was no attempt to stage a colorful spectacle. The troops, wearing great coats over battle dress or kilts, lined up on either side of the road as Their Majesties strolled past, chatting with officers and men and occasionally shaking hands with them.

From time to time the Queen stopped to ask a Highlander about his clan, how long he had been in the army, and how he liked it. Before leaving the Scots she wished them good luck and God speed.

Although it was one of the bitterest days of the winter the Queen removed her fur half way through the tour. Later she discarded a silk scarf she was wearing. Spectators apparently felt the cold more keenly as they stood by the roadside bundled in scarves and furs, and with blankets wrapped around their legs.

Their Majesties had lunch with the general officer commanding the Aldershot command, Lieut.-General Charles Broad, and then resumed their inspection. Before they took leave the men gave Their Majesties three rousing cheers while massed pipers and drumers played "Happy We Men Altogether."

Britain Opens Bigger Shipyards

Program To Guarantee Nation, Troops Empire's Supplies

LONDON, Jan. 18 — (CP). — Acceleration of shipbuilding to-day topped long-range plans being shaped by Great Britain to multiply her war power by spring.

Other measures reliably reported to be claiming attention of the War Cabinet include higher barriers against imports of non-essentials and rationing of supplies other than foods already on a quota basis.

The Government is considering rebuilding shipyards out of use since the depression to supplement those already hammering away at full speed in a drive to build more vessels to carry supplies to the British Isles.

The importance of the battle of blockade, and strategic trading with neutrals, was emphasized by Ronald Cross, Minister of Economic Warfare, in the House of Commons yesterday.

In his first speech as a minister, Mr. Cross said Germany already was "in something like the same economic stress she was in after two years of the last war."

And, he added, "we look forward to the day when we shall so have throttled Germany's economic life that it can no longer sustain her war effort."

Mr. Cross said trade agreements had been concluded or were being concluded with 14 neutrals.

Touching on the contention that Great Britain should buy at high prices and sell at low to drive Germany from foreign markets, he said that in peacetime some of the deals would "make sober business men shudder."

While the shipyards are turning out new ships, the old ones are being armed to defend themselves against attack. Unofficial reports said more than half of the country's 3,000 merchantmen had been armed and the others would have guns in a few weeks.

A British embargo on American tobacco for an indefinite period, and substitution of Balkan and Turkish tobaccos in blends, was indicated by a statement of Arthur Donn, director in several companies.

"The Government has very wisely decreed that in order to conserve the country's supply of American dollars we should cease to import American tobacco and has hinted this embargo may remain for an indefinite period," he said.

Two members of parliament, Hugh Dalton, labor, and Robert Boothby, conservative, urged yesterday that Britain may buy her tobacco from European and near Eastern growers. Most of the tobacco imported by Britain hitherto has been Virginia-grown.

Bancroft Area Roads Piled High With Snow

BANCROFT, Jan. 18 — (ENS). — Bancroft has at last had a real taste of Old Man Winter. The heavy snowstorm and high wind which struck this district over the week-end left 8 inches of snow in its wake, which was readily piled into drifts with the wind.

The Department of Highways plows have done splendid work in keeping No. 62 Highway from Madoc north in a first-class condition. Side roads are real heavy.

Four Court Cases.

Bancroft Police Court Tuesday disposed of the following cases by Magistrate J. L. Lloyd:

Wilfred Maxwell, Walter Maxwell of Bancroft and Charles Trumble of Gunter were assessed $10 and costs for breaches of the Highway Traffic Act.

Ben. D. Roberts was sentenced to two months in the county jail in Belleville on a charge of keeping for sale. He was taken to Belleville Tuesday afternoon by Constable Stan. Palmateer.

Cory Neal of Coe Hill was assessed $5 and costs for common assault.

Fred Reynolds of Baptiste was assessed $5 and costs for cruelty to animals for throwing an axe at a cow.

British Empire Will Survive War With Hitler

Britain will survive the war with Hitler because the charter of her liberty and the principles on which her constitution is founded are based upon the everlasting covenant made by Almighty God with the Abrahamic stock for ever; because the British Empire and kindred nations are Israel, and therefore on the oath of Jehovah she must survive and form the nucleus of the coming new world order.

In brief those words embodied the answer given by Rev. E. J. Springett, Dominion Commissioner of the British-Israel World Confederation of Canada, in his address at the Collegiate Institute last night. Major A. R. MacNab was chairman and the attendance was in excess of four hundred persons.

Rev. Mr. Springett said that the present period might well be regarded as the most momentous in the history of Christian civilization, and that the spring of 1940 would probably witness the launching of the fiercest attack on it ever recorded. The object of the attack was nothing less than the destruction of the British Empire, which meant the destruction of the main bulwark of our Christian civilization. In the face of the expressed determination of Hitler that by an accumulated armed strength unparalleled in extent, the question might well be asked, "Can Britain survive? Is the Empire going to fall?"

Take 2 British Empire

Rev. Mr. Springett traced the march of empires represented in the past by Assyria, Babylon, Ledo-Persia, Greece and Rome, and spoke of their modern types coming to an end between 1914-18. The British commonwealth of nations was unique in the history of the world. There never had existed previously a company of autonomous nations bound together by no legal tie, but inseparably welded together by the loyalty and affection manifested to the throne and its occupant.

The fact that Great Britain gave birth to the United States of America, a great people basically of the same racial stock, having the same democratic principles, was also emphasized by Rev. Mr. Springett. The United States with the British Commonwealth represents the only practicable and worth while league of nations.

"Unless we win this conflict civilization is no safer on the North American continent than it is in Europe," he said. The people of the United States need to realize this truth."

Rev. Springett is giving another address to-night on the subject, "After the War, what?"

Canada Picks Up War Loan In Record Time

OTTAWA, Jan. 18—(CP).—With investors continuing to order war bonds despite the 25 per cent. oversubscription of the $200,000,000 issue, Hon. Charles Dunning, former Finance Minister, and Hon. Raoul Dandurand, government leader in the Senate, thanked Canadians for their financial support.

In a speech from Ottawa over the national network of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, Mr. Dunning said the success of the loan was an encouragement to the Allies and a blow to the foe.

Speaking from Montreal over the C.B.C. French network, Senator Dandurand said the oversubscription of the loan in two days was "the most momentous economic mobilization in Canadian history."

The Bank of Canada issued a statement which said the loan was oversubscribed in the shortest period ever experienced for a loan of such size in Canada.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, Jan. 18 — (CP). — Last minute firmness left wheat futures prices at practically unchanged levels when operations ended on Winnipeg Grain Exchange to-day. Earlier, values had displayed small losses when buyers withdrew from the pit but the trend stiffened and quotations closed unchanged to ⅛ cent higher, May at 87, July at 87⅞, and October 89 cents.

Chicago wheat prices hovered around previous closing levels while Buenos Aires values were ¼ to ½ cent down at 3 o'clock.

Coarse grain operations uncovered good mill purchasing in oats and also some fair buying in barley. Cash wheat trade remained unimportant.

For 35 Years J. W. Byers Has Acted Secretary Of Knox Congregation

In spite of the intense cold a very representative group of Knox United Church congregation met to hold their annual meeting on Wednesday evening in the Sunday School room. A feeling of optimism and conviviality prevailed throughout the meeting as past achievements were reviewed and future plans were laid.

Rev. V. E. R. Zufelt presided as Moderator and J. W. Buyers was re-elected secretary, a position, it was pointed out, which Mr. Buyers had held on successive appointments since June, 1905.

The first report submitted was that of the Clerk of Session, Arthur Pitchford. This included a general review of the spiritual life of the church as evidenced in what had been done as well as a restatement of our loyalty to the Empire and the cause of spiritual liberty for the future. "We feel that progress has been made in all departments of our work," said Mr. Pitchford, "and to sum up, we feel there is a real spirit of harmony among our workers." The statistical report of the Session revealed that 20 members have joined the church on profession of faith, 19 by certificate, and one on reinstatement, a total of 40, while 7 had been removed by death and 7 by transfer, thereby showing a gain of 26 members and a total membership of 460. The minister had officiated at 22 baptisms, 18 weddings, and 14 funerals. The list of deceased members was read, and the meeting stood for a moment in respectful memory. Ernest Benson reported a balance of $5.00 in the Session fund.

Particularly gratifying were the reports of the various missionary organizations, practically every one of which met its allocation this year. Mrs. Long, secretary, and Mrs. English, treasurer, reported a very active year for the Women's Missionary Auxiliary. Besides raising $161.70 sent to the Presbyterial secretary, these ladies had sent away a bale valued at $54.00 in goods and supplied other organizations with helps of various kinds. Miss Mary Morton reported intensive activity on the part of the Helen Roger Auxiliary which exceeded its allocation of $175.00, having sent in $185.32. Miss Marjorie Lewis reported that the Frances Watt Mission Circle had reached its allocation of $50.00, sent a bale to Western Canada valued at $6.15, and won the "Efficiency Banner" of the Presbyterial. Nor was the Mission Band to be outdone for they also secured special Presbyterial recognition, met their allocation of $20, and provided generously to the needy. This report was submitted by Miss Inez Barrer, Mission Band leader. Miss Jean Trotter, treasurer of the C.G.I.T., group (affiliated with the W.M.S.) reported that their group had raised $27.61 during the year, and besides aiding in many local ways, had sent $7.00 to missions. The report of Alexander Gillies missionary treasurer of the church, was warmly received when he disclosed that the allocation had been more than reached—the amount subscribed being $707.00.

Harold Murduff reported increased membership and missionary activity in the Sunday School—a total of 340 teachers and officers, with $263 contributed to local purposes and $88.00 to missions.

The choir report submitted by Miss Helen Ward showed a year of loyal and devoted service. In appreciation for these efforts the Board of Management and Session were authorized to tender a banquet in honor of the choir. William Potter, organist and choirmaster, warmly accepted this motion of appreciation.

Mrs. W. R. Wedlock tendered such a commendable report for the new ladies' bowling club that it was suggested that Alderman McCannan, treasurer of the men's bowling club should confer with them in the matter of finance. The ladies had an income of $35.85 with expenses of 35c, while the men's income was $55.01 with an expenditure of $32.72.

Marjorie Lewis reported for the Y.P.U. both a growing interest in the spiritual welfare of the church and satisfactory progress in attaining the objective of $75 for mission and local support. Miss Betty Allen reported that the tennis club was about to go under Y.P.U. management with a balance of $11.89.

Mrs. Joseph Lancashire gave a secretarial report of the Women's Association showing a year of increased activities and widened interest. The treasurer's report, submitted by Mrs. M. J. Laing bore this out. The association has taken in over $1,100 during the year and has a balance of $134.46 on hand. This fine accomplishment was ao ɔɟoɔ ʇuıpunɯ ʌ ɟq pɔɟpɐ|ɐoʊɹ appreciation by the men.

J. W. Buyers, secretary of the Managers, reported good progress made by that organization, the main accomplishment having been the redecoration of the Lecture Hall. The church treasurer's report was then submitted by Howard Clegg. The income for the year amounted to $4,545.88, thus enabling the Management Board to show a balance of $119.71 at the end of the year.

The following were elected to office for new terms: Messrs. McCannan, Davis, Lockie, Ralston, Hall, Garside, Wedlock, Thompson, and Darling to the Management Board; A. Gillies, mission treasurer; Mrs. H. Fry and Mrs. H. Baptie, representative to the Anson House Board; H. McCannan and J. Allen, representatives to the Y.M.C.A.; and A. Pitchford and A. Whyte as auditors. The representative to the Hospital Board is to be appointed by the Managers at their first meeting of the year.

Before the meeting was closed a motion of appreciation and high praise was moved to the minister of the church by A. Pitchford. It was heartily seconded by J. W. Buyers, and the motion was unanimously adopted. J. F. Morrison putting the question.

Problems Of War Bring New Jobs To Busy Capital

OTTAWA, Jan. 17—(CP).—Creation of a dozen new public service bodies to handle war problems and the vastly increased activity of the defence department have filled practically all available office space in Ottawa and a new, temporary office building being rushed to completion will not prove sufficient to meet the demand for quarters.

This is the most striking transformation the war has wrought in the capital, apart from the presence of so many uniforms representative of all arms of the service.

While there has been a sharp jump in the numbers of those working for the government in civilian occupations, only about 30 per cent of those engaged on special wartime tasks are newcomers. The remainder have been drafted from the permanent civil service.

Even the fact that 30 per cent of the personnel of newly-created public service bodies are newcomers will not bring a corresponding increase to the monthly payroll in Ottawa. It is estimated that more than 100 occupying high positions in the various war effort agencies are "dollar-a-year-men" who are either giving their services free or are being paid by the corporations with which they were associated before the war.

While there is much midnight oil burned in the offices on Parliament Hill, particularly in the east block which houses the offices of the Prime Minister, external affairs department, and finance department, there is little outward evidence of extraordinary activity.

Touring Curtailed

For years the Hill has been the most popular attraction for tourists from early spring to late fall. At the height of the season as many as 10,000 people have been shown through each day in the centre block which contains the peace tower, the memorial shrine, the senate and commons chambers of offices of the members.

On that foggy morning of September 3, when Great Britain declared war, lettered placards were hung quickly on all entrances to the centre block forbidding admission to any except those on duty. This ban has been maintained rigidly and it put an end to the heaviest influx of visitors in the history of the building.

Even with the season so curtailed 1939 brought 153,000 visitors to the centre block as compared with 140,000 for all of 1938. Admission to all public buildings has been restricted since the outbreak of war. This precaution reflected the apprehension of officials who remember the mysterious fire which destroyed the original parliament building with the loss of several lives early in 1916 during the First Great War.

Ottawa will probably notice war conditions most during the winter because of the curtailment of social activities which distinguish life in the capital. The Drawing Room, most brilliant event of the season, has been cancelled and most organizations have decided their annual dances and receptions should be dropped during the war.

$60,000 Blaze

MONCTON, N.B., Jan. 18—(CP).—Damage estimated at $60,000 was caused last night by fire that destroyed two buildings and damaged a third on the lower section of Main street here.

Tobacco Surplus Proves Big Worry

SIMCOE, Ont., Jan. 18.—(CP)—Southwestern Ontario tobacco men watched Ottawa today for developments in conditions arising from the surplus of the 1939 flue-cured crop.

Wilson H. Mills, Liberal member of Parliament for Elgin, left St. Thomas last night to confer with Hon. J. G. Gardiner, Dominion Minister of Agriculture, and was joined en route by leaders of a group organized by J. E. Carter of Guelph and William Sutch of Tillsonburg, who seek new marketing methods.

In a series of meetings through the tobacco belt, Carter and Sutch have urged that a separate grower's organization be set up to present their problems to the governments. They have asserted that grower representatives on the Ontario flue-cured Tobacco Marketing Board have not always been in complete sympathy with the producers' attitude.

At the same time Prof. Archie Leitch, chairman of the Ontario Flue-Cured Tobacco Marketing Association, told the Norfolk county Chamber of Commerce at a banquet meeting last night that the war and three big producing years had been responsible for this year's crop surplus.

Do It Right Away

There has been much in the press about the Canadian-British bacon deal by which Canada has agreed to supply 4,480,000 pounds of bacon per week and Britain has agreed to take up to 5,560,000 pounds per week, but the Ontario Government knew nothing of it officially. The Provincial Department of Agriculture was never notified of what was taking place. That was the plain statement of Hon. P. M. Dewan, Minister of Agriculture, when the Legislature's Committee on Agriculture was in session.

Mr. Dewan said the packers knew all about it, and he could see no reason why the producers should not be in a similar position. Certainly it would be necessary to confer with the packers if their plants were going to handle the increased production, but there can be no increased production to go to the packing plants until the increase comes from the producers.

We are not at all partial to that word "co-operation," probably because it has been used so many times where it means little or nothing, but in the absence of anything better it can be made to do service once more. If there is going to be a great national effort then it would be the part of wisdom and common sense for Ottawa to touch into action every known agency which might have anything to do with the matter.

Ontario is the greatest bacon-producing province in our Dominion, and Ontario has a close-knit organization covering the province through its Department of Agriculture. It has facilities in existence for reaching right out to the farms which the Dominion Department of Agriculture does not possess. In fact it is difficult to think of any department which has the machinery in existence for a close tie-up with the farmers which would equal that of the Provincial Department of Agriculture.

And yet Mr. Dewan says he had to get his information from the newspapers or dig it up as best he could. And that is not right. The best way to get the maximum amount of effort from a man or a department is to call the responsible man in and tell him what is going on and ask him to help in getting it done. Give him something to do; make him feel he is in the midst of things rather than on the outside. And Ottawa, hearing the statement of Mr. Dewan, should not be too much concerned about explanations. The thing to do is set the matter right by at once asking Mr. Dewan to sit in and use his well-organized department to secure a great deal more bacon than is presently in sight.

So This Is Russia!

There was a time when men went forth to fight their battles. There was not in existence then the means for inflicting damage on people and properties some distance from the scene of conflict. Those who went to battle were the ones in danger, and those who remained home were comparatively safe.

Today it is different. It has been 51 below zero in Finland and Russian planes come over to bomb Finland. Yesterday it was the small village of Ekenas, a place where there are 700 homes and no military equipment, and few men of fighting age. Most of the folk there are women and children and men advanced in years.

That is what we have today in warfare. The Russians bombed the place until fully one-half the homes were destroyed. How many were killed we do not know.

But the women and children who managed to escape death from the air would be forced out into weather so cold that we have nothing to compare with it. Likely their supplies of food would be destroyed. Their supply of winter clothing would be destroyed with their homes. They would be forced to seek shelter where they could while the Russian bombers would wing their way home and report the success of their operation.

So war today is not a case of men going forth to battle. It has degenerated to a state where a nation considers it proper to attack and bomb women, children and old men in their village homes where they are unprotected and where they have no means of fighting back or escaping. Defenceless people must be killed because they are residing in the land of the enemy.

And that program of slaughter is being engineered and carried out by Russia.

And Russia is the land to which our Communists in this country used to point as the place where there was some superior form of government, one which considered the mass of the people rather than the favored few.

And Russia is the place which used to inspire the movement which would sprawl its form of government over the world, and we had people in our own land who were silly enough to sing something about the Red Flag. The Red Flag—dipped today in the blood of women, children and old men in the villages of Finland!

Better Forget It

The bill which would force Ontario municipalities to have a two-year term for councils has been laid aside for a year. Hon. Mr. Cross explained that the bill was optional, and any municipality desiring to vote itself out of the scope of its operations was at liberty to do so. And that is not entirely consistent with the general theme which was to save municipalities money by having fewer elections.

The reason for scrapping the idea was explained this way: It is the duty of a government to lead public opinion, not divide it. And as explanations go that is probably as good as any other.

The truth would be that those responsible for the introduction of this needless measure in the first place had become convinced that the people of the province wanted nothing to do with it.

Assurance is given the thing will return a year hence, but it will be no more welcome then than now, and now it is not welcome at all.

If the Premier and his colleagues want to know the truth it is simply this: The people of the province are certain they have a sufficiency of laws now. We are somewhat cluttered up with them, and want no more. Certainly the people do not want to see the Legislature making more powers for itself because the Legislature already has all the power required, and at times it appears to have too much.

Higher Farm Prices

Robert Gardiner is president of the United Farmers of Alberta and at the annual meeting in Edmonton he had opportunity to make the presidential address. He selected a topic which has been before farmers a long time—better prices. Mr. Gardiner turned toward the Federal Government and insisted the matter should be arranged there. It had been possible to so arrange matters that there was preferred treatment for manufacturers, and the same thing should be done for farmers, although the average farmer does not care much for the preferred treatment of the manufacturer—otherwise known as a tariff.

Mr. Gardiner says an agricultural board should first ascertain the cost of producing farm produce, and the next step would be to set minimum prices which would have to be paid for such produce. There is hardly room for argument on such a thing being desirable.

A number of Ontario farmers will recall readily enough when there was a a movement in this province for bookkeeping on the farms, and the idea was sound as could be. There are a number who have continued the plan.

But the farmer could do little with his information after he had secured it. Undoubtedly the farmers in Alberta would be interested in wheat. The farmer finds his costs of production, or the proposed agricultural board would do it for him. To his cost price he would be entitled to add something for profit. He would then know what his selling price should be, and the government might even pass a regulation saying it should be $1.08 per bushel.

So far everything has been fine. But when the serious business of selling takes place the world market might say the price being paid for wheat was 84 cents. Then what? The world buyers invade the 84-cents market and there they make their purchases. The fact that the proper price as revealed by investigation in Canada is $1.08 per bushel means nothing at all so long as there is plenty of 84-cents-per-bushel wheat in sight.

We have to remember that there is a new wheat crop coming in on world markets almost every month of the year, and also that the great bulk of our wheat production has to be exported. That is why we would have preferred seeing Mr. Gardiner extend his proposal to the point of showing how it could be made to work. It would be the rebirth of our agricultural lands if the plan could be made to work, but how to so plan that we could successfully ignore world prices is the point past which we cannot see.

One Health Service

The rapid development of health programs in the public schools of Ontario within the past few years has created widespread interest among all municipal governing bodies and members of the medical profession. This interest has resulted in a still greater co-ordination of the health services in towns and cities.

Peterborough in 1933 took the first step in uniting its health services under one head when Dr. Murray Fraser was appointed full time Medical Officer of Health. Since then under the guidance of Dr. Fraser and the Board of Health progress has been made in the building up of a strong organization. However there still stood on the outside the Board of Education who keep watch over the health of more than 4,000 children in the city's schools.

Dr. A. W. McPherson served long and well as school doctor and the Board wished to make no change or interrupt the service which was being rendered. However with the death of Dr. McPherson the opportunity was presented to finally close this gap in the co-ordinating of the health services in Peterborough. But before anything could be done Dr. Fraser enlisted and a temporary M.O.H. was appointed to carry on for a month.

Municipal bodies never do move very fast and the 1939 Board of Health proved no exception. A fully qualified M.O.H. was not available in Peterborough, hence the Board advertised, receiving four applications, and later advertised again. In the meantime a committee of the School Board met the city's organization and as a result co-ordination was decided upon as advisable with the possibility of a school doctor working under the M.O.H. While waiting for the Board of Health to recommend an appointment an epidemic broke out in some of the schools and the Board of Education felt it could wait no longer and appointed a part time school doctor.

Nothing has been done in the past six weeks towards the filling of this vacancy and it is unlikely anything will be done until spring. However the Examiner believes that even with our nation at war it is no time to let down on the health services in Peterborough and that a fully qualified M.O.H. should be appointed who will further carry on the work of Dr. Murray Fraser. Then the Board of Education could be called in and either the new man take over the school doctor's job or the school doctor and nursing service come directly under the M.O.H.

But should the two offices be united many more difficulties are added. Primarily a school physician and a M.O.H. were interested only in problems of contagion but to this in the case of the school doctor has been added many more problems of equal importance such as physical defects of the children, school sanitation, ventilation, lighting, exercise, rest, fatigue, posture, immunization against disease and abnormal behavior. The school doctor's job today is really a big job.

Could Never Make Peace With Goering

(Kingston Whig-Standard)

TWICE SINCE the outbreak of war there have been strong propaganda campaigns to work up world enthusiasm for a peace settlement on the basis of the retirement of Hitler in favor of Goering. The Allies have many times pointed out that they cannot consider the discussion of peace with Germany until the Government of that country can be trusted not only to abandon its ruthlessly aggression policies, but to carry out its obligations. Almost instinctively, so it would seem on the surface, the public in all countries has thought of Hermann Goering as the only figure among the heads of the Third Reich which would lead the Nazis to international respectability.

Goering is the "moderate" among the Nazis. He is fat and rather childishly foolish about uniforms and display. He is the only Nazi who has ever been seen with a cheerful, open-looking smile on his face. He is less of a fanatic and ranter than his colleagues. He is probably the only one of the three or four major figures of the regime who now has the personal courage to risk his skin in battle if it should be necessary to do so, yet he talks less about war than the other.

Such seems to be about the picture in the minds of those who think that a safe peace could be made if Goering were only in the place of Adolf Hitler. It would be difficult to imagine a more dangerous illusion.

To get a true picture of the real Goering, one has to go to the actual record of the individual achievements of the several Nazi leaders and compare them. In the picture of him that thousands have in mind, most of it built up through years of clever propaganda, only three or four things are true. He does love to eat; he is fat; he does love display; and he is the only really happy member of the Nazi regime. He is thoroughly happy because its qualities, which shock the civilized world and probably bring twinges of conscience to Hitler and others, suit Goering perfectly. Without Goering there possibly never would have been a Nazi regime. He is the man who translated into action the weird and savage visions of the group of thwarted and misanthropic mystics, fanatics and sadists who are his colleagues. His appointment within the last few days as "dictator" of Germany's economy for the duration of the war is the most serious news from the Allied point of view to come out of Germany in some considerable time. In his latest job, it can be taken for granted that Goering will get results which will combat the effectiveness of the Allied blockade to a great extent. Goering is the one Nazi who does get results by strong, ruthless, decisive action. Here are items from his record:

His eduaction from the age of 10 was military. He attended the cadet school at Karlsruhe and the Lichterfelde Military Academy. In the last year he began as an infantry lieutenant, learned flying, shot down more than a score of Allied planes, received the Iron Cross, and finally the highest decoration of the old Germany for valor, the Pour le Merite. After von Richthofen's death, he was appointed to the most spectacular position in German war-time aviation, that of commander of the famous "Air Circus" which Richthofen developed. Years before the name of Hitler was known to two dozen people in Germany, Goering and his old colleagues of the Richthofen squadron had vowed to "liberate" Germany. He eventually meets Hitler, joins the Nazis and secures for them the cooperation and support of certain German financial and industrial groups, as well as sections of the army. In the Beer Hall Putsch of 1923, it is Goering who stands up to the police and is wounded while Hitler escapes by ducking to the pavement. He is for a while an exile in Sweden, takes to dope, and is one of the few people who have had sufficient determination to be cured of the habit. He is one of the first Nazis to be elected to the Reichstag.

When the Nazis finally came to power, Goering set himself the task of secretly making Germany supreme in the air. The diplomats who laughed at rumors of what he was doing behind the scenes by the exertion of almost super-human energy and driving power have since learned that they might have preserved the peace of the world if they had not underrated his abilities. Meanwhile, in the Nazi progress to power, at each stage, if the details of the record are examined carefully, it will be found that Goering was usually the man who provided or was somehow involved in the ruthless, decisive action which unscrupulously turned the scales in their favor. Almost the only thing that the world is popularly aware of in this connection is that a tunnel was discovered leading from Goering's house to the Reichstag at the time of the famous fire.

It was "Fat Hermann" who really organized the Gestapo and put it under the command of Himmler. It was Goering who went to Italy and personally conducted the preliminary negotiations for the Rome-Berlin Axis. It was Goering, more than Hitler, who was strongly opposed to Roehm and Gregor Strasser and the other original Nazis who were liquidated in the blood purge. And it was Goering who personally saw to it that executions were particularly numerous in the famous old military school at Lichterfelde which he had attended as a youth.

He is not a man with whom the Allies can ever safely consider making peace.

• How Nazis Forced Signature

A LEADING life insurance company has subscribed $7,500,000 to Canada's war loan.

Some there will be to think or say that this is an example of this loan being monopolized by "big interests," point to it as showing the "wealth" of insurance companies.

The reality, of course, is the precise opposite. The $7,500,000 subscribed by this insurance company doesn't belong to the company at all, claims Ottawa Journal, but to the hundreds of thousands of its policyholders. It is merely money held in trust, representing the savings of scores of thousands of small investors.

And what is true of the subscription of this particular insurance company will be true of the subscriptions of other insurance companies, of trust companies, of banks. The money they put into this war loan will be the money of all the rest of us; the savings of farmers and artisans and professional people; of estates and of public and private philanthropic and charitable institutions.

That is the way capitalism works. Practically all of the material improvements of our modern civilization, our municipal works, our schools and colleges, our power plants, our various institutions, are made possible for us because of the thrift of small investors united together in co-operative enterprises which loan collective resources to finance life's amenities and comforts — or for a purely national undertaking, such as the prosecution of this war.

Life insurance companies, trust companies, banks, large industrial corporations — they represent anything but the wealth of a few people. They tell the precisely opposite thing of the aggregate wealth of all the people. There are over 6,000,000 holders of life insurance policies in Canada, while the shares of our banks, our railways, and our big financial and industrial corporations are held by hundreds of thousands of our people, the majority of them just ordinarily well-to-do.

The too common notion about "concentration of wealth" is largely a myth. Actually, there are few great private fortunes in Canada today, and with the present tendency, under which taxation is being shifted more and more to the shoulders of those best able to bear it, there will be fewer in the future. The process, simply, is the old one of capitalism (which is merely a by-product of freedom) adjusting itself to changes and new needs.

• How Capitalism Does Its Work

A CLOSER study of the French Yellow-book strengthens one's first impressions that in M. Coulondre France had one of her greatest ambassadors. His dispatches from Berlin were admirable in every way—clear, concise, fully documented, and full of remarkable indications of judgment wherp the fundamental characteristics of the Nazis were concerned. One of the most moving and tragic dispatches of his is that of March 16 describing the meeting at which Hitler forced President Hacha to hand over Czecho-Slovakia.

Hacha and Chvalkovski were received by Hitler in the presence of Ribbentrop and Goering. Hitler brutally announced that there was no question of negotiations. The Czech statesmen were going to be informed of the decisions the German government had taken. No resistance would be tolerated.

For several hours Hacha and Chvalkovski pleaded against this violence and declared that they could not sign the document. If they did they would bring the curses of the whole nation upon themselves. With the energy of which he was still capable Hacha protested against the proposed protectorate and said that no white people had ever been reduced to such a status.

The German ministers were merciless. They literally chased Hacha and Chvalkovski around the table on which the documents were spread out, always pushing them towards them and squeezing pens into their hands. The Germans went on repeating that if the Czech ministers persevered in their refusal half of Prague would be destroyed in two hours by the German air forces — and that that would be only a beginning. Hundreds of bombers were waiting to receive the order at 6 a.m.

M. Hacha was in such a state of prostration that the doctors (who had been there from the beginning) had to keep him conscious with injections. At 4.30 a.m. the old man, more dead than alive, broke down and signed. On leaving the chancellery Chvalkovski said, "The Czech people will curse us, but we have preserved them from a terrible massacre."—Manchester Guardian.

• When Should An Officer Shoot?

A YOUTH having been fatally shot by a Toronto police officer while endeavoring to escape arrest, the statement is made that "It must be borne in mind that it was the duty of the officer to make the arrest, and that duty also required him to use whatever force was necessary to do so."

The circumstances of this particular police shooting ought to be and will be investigated on their own merits, but here is a rule laid down as being, apparently, of general application. And it is not a safe rule, claims the Toronto Star.

An officer, for example, sees a couple of lads snatch fruit from in front of a store and run. In their terror they do not halt when called upon, and they are swifter of foot than their pursuer. Does his duty of making an arrest require him then to use the only force that is immediately available to him, the force of a pistol shot? Obviously it does not. The Star is not suggesting that there is the least parallel between this and the most recent Toronto case. The point under discussion is the principle of using whatever force may be necessary in order to make an arrest. In a vast number of cases it is better to let the fleeing youth escape for the time being than to shoot.

TURNIP WAXING

WHEN some smart person thought of waxing turnips so that they would be sealed with all the natural juiciness, he started something that has grown into a large industry.

Mildmay has a waxing plant and since they have started, the freight business from that town has increased by leaps and bounds. Over 50 carloads have been shipped so far this Fall, and two carloads go out daily, some going as far as Texas. The freight on one of these cars to Texas is $400, so that when this is added on to the turnips and the middleman gets his share for handling, the lowly turnip becomes the caviar of vegetables.

Of course, down south they call turnips "rutabagas," a name unknown to our Oxford dictionary and if they call it that they deserve to pay more for it. Pass up and have another helping of turnips, the vegetable with the vitamins. — Wiarton Echo.

EASY ON SPENDING

WHAT is most wanted in this year's council is not so much ingenuity in the discovery of ways to spend money as more originality in devising ways to cut out expenditure. There must be a moratorium on things which would be "very nice" to make sure that at the end of the war the city will be able to have the things it must have. Perhaps some of our thoroughfares are not as commodious as they might be, but they have served their purpose so far and can continue to do so until we get out of the woods. As long as they are kept in repair, the improvement into thoroughfares de luxe can wait over for the present.—Toronto Telegram.

THEY ALL PAY

EVERYBODY is taxed now — and everybody knows he is taxed—if he does not know it, he must be blind and deaf—but there is no evidence of any keener interest in Dominion or provincial or municipal government than there was in the days of our fathers and grandfathers when there were no war taxes or income taxes or nuisance taxes.

Most of us show a certain mild interest in public affairs about election time and at other times we remain indifferent, even though we know our indifference is costing us money. There are so many things to think about besides taxes, and most of the other things are more pleasant. — Vancouver Province.

COMRADE STALIN

STALIN is not finding anything to brag about in his war against Finland. But he swept everything before him last week when he was a candidate for a seat in the Moscow city Soviet. All of the 2,972 electors in the district voted for him. The result was described as a brilliant victory. But it was not won over anybody as no opposition candidate was allowed to take the field, and there was great risk involved in failing to exercise one's franchise.—Edmonton Journal.

A Bible Message For Today . . . .

Then cometh Jesus from Galilee to Jordan unto John, to be baptized of him. But John forbad him, saying, I have need to be baptized of thee, and comest thou to me? And Jesus answering said unto him, Suffer it to be so now; for thus it becometh us to fulfil all righteousness. Then he suffered him.

And Jesus, when he was baptized, went up straightway out of the water: and lo, the heavens were opened unto him, and he saw the Spirit of God descending like a dove, and lighting upon him: and lo a voice from heaven, saying, This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased.—Matt. iii, 13-17.

TIME TO GO HOME

I SPENT most of last week in a British minesweeper, seeing how the Navy tackles this unspectacular, though vital, job of work....

A few weeks ago, a ship in this flotilla had just finished a clearing sweep. She was the last ship in the line and the others were waiting for her to get her sweeps in. As the sweeps came in a mine was found to be foul in the kite. Every known manoeuvre to clear it was tried without success.

Finally, there was nothing for it but to cut the kite adrift. With the mine in it the kite ran down the sweep wire and hit the bottom where the mine exploded uncomfortably close to the ship. Not content with that, it touched off three other mines in quick succession which were apparently also foul in the sweep.

But the climax came when the captain was making up his mind whether or not to put about and recover his drifting float. Suddenly, without any warning, the float itself was blown up by a fifth mine. Whereupon, the senior officer of the flotilla solemnly signalled: "I think you'd better come home now."—Bernard Stubbs, in Listener, London.

BANKRUPT

One midnight, deep in starlight still,
I dreamed that I received this bill:
"To....In account with life:
Five thousand breathless dawns all new;
Five thousand flowers fresh in dew;
Five thousand sunsets wrapped in gold,
One million snowflakes served ice-cold;
Five quiet friends, one baby's love;
One white-mad sea with clouds above;
One hundred music-haunted dreams
Of moon-drenched roads and hurrying streams;
Of propheseying winds and trees;
Of silent stars and browsing bees;
One June night in a fragrant wood;
One heart that loved and understood."
I wondered, when I walked at day
How in God's name—I could pay.

Reformers Force 2nd Primary In Louisiana

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 18—(AP)—Democratic primary election returns drifting in from county parishes today whittled down a substantial lead built up in New Orleans yesterday by Governor K. Long, seeking to continue in power the political dynasty founded by his brother, Huey.

It was indicated the combined vote of the four "reform" candidates would make a second primary necessary on Feb. 20. The 12-year old dictatorship never before has had to go into a runoff election.

In second place, well behind Long, was Sam Jones, a lawyer who was being challenged for the runoff position by State Senator James Noe former Long lieutenant who broke with the administration after Huey's death. James Morrison, Vincent Moseley, both lawyers, were fourth and fifth respectively.

The New Orleans vote, expected to favor Long because of the organization headed by Mayor Robert S. Maestri, was tabulated quickly but country precincts counted votes for local officials before the state ticket and returns came in slowly.

The statewide vote at 5 a.m. (6 a.m. EST) (500 of 1,703 precincts): Long 80,292, Jones 48,098, Noe 36,964, Morrison 3,799, Moseley 1,272.

Many disturbances marked balloting in New Orleans and numerous charges were made of vote fraud but the election, on the whole, was quiet. One stabbing was reported in the country.

Two Fine Addresses Given Hastings Y.P.S.

HASTINGS, Jan. 18.—(ENS). — The Young People's Society of Trinity church held their first meeting of the year on Monday evening, with the devotional period in charge of Mrs. J. E. Glover, who gave a talk on the Lord's Prayer.

The program was in charge of the citizenship conveners, Miss Helen Glover and Mr. Carman Metcalfe and included a reading on 'Citizenship' by Mrs. Iden Bonds, Jr.; a solo by Mrs. Everett Hess; topic by Mrs. Sine on "Having a Good Time," with dialogue parts taken by Mrs. E. Hess, Miss Margery Scriver, Miss Helen Glover and Miss Claudine Hoard.

Following the program a recreational period was conducted by Miss Glover.

A special feature in connection with next Monday's meeting will be an address by Robert Spence, of Lakefield, president of the Peterborough Presbytery Young People's Union, who will speak on the World's Youth Conference at Amsterdam. Special invitations are extended to the young people of the Anglican and Presbyterian societies to attend. Mr. Spence's address will be illuminated with slides.

On Monday, Jan. 29, the Norwood society will be present and a debate held between two speakers from Norwood, and Miss Helen Collins and Kitchener Smith of Trinity church.

Germans Save Fuel With Bombers Run By Diesels

DETROIT, Jan. 18—(AP).—A description of 250-mile-an-hour German bombing planes equipped with Diesel heavy oil, instead of gasoline, engines was given the annual meeting of the Society of Automotive Engineers today by Paul H. Wilkinson, New York consulting engineer.

Not only do the engines use a fuel injection system which obviates the necessity for carburetors, Wilkinson said, but by equipping their airplanes with them the Reich makes a marked saving in fuel.

He estimated that 100 bi-motored German bombers use five tons of fuel less each hour than 100 similar machines equipped with regulation gasoline engines.

Heavily in favor of the Diesel engine, he emphasized, was the reduced fire hazard in the air.

The Diesels used for bombing planes in Germany, Wilkinson said, developed 1,000 horsepower. France is experimenting with aircraft Diesels of even greater horsepower. A 16-cylinder, water-cooled Clerget Diesel recently completed under government supervision is designed to develop "at least" 2,000 horsepower.

Noting that the United States War Department had ordered a number of engines of American design, known as the Guiberson Diesel, for use in tanks, Wilkinson's paper observed that the only aircraft Diesel development in the United States "about which it is permissible to give any details" is that by the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics at Langley Field, Va.

Wilkinson characterized as "promising" the results obtained with a single-cylinder, air-cooled test engine at those laboratories.

CAMPBELLFORD PUCKISTS CHALK UP SHUTOUT IN T.V.L. VICTORY

Beat Stirling By 2 To 0 In Fast Game

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 18 — (ENS).—In their drive toward a Trent Valley League playoff berth, the fast-stepping Campbellford Sunocos hung up their second shutout of the season in Stirling last night with a 2-0 victory over the Stirling squad.

Camping on Goalie Fox's doorstep all evening, the Sunocos had a good edge on play, despite the low score. They notched one halfway through the second and another early in the third for their margin. The small ice surface at Stirling proved ideal for the Campbellford checking and back-checking once they built up an edge. Play was speedy and good most of the way with only four penalties handed out. While beaten, the Stirling crew made it a neat battle a good part of the route.

Score In Second.

After a lively but scoreless opening period, McIlrath put the visitors 1-0 ahead with a nice effort, aided by Hendy. They clinched it after four minutes of the third heat, when Free slapped home Hendy's rebound at practically point-blank range. After that, Campbellford held off the belated Stirling attack to come home on top. The winners were without two of their star forwards in this tilt, Robinson and Blake. The outstanding players, apart from both goalies—who looked good—were Hendy and McIlrath of the visitors and Morton and Bernard of the homesters. The teams:

Campbellford.—Goal, Donald; defence, Courch and Wilkes; centre, Hendy; wings, McIlrath and Free; alternates, Kelly and Atkinson.

Stirling. — Goal, Fox; defence, Jones and Walker; centre, Armstrong; wings, Fraser and Bernard; alternates, Morton, Long, Dainard, Mays and Richardson.

Referees.—R. Ennis and J. Hulin.

Summary

First Period:
No score. No penalties.
Second Period:
Campbellford—McIlrath (Hendy) 8.30
Penalties—Hendy (2), Morton (2).
Third Period:
Campbellford—Fee (Hendy) .. 4.00
No penalties.

May Be St. Louis' Headaches

Favorite for the National league pennant this summer will more than likely be St. Louis Cardinals, but before the season gets under way, Branch Rickey & Co. will probably have a few headaches (plus appropriate newspaper space) in signing their Nos. 1 and 2 players, Joe Medwick, ABOVE, and Johnny Mize, ALONGSIDE. Medwick has been the big punch of the team for six seasons, but Mize has been right behind him, and after finishing second in the race for the batting championship in 1937 and 1938, won the crown last year. With that record he is expected to ask for about the same salary as Medwick, although even that is not tremendous, considering what either of them would be paid with another team.

Lakefield Wins Over Oakwood

LAKEFIELD, Jan 18. —(ENS) — The Lakefield intermediates broke into the victory column in Oakwood last night with an 11-6 O. H. A. intermediate "B" win over the homesters in a lively contest. It was the first win in three starts for the Northerners and puts them back in the group race. They were minus Ohittick and O'Leary for this contest, but Pearson made his first appearance of the season in the line-up.

Cournyea sparked Lakefield to the victory with four goals in a fine performance, though he also drew a major penalty for slashing. He, McDougall, Mortimer and Creighton shone for the winners, with goalie Windsor turning in a brilliant effort from start to finish as the husky homesters battled back every inch of the way. It was a fast, clean tilt with both sides drawing four penalties. Lakefield is at home to Sutton this Friday night in the next encounter.

20 Years Hidden

BATON ROUGE, La., Jan. 18. —(AP).—Vernon Howell, noticing his old schoolhouse was being torn down, recalled the silver dollar he lost 20 years ago. It had rolled behind a classroom baseboard. Now 20 years later, Howell dodged through debris of his old classroom, dashed behind the ripped-up baseboard and came up triumphantly with his "cartwheel."

Lakefield High Beats Havelock

LAKEFIELD, Jan. 18. —(ENS)—In a Trent Valley Interscholastic League game here, the Lakefield High School defeated Havelock 4-3. The Havelock team was much heavier than the High School team but the High School showed their superiority in stick handling and combination. Play was very fast on a good sheet of ice.

Earnshow of Lakefield opend the scoring and the High School was leading 1-0 at the end of the first period.

The second opened with Buchanan tieing it up and Jameson putting Havelock one up. Hoffman got the gate for boarding and Skelcher tied it up again and Stewart turned the red light on again just before the bell, to end the period. The score at the end of the second was 3-2 for Lakefield.

The third saw Havelock score another, Yeo getting the goal, this was all the scoring in the third for either team, and the game was called for overtime. Just before the final beel of overtime, Skelcher broke away and scored the winning goal.

The game was well handled by Johnny Sabatino of Lakefield. Birch in the Lakefield nets played a fine game also Loyst and Skelcher with Jameson and Pollock going best for the losers.

The teams:

Havelock: Goal, Copp; defence, K. Pollock and Hoffmann; centre, Jameson; wings, Buchannan and Yeo. Subs, Curry, C. Pollock, Hamilton.

Lakefield: Goal, Birch; defence, Jackman, Loyst; centre, Clarke; wings, Carveth and Skelcher. Subs, Tanner, Earnshaw, Brooks, Stewart.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

A heavy consignment of ivory will be on display in the rubber plantation on the Rue Brock tonight....and by ivory is meant youthful talent aiming to hit the headlines in the not too distant future. Puck talent in this case, since the Industrial Hockey League has a triple-header, running in hourly shifts. Outboard Marines and Raybestos open it up at 7.30, and Rays will be trying for their first win and attempting to apply brakes to ye Outboards. At 8.30, Quakers and Watercraft—both undefeated yet—tangle in what should be a honey of purest clover. And at 9.30 of the clock, Westclox joust with Brintons, the carpet crew on the prowl to crack the win column. Lots of fine action with these squads composed of youthful hustlers seasoned with veteran O.H.A. campaigners.

* * * * * *

Many a puck peach hath bloomed in the Brock St. winter gardens—and many a cauliflower blossomed there, too—in loops similar to the shiny new Industrial League. For a mere pittance, folks can ankle in there out of the wind and toss the orbs on anywhere up to 70 or so players in this triple-header. Shop loyalty and inter-shop rivalry will, na doot, build this circuit up into a real drawing card; and meantime a bunch of guys—who might otherwise have to take their hockey via the customer's viewpoint or by car—can get out there and enjoy this thrilling sport. We're for this shop setup and don't mind boosting it—and we'll do it without getting paid off in rolled oats, alarm clocks, motors, rugs, brake-lining, paddles or side of hog!

* * * * * *

A Mighty Mixup

Oshawa Bees will try to sting the Colts and make it a stampede here tomorrow night. At 8.30 in the Brock St. corral—we call that place everything but a rink, it seems, eh?—in an O.H.A. junior "B" melee. At reasonable rates, reduced from intermediate tariffs, this tilt should pack in the fans like a soup kitchen in the Soviet. On account of it's Friday night (meaning pay night) and also as these teams are easily the two best in the six-team setup. They're undefeated to date and battling for sole possession of the top rung, and this pair will meet shortly in playoffs.

* * * * * *

Now the Bees are in this class simply and solely to provide replacements for the junior "A" Generals of the Motor City. Several are really of class "A" calibre now, and others are nearly ready to step up. As they slaughtered Port Hope recently 20 to 0, folks—and the Colts—must realize how potent a pack or swarm these Bees are. Big, fast and full of fight, but then the Colts are not midgets, slow-pokes nor pansies, either. They'll play hockey any way the opposition wishes to play, especially if it's a rather pugnacious style. Yeah, we like the look of this game in advance and will likely wind up by viewing the junior fray Friday eve and letting the Petes look after themselves 'gainst the Redmen in Bella Villa. Besides, those jump-seats get tiresome.

New Boxing Order

Amateur boxing will be re-organized here right away, under Government supervision, following a meeting in the "Y" last night. Percy Bond, Ontario Athletic Commish supervisor for this district, called the meeting and had a fine response from such men as Chris Graham, Ross Dobbin, G. H. Roper, C.G.E. Club, and several former mitt promoters here. Two committees were formed, one to check upon a big new boxing gym for the city, and the other to get the co-operation of various manufacturing concerns and clubs here. Then they'll hold a big organization meeting to form the new club. It will be a fine thing for the sport—with the boys given first-rate protection in all forms—and should go over okay here. Dope on the meeting is in tonight; more about the sport later.

* * * * * *

First shop skating party of the season last p.m. on Brock St. ice, put on by Westclox, was most successful with some 250 skaters and a flock of spectators. Westclox damsels decisioned Brintons 3-0 in an abbreviated puck match, and a trio of world-famous iced actors—Senor Orville Martin, Signor Fraser Watson and Monsieur Ossie Sloan—staged a skating skit. To use a Finnish phrase, it was salmijaervi—pronounced sahlmeeyalrvee—and possibly meaning supernuts! Jim Anderson, who manages Rays in the Industrial Loop, won the door prize. Incidentally, Raybestos will stage the next skating party and it'll be at the Brock next Wednesday after supper.

As He Viewed It

Quinte scribe boosts highly the work of Irvine and Gibson in the Fliers' win over the Petes. And he addeth: "We sat astounded at the speed exemplified by the Petes, especially in the first and third periods when they applied the pressure. Tompkins missed several scoring chances. Eddie Starr, Bun Kingdon and Les Burton were actually flying on blades and it was only the great work of Gibson that kept these kids from scoring. Defensively, Crowe and Gardner mowed 'em down but, despite the fact the Petes ridiculed Referee Armstrong, we are satisfied they were slightly or perhaps too zealous to pull a 'Charlie McCarthy' in the defensive respect."

* * * * * *

Secretary Tommy Miller of the Petes tells us the Toronto Goodyears, leading the O.H.A. senior "A" grouping all season — and rated a fine Allan Cup prospect—will tangle with the locals here Monday e'en in an exhibition joust. Eddie Powers, who coached Syracuse in the International League, is pilot of the starry packed Goodyears, and the roster contains such well-known monickers as: Eddie King, Bus Benson, Obs O'Brien, Herb Mortimer, Shorty Robinson, George Imlach, Bert Turney, Johnny Inglis, Johnny O'Flaherty, Paul Mundrick, Jerry Cooper, Bob Laurent, Russ Bowman, Jack Draper and Jimmy Drummond. They'll bring the full squad and be here on time, so puck fans should set aside Monday p.m. for a big gob of fine hockey entertainment.

CURLING

By HERB MARTIN

And did we fall for it!

The other afternoon a quiet, unassuming young chap strolled into the rink and after introducing himself says:—

"Who belongs to this curling club?"

We commenced to name off several men but he says. "I don't mean that; I mean what do they do?" So again, anxious to please a visitor we said. "Well, we have all classes of merchants, we have doctors, lawyers, bankers, clerks, engineers, manufacturers, retired business men and in fact men from every walk of life. Again he says to us. "Well that's alright, but have you no curlers?" We wish George Green had been there.

Now that all the excitement is over regarding the Tankard and District Cup competition the boys are back to the daily grind of playing schedule games. A full quota was out last night and to-night we expect the same. The weather is ideal for curling and the ice is in good condition.

We would not be surprised if this year we had a full entry for the open bonspiel next Wednesday. Some of the entries that are coming. Three from Lindsay, three from Oshawa, two from Campbellford, one from Judge O'Connor, Cobourg; one from Colborne and one from Orillia and maybe two; as this is only the beginning we maybe able to add to this list in a day or two.

The bonspiel committee would appreciate the local entries as soon as possible.

Canadien Ace Saves Money on Farm Spends $200 To Work In Summer

MONTREAL, Jan. 18 — (CP). — Laughs come neither easily nor often these days for the slumping Montreal Canadiens; which is one reason why it is both entertaining and diverting to hear the story of Clifford (Red) Goupille—a hockey player by winter and a country gentleman by summer.

Picture a six-footer, with broad shoulders, a slim waist and flaming red hair and one has a general idea of the appearance of this 200-pound French-Canadian defenceman.

Teammates get a kick out of josh-ing the red-head and one of their particular delights is to get Goupille to give utterance concerning the pleasures and the pains of farming. Red, it appears, purchased a 240-acre "plot" at a village a few miles from Three Rivers, Que., after the 1938-39 hockey season.

"It is from a far cousin that I buy the farm," Red grins. "It is a helluva big place with three barns. My cousin has too much trouble in paying taxes so he says 'Red, you want to buy my farm?' and I think maybe it is a good idea.

Making Money.

"Two summers ago, when I have nothing to do after playing hockey I spend too much money. Nearly $2,000. So I say, 'Red, this is just the thing you need. Buy a farm and save some money.' All last summer I work on the farm and only spend $200. And by gosh, I have a chance to sell my farm for $1,500 more than I pay my cousin."

Good-natured Red doesn't mind getting up with the chickens and pitching in on the farm work, although he has three helpers. But as boss he'll often declare his own knocking-off time.

"I go out and work hard one day and it makes me tired. So I quit. My dad, he says, 'Red, we still have a lot of hay to put in the barns,' but I say, 'Dad, I am tired.' So I let the hay go until the next day."

CORNWALL REFUSES TO SURRENDER ACE SCORER TO DETROIT

Adams Gives Up Trying To Buy Stan Robertson

TORONTO, Jan. 18. — (CP) — High-scoring Stan Robertson can play with Cornwall Flyers of the Quebec Senior League or stay out of hockey for the winter, because Jack Adams doesn't intend to try again to recruit him for Detroit's National League club this season.

Adams threw up his hands last night when he arrived here with the Red Wings and said there was no use in promoting a squabble between the National League and the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association if Cornwall refused to surrender its rights to the young centre-ice star.

At odds with the Flyers' management, Robertson seemed to have an uncertain playing future today. He fought with Coach George Redding i nthe Flyers' dressing room at Montreal last Sunday and the Cornwall club executive voted confidence in Redding afterward, offering him a contract for next season.

But Adams expressed dissatisfaction towards the Flyers' attitude in refusing to give Robertson his release to join the Red Wings.

"I think the Cornwall club is taking a dog-in-the-manger attitude," Adams said. "We've been pretty good to that club."

Donates Sub Goalie.

Adams said his chief scout, Carson Cooper, had aided Cornwall in rounding up a team for this season and Adams himself had sent Greg Haggerty, who played with Chatham Maroons in the Michigan-Ontario League last season, to act as sub goalie with the Flyers. When Cornwall gave goalie Lloyd Perras his release for siding with Robertson in the dispute, Haggerty took over the complete goaltending duties.

"Well, the agreement between the N. H. L. and the C. A. H. A. is there," Adams said, "and I'm not going to raise a fight between the two bodies."

The N. H. L.- C. A. H. A. agreement says that no National League club may pick up an amateur player after January 1 without sanction from the amateur club concerned and from the amateur association.

"Much as we'd like to have Robertson, who is leading his league in scoring, I'm not going to do another thing about his case," Adams declared. He can play for Cornwall or not, according to what he wants to do."

Comiskey Executors To Sell White Sox

CHICAGO, Jan. 18. — (AP) — The Tribune said today the first National Bank of Chicago, executor of the estate of J. Louis Comiskey, will ask court approval of a proposal to sell the Chicago White Sox Baseball Club.

Comiskey, who died July 18, 1939, named the bank as trustee of his estate, left in trust for Mrs. Comiskey and their three children.

According to the Tribune, a petition to be filed in probate court by the bank will set forth that the sale of the club would be in the best interests of the estate.

The court will be asked to order sale of the stock in one block. Of the 7,500 shares of stock, Harry Brabiner, club secretary, owns 50 and the estate the balance.

Goodyears Whip Falls By 7-3; Dominions Win

TORONTO, Jan. 18.—(CP)—After an early season nip-and-tuck battle with St. Catharines for leadership in the Senior Ontario Hockey Association League, Toronto Goodyears today held a strangle-hold on top position in the standing.

The Goodyears crept two points further into the lead last night by defeating Niagara Falls 7-3 at Toronto. In another senior game at Galt Dominions trounced the luckless Moosemen 7-3.

Port Colborne Sailors stand in second place, four points behind the Toronto pace setters. St. Catharines are two points further back and six in front of Hamilton.

Eddie King and Johnny O'Flaherty, Goodyears persistent goal-getters, led the Toronto triumph. O'Flaherty scored four times and assisted once and King counted twice. Bert Turney netted the other goal.

Steam Morrison netted two goals for the Falls and Joe Desson the other.

Muray Ezeard, Toronto winger, suffered a slight injury in the third period. He was cut on the chin by Desson and a stitch was needed to close the wound.

Hamilton piled up a lead of six goals before Galt was able to score. N. Walker and Miocinovich each snared a pair for the Dominions. Johnny Connick, John Barlow and Brunell got the others. Jack Hogan, Reilly and Cassidy punched home Galt's goals.

Foxboro, Zion Tie Glen Ross Whips Ivanhoe

TWEED, Jan. 18. —(ENS) — In the first game of Tuesday night's double header of the Centre Hastings League, the "Galloping Riversides" of Glen Ross whipped the short-handed Ivanhoe crew 7-2 making their third straight victory of the season.

Armstrong rapped home the first counter after five minutes of play, taking the pass from G. Fraser, and G. Pyear accounted for the second tally taking the pass from Doug Martin.

In the second period "Russ" Pyear made it three for Glenn Ross with Armstrong getting the assist, and with four minutes of the period left Armstrong scored the fourth goal of the game unassisted. Early in the final period Armstrong clicked again to put the Riversides four up, and hope for the Easterners went haywire when MacDonald also rapped one past Delve. Pyear clicked for the other counter. Both Ivanhoe goals were scored by Kerby in the last period.

The line-ups:

Glenn Ross: Goal, Hagerman; defence, Brown and Fraser; centre, Martin; wings, G. Pyear and R. Pyear; subs, MacDonald, Armstrong and Brooks.

Ivanhoe: Goal, Delve; defence, A. Ray and A. Fleming; centre, Kerby; wings, Thompson and Woods.

Foxboro, Zion Tie.

The best game of the twin bill by far was the keen display of real hockey by Foxboro and Zion, as they battled sixty minutes to a one all tie. With both teams practically at full strength, they were evenly matched as the score indicates and both teams tried hard for the goal which meant a win. Outstanding in the play of this game were the performances of the respective goalies. Gifford really hit his stride for the first time this season, playing a bang up game and Normie Guay turned out some dandies at the other end of the rink.

Gordie Walt rapped home the counter for the Foxes after fourteen minutes of the first period. No further scoring was done until midway through the middle period when Tom Bedford got the equalizer and the fast game ended with the score that way. Dickey, Simms, Brough and Ketcheson were the best for the Irish, with Gillford a standout in the nets. Guay brothers, Thompson and Walt looked best for the Foxes.

The lineups:

Foxboro: Goal, Guay; defence, N. Guay, G. Walt; centre, Grant, Wright; wings, Spencer and Thompson; subs, Gough, Dafoe, G. Gay and J. Gay.

Zion Hill: Goal, Gifford; defence, Dickey and Bedford; centre, Brough wings, Ketcheson and Faulkner; subs, Simms, Ray, Tummon.

Ex-Champ Gives Coming Champ (Maybe) Some Advice

CARL LISCOMBE
Red Wings

(By Central Press Canadian)

As far as days of the month go, Carl Liscombe will never worry about the 13 jinx.

Carl Liscombe

For it was two years ago come March 13, that he set a National league record for quick scoring. Playing on his home ice he rapped three goals past Mike Karakas in Chicago Black Hawks' goal in one minute and 52 seconds, breaking the record set by Pete Lepine more than a decade before. And that season (1937-38) was Carl's first as a National league. He made it an auspicious start, getting 14 goals over the course of the season adding 10 assists, his goal total being the highest for the Red Wings who that year slipped from the high pinnacle of two successive Stanley Cup triumphs to the bottom of the league. Cully Dahlstrom won the award for the outstanding rookie that season and fifth in the voting was Liscombe. Last season he improved on his point total, but got six less goals, his N.H.L. statistical record for two seasons standing at 22 goals, 28 assists for 50 points, with 43 minutes served in penalties. Born at Galt 25 years ago this May and played amateur with Galt Jrs. and Hamilton Srs., before turning pro in 1935-36 with Detroit Olympics. Next year with Pittsburg Hornets and thence to the Red Wings. Patrols a left wing beat.

—all playing at the same time.

All of this means only that the Di Maggios aren't unique as a baseball fraternity. Joe of the New York Yankees, Vincent with Cincinnati Reds and Domonick, Boston Red Sox rookie, merely are carrying on a fine old custom.

Amateur Boxing To Become Organized Here

Re-organization of amateur boxing in Peterborough, under auspices of the Ontario Athletic Commission, received a good start at the first meeting held here, the session being in the "Y" last night. There was a fair representation on hand and Percy Bond, Commission supervisor of this district, conducted the meeting.

After the Commission aims were pointed out to the boxing enthusiasts—consisting of former promoters here and business and club representatives— a general discussion took place upon the best method of re-organizating the amateur game in this city. Chairman Lionel Conacher sent word that this pioneer club would receive every assistance and backing of the Commission. Mr. Bond delegated Chris. Graham as deputy district supervisor and his position will be okayed by the Ontario body.

To Get a Gym.

It was decided for a committee of Percy Bond, Ross Dobbin and Chris Graham check on a possible boxing gym site in a fairly central place. Contact will also be made with the regiment here and civic authorities. Another committee, with Gord Chapman chairman, will check with various local clubs and factories, spreading the gospel of the new commission-protected club in this city. When this preliminary work is completed, an organization meeting will be called, open to the public. Co-operation was promised by G. H. Roper on behalf of the Y. M. C. A.

The main purpose of the boxing club will be to give every boy in the city and immediate district, who wishes to learn the manly art, the opportunity to do so under the best of conditions. No financial chiselling will be permitted, and the boys' health will be fully protected. When in perfect physical condition, boys may participate in local and inter-city bouts (under Government supervision) and the ultimate aim will be a chance to compete in provincial championships at the end of each year. The meeting ended upon an optimistic note.

Third Di Maggio Tries Hand In 'Brother Act'

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—(AP)—The name of Di Maggio will be as common as Smith or Brown or Jones in the major leagues this spring and the prospect has entranced some of the baseball bugs.

This is one of the little mysteries of insect life because baseball "brother acts" are as frequent as the trapeze and juggling families of the circus.

Right now the majors have Paul and Lloyd Waner, Dizzy and Paul Dean, Wesley and Rick Ferrell. They have played with and against each other for years.

But in the earlier days there were baseball families to overshadow even the Di Maggios.

One of the most famous tribes were the six Delehantys of Cleveland, four of whom attained major league careers about the turn of the century. They were Ed, who was drowned in the Niagara River in 1903; Frank, an outfielder who started so brilliantly that Detroit almost traded Ty Cobb for him, but later faded quickly; Jum, who played wih eight different clubs over a 15-year span; Joe, an outfielder who played with St. Louis Nationals. A brother Tom became an International League fixture and another brother, Willie, didn't get far in the pastime.

The Manush family of Tuscumbia, Ala., was probably larger than the Delehantys, although only two reached the majors. Frank was an infielder for Philadelphia Athletics some 30 years ago and Heinie came along in 1923 to start a long and notable career at Detroit.

The Mansell family of Auburn, N.Y., sent three brothers into the big league—Tom, Michael and John

Big Bertha With Range of 100 Miles Latest In Nazi Engines Of Death

LONDON, Jan. 18 — (CP). — The Germans are experimenting with a "Big Gertha" expected to have a 100-mile range, British papers reported to-day from Amsterdam.

(Paris despatches last month said the Maginot Line had been reinforced and extended largely because the Germans were dveloping powerful, long-range artillery.)

The correspondent of the Daily Telegraph said the weapon will be more powerful than the one used to throw shells 80 miles into Paris during the First Great War. Tests now in progress are designed to increase the range and life of the gun, the despatch said.

According to th despatch, tests of heavy-calibre guns already were under way last fall on the ranges of the Krupp Works at Meppen, on the Ems River near the Netherland border. Traffic was stopped in the district to permit fire up to 60 miles.

The Amsterdam correspondent of the New Chronicle also said the new gun will have a range of 100 miles. Plans for the "super-Bertha" were worked out, he said, following tests at Meppen of an eight-inch "Little Bertha."

Leaves Restored

With the British Forces in France, Jan. 18 (CP-Reuters) — BRITISH Army leaves, cancelled over the week-end, were restored today.

Leaves for the B.E.F. had been cancelled on Sunday, and those for the R.A.F. on Monday. Both measures were taken as precaution against a rumored German offensive through the low countries, fear of which apparently has now somewhat abated.

Chinese Help

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 18—(AP).—Turning the tables, a little Chinese girl has sent funds for the "relief" of a movie star. Gloria Jean, 11-year-old singing movie actress, has the letter. The Chinese girl enclosed an American dime to "help Gloria in her financial difficulty." The Oriental fan had seen Gloria's first film, in which she played a poor girl attending a wealthy girl's summer camp.

Sweden Continues Close Watch On Eastern Border

Although the threat of a Red drive across Finland to the Swedish border is now believed to have been definitely scuttled by the fighting Finns, the Swedish watch on her eastern border remains unrelaxed. Here is a mobile anti-aircraft unit of the Swedish army, TOP, shown in action on a highway near the border. A patrol of Swedish ski infantry, BOTTOM, is shown in the area just north of the Gulf of Bothnia. These men are trained in guerrilla strategy, now being employed so successfully by the Finns.

Homeville, N.S., Jan. 18 (CP) — SURROUNDED by many of their 44 descendants, Mr. and Mrs. Josiah Tutty observed the 70th anniversary of their marriage today in this village 15 miles from Glace Bay. The 93-year-old couple, wedding in 1870, are believed the only pair in Nova Scotia to have reached together the 70th milestone of married life in the last 100 years.

Miss Mary Young left for Niagara Falls on Wednesday morning to assist her cousins, Mr. and Mrs Latournia and family during Mrs. Latournia's illness.

Mrs. Mary Windren of Omemee is the guest of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Wilson.

Blast On Freighter Beaches Vessel

LONDON, Jan. 18—(CP). — The British freighter Gracia, 5,642 tons, was damaged in the Irish Sea today by an explosion an hour after she had left a northwest English port. She was beached.

The crew of 60 was rescued by another vessel. The Gracia is operated by the Donaldson Line.

An Italian freighter collided with a lightship and another Italian ship ran aground off the Kent coast, southeast England, during a blizzard last night. No lives were lost.

The Italian freighter Ernani, 6,619 tons, rammed the lightship Brake. The lightship remained afloat, but was badly damaged, and the Ramsgate lifeboat took off her crew.

Nearby the Italian freighter Premuda, 4,427 tons, ran aground and lifeboats from Walmer, Ramsgate and Margate rescued her crew of 30.

HUNTING DIFFICULTIES

LONDON—(CP).— Lord Brocket reports a rebuke administered by villagers near the shooting grounds he leased last fall. A petition from the village requested the whistling of "beaters" be reduced to a minimum, because "the whistles had been mistaken for air raid warnings."

Mrs. S. Hopping Heads Parish Guild At Campbellford

108 Men Missing

London, Jan. 18 (AP) — THE ADMIRALTY announced today that a total of 108 officers and men were missing aboard three British submarines loss of which was announced yesterday, but indicated that the death list may be less since Germany had reported some of them rescued.

Mexico fears a scarcity of many raw materials.

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 18. — (ENS).—Mrs. S. Hopping was re-elected president of the Parish Guild for her second term at the annual meeting held Tuesday. Rev. T. S. Gault presided during the election and tendered his warm congratulations and thanks to the society for its splendid work throughout the year, during which the organization had raised approximately $600, of which all but approximately thirty dollars had been handed over to the wardens. Plans for raising funds during the current year were discussed, and it was decided to distribute "dime cards" among members of the congregation who would be asked to put a dime on each Holy Day.

Mrs. Hopping thanked members for their show of confidence and asked for a continuance of their fine co-operation. Regret was expressed at the retirement of the treasurer, Miss Lillian Smith, who had occupied the office for a number of years. Mrs. F. Hay was elected to fill that office. Other officers elected were: Honorary President, Mrs. Gault; President, Mrs. Sidney Hopping; 1st Vice-president, Mrs. Hilton Beatty; 2nd Vice-president, Mrs. Frank Chapman; Cupboard committee, Mrs. N. Lloyd and Mrs. H. Bennett. The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Wilbert Wood, Booth street.

Clothes On Cows

Oslo, Jan. 18 (AP) — IT'S SO COLD in Norway they're putting clothes on cows! As the mercury dropped to 54 below zero Fahrenheit at Tynset in eastern Norway, farmers in many sections cut garments from sacking to keep cattle from freezing. Temperatures were the lowest in 25 years in some districts.

Many sugar harvesters in the Dominican Republic are idle as a result of the drought.

Seaway Champion Cantin Passes

ST. JOSEPH, Ont., Jan. 18—(CP) —After a lifetime of beating the drum for the Great Lakes Waterway project, Narcisse Cantin, 69-year-old founder of this Lake Huron town, was buried in St. Peter's cemetery near here today. He died on Monday.

Besides members of his immediate family, including children and grandchildren from Montreal and Detroit, chief mourners were residents of this French settlement who shared Cantin's sorrow in his failure over half a century to launch a seaway scheme.

St. Peter's church was filled almost to overflowing as Rev. O. Martin, pastor, solemnized requiem high mass for the man who had spent $100,000 to build up St. Joseph, and whose abilities interested Charles Schwab, late steel king, to the extent that he is reported to have offered the lusty French-Canadian a salary of $100,000 a year.

Narcisse Cantin, member of a proud line of French shipbuilders and seafaring men, is credited by many with being the first to boom seriously a great lakes waterway where large ocean vessels could call at inland ports. As far back as 1898, he applied to Ottawa for a canal charter as the first link in the chain. The first great war interrupted negotiations he was carrying on with the United States Steel Corporation in reference to seaway promotion.

January Thaw Not Enough For Hastings

HASTINGS, Jan. 17. —(ENS) — Although rain fell in abundant quantities here on Sunday, farmers in this district are inclined to believe it would help their water shortage problems but little as far as watering their stock is concerned. Householders admit it solved the problem of furnishing soft water for their homes for the present at least. Cases have been revealed where cisterns, which have been dry for some time, have been filled to overflowing while others report their cisterns, depending on the size, have been nearly filled.

Arthur Fleming, Percy township farmer, told the Examiner he believed a good thaw was necessary before wells would receive any benefit from the rain which fell over the week-end. He explained the ground was well frozen before the rain and mild weather did not last long enough to take any frost from the ground.

Minard Washburn, local truck driver for a firm, was reported to have hauled fifteeen tanks full of water on a truck to a number of Hastings householders whose wells were dry or nearly dry. At seventy-five cents a tank, he was doing a land office business on Saturday afternoon and householders were satisfying their water requirements. On Sunday, the rain came and would have almost filled their cisterns anyway.

William Pulfer, Percy township farmer, drew several tanks of water from the Trent river in Hastings last week and had his cistern filled after the four-mile haul by team.

John O'Rielly, Percy township, said there are about one hundred cattle brought to water at a spring near his home at Brickley each day representing the herds of four different farmers of the district whose water supply sources have dried up.

John Fleming, Asphodel township, is believed one of the hardest hit farmers of the district for water shortage. His son Vernon makes almost daily trips two miles into Hastings to fill four milk cans with water from the river for his stock.

John Stewart of Hastings joined the ranks of the water haulers from the tannery where running water is supplied from a hose at the boiler-house.

It was estimated that almost fifty per cent of the wells in Hastings are dry or were dry sometime during the fall or this winter. During the soft water shortage, it was not unusual for two or three families to do their washing together to conserve their limited water supplies.

Two stories have come to light which seem to contradict the shortage. Patrick Butler of Percy township reported about two weeks ago that his well, which usually dried up for a time in the fall, did not carry out the tradition this fall or winter and has furnished them with a seemingly inexhaustible supply of good drinking water.

Mrs. A. S. Spooner of Hastings related how their cellar suddenly flooded to a depth of six inches one day about a week ago and they have been unable to explain where it came from at this time of year.

drive in the Arctic, but reports from Salla two days ago said the Finns had cut Red army supply lines and left the invaders with insufficient food for a winter campaign. Planes were reported to have attempted to drop supplies to the Soviet forces.

The cold, as low as 54 degrees below zero, contributed vastly to the distress.

Prices On Red Tanks.

Finnish reports said price quotations had been asked on captured Russian tanks by certain foreign governments interested in analyzing their construction. Five hundred Russian tanks have been captured or destroyed since the war began November 30, military observers believe.

Police Chief Ernst Fontell of Gothenburg, Sweden, in Helsingfors to study air raid precautions, reported that captured Soviet fliers had been found in possession of maps detailing routes from a Russian airdrome southwest of Leningrad to points in Sweden and Norway.

In Stockholm, Richard Sandler, former Foreign Minister of Sweden, was applauded yesterday when he criticized in the Riksdag (Parliament) Sweden's neutrality policy.

Speaking during the budget debate, Sandler declared, "Nobody wants war with the Soviet Union, but nobody knows if the victorious Bolshevik army would halt at the Swedish-Finnish border."

Havelock Church Reviews Year

HAVELOCK, Jan. 18 — (ENS). — The official board of the Havelock United Church held its annual meeting recently, with Rev. Andrew McLauchlin presiding, and W. D. Duncan acting as secretary pro tem in the absence of E. Fennell. The annual congregational meeting is to be held on Wednesday, January 31.

The board appointed the following representatives for 1940: Havelock—Women's Missionary Society, Mrs. A. McLauchlin; Women's Association, Mrs. T. The matter of the election of trustees was referred to the congregational meeting.

Rev. A. McLauchlin, presenting a preliminary report of his charge, said the total membership was 375. Thirty-four members were received into the church last year, on profession of faith and one by letter, making a total of 41 new members. Twelve were lost through death or removal from the charge.

Hunter

ists with which to reassure our people," he said.

Why should Canada embarass Britain by sending a disarmed and unequipped division overseas, asked Col. Hunter. Canadians were beginning to fear a shortage of war's implements might yet imperil the cause.

Frost Defends Hughes.

"Sir Sam may have had defects in his character, but I'll say his courage, vision and vigor of his outlook stand out like mountain peaks compared to the temperament of those in authority today," said Mr. Frost in coming to the defence of Sir Sam Hughes.

Mr. Frost referred to the reported scarcity of uniforms for the Royal Canadian Air Force. "Sir Sam might make some mistakes in placing orders but he'd have the uniforms when required," he said.

Scorn met Sir Sam up and down the length of Canada when he warned the nation to prepare for war, continued Mr. Frost. At the same time as Minister of Militia he instituted the building of arsenals, and these were ready when war broke in 1914.

"Thirty-three thousand men were sent completely equipped to England within two months in contrast to the division sent there recently," he added.

When Sir Sam retired in 1916 Canada had four completely equipped divisions in the field.

Col. Hunter interposed that the Indian Army had to use inferior rifles for years because Canadians had been sent overseas with Ross rifles and the only other rifles for them were those the Indian Army had.

He Did Something.

Sir Sam admitted in his day that the Ross rifle was a mistake and had the courage to withdraw it, said Mr. Frost. At least he did something. The present Government had been working on the Lindsay Arsenal for two years with 30 men inside working and 30 outside to guard it. It would probably be July before the Arsenal was in working order.

"Until we get rid of the Asquiths at Ottawa we're probably going to be short of munitions and arms," said Mr. Frost.

"Does the honorable member know that Britain and France have more munitions in Britain and France than they know what to do with," asked Morgan Baker (Lib. York North).

"There is no authority for that statement," said Lt.-Col. George Drew, Conservative Leader. "The honorable member doesn't know what he is talking about when he says there is no British direction for munitions here. Not only do we need munitions for the men going to the front, but we're making no munitions for the six divisions of the peace-time establishment.

Still Using Ross.

The Ross rifle was being used to train troops in Canada 20 years after it was supposed to have been condemned and discarded, charged Col. Drew.

John Newlands (Lib. Hamilton Centre) said Hamilton factories had been making munitions for two years.

Confined to his hotel by a cold, Premier Hepburn was absent from the House today for the first time this session. The House was led by Provincial Secretary Harry Nixon.

Several bills were given third readings. As the House passed one for changes in the Companies Act, Leopold Macaulay (Con. York South) suggested the law might be changed to require those soliciting proxies from corporation stockholders to give more information as to why proxies were sought.

Attorney-General Gordon Conant indicated willingness to consider a measure to apply mortgage moratorium rules to mortgages owing by members of His Majesty's forces, no matter when contracted. This was on suggestion of Mr. Frost.

JEWS LOSE WAR

LONDON—(CP).—"Whoever wins this war, the Jews have already lost it, said M. L. Perlzweig, Zionist official, refuting anti-Semitic contentions that the war was due to Jewish pressure and influence. The fight again anti-Semitism would not end with the war, he added.

Behind The Scenes

Those who know what goes on behind the scenes in mysterious China will tell you that no small part of the credit for the Chinese resistance to Japanese might is due to this unassuming Australian ex-newspaperman, W. H. Donald, a man who has lived in China for most of his life, yet cannot speak Chinese and cannot stomach Chinese food. Mr. Donald is unofficial adviser to Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek. He denies that he has any influence with the generalissimo, but Chiang rarely makes a decision without having the Australian at his side.

Canada Picks Up

Throughout Canada, investors still continue to order loan bonds in substantial numbers and all orders are subject to allotment, the statement continued.

Books of the loan will remain open for a further limited period to enable smaller subscribers in outlying communities to complete transactions. With the bulk of the larger subscriptions handled in the first two days and totalling more than $248,000,000, the average amount of yesterday's subscriptions was considerable lower, indicating the popular appeal of the loan, the bank said. No new total was announced last night.

A Good Investment.

"It is patriotic for you to subscribe money to your government in buying these war loan bonds," Mr. Dunning said. "I can add without fear of any contradiction that the dollars you subscribe will be a good investment.

"The money will be used to protect yours and every other investment in Canada, every job in the country, our right to live as free men and women and to hand on the heritage of our freedom to our children."

Mr. Dunning's speech was his first major public effort on behalf of the government since ill health forced him to resign as Finance Minister last summer.

Referring to the war, he said there was an admirable spirit of caution and deliberate planning to conserve the lives of men. "No greater mistake could be made by our enemies than to assume that this caution is in any sense reluctance. There is no reluctance and there is no fear in the great heart of Britain."

Senator Dandurand said he felt confident "this initial triumph of Canada on the economic front will prove to be a stepping stone to a greater victory against the powers of destruction which threaten the happiness of the world."

He urged persons of small means to take advantage of the additional time permitted them to make applications for the bond allotment. "By investing his savings in Canada's first war loan the working man creates a moral bond between himself and the state, a tie which will awake his active interest in public affairs and in the end will make him a more useful citizen."

2 Fliers Killed

NEW DELHI, Jan. 18—(CP-Reuters) Two Royal Air Force fliers were killed today when their plane crashed near Kohat, northwest frontier province. They were identified as Lieut. T. M. Tinker and Sergeant F. W. White.

Cupid Reunites Columbus Officer, Bride

NEW YORK, Jan. 18 — (AP). — Love found a way to-day when court action had failed to reunite a bride of two months with her sailor-husband, who became a "castaway" on Ellis Island after the scuttling of the German liner Columbus.

Nine days ago Mrs. Liselotte Hinsch petitioned in Federal Court for a writ authorizing the release of Kurt Hinsch, the Columbus' second officer, for the sixty-day stay customarily granted to castaways in a foreign land.

Her attorney to-day withdrew the petition, disclosing arrangements had been made for Hinsch to visit his Weehawken, N.J. bride, who went to Mexico and was married when the Columbus was at anchor awaiting its frustrated attempt to slip the Allied blockade of the Atlantic.

Hinsch will not be allowed to remain long with his bride. The 512 other able-bodied men of the Columbus left Ellis Island last Sunday night en route to Germany by way of the Pacific and Eurasia; to-day the other fifty-seven crew members, women and men of non-military age and thus declared non-combatant, sailed for home more directly aboard the Italian liner Rex. They had all been held at Ellis Island since December 20, the day after the Columbus went down.

Hinsch must catch up with the group going home via the long westward journey before they leave California—home to the wars without his bride.

Kingsley Wood Next On Skids?

LONDON, Jan. 18 (CP Cable)—A. J. Cummings, in his "Spotlight on Politics" column in the News-Chronicle, today predicted a 'change of scene' for Sir Kingsley Wood, the air secretary.

Discussing the House of Commons debate over the resignation of Leslie Hore-Belisha as war secretary, Mr. Cummings writes:

"After Hore-Belisha, Churchill? A whispering campaign has begun about the approaching destiny of the First Lord of the Admiralty (Winston Church). It would, of course, be an overstatement to suggest that Prime Minister Chamberlain is possessed of a devoted regard for the man who generally is looked on as his next of kin for the premiership.

"But I cannot believe that Mr. Churchill is in any near danger of being demoted. Such an event really would bust the show; and the prime minister is not looking for that kind of trouble.

"The next development more likely will be a change of scene for Sir Kingsley Wood."

County Council Cautious On Bell Request

The county council's reluctance to delegate to its road superintendent authority to give permission to the Bell Telephone Company to make transmission line and other extension plant changes without explicit approval of the council was discussed this morning by C. B. Shaver, district manager for the company.

Authority for locating new poles or removing old ones and for all work of that kind is now granted to the company only by by-law passed by the council. That procedure entails the necessity of having to wait until the council is in session even when immediate work should be done.

The attitude of the council to the company's proposed change deputing substantive authority to the county engineer has been an avoidance of giving up any of its old rights.

Mr. Shaver said to-day that in practical effect the proposed change was not material.

"We still come to Mr. Chalmers for permission to place or remove poles. It has been that way for years," he said.

In reference to a news report that it had been said the company could always appeal to the Dominion Board of Transport, Mr. Shaver said that the intervention of a neutral body could always be invoked, but "far be it for us to take up any matter with the Board of Transport Commissioners.

Reeve W. A. Anderson, Otonabee, said the council had full confidence in E. A. Chalmers, its engineer, but it was felt that local municipalities should not let their authority in telephone matters devolve to their road superintendents.

Mr. Shaver suggested that a committee be appointed to discuss the Bell Company's proposal and on Reeve Gifford's motion, seconded by Reeve M. H. Johnston, a committee was appointed for that purpose, composed of Warden McColl and Reeves A. B. Mann and W. A. Anderson.

Keene Bridge.

The C.N.R. bill for $2,210.30 as part of the excess cost of the high level bridge west of Keene station was referred to the county road commission. The bridge, built by the railway, cost $14,735.33, of which 15 p.c. is charged against the county. The agreement, it was said, was that the 15 p.c. would be charged on the cost up to the limit of $10,000 and should not exceed $1,500.

Reeve M. H. Johnston said Mr. Duffus got the county into this expense and might be consulted about "getting us out of it."

Mr. Chalmers was instructed to have the county snow plow sent from the 8th line of Smith to the cemetery west of Lakefield and also to the House of Refuge, the cost to be charged to the county. Deputy-reeve McIlmoyle proposed the motion.

"It's a bad precedent to start. You don't know where it will end," Deputy-reeve Archibald (North Monaghan) said, and Reeve Gifford and Reeve Martin said Ennismore and Dummer had cemeteries on roads leading from county roads, but paid for plowing the connecting side roads out of township funds.

Reeve W. A. Anderson said the county should keep open the road to the House of Refuge, but the cemetery roads idea had a lot of ramifications.

Deputy-reeve McIlmoyle's reference to plowing roads to cemeteries was left virtually unchanged, having a township pay for the clearing of a road to any of its cemetery, when the plowing is done by the county engineer.

Council To Pay Witnesses Time Of Hearing

COBOURG, Jan. 18 (Special) — Payment of witnesses in court cases and inquests and also coroners jurors, at the time the hearing is held is planned for the future as far as Northumberland and Durham Counties are concerned. Yesterday the Finance Committee recommended to the January session that a fund of $100 to meet immediate needs for such purposes, replenishable when needed, be established. Reeve Kelley of Hastings informed the committee that a business man in Hastings had attended a court and had to shut up his shop to do so. He never received his witness fees and had become so incensed over the principle of the thing that he intended taking it before the attorney-general.

Money Is Available

"There is no reason why the coroner, or the chief or the crown attorney cannot come to my office and get the money. Otherwise I have to wait until the witness sheets come in and then send out money orders which runs into a considerable sum for exchange etc. over a period of months. I think a resolution should be passed to see that witnesses get paid at the time the case is heard," stated the clerk and treasurer, E. L. MacNachtan.

"Sometimes a case doesn't get over until five o'clock and it is too late to get anything from the counties clerk," stated Reeve Kelley. "That is what I am informed."

"It is a lame excuse on their part," said the clerk. "They know when a case is coming up and can easily make the arrangements."

"I am not riding the crown attorney," continued the clerk. "You must remember that cases are tried all over the counties and of course it is impossible for me to attend court all over so as to have the witness fees ready. You don't expect the crown attorney to pay it out of his own pocket either."

On motion of Reeve Kelley, the committee recommended that a fund of $100 be provided for fees, renewable as needed.

Chairmen Named

Reeve R. R. Mallory of Percy Township was elected chairman of the Finance Committee yesterday. The other committee chairmen are, Reeve C. Quinn of Cramahe, Schools; Reeve C. Calver of Campbellford, Roads and Bridges; Deputy-Reeve Alan Field of Cobourg, Legislative and By-laws; Deputy-Reeve Harry Sirett of Cramahe, Agriculture; Reeve Percy Gooding of Brighton, Property.

The Finance Committee deferred making a grant to the Northumberland or Durham trustees and ratepayers associations, Reeve C. Burrison of Hamilton Township pointing out that there had been some talk among the teachers of doing away with the associations and he left that the council should wait and see what developed in the matter before making a grant.

Asks Salary Increase

A. S. Miller, road superintendent, asked of an increase in salary in a letter to the council. Mr. Miller said that in 1936, he was paid $1,500 a year. In 1938, it was increased to $1,600 and he felt it was still too low when it was considered that the average salaries throughout the province as $2,800, for road superintendents. In 1936 the road work was $40,000; 1937, $70,000; 1938, $90,000 and 1939, $100,000. In view of the extra work involved he felt an increase was merited.

It was noted that the Road Commission had recommended an increase of $300 to Miller's salary. However, the matter was referred to the Roads and Bridges Committee.

Warden Morrow at yesterday's session, reminded the council that the Town of Cobourg Act, under which the equalized assessment was set, expired this year and he suggested that an equalization committee should be appointed at this session.

Following is the annual report of the old age pensions and mothers' allowances.

There were 260 new applications for old age pensions and 45 new applications for mothers' allowances handled by the board in 1939. A large number of cases were also reviewed by the Board. All applications for increase to the Commission are first referred to the local board for investigation and report before any increase is made.

At the present time there are approximately 1,300 pensioners and 150 mothers' allowances in the counties. The payments for pensions would be about $27,000.00 and mothers' allowances, $66,000.00 for the year 1939. The number of pensioners and mothers' allowances is exceeded only in York and Simcoe counties, stated the report.

Main Streeters See Herb Mason Bagging His Quota Of Burleigh's Wolves Using Latest In Maginot Line Tactics

Main Street Wizards chuckled to-day as they pictured Charlie Kingan and Herb Mason chaperoned by half a dozen guides, two on scout in advance, two protecting the rear, and one on each flank in true army style, "marching through the badlands of Burleigh" (try tune of "Roll out the Barrel") as they seek the hideout of that ferocious deer-slayer, the timber wolf.

"Picture that frosty glow on Herb as he goes into a Ranger stride with Charlie expanding along behind," grinned one M.S.W. with his feet on a hissing radiator.

"Ah, and can you see Herb leading Charlie in a skirmish up one of those gulches and an uphill crawl for reconnaissance work on the next swale " chimes a second of the boys.

"Wonder if Charlie has Herb on that old principle of "fire where you see the whites of his eyes?" says another—"or has Herb got Charlie on some of the newer tactics where they soften up a swamp with a little preliminary barrage?"

"Now for me," chirps up another. "I'd prefer the newshound squad, they say those telescopes are easier to carry than a 30-30—why some of them looked like they'd be good even from the roof of the Apsley House."

"Best fun of all," says a sixth, "would be the four o'clock shift with Ike Lyons, Stan Windsor, and the Mayor of Long Lake, Dinnie Hendley, down around Loucks' Lake as they line up the search party."

"What!" says the gang — "a search party, with Charlie and Herb in care of six guides? And Loucks Lake is a long way south of Wolf Lake where they started."

"Well, you might not think it, but no six guides can hold either of those lads if they see a wolf—they both want that medal."

Reporters Double Wolf Hunters On First Day At Apsley

(By Jack Peterson)

APSLEY, Jan. 18.—More reporters than hunters had checked in here by ten o'clock tthis morning for the opening of the Apsley wolf hunt.

Charlie Kingan and Herb Mason from Peterboro were the only men with guns in Brown's general store as the first day's zero hour was drawing close, and they had their choice of half a dozen guides.

The thermometer had risen from the night's dip of 17 degrees below to 2 above at that time. Only a crowd was lacking to add sparkle and high excitement to the take off.

The sun was shining brilliantly and guides returning from an early morning survey brought in news of having seen wolf tracks in the district to which the vanguard was heading.

Friday is expected to be the big day of the hunt. Dozens of reservations have been received here from men coming from as far as Toronto.

Bundled up like Arctic explorers the first arrivals sat around a roaring fire in Brown's store swapping hunting yarns this morning while waiting for late comers, and before starting out on a four-mile sleigh ride to the hunting grounds near Wolf Lake.

It was announced that the first thrust into the wolf lands would probably not be over until four or five o'clock this afternoon.

Canadian Money In The States About On Par With Chinese, Mexican And Plugged Nickels

Canadian money is about on part with Chinese, Mexican and plugged nickels throughout United States, according to news from along the border and down country, but as against that good neighbor policy Canada is taking steps to give Americans full benefit of the exchange in their favor.

The Foreign Exchange Control Board has directed that hotelkeepers, restaurant proprietors, merchants and others accepting United States currency from non-resident tourists for goods or services must not require the Americans to accept Canadian currency in change. In other words the pay-off must be on the basis of U.S. currency value.

"We do that anyway,"Ken Graham of the Empress told the Examiner this morning, and Miss Mary Robertson of the Champlain Hotel indicated the directions which have been conceived as a means of encouraging tourist business into this country from the south in spite of Canada's engagement in war.

The new regulations also require that the prevailing premium on American money be paid. Attention is called to the fact that the rate may be determined merely by turning to the financial pages of the newspapers, or contacting any bank.

Ten and Seven.

At this date the rate for buying American notes, travellers cheques and money orders is 10 per cent premium and the rate for buying American silver coin is seven per cent premium. It is not anticipated that the premium will be given in the case of transactions involving small amounts of silver coin unless the tourist specifically requests it. No rates have been prescribed for copper coin and these may be accepted at par.

In cashing cheques, letters of credit, travellers cheques, Canadian merchants and others are, of course, entitled to collect the usual handling charges made by banks for negotiating such items. These charges may vary in various centres but the interested parties can always determine the correct amount by contacting the banks.

Mail Driver Is Hurt In Truck Collision

Scott Wildman, 541 Aylmer street driver of a Royal Mail truck received a cut on the left side of his head and two vehicles were considerably damaged as the result of a traffic accident on Water street a short distance south of Argyle street at 10.40 o'clock this morning.

Wildman was driving north on Water street and started to turn into a driveway on the west side of the street when the mail truck owned and driven by Charles Young, R. R. 2, Lakefield came into collision. The Young truck, a new machine, had its front bumper left fender, headlight and hub cap damaged while the mail outfit was damaged along its left side.

Wildman was not seriously hurt and was able to return home after the accident.

E. L. Sackville Observes 15th Anniversary

Fifteen years ago today, Mr. E. L. Sackville, arrived in this city to be Manager for the Central Ontario District of the Manufacturers Life Insurance Company. Year by year, the business of the Agency increased. The co-ordinated effort of the Manager and his representatives became more effective, and during the year 1930 the Agency made history by winning not only the President's Trophy, which is presented to the office showing the best all around development for the year, but also Cash Collection Trophy, awarded to the Agency collecting in cash the highest percentage of premiums on new business written during the year. The following year the Peterborough office came within a narrow margin of repeating its double success by standing second in the race for the President's Trophy and retaining the Cash Collection award. This accomplishment has never been equalled by any of the Company's Branches since.

In January, 1931, due to general development, the district qualified for branch office status and Mr. Sackville was appointed Branch Manager. Having realized early in his career that a thorough knowledge of insurance principles was vital to the success of agency administration, Mr. Sackville undertook the necessary three-year course of study and obtained his degree of Chartered Life Underwriter. His managership of the Central Ontario Branch has been characterized by loyalty to the interests of the Company's policyholders and his agents.

As is well known by those of the Life Insurance Fraternity, Mr. Sackville has always taken a keen interest in the Life Underwriter's Association. He has been a constant member of the Local Association, being a past president and for years a member of its executive. In the year just passed, he was chairman of the program committee. During the years 1936 to 1938, he was honored with an appointment to the Board of Directors of the parent body—The Dominion Life Underwriter's Association.

Always interested in some movement for civic betterment, Mr. Sackville has been actively identified with the Y.M.C.A. annual campaigns, also giving generously of his time in the recent Red Cross Drive. An active member of the Rotary Club since 1934, he is at the present time its energetic president.

In the realm of sport "Sack" as he is familiarly known, is a member of the Kawartha Golf and Country Club; a director of the Peterborough Lawn Bowling Club Ltd., and a member of the bonspiel committee of the Curling Club.

In Masonic circles, Mr. Sackville is a member of the Royal Arthur Lodge of A.F. & A.M., The Corinthian Chapter and the Moore Preceptory. A member of George Street United Church since coming to Peterborough, he is chairman of the Board of Stewards.

That success may still crown his efforts and that the end of a further fifteen years may find Mr. Sackville still enjoying good health and a vigorous citizenship is the wish of his many friends in Peterborough and surrounding district.—.

IS WITH AIR FORCE

The Rambling REPORTERS

FIRE ALARM SYSTEM.

For an outlay of $1200 the county could instal a fire alarm system at the House of Refuge that "would do anything but take the old people out of the building," Reeve M. P. Coughlin, of Douro, told the county council yesterday.

"For $1,200 it should take them out too," commented Reeve A. B. Mann of Smith. "We could keep our old people at the Empress hotel for quite a while for that amount."

The council decided not to purchase the $1,200 gadget. The House of Refuge is looked after by the Lakefield fire department now, it was pointed out. Water tanks were ordered to be purchased.

Plan To Organize Unit Of Legion Of Frontiersmen

An effort is being made to organize a unit of the Legion of Frontiersmen in Peterborough, the Provincial command hoping to establish a troop if not a squadron of the Legion here.

The Canadian division of the Legion of Frontiersmen was organized in 1906 and the Canadian Divisional headquarters were established in Edmonton in 1927. The Legion has units in many parts of Canada.

It is a semi-military organization trained to provide an emergency corps to assist the civil authorities in times of national crisis. Membership is on a purely voluntary basis and citizens are expected to join the Legion as a national and patriotic duty. Members are trained in military studies, criminal law, police duties, first aid and air raid precautions.

At present the membership is confined to men between 35 and 60 years of age who are not eligible for active service.

CITIZENS THANKED.

Fire Chief George Gimblett expresses the hearty thanks of himself and members of the department to John Hill and Sons for their kindness in supplying coffee to the fire fighters during Wednesday night's fire and also to the citizens who so willingly helped the firemen in their long battle. There were a number of volunteers who did excellent work, Chief Gimblett reports.

Farmers of Eire have asked the government for permission to plant Scotch seed oats.

County Protests Dumping Of Wrecked Cars

Protest against indiscriminate dumping of garbage and wrecked cars on county property was made yesterday by Reeve James Gifford of Ennismore at County Council.

The council passed a resolution favoring a by-law that would prohibit dumping of all refuse on county property and providing payment for persons giving information leading to arrest and conviction of violators.

Reeve Gifford said many people use corners of county roads as a dumping ground and Reeve Allan B. Mann of Smith wanted included all old machinery and wrecked cars, so the word "refuse" was used to cover that too.

"Just so long as that word wouldn't include our own machinery," said Reeve Mann.

"We'll exclude any as long as it's running," volunteered Reeve M. P. Coughlin of Douro.

Reeve Gifford wanted something done about city people who take sod from county property for their new front lawns, but no action was taken.

Farm Training In Schools Is Depreciated

Warden John McColl doesn't think much of the farm training projects carried on by the Ontario Department of Education in rural schools, he intimated to the county council yesterday.

He related that Norwood High school has had a cream separator for six or seven years but that it had never been placed in use. "I guess somebody must have forgotten to set it up for them," he hazarded.

He said the school also boasts of a milk testing outfit that was in use only once. One of the pupils was instructed to bring milk to school to be tested, "but somebody knocked over the bottles and that was the end of that," he declared.

Lakefield gets a grant of $500 a year from the government for agricultural training and the subject came up when Reeve J. R. Thompson was asked if Norwood received the grant too. Norwood does not, he said.

Second Coldest Day

HASTINGS, Jan. 18. —(ENS) — Although some centers in Ontario reported Tuesday night the coldest of this winter, G. Marryat of Hastings claims it was colder a week ago Sunday by two degrees. He keeps a daily record of high and low temperatures with the aid of a recording thermometer. With it, it is possible to read the present temperature or the low and high since it was last set. January 7 was the lowest temperature here when the mercury dipped to 26 below and last Tuesday morning was next with a low through the night of 24 below.

To Seek World Of Their Own

Mr. and Mrs. James Lake, who will be two of the 21 members of the modern Swiss Family Robinson, who are leaving America soon to try and start a little world of their own in the British West Indies. The island they are headed for is in the Bahamas group and is named East Caicos Island. It is approximately 15 miles long and five to 10 miles wide. The dog's name is Peggy.

Greater Provincial Aid Sought Province's Secondary Schools

"I certainly think the province should pay more than they are now for secondary education," declared Reeve W. A. Anderson of Otonabee at County Council yesterday.

The Council heard a resolution passed and forwarded by the Northumberland-Durham Council, protesting against increased cost to county and parents for text books and supplies for secondary school pupils. The resolution asked the Government to take some action to lower such costs. Reeve Anderson complained the protest was on "too small a basis," that it should include all educational costs.

On motion of Reeve Allan B Mann of Smith, seconded by Reeve Robert Martin of Dummer, Peterborough County followed the combined Councils' action.

Question of grading hogs came before the Council in a resolution from Grey County asking that premium on Grade A hogs be raised from $1.00 to $2.00. The resolution was endorsed.

The county turned down action aimed to prevent indigents from entering hospital in far-away cities, leaving the county to foot the bill. They turned back a resolution from Kent County, a plan whereby such patients would have to show a certificate of consent by the Medical Officer of Health before admission could be made. As it stands now a patient may enter a hospital without funds and the municipality in which he resides must pay hospital costs.

The Council endorsed a Victoria County Council resolution that, if acted upon by the Government, would benefit villages a great deal.

The resolution pointed out that all townships are reimbursed from 50 to 75 per cent. for all work done on Government-approved roads, and asked that the same grant be paid villages for work on Government-approved streets within their boundaries.

Forestry Branch

SAINT JOHN, N.B., Jan. 18. —(CP).—A New Brunswick branch of the Canadian Forestry Association was formed here last night. G. Percy Burchill, of South Nelson, was elected chairman of the new organization. Kaare Smith, St. Martin's, is secretary. The meeting was attended by Arthur A. Schmon, St. Catharines, Ont., president of the Canadian Forestry Association.

TO PRODUCE MORE FOOD

The government of Jamaica has started a movement to increase food production in order to reduce the dependency on outside sources of supply.

18 Pupils Write W.C.T.U. Exams

SPRINGVILLE, Jan. 18. —(ENS) —Eighteen pupils from Springville Sunday School wrote on the Temperance examinations set by the W. C. T. U. Of these, seventeen were successful in obtaining certificates and three were awarded prizes by the Peterborough W. C. T. U. These were Raymond Kelk, senior prize, Edna Dunford, intermediate and Harold Cathcart, junior.

Four boys won local prizes. They were Bruce Davies (highest), Jack Preston, Billie Dunford and Howard Shaw. Others obtaining certificates included Viola Neals (hon.), Pearl Windrim (hon.), Olive Northey (hon.), Eleanor Bowles, Hazel McIntosh, Marylin Bowles, Audrey Kelk, Ila Dunford, Stewart Shaw and Ross Morrell.

The appreciation of the Sunday School is extended to Mrs. Gordon McIntosh who conducts a class in temperance at her home on Sunday afternoons. It is largely due to her training that so many from Springville are successful each year in passing these examinations.

At the communion service held in the United Church on Sunday morning, six new members were welcomed by the pastor and congregation. They included Mr. and Mrs. W. Gilmour, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Clarke, Mrs. Courtland Gibson and Mrs. Wesley Shaw.

Mr. Gordon Morrison is the delegate from Springville Y. P. U. to the United Church winter school being held in Lindsay this week. Mr. Irwin McIntosh, president of the society, is attending also.

Action Approved

TORONTO, Jan. 18 — (CP). — The Canadian Red Cross Society announced today that letters had been received from all over Canada and the United States commending the action of the society in refusing to sponsor exhibition of the Dionne Quintuplets at the New York world's fair.

One letter from a man in Washington, D. C., said the stand taken by the Red Cross "will be approved by right minded people all over the world."

Nazi Denies Pole Captives Slain

BERLIN, Jan. 18—(AP)—German spokesmen asserted today that Prime Minister Chamberlain's charges concerning Germany's intentions in Poland were groundless.

Mr. Chamberlain in the House of Commons yesterday said Germany apparently was following "a policy of deliberate depopulation" in Poland and singling out intellectual leaders for execution.

The German spokesmen said that "most of Poland's intelligentsia are prisoners of war" and added that about 20,000 Polish officers now "are sitting peacefully in camps"—as prisoners.

"After all, sniping also is punished in Palestine," one spokesman said.

German Steamer Goes Down In Swede Mines

STOCKHOLM, Jan. 18—(AP).—The 2,241 German steamship August Thyssen sank this morning off the Aaland Islands at the mouth of the Gulf of Bothnia, after striking a mine believed to be Swedish.

The crew took to the boats which, at midday, were drifting southward, surrounded by masses of broken ice. A Swedish warship was trying to reach the survivors.

It was reported that the ship attempted to pass Understen Lighthouse on one of the Aalands without a pilot to steer the way through the field laid by Sweden and Finland between the Aalands and the Swedish mainland. She was the first ship sunk in this mine field.

The vessel was carrying iron ore from the Swedish port of Lulea to Germany.

(Zittau is in Saxony, near the border of former Czechoslovakia, about 60 miles north of Prague.)

Parents' Auxiliary Hears Travel Talk

A large and appreciative audience listened to Miss Marion Armstrong tell of her experiences in Britain and Europe Tuesday evening in All Saints' Parish Hall when the Parents' Auxiliary of the Fifth Troop Boy Scouts held its January meeting.

The president, Mrs. R. J. Kearns, was in the chair, and the meeting opened with "O Canada" and The Lord's Prayer. The Bible reading and a poem "Happy New Year" were given by Mrs. E. Mowry.

Very satisfactory reports were read by Mrs. A. Watkins, treasurer, and Mrs. H. Dunford, secretary. Invitations were extended to all members of the Auxiliary by Mrs. W. Magee, Mrs. A. Carpenter, Mrs. A. Lacey and Mrs. E. Mowry to attend thimble teas at their homes the following week. Announcement was made that the Auxiliary will work for the Red Cross as a unit, sewing at the library each Thursday evening from 7 until 9, and that the auxiliary, divided into groups under the leadership of Mrs. W. Magee and Mrs. O. Kidd will have charge of the programs for the remainder of the season.

Two fine xylophone numbers were given by players from the Salvation Army. Mr. Norman Pearl was the talented accompanist for the singing.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. A. Carpenter, social convener, and her assistants.

Welsh Society Hosts To St. George's Choir

An enjoyable evening was spent by members and friends of the St. David Society and the choir of St. George's Church when they met together in the Business and Professional Women's club rooms. Mrs. Pakenham, president of the Welsh Society, welcomed the choir members, mentioning the pleasant gatherings previously held, and expressing a hope for continued relationship. Mr. J. Branson, leader of the choir, acknowledge the welcome.

Following the singing of the Welsh National Anthem, which opened the meeting, the choir presented a splendid program which demonstrated its high quality and musical ability. The program was as follows: "Jesus, Lover Of My Soul" to the Welsh tune, "Aberystwyth," by the choir; solos by Mrs. Cooper, "Passing By" and "The Ash Grove"; choir, "Morning and Evening"; solo, by Mrs. Ray "My Song From Paradise" and "Just A'Wearyin' For You"; choir number, Brahms' "Lullaby"; solos by Walter Farr, "Flight of Ages" and "The Count of Luxemburg"; solos, Miss B. Curtis, "Somewhere A Voice Is Calling", "Put Me To Sleep," accompanied by Mr. Walter Farr on the violin; choir selection, "Break Forth Into Joy"; Mrs. King was at the piano.

After the musical program, games were played under the supervision of the entertainment committee, and refreshments served.

Women Teachers' Guild To Hear Of Canadian Art

Lecturing to the Women Teacher's Guild on Friday night, Mr. Andre Bieler, resident artists at Queen's University will bring to Peterborough an interesting history of Canadian Art with fine colored illustrations.

Belonging to a young group of painters who are conscious of the social aspect of Canadian life, Mr. Bieler is more interested in painting figures or people in action than in landscapes.

Studying at the Art Student's League, Woodstock, New York, and in Paris with his uncle, Ernest Bieler,a painter of peasant type, he came into contact with many modern painters. He also studied art history at the Ecole du Louvre.

This outstanding artist has specialized in subjects of French Canada, having exhibited in Paris London, Geneva and New York. This last year his paintings were hung at the World's Fair in San Francisco and New York and the International Exhibition of Chicago and he has many exhibitions in Canada.

Mr. Bieler gives an interesting lecture to all lovers of Art, and to lovers of Canadian Art in particular.

Trinity Church W.M.S. Reports Successful Year

Detailed annual reports showing a progressive year for the Women's Missionary Society of Trinity United Church were reported at the January meeting, held in the church parlor with Mrs. J. W. Pierce presiding. A fine account of work done, including 235 calls made on the sick, shut-ins, bereaved and strangers was made by the Strangers' secretary, Mrs. MacMorran. One of the worthiest endeavors of the Auxiliary is that of the Supply Department. Mrs. R. J. Kearns, the convener, prepared bales of winter and summer clothing, bedding, socks, etc., valued at $114.

Mrs. D. E. Bell, Literature secretary, reported 61 books read, the honor of the greatest number read going to Mrs. J. A. Bannister. Temperance and Christian Stewardship are taken up at regular W.M.S. meetings, as reported by Mrs. A. B. Cunningham, and a special meeting was devoted to Temperance Education, when Mrs. Harold Rehill addressed Auxiliary members. The Associate Helper, Mrs. N. Andrew, made 40 calls and distributed missionary literature. Mrs. A. B. Gates received 27 subscriptions to the missionary magazine, and ordered 30 World Friends for the Mission Band. Mrs. J. A. Bannister has continued her usual good work in correspondence, having written 27 letters, and Mrs. Webb, the card secretary, reported 20 cards sent to shut-ins.

Throughout the year, Mrs. W. Stocker has stressed the fact that Christian Stewardship means not only the giving of money, but also the use of time, gifts and possessions for the extension of God's Kingdom. World events make this year one of unusual anxiety and tension, she said, "And so the call to the individual organization is a clarion to maintain interest; to increase membership; to deepen the spiritual life; to support the budget with fidelity and exactitude."

The report of the treasurer, Mrs. A. Smith, showed that the major part of the organization's income was raised by systematic givings and voluntary offerings. The total amount sent to the Branch treasurer was $772, an increase over last year. A membership of 30, including 46 life members and 34 annual members, with 10 regular meetings; 7 executive meetings, and 1 afternoon tea, was reported by Mrs. G. N. Moncrief, recording secretary. She listed as outstanding events, three addresses given by visiting missionaries, Dr. J. C. Cochrane of Northern Ontario; Miss M. Halliday, and the Rev. Denzil Ridout of Africa.

The day's program was in charge of the group convened by Mrs. Edmondson. An appropriate solo, "Softly and Tenderly Jesus Is Calling" by Mrs. H. V. Dobson, was accompanied at thep iano by Mrs. G. N. Moncrief.

As an introduction to the study book, "Moving Millions", Mrs. G. S. Easton gave an interesting address on India, which she described as a country of contrasts.

Mrs. Pierce, the president, welcomed new members who had come from Evening Auxiliaries, at the opening of the meeting, and presented a fine message for the New Year. The bible reading was given by Miss T. Mathers, and a prayer for the cessation of war and the building of a better world, where righteousness and peace shall rule, was led by the president.

The business session included the appointment of three delegates, Mrs. C. Hughes, Mrs. A. Legon and Mrs. E. Whitely, to attend the Presbyterial in St. Andrew's Church on January 23. Announcement was made that the Women's Association and Mrs. G. S. Easton would be at home to all the ladies of the congregation at the parsonage, 302 Reid street, on Friday afternoon. The adoption of a special missionary for prayer and correspondence was discussed, and Miss Margaret Halliday of Africa unanimously chosen. A social hour followed the meeting.

Outlines Music In Bible And Literature

Spicing his remarks of interesting musical history with humorous stories and illustrations, Mr. J. Campbell-McInnes of Toronto, well-known British baritone, author and adjudicator, presented the third in his series of lectures on Music Appreciation Wednesday evening in the Y.W.C.A. Recreation Room. The lectures are given under the auspices of the local branch of the Ontario Music Teachers' Association, and thanked by Miss M. Hartstone and Miss M. Widdess.

Speaking of the Bible in music and literature, he traced music from the early days of Christianity down to modern times. It was Martin Luther, he said, who first introduced hymns into the church. Martin Luther was a great religious reformer who did not approve of the wide distance between the minister and the church. By his introduction of hymns, Luther helped to bridge this distance between church members and minister. The simple tunes of the peasant folk, heard as he travelled about through the country, were used by Luther in much of his sacred music. Later, Bach took some of these hymns and made them into chorals for church service.

Mr. Campbell-McInnes mentioned the beautiful hymn, "Jesus Lover Of My Soul" as one of the finest ever written, and his personal favorite.

The Bible, although it should be reverenced, of course, should be a continual source of joyfulness, not gloom, the speaker declared, and quoted the 150 Psalms where David sang praises unto the Lord with the harp, lyre and the cymbal.

An informal talk on the lives of famous singers will be given by Mr. Campbell-McInnes on February 14, when he presents the last lecture of the series.

WOMEN'S WORK AND INTERESTS

Palatable Stretching Of Your Food Dollar

These economy items have been tested in our own kitchen and all of them are especially palatable and primarily nourishing.

There are no "ersatz" ingredients used and no attempts to "kid the troops." Our idea was to select low cost food with high calorie or mineral or vitamin content and prepare it to the king's taste, keeping digestibility in the front of our minds.

Extending the flavor of meat has become such an obsession that composite dishes containing varieties of vegetables plus meat, such as hash, casserole dishes and "loaves"—these have become a burden instead of a joy to the hungry victim of budgets.

I have tried to make one food delicious by itself—never using more than two major ingredients in composite dishes—and have endeavored to give them character by special treatment.

Economy Butter.

Take the top cream from a quart of milk and add enough of the milk to make one pint. Soak 2 level teaspoons gelatine in 2 tablespoons of the milk (cold) 10 minutes; then place in a dish of hot water until gelatine is dissolved completely. Cut 1 pound good fresh butter in small pieces and place same in a dish over hot water until butter begins to soften; then gradually whip the milk and dream (1 pint altogether) and dissolved gelatine into the butter with a rotary egg beater. After the milk is thoroughly beaten into the butter, add salt to taste. As long as any milk is seen, keep beating until all is mixed in. Place on ice in bowl or in cool place until hard. If a yellow butter color is desired use butter coloring. This butter mixture will do the work of ordinary butter for table use, for baking cakes, muffins, and every butter use, except frying. This doubles the amount of butter.

In almost any farmers' market outside stalks of celery may be bought for 5 cents a large bundle. These merely need careful trimming and washing. My mother used to make the favorite dish of our childhood out of them:

Mother's Celery Dish.

Butter a large baking dish. On bottom sprinkle either very dry breadcrumbs, or broken crackers. Over this spread layer of well cleaned chopped celery, repeat until you have used 3 cups crumbs or broken crackers and 4 cups chopped celery, sprinkling each layer with salt and pepper. Cover with skimmed milk. Sprinkle top with a half and half mixture of cracker or breadcrumbs mixed with the same quantity of grated old cheese. Sprinkle with paprika and bake at 300 degrees Fahr. for 1 hour, turning up heat during last 5 minutes if it is not brown enough. Sometimes it is necessary to have the oven hotter because you are baking something else—if so additional milk or water and a lile buer are necessary.

Parched Rice.

Melt 3 tablespoons good dripping or cooking oil in hot frying pan, and when quite hot add ½ cup rice. Stir over medium heat until all the rice has taken up the fat, then stir stir until it is golden, then add 4 cups water, 2 teaspoons salt, ½ teaspoon pepper, cover, reduce heat, stirring occasionally cook 20 minutes— if it takes up all the water before it is tender add more. A nice variation of this is to use tomato jolice in place of water.

Genuine Head Cheese.

In our home town I was talking to two different meat packers who tell me that bargains in pigs' heads may be had by any one who cares to come to the packing house and buy them.

The head should be shaved clean, the snout skinned, and nostrils cut off in front of the eyes. Cut out eyes and eardrums. The fattest part should be used for lard. When the head is cleaned soak it in water for some time to extract the blood and dirt. After the head is thoroughly cleaned, cover it with water and boil until the meat separates from the bones. Tongues may be cooked with the head. When thoroughly cooked, strain off the liquid for future use. Chop or shred the meat finely. Season with the following for every 5 lbs. meat: 32 oz. liquid (4 level measuring cups), 2½ oz. salt (5 tablespoons), 2 teaspoons black pepper, 1 teaspoon red pepper, 1 teaspoon ground cloves. All should be well mixed to incorporate seasonings evenly. Pour into shallow tin or earthen or granite pans and keep cold but not frozen. Kept just above freezing this will keep 3 weeks.

Peanut Butter Soup.

(A main course soup).

Mix 1 cup peanut butter with 3 cups skim milk. Have ready 1½ cups chopped cleaned outer celery stalks, which has been cooked until tender in 4 cups water. Mix this with the peanut butter and add 3 tablespoons corn starch into ½ cup cold water. Cook and stir, add salt, until it thickens slightly Serving for 6.

Applesauce Jello.

Dissolve one package of lemon jello in 1 cup boiling water. Then add 2 cups fresh sweetened applesauce and pour into bowl and chill. If you prefer the dessert stiffer than these proportions give add only 1½ cup applesauce. To give this additional tartness, the grated rind of 1 lemon may be added to it when th applesauce is added.

Indian Pudding.

Heat 1 pint of milk to scalding point but do not boil. Add 1 tablespoon butter, 2-3 cups corn meal mixed with ½ cup cold milk. Beat 1 egg with ½ to 2-3 cup of icing or berry sugar, and add ½ teaspoon ginger, ½ teaspoon nutmeg, 1 teaspoon lemon flavoring or vanilla. Mix well and bake in buttered dish. This is good served with lemon syrup— 1 cup water boiled with ½ cup sugar 8 minutes, then add juice of 1 lemon and grated rind. This may be diluted with juices from canned fruits.

We try at all times to keep budgeted incomes in mind—so please keep your eyes on the cookery page for economical recipes.

FASHIONS

Two of the most flattering and popular young styles are combined to make this dress. The double-breasted closing, very narrow and very chic and the longer waistline that makes you look absolutely lovely. The skirt fullness over the hips gives you the new silhouette, but you can make your dress gathered all the way round if you wish. This is the frock that all the girls will admire when you go back to school or wear it to a party. Nice for the career girl, too, as she can wear it to the office and on to dinner later. Make your new cover-up evening frock from the same pattern.

Style No. 3111 is designed for sizes 10, 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20 years. Size 16 requires 4¾ yards of 39-inch material for street length.

DOROTHY DIX

Henpecked Husbands Have Only Themselves To Blame As No Man Has To Stand For His Wife Treating Him Like a Puppy Dog.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX — Three years ago I was married to a girl I loved very much, but as soon as we were married trouble started. First of all, she takes all of my money away from me and keeps it. If I want to buy anything, even cigarettes, I have to ask her for the money and tell her what I want it for and how much it will cost and bring back the change to her. If we go out for an evening I have to ask her for the money to pay the bill. Occasionally some of the fellows ask me to spend an evening with them. When I ask my wife if I can go out she gets mad and starts crying and accuses me of going out with other women, which is one thing I never do. She threatens to go along or have me followed, so, of course, I have to stay at home. She doesn't like my friends and refuses to go out with them, but she makes me visit her friends, even if they are girl friends. My work throws me with a lot of men and women who come and go and if she sees me talking to one of the women she makes a scene. Once in a while we go out with another married couple and if she leaves me alone for a few minutes she accuses me of kissing my friend's wife. We haven't any children because she says they are too much bother, and she acts like ice toward me as well as bored when we are spending an evening together at home. In order to keep peace I have to act like a puppy dog. I tell you, Miss Dix, I am fed up with all of this. Especially of her jealousy, which makes a fool of me in front of strangers as well as friends. It's awful.—KEN.

ANSWER:

I believe you. But why do you stand it? A husband doesn't have to stand for his wife treating him like a puppy dog and lick the hand that smites him unless he likes it, or is such a poor-spirited creature he hasn't the courage to rebel.

It is no wonder that the world looks upon henpecked husbands with contempt, for a man shows that he is a weakling when he lets his wife dominate him so completely that he doesn't even call his pants his own and has no more authority in the house he supports than if he were a mouse. We could be sorrier for these poor, abject creatures, who follow meekly along in the streets in the wake of their bulldozing bosses, who wear the clothes their wives buy for them, who eat what they set before them, and who wouldn't any more dare to ask any one to dinner at their houses than they would commit lese majesty in any other form, if they didn't so pusillanimously lay down and take it.

For they have a weapon with which they can fight even a female Hitler into submission. And it is the checkbook. It is the law the world over that the hand that holds the pocketbook rules, and that is why any husband is so foolish to turn over his money to his wife unless he is absolutely certain that she is of a kind and benevolent disposition and isn't going to use it as a club with which to browbeat him.

So, Ken, the solution of all of your problems lies in the simple act of bracing yourself up into having the nerve to keep your own pay envelope and dole out nickels to your wife for her chewing gum, instead of letting her make you rattle a tin cup before her for your cigarette money. She will howl and cry and call you every name in the world, but if you will stick it out you will have a wife who will eat out of your hand. She doesn't want to go out and get work and support herself, and if she finds that holding her job depends on her good behavior she will be as meek as Patient Griselda. It is because wives think that they can't be fired that makes them treat their husbands as they would never dream of treating their employers if they had a situation they wished to keep.

So all you need, Ken, is a little spunk. You couldn't expect a woman to have any respect for a man who doesn't even put up a

The Stars Say . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Friday, January 19.

An exciting if not thrilling day is forecast from the predominant planetary configurations. There will be much commotion in the effort to push things into new and progressive channels of productivity. Brilliant ideas and reorganized methods may culminate in surprising success, although change and drastic measures may be involved. It is a propitious time for pushing with ingenuity and audacity into ambitious fields of accomplishment.

Those whose birthday it is are on the threshold of a year of definite achievements, especially in new directions, where splendid talents, initiative, versatility and constructive originality may be applied with profit and perhaps dramatic success and recognition. The intellectual and intuitive faculties seem to be keyed to high gear. Speculative enterprises and adventure flourish under this stimulus.

A child born on this day may be splendidly endowed with intellectual and intuitive insight into novel and original channels for progressive and dramatic achievements. Its versatility, skill and ingenuity may be spectacular.

DEAR MISS DIX—I am a woman in my early forties with three children of high school age. My mother-in-law has no home of her own and lives with each one of her three sons part of the time. My children have a great deal of company and our home is small, and when Grandma stays with us they cannot have their usual fun and it upsets the household. I have told Grandma that I would give her one-third of her expenses each month to have her own little place, but she will not agree to this arrangement. There are many days when I feel ill and the discontent of my children is driving me mad. What shall we do?—RHODY.

ANSWER:

Your plan to establish the old lady in a home of her own is the logical solution of the problem, and if she would only try it she would find herself much more happily situated than she is being shunted around among her children. But old women are very tenacious in their prejudices, and if she has made up her mind that she wants to stay around with her boys that is what she is going to do, and it is idle to argue with her.

Perhaps if you will tell her when your turn comes for her annual visitation that you have arranged for her to stay in a nice boarding house near you where she can come in to see you every day, because you can't make her comfortable in your house, and the children are noisy and you are not well, she will find that she likes the excitement of being with people and you can make the arrangement permanent.

I am sorry that you have to be a buffer between Grandmother and the children, but it will do the youngsters a lot of good to find out that they have to consider somebody else's pleasure and comfort before their own.

DEAR MISS DIX—I am in love with a girl, but I am not in any position to ask her to marry me. Have I a right to tell her that I love her and ask her if she loves me?—WORRIED YOUTH.

ANSWER:

Surely. It would relieve your pent-up emotions and the girl has a right to know how you feel about her. If you don't speak, she may think you are not serious in your intentions.

DOROTHY DIX.

"TELL BILL GOODBYE"

By Marie Blizard

SYNOPSIS

THE CHARACTERS:

FABIENNE SEYMOUR, rich, young and beautiful.

NICKY BARTLETT, wealthy and in love with Fabienne.

ELLEN CHAPMAN, young and capable mistress of Willoughby house.

DR. BILL MALLORY, close friend of Ellen's.

YESTERDAY: At a cheap dance hall, where Fabienne drops in with a party one evening, she is surprised to see one of the young girls from the settlement house. She remonstrates with her and the girl resents it.

CHAPTER EIGHTEEN

TOMMY SAID, "The kid's right, Fab. She's got a right to do what she pleases. You're taking that settlement house too seriously. Imagine you playing policewoman to a kid from the slums!"

Fabienne turned to him with her eyes flashing. "What's so funny about that?" she demanded.

"Nothing, honey, nothing. But you don't think you're responsible for that kind of a kid, do you?"

"Somebody has to be," she said, her face growing serious and thoughtful.

"This place gives me the willies," Dru told her husband. "I never did like slumming. It sounds amusing but I'll take El Morocco."

They left at once without so much as a backward glance at the little Italian girl sitting with the two brown boys.

At El Morocco, Tommy picked up the check for the six of them and Fabienne found herself looking at it and thinking, for the first time in her life, of what the money spent in a smart cafe would mean if it were applied to a fund to prevent such things as she had seen a few hours before.

Going back to her luxurious apartment in the Plaza, Fabienne said to Drusilla. "You know, Dru, she's a nice little kid. I feel . . . somehow that it's all my fault."

Drusilla said, "Fab's got an edge on. You'll feel better in the morning, darling."

But in the morning, Fabienne awoke thinking of Rose and the memory of her little painted face came before her and the morning paper she was trying to read. Rose's face, as it had defied her. And Rose's face as it had looked on Christmas night when she said, "Real prize fighters and artists got their start in classes at the house. If we had a dramatic class, we might—some of us—become famous. And all the kids would love it."

Fabienne consigned Mrs. Cheeseborough to the proper place for ladies who did such things.

Then she shrugged her shoulders as if to dismiss the whole incident.

But there was no forgetting it when Rose, white-faced and blushing by turns in an agony of embarrassment and apology, came to her office the next afternoon.

"Hello, Rose," she gretted the child with a friendly smile.

Rose kept her eyes on the floor. Her tongue stumbled and she spoke brokenly, "Oh, Miss Seymour! I didn't mean it! Honest! I didn't know what I was saying. I didn't mean—"

"Sit down, Rose. I know you didn't mean it. Just tell me why you went there. Why you like it?"

The little Italian girl raised her black velvet eyes and kept them fixed at a point above Fabienne's head. "Gee, Miss Seymour, you don't know what some people's homes is like."

"Perhaps I can guess," Fabienne answered gently.

"We got seven in our family. We live in two rooms. Kitchen and bedroom. Me and my two sisters sleep in the kitchen. The old man and my brother sleeps in the other room."

Fabienne repressed a shudder. "And you have no place to entertain?"

Rose shook her black curls. "Nobody has in this neighborhood. It ain't like where you live. But I ain't so different from you. I gotta have fun." That was what she had said the night before.

Fabienne nodded understandingly. "Of course you do. But . . . there must be other places besides that that dance hall. The movies, friend's houses, the settlement house—"

"The movies cost money. My friends ain't got no more place to have other kids in than I have," Rose explained pathetically. "The settlement house? Sure, I come here when there's something doing, but, you know, Miss Seymour, a girl likes boys. Boys ain't going to sit around here and talk. That's why I thought if we had the theater—"

"Yes," Fabienne interrupted. "Tell me one thing more, Rose. Why did you go with those Fil—those boys?"

"Because they got money," Rose said in a small voice.

Fabienne felt her heart turn sick. Yes, those boys had money to spend on a girl; first for dance hall tickets and drinks, and later for perfume and trinkets and sleazy little personal presents, and then—

Suddenly she felt an immense sorrow, a great helpless pity, and swift anger against society in general, and Mrs. Cheeseborough in particular.

Strangely, it didn't occur to her that there was something that she could do. Although the idea must have been there, buried beneath the sudden appreciation she felt for her own comfortable existence.

Gertrude, with an income of fifteen thousands dollars a year, had had hysterics because she was not to have five million more dollars to spend on more homes, more servants, more parties and more clothes.

Thinking of them, Fabienne grinned a bit grimly. It was fortunate that Gertrude loved clothes so much that she couldn't resist buying them, not only for herself, but for her daughter. For Fabienne, on a mere five hundred a month, could hardly have bought a stitch for herself.

Every cent of her money went to live—for rent in the hotel, the upkeep of her car, for tips and the occasional dinners she gave. But she had to have them. Nicky had called her a sybarite and so she was, loving soft blankets and luxurious baths, the hands of an expert beautician, obsequious service, a perfumed background.

Poor little Rose Riccio and her thousands of sisters. Fabienne could not have borne it.

She grew to love her apartment, to thrill when she opened her closet door and saw frock after frock hanging on its perfumed form; to savor her rich food. To appreciate the things she could not do without.

Other girls could live in small apartments, have a part-time maid, buy clothes, have good times, save money on five hundred dollars a month, but Fabienne Seymour was the granddaughter of a multi-millionaire, and she could not imagine having less than she had.

But the idea must have been there—

Ned Blakely took her to the Carousal club one night. "Did you know this is a gambling joint?" he asked her.

"Ned, I've gambler's blood in my veins and I've solemnly vowed I never gamble for money. But . . . but, I'll go along with you. I'll play hunches . . . if you'll give me the first five hundred you make."

Ned was a little slow. He scratched his head. "I don't get this," he said dubiously, "but if your hunches are good, I'll take a chance. Where do you come in on this?"

"If you win five hundred over your investment, I don't come in. I go OUT!" she said with wry gallantry. "Because I'm going to double that five hundred."

He gave up completely. The girl was talking in riddles.

"Put it on 24," she told him, indicated his first stack of chips. "Red."

The ball dropped on 24—red. It dropped on 14—black. On red 36. Twelve times, out of fifteen, it dropped on the number Fabien whispered to him.

He counted off five one hundred dollar bills and gave them to her. "What now?" he wanted to know.

"I don't know," she said. "Your little winnings have cost me two months' income. You won't find me at the Plaza after the first of the month, darling."

"I get it. With this money and your income for a couple of months you're going on a cruise?"

She nodded. "To the never-never land, darling. No one will ever believe it about little Fab. Not even myself. Come on, Ned. Our work's done. And nice work it is!"

Louisiana Smashes Long Dictatorship

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 18—(AP)—Louisiana's voter's, regardless of who they put in as governor, has smashed the dictatorship administration founded by Huey P. Long.

Returns of Tuesday's democratic primary clearly indicate the absolutism will be stripped from the regime set up in Louisiana 12 years ago by the late "Louisiana Kingfish" even if Huey's brother, Earl K. Long, goes in as governor.

Still incomplete returns from the first primary gave Long a commanding lead over Sam Jones of Lakes Charles but he lacked a majority over Jones and three other "reform" candidates.

All indications pointed to a second primary election February 20. Long scoffed at Jones' chances but said he would start a runoff campaign tomorrow, if necessary. Jones planned to get back on the stump Saturday.

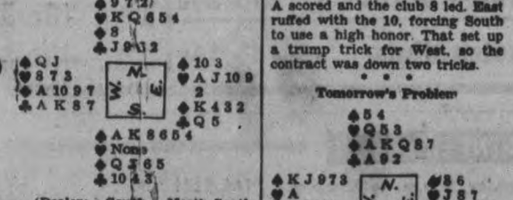
"The Authority on Authorities"

BIDDING AFFECTS PLAY

IT IS almost amazing to notice how emphatically the preliminary bidding influences the play on some deals. Sometimes in duplicate the same final contract is reached at two tables, the declarer making it without difficulty in one case and taking a bad licking in the other, entirely because different bidding had occurred, giving one defender or the other an entirely different picture of the situ-



(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

At one table West overcalled South's 1-Spade here with 2-Clubs, North bid 2-Hearts, East doubled, So[illegible] Spades, North 3-Spades and [illegible] doubled, pretty bad. At the o[illegible] West overcalled with 2-Diamonds, intending later to show Clubs. North then bid 2-Hearts, East 3-Diamonds, South 3-Spades and all passed.

In the first case West led the club K, then the club A and the club 7, ruffed by East's 10. The latter laid down the heart A, which declarer trumped. Then he took the spade A and K, led to the 9, took three diamond discards on the two set-up hearts and club J, gave up a diamond and made his contract.

At the other table, the club K lead was followed by a switch to the 7 of the diamond suit which East had supported. The K won, then the club Q was cashed, the diamond 2 led to the A, the club A scored and the club 8 led. East ruffed with the 10, forcing South to use a high honor. That set up a trump trick for West, so the contract was down two tricks.

Tomorrow's Problem

(Dealer: West. Both sides vulnerable.)

If West makes a spade overcall during the auction and then leads the club 10, how should South play for 4-Hearts?

Mt. Pleasant WI Hears Talk On Legislation

MOUNT PLEASANT, Jan. 17,—Mr. W. R. Howard, barrister of Millbrook, addressed the January meeting of the Mount Pleasant branch of Women's Institute held at the home of Mrs. G. Shield, Wednesday afternoon on the subject of "Legislation."

The meeting opened with the president, Mrs. Ira Lowe, presiding and Mrs. H. Gardiner acted as secretary in the absence of Mrs. Lawson. "New Year Resolutions" were given in response to the roll-call. Letters of thanks were read from those who had been remembered with fruit during illness.

Following a discussion on ways of making money, it was decided to use the "group system" and four groups were organized with the first named acting as convener.

Group No. 1: Mrs. T. C. Morden, Mrs. W. H. Lowes, Mrs. Thomas Graham, Mrs. M. Handley, Mrs. E. Lawson.

Group No. 2: Mrs. Ira Lowe, Mrs. M. Best, Mrs. G. Ruth, Mrs. J. Handley, Mrs. J. Elliott, Mrs. H. Gardiner.

Group No. 3: Mrs. V. Jones, Mrs. M. Jones, Mrs. A. Tully, Miss M. Jones, Mrs. Windrem, Mrs. A. Hayes.

Group No. 4: Mrs. G. Shield, Mrs. H. H. Lowes, Mrs. N. Fee, Mrs. Brenton, Miss J. Shield.

Each group will be expected to make as much money as they can in whatever way they wish.

Mrs. Thomas Graham, president of the Mount Pleasant Red Cross unit, presided for the distribution of yarn and sewing after which Mrs. Lowe introduced the special speaker, Mrs. W. R. Howard, of Millbrook, who delivered an eloquent address on the subject of "Legislation."

Dealing with the subject of 'Wills" the speaker said the legal way was the only way and the best way to avoid dissension among beneficiaries.

Mr. Howard said that all that could avail themselves of the opportunity of reading the book, "Country Lawyer," would be very wise, as it contained valuable examples of trouble made out of wills being poorly made together with plenty of humor.

In making your will, make it in your own words, as simply as you can and be sure to sign at the bottom of the page as anything that is written below the signature is valid, if there are two or more pages sign both of them at the bottom.

It is the duty of every man or woman, young or old, to make a will, do not use "will forms." They are dangerous and out of date. Do not ask any of the beneficiaries to witness a will.

Mr. Howard's address was very interesting throughout and a number of questions were asked which Mr. Howard explained very fully.

Mrs. Thomas Graham and Mrs. T. C. Morden moved the appreciation of the meeting to Mr. Howard for his fine address, this being endorsed by a hearty applause.

The hostess, assisted by Mrs. H. Gardiner and Mrs. Thomas Graham served refreshments.

Sewage Spreader Of Paralysis

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18—(AP).—Infantile paralysis, like typhoid fever, is spread through sewage and human carriers who show no signs of the disease.

The United States public health service reported today that recent investigations had shown that thousands of healthy persons were carrying the virus which causes the disease, without knowing it. Officials said also that samples of sewage taken in Charleston, S.C., during an outbreak last year had caused typical poliomyelitis symptoms in monkeys, proving that it was a waste-borne disease.

The service is doing extensive research and investigation of epidemics in an effort to determine how the virus enters the body and affects the nerves, principaly those of the spinal cord. Apparently it can be swallowed without danger but if breathed in it affects the olfactory nerves in the nose and is carried to others within a period of seven to 14 days.

Efforts have been made to treat victims of the crippling disease with the serum of persons who have recovered from it, but no conclusive results have been obtained. Also various forms of immunization, such as the spraying of the noses of children who might be susceptible, have been tried without success.

Proof that the virus is carried in virulent form in sewage and by immune human carriers is the greatest recent advance toward conquest of the disease, officials said.

Relieved Pains in Back and Limbs, Says Grateful Lady

Says She Turned to Syntona on More Than One Occasion and Got the Same Good Results Each Time.

MRS. AMY WILKEY

The great popularity of Syntona in Peterborough and vicinity is not surprising when it is known that each spoonful is loaded with extracts from not less than 12 of the finest medicinal herbs to improve the action of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels and to cleanse the blood of excess acids and poisonous waste matter. Syntona is pleasant to take and many who have used it say that even after the first few days the whole system takes on a new feeling of nergy and resistance. The following report of Mrs. Amy Wilkey, 552 Egerton St., London, is only one of the many recently received.

"I have come to rely on Syntona as a great household remedy, for it has given me grand results on more than one occasion. About two years ago I was feeling rundown, suffered with constipation, biliousness, and pains in my muscles and joints. I slept poorly and had frequent headaches. At that time I took a few bottles of Syntona and I got splendid results.

"Then, lately, the rheumatic pains began to come back on me, particularly in my back and limbs. My tongue was coated, my breath was bad, and I was troubled with constipation. Remembering how Syntona had helped me before, I took another short treatment and I got the same good results this time. It is the finest medicine I have ever used."

If you live in Peterborough or vicinity, go to Elliott's Drug Store and get yourself a treatment of Syntona. See how much better you, too, can be feeling in just a short time.—(Advt.)

Soviet Sorry Sweden, Norway Told

Bombing Of Kallaks All a Mistake Moscow Writes

STOCKHOLM, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Soviet apologies for territorial violations of Sweden and Norway by Russian warplanes gave those countries assurance today that Red fliers had erred.

The apologies from Moscow, pleading accidental trespassing in answer to formal Swedish and Norwegian protests, came while divided counsel left in doubt how Scandinavia would respond to proposals for greater aid to Finland and military co-operation by the northern nations.

Although some Swedish opinion leaned toward increased support for Finland and was attentive to a Socialist-proposed northern "defence league," reaction to any deviation from strict neutrality was cold in other quarters here and in Norway. Denmark held aloof from the issue, although there were indications of her concern.

The Soviet note to Sweden was in response to representations against the bombing of Kallaks Island, on the far side of the Gulf of Bothnia from Finland, last Sunday.

Although Sweden had charged nine Russian planes bombed the little island near the Bothnian port of Lulea, the Russians made no mention of bombs having been dropped and acknowledged that only two craft, lost in a snowstorm, flew over Kallaks.

Blame the Weather.

Norway had protested similarly last Monday, charging that several Russian planes flew over Norwegian territory between January 12 and 14 and that one had landed on Norwegian soil.

The note handed the Norwegian Legation in Moscow acknowledged the charge but explained that the flights of Russian planes over Norway were due "to extremely unfavorable atmospheric conditions rendering orientation difficult for fliers."

The Soviet explanation was regarded with satisfaction in official Oslo quarters, but it was explained that Norway attached no great importance to the incident.

Informed sources said Norway appreciated that the border was indistinguishable in present wintry conditions and that the Russian apology, although welcome, would "have no bearing on the general political situation."

In Stockholm, too, the Russian

Aberhart Upset By Ontario Act

CALGARY, Jan. 19. —(CP) — Premier William Aberhart of Alberta said last night he was "disturbed" to hear that Ontario's Legislature approved a motion condemning the Canadian Government for its "so little" war effort.

"The question of the efficient conduct of the war effort is a matter on which I do not wish to express an opinion at the present time," the Premier said when asked to comment on the Ontario action.

"I feel that any failure to look after that great problem would need to know all the facts before making such a charge.

"We in Alberta are striving to do all we can to fulfil our part in this matter, knowing that when the time comes we will be able to give a good account of ourselves.

"I am certainly disturbed to hear of this charge by the Ontario Government."

Nary a Wolf Or Even Track Do Hunters See First Day Of Hunt Near Wolf Lake

By JACK PETERSON
Examiner Staff Reporter

APSLEY, Jan. 19.—The Peterborough Fish and Game Protective Association's bronze-plated medal remained unclaimed last night when weary Charlie Kingan and Herb Mason returned after dark from their trek around Wolf Lake.

For nary a wolf did they see, nary a wolf track, even. They came back with their three guides, their driver, and T. J. Lyons, game overseer, who was there, perhaps, to make sure no fleet-footed deer was mistaken for its bitterest enemy.

Charlie and Herb came back with the same enthusiasm with which they had started. "I can't understand it. Not even a fox did we see," said Charlie. "Oh, well, tomorrow is another day," he added optimistically.

This Is Big Day

For Friday is to be the big day, they believe. They have visions of at least 15 hunters turning up and they are changing their hunting locale. The hunt is to take place a few miles north of Apsley with headquarters at Gregson's Hunt Camp.

This is the district where wolves were seen and shot last winter. You can hear them howling every night they say. Granted there are a dozen hunters around the bush, natives of Apsley are confident they will start the wolves running. Once that's done, once the wolves are on the move, Charlie Kingan will have to get more medals, they predict.

They'd be dead sure, these Apsley folk, that hunters would have success, if only they were on the county's game preserve, which lies a stone's throw to the left of the Young's Point-Apsley road. For that, they claim, is the spot where deer winter, because the bush is trick. "And," added Stewart Brown, "where there are deer there will be wolves. I'll bet if I took a dozen men from this district into that preserve for a few days we'd come out with wolves aplenty."

Wolves Are There

"Don't let anyone tell you there aren't any wolves up here," he said. "There are lots of them if you go in the right place to get them. We know we people who live here, that there are lots of them."

There's a move on foot now to have the last day's hunt in the preserve, if only permission can be obtained from the government. Some men are convinced a wire will get them that permission. They point out that the purpose of the hunt is only to destroy the animals that prey on the game the government is trying to preserve. Game Inspector I. J. Lyons would like to see the hunters get that permission, too, because he's just as convinced they won't get any wolves there and he'd like to prove his point.

Eight Hunters

Six miles over an unbroken trail, through woodlands and over a frozen lake, a 30-mile wind whipping their faces, eight hardy hunters went by sleigh yesterday in search of elusive wolves.

Three inches of snow covered woods and lake alike and a spirited team broke a new trail through in a little under two hours. They reached a lone hunter's shack on the south shore of the lake in time for lunch and guides placed a roaring fire in the stove to thaw out the sportsmen and reporters.

That was the beginning of the King Holds Reply To Hepburn Until Session

OTTAWA, Jan. 19. —(CP) —The early days of the coming session of parliament probably will be featured by a statement from Prime Minister Mackenzie King concerning the motion of the Ontario Legislature criticizing the Dominion Government's war effort.

The capital learned of Premier Hepburn's renewal of his attacks on the Federal administration with considerably interest but it was viewed comparatively mildly on parliament hill and scarcely ranked as a political sensation.

Shortly after parliament opens next Thursday the matter likely will be aired again. The Prime Minister told newsmen last night that he believed parliament was the proper place to discuss the Government's war policy and "I shall reserve until

Moira Road Home Detroyed By Fire

TWEED, Jan. 19—(ENS). — Fire completely destroyed the large frame residence of Mr. George Dafoe on the Moira Road, about two miles east of West Huntingdon. Mr. and Mrs. Dafoe were away at the time of the fire, and their son was working about the barns, when the flames were noticed.

Help was summoned and although neighbors arrived quickly it was impossible to save the house, which with all its contents was completely lost. A nearby drive shed was in danger but the flames melted the snow on the roof and this helped save the structure.

Fresh Blizzard Roars Over South Ontario

TORONTO, Jan. 19.—(CP)— Ontario shivered in the most bitter weather of winter today with predictions the cold snap would continue at least until this weekend. A bitter west wind added to the discomfort.

A blizzard blew into southern Ontario from Lake Huron last night and workers shovelled away snow today in sub-zero and zero temperatures. Goderich reported the storm was the worst of the season in that district.

A bitter southwest wind assailed thousands of workbound Toronto citizens with the temperature hovering at zero. Weather officials said the wind had a velocity of 29 miles an hour.

Essex county, sometimes referred to as the "sun parlor of Canada," felt the cold keenly as the temperature dropped to eight below zero today with possibility of continued cold — if not colder — weather. A sharp wind accompanied the cold.

Ferry service continued unhampered on the Detroit river but officials said that heavy ice will make for difficulties if the Arctic temperatures continue.

Sarnia district reported the coldest night of winter last night when the mercury dorpped to four below. Freezeups in plumbing systems were numerous. Although the sun shone at Chatham, the thermometer stood at eight below at 8 a.m.

At London, many cases of frozen ears and noses were reported and frozen water pipes gave the Utilities

Privy Council Appeals Struck Blow

Supreme Court Rules Parliament Has Power To Abolish

OTTAWA, Jan. 19 (CP)—The parliament of Canada may abolish appeals to the judicial committee of the Privy Council, the Supreme Court of Canada ruled today.

The majority of the court found parliament was competent to enact the bill to abolish appeals introduced at the last session of parliament by Hon. C. H. Cahan (Cons. St. Lawrence-St. George).

Mr. Justice O. F. Crocket dissented and held the bill was wholly ultra vires of parliament.

Mr. Justice H. H. Davis dissented in part. He found the bill would be valid if it provided that the right of any province in any action concerning a subject matter wholly within the jurisdiction of a provincial legislature was not affected.

The courts decision was given on a reference from the Dominion government upon which arguments were heard last June. The government sought the court's ruling before proceeding with the passage of a bill which would make the Supreme Court of Canada the court of last resort for all Canadian cases.

For the past two sessions of parliament Mr. Cahan has sponsored such a bill in the House of Commons. Last session it drew the support of Justice Minister Lapointe who suggested it be withdrawn pending an opinion from the court.

At present appeals may be taken to the judicial committee from the judgments of Canadian courts in civil but not in criminal cases.

Duff With Majority.

Chief Justice Sir Lyman Duff was with the majority, which also included Mr. Justice A. B. Hudson, Mr. Justice Patrick Kerwin and Mr. Justice T. Rinfret.

The case was one of the most important constitutional issues to come before the court in recent years.

If Parliament, perhaps after a review of today's decision by the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council, enacts the Cahan bill, the Supreme Court of Canada will be

Goebbels Speaks

Posen, Germany, Jan. 19 (AP)

PROPAGANDA Minister Joseph Goebbels told a mass meeting of Germans in this newly annexed formerly Polish territory tonight that "the plutocrats in London and Paris will learn in due time what the Fuehrer has in mind."

Ridiculing conflicting reports that Germany was making peace feelers and that a German offensive through neutral countries was planned, Goebbels declared these were due to "the fear neurosis of world parasites."

"They don't know what we are planning and therefore they beat around the bush," he continued. Adolf Hitler, he said, "in general does not keep his plans in the dark."

"When they are developed they will be put into action.

"When (Germany's enemies) have reduced themselves to a state of nerves they say that is a war of nerves. We are not fighting a war of nerves."

Chinese Circle Canton Area; Japs In Retreat

HONG KONG, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Chinese officials declared today that a series of Japanese defeats in Kwangtung province had resulted in virtual encirclement of Canton, chief city of South China, by advancing Chinese armies.

The Chinese asserted that Japanese outer lines defending Canton were "crumbling" and that the Japanese had met in Kwangtung one of their most serious reverses of the war.

They declared that since the Japanese began a retreat from Yingtak, important station on the Canton-Hankow railway 80 miles north of Canton, the invaders had been pushed back more than 50 miles. The Chinese line, they said, now form an arc with its right, or western extremity, only 18 miles from Canton and the centre and left only 25 miles from the city.

Canton, normally with a population of 1,500,000, was seized by the Japanese in October, 1938, and since then has been the base for operations in South China.

Yesterday the Chinese reported the killing of 500 Japanese in a battle 33 miles north of Canton.

Sabotage Squad Probing Blast

LONDON, Jan. 19—(AP). — Scotland Yard's sabotage squad delved today into the mystery of explosions which killed five persons and injured 30 at the Waltham Abbey munitions plant yesterday.

The Press Association said authorities had received anonymous information several days ago that "accidents might happen" in the royal gunpowder factory, 12 miles north of London and at others in various parts of England.

One Scotland Yard expert went to Waltham Abbey to check the tip and inspect safeguards against leakage of information.

The small casualty list in the two or possibly three explosions was attributed to wide spacing of the factory buildings over an area of seven miles.

Windows were broken for six miles around and the noise was heard over a 20-mile radius. It was understood that the explosions occurred in one shed of a nitroglycerin works.

Police were checking the possibil-

Council Steers War Issue Off

CORNWALL, Ont., Jan. 19.—(CP)—Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry united counties council today avoided a vote on a contentious resolution presented by W. H. Casselman, reeve of Chesterville and former M.L.A. for Dundas, endorsing the Ontario Legislature's attitude on the Dominion war effort. After some discussion, sponsors of the motion withdrew it.

With T. O. Keyes, reeve of Winchester, as seconder, the following motion was presented soon after opening of the morning session of council:

"That this council endorse wholeheartedly the attitude taken by the Ontario Legislature in lamenting the war efforts of the Dominion government."

Warden Robert McNaught said he had received the motion and would have to put it, although he was sorry to do so.

Howard Ross, deputy reeve of Charlottenburg, believed council would be ill-advised to interfere in such a matter. "We do not know what the Dominion Government is doing," he declared, "and I do not think we should interfere."

Canadian, Australian Warships On Patrol Off 'Frisco Stop Columbus Crew Sailing

ALDERSHOT, Eng., Jan. 19.—(CP).—A small red-leather volume among the stream-lined travelling library of Major-General A. G. L. McNaughton, General Officer Commanding the 1st Canadian Division, tells a striking story of rising stress on leadership and unforced loyalty in the volunteer armies to-ady.

The book is a 250-year-old army orders handbook printed in London in 1688—"Rules and artitcles for the better government of His Majesties land forces in pay." The 64 articles in its 36 pages are est out in masterly typographic fashion, the body type in Gothic lettering (commonly known as old English).

"The volunteer army of to-day is composed of men who realize the forces of aggression and oppression threaten our whole mode of living," said General McNaughton. "In the Canadian active service force, they are a cross-section of Canada's young men. But 2½ centuries ago armies were drawn from the lowest type of citizen, rough and dishonest, often definitely vicious in character. It was necessary to set up the most rigid regulations for the protection of officers and in order to maintain discipline.

"The situation to-day is in striking contrast when, with the high quality of our soldier we depend very largely on a discipline of desire to do a duty because it is right."

Sylt Bombing Mystery; Not RAF Job

London Also Denies Fleet Or French Involved In Raid

LONDON, Jan. 19—(CP Cable)—Sylt, Germany's base for mine-laying seaplanes, provided a new mystery of war today as Danish reports of violent anti-aircraft fire and explosions, and even of heavy fire of warships, brought authoritative denials in London that British aircraft or naval forces had been engaged in the area.

It was officially denied that R.A.F. planes had been over Sylt and it was also stated in London that the French air force had not been raiding there either.

Naval circles said they had no knowledge of any bombardment by British warships in the Sylt zone. A spokesman also ruled out a suggestion that the fleet air arm may have been in action.

It was pointed out here that the heavy gunfire heard may have been due to intense practice shelling by German artillery and anti-aircraft units. The Germans held many such exercises near the Friesian Islands before the war and may be continuing them now.

The latest report of a "raid" is the second from Denmark within eight days. Each time official denials that R.A.F. warplanes were involved have been issued by the air ministry.

Toronto's Labor Council Cleans Out Reds

TORONTO, Jan. 19 — (CP). — For the first time in several years the Toronto District Labor Council today was without a Communist member on any of its important administrative committees.

Clearing house last night at annual election meeting 801 voting members pooled their votes in an overwhelming anti-Communist block and when the votes were counted Communist candidates were ousted from all their committee seats.

Result of the balloting showed the Toronto Firefighters' Association, the Musical Protective Association and the Joint Teamsters' Council voted solidly anti-Communist "all along the line."

The Communists also tasted their first defeat in council, when by a vote of 52 to 46 the Labor body refused to support the Labor candidature of Fred Collins, self-admitted Communist. Collins lost his seat on the council executive board.

German Attack Nets Prisoners

PARIS, Nov. 19 — (CP-Havas). — German troops have resumed the patrol activity suspended because of the extreme cold of the past few days, military authorities said today.

A German detachment of about 20 men attacked a French outpost in a wooden sector of the Vosges Mountains yesterday. After a sharp skirmish conducted mainly with grenades, the Germans were forced to retreat, leaving several prisoners behind in the hands of the French.

In the air, activity was practically at a standstill. French pursuit ships went up only 15 times during the day. Two German planes made reconnaissance flights deep into eastern and northern France.

This morning's official communique said: "Nothing to report."

A Netherlands communique explained that "as there were some indications these were British planes, London has been asked for amplification."

WINNIPEG.—J. S. Woodsworth, Federal leader of the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation, today suggested that Premier Mitchell F. Hepburn of Ontario would be well advised to resign his Ontario Liberal leadership and enter national politics if he wished to express himself on national matters.

Freak Blizzard

Stratford, Ont., Jan. 19 (CP)

WHILE Stratford shivered in sub-zero weather today a freak blizzard swept across Lake Huron and into this district, blocking three highways but leaving most other roads open.

The storm tied up most district traffic and for the first time this winter Canadian National Railways' snowploughs were called into service between Stratford and Goderich and between Kincardine and Owen Sound.

The blizzard skipped Stratford and highway officials here were somewhat surprised today when they received requests for snowploughs from outlying districts.

Any Nazi Attack On Lowlands Terrific Gamble

By J. F. SANDERSON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

LONDON, Jan. 19.—(CP Cable.)—A German offensive against Holland and Belgium in present winter conditions would be a "colossal gamble" in the opinion of high military leaders here.

An attack against the low countries is feasible as long as the weather stays cold and the ground remains frozen, but a sudden thaw would bring extremely serious handicaps where a reverse might develop into disaster.

In the opinion of military experts here the Germans would be forced to give at least 24, and probably 48, hours' notice of their intention to move against the low countries.

At the present time Germany has

Smuggling Rife Along New Red-Nazi Border

WARSAW, Jan. 19. — (AP). — Smuggling along the new German-Soviet Russian frontier has assumed proportions causing alarm to the Reich and Soviet authorities. Even barbed wire and the guns of numerous frontier guards have not stopped it.

American dollars change hands under most hazardous conditions. They are wanted by Polish Jews on the German side to pay for tickets to other countries. They will pay as high as 7,000 zlotys for a one hundred dollar bill or 4,000 for $100 in gold. At the official rate 540 zlotys is the equivalent of $100.

Smuggling of persons is as extensive as that of money and goods. Some 100,000 Poles are said still to be on the Russian side of the frontier where they fled before the German advance of last September. They would like to return to their homes.

The counterpart of Poles trying to return to the section now under German domination is to be found among Polish Jews wanting to escape to Soviet Russia because of the anti-Semititc policies of Nazism.

Protests Grow

Hamilton, Ont., Jan. 19.

MEMBERS of Parliament here reported today that they had been deluged with telephone calls protesting against the sale of wheat by Canada to Russia. A. A. Ten Liberals Bolt On Hepburn

Premier Threatens To Resign If Motion Fails

TORONTO, Jan. 19.—(CP).—Premier Mitchell Hepburn of Ontario appeared farther away to-day than ever from amicable co-operation with the Federal government at Ottawa.

The Ontario Premier blew skyhigh an apparent wartime reconciliation with Prime Minister Mackenzie King in a blistering broadside yesterday against the Federal government's leadership in the national war effort and a violent attack on the Prime Minister personally.

When continued condemnation of the Federal government drew objection from some Liberal members, Premier Hepburn brought the issue to a head with a hastily drafted motion endorsing the critical stand he and Opposition Leader Drew had taken.

The motion was carried 44-10, with the Premier threatening to resign if it failed. The 16 Conservatives present and 26 Liberals supported the motion and 10 Liberals voted against their leader. When the vote was taken there were 35 absentees, a number having withdrawn before the voting.

The motion, providing the rare spectacle of a Provincial Legislature censuring the Federal Government, climaxed discussion which opened Tuesday when the Premier and Col. Drew vigorously denounced the Federal Government's war efforts. Debate yesterday was marked by heated exchanges, questioning of motives and of the propriety of a Provincial Legislature passing opinion on a matter like defence for which Parliament alone was responsible.

Probe Suggested On Fr. Coughlin

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—(AP)—A committee of 16, headed by Prof. Harold C. Urey of Columbia University, Nobel prize winner in chemistry, has asked the United States government to investigate any connection Rev. Charles E. Coughlin, Detroit radio priest, might have had with the "Christian Front."

Father Coughlin, who last summer praised the work of John F. Cassidy, a leader of the Front, disclaimed any relationship with the organization after Cassidy and 16 of his followers were arrested on charges of plotting to overthrow the government.

The request for an investigation was sent yesterday to Attorney General Robert Jackson and to J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Members of the committee included Robert W. Searle, general secretary of the Greater New York Federation of Churches; Dean Christian Gauss, of Princeton University; Dr. Guy Emery Shipler, editor of "The Churchman," and Prof. Franz Boaz, the noted anthropologist.

"It appears to have been in response to Father Coughlin's urgent call for formation of 'platoons' that the Christian Front was formed," they said in telegrams to the officials. "He publicly praised the heroism and zeal of the Christian Front. On several occasions he had given open encouragement to Cassidy."

French Orders To Canadians Thrill Paris Newsmen

ALDERSHOT, Jan. 19 — (CP Cable).—A group of prominent French newspaper proprietors and executives today paid their respects to Major-General A. G. L. McNaughton, General Officer Commanding the Canadian Active Service Force, at headquarters of the First Canadian Division.

In the party were Jacques de Marsillac, Le Journal; Charles Houssaye, Havas News Agency; Jacques Chastenet, Le Temps; Pierre Brisson, Figaro; and Emile Gaubert, Provincial newspapers.

The informal call on the Canadian area was made during the Frenchmen's visit to the Aldershot command as guests of the British Council. They came in cars flying French Tricolor pennants. At Canadian headquarters the newspapermen asked for special permission to meet the French-speaking unit of the Division—the 22nd Battalion.

They arrived at the parade ground as the men were going through the daily physical training. They stayed to see the Canadians perform regulation rifle and Bren gun drill, thoroughly enjoying the experience of hearing the N.C.O.'s barking commands in French to British soldiers.

After the drill display the visitors moved freely among the troops, chatting with them in French. They were particularly interested in hearing about the men's ancestry and how they were enjoying life in the army. They invited the men to visit their plants in France at the first opportunity.

Midwest's Schools Are Shut As Sub-Zero Weather Holds

NEW YORK, Jan. 19 — (AP). — Unrelenting Arctic blasts decreed another day of sub-zero chill for the United States Middle-west to-day and beat down the mercury below the freezing level virtually everywhere except th Gulf States. Little relief was expected until next week.

Grain dealers feared damage to winter wheat and rye. Live stock and fruit and vegetable crops in Texas were periled by snow, ice, and below-freezing temperatures that extended to the coast. Many Mid-western schools were closed. The intense cold was blamed for many fires as householders added fuel to overtaxed stoves.

Nine persons were injured in Chicago last night when two elevated trains collided.

Virtually all Montana suffered from sub-zero cold. It was 35 below at Butte yesterday. A freak gale ripped off roofs and uprooted trees in the White River Valley in Washington.

San Francisco's minimum of 38.5 degrees yesterday was its lowest for the date in 18 years.

A truck driver rescued Otto Krekeler, 24, of Lusk, Wyo., after he had spent seven hours in an unheated car which stalled in 21 degrees below zero weather.

Hobart Walls, 29, a barefoot hitchhiker, was treated for frozen hands and feet at Bedford, Ind. He was found seeking shelter in a hollow log. Two exposure deaths were reported in Indiana.

The coastguard warned shipping against rapidly forming ice in the Hudson River. The mercury slid to 11.5 degrees in New York City yesterday, coldest of the winter.

GermanBases Bombed In R.A.F. Raid

Denmark Reports Sylt Attacked, Not RAF Says London

LONDON, Jan. 19. —(CP) —Advices to the effect that the Royal Air Force had struck again at German North Sea bases reached London today—25 years to the day since the first German Zeppelins droned in from the North Sea to bomb England in the last war.

However, the Air Ministry said it had no information to confirm dispatches from Toendern, Denmark indicating that raids were carried out last night against the German seaplane base, the Island of Sylt, and possibly the naval base of Helgoland, another North Sea Island.

Unoffical but authoritative sources insisted that no Royal Air Force planes were over Sylt yesterday.

Meanwhile, in maritime warfare a German submarine was blamed for the loss of the British tanker Inverdargle, 9,456 tons, which went down in flames off the southwest English coast Tuesday. The entire crew of 45 or 46 was believed to have perished. One Canadian, seventh engineer C. W. Dixon of Liverpool, N. S., was reported to have gone down with the vessel. Others in the crew were seamen from the West Indies.

Cargo Is Rescued

The cargo of an Italian steamship the 4,427-ton Premuda, was saved when the vessel was refloated from Goodwin Sands and safely beached. She had run aground after colliding with a lightship Tuesday night.

Apparently linked with Britain's economic war effort was a decision announced last night to suspend for three months import of American surplus cotton under a cotton-rubber barter deal.

Texts of the reasons for judgment written by the different judges were not immediately available.

Mr. Justice Davis took the view the Cahan bill would be within the powers of Parliament if it were amended to provide that it should not affect the rights of any province in respect of any civil action started in a provincial court and concerned solely with matters over which the Provincial Legislature had exclusive jurisdiction.

In effect the court upheld the position, taken on the matter by the Dominion Government, supported by the Manitoba Government and as against the position taken by the governments of British Columbia, Ontario, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick.

The four opposing provincial governments appeared at the hearing of the reference last June to argue against the validity of the Cahan bill.

Manitoba submitted a brief supporting the Dominion's claim and the other provinces, namely Alberta, Saskatchewan, Quebec and Prince Edward Island were not represented.

Commission its busiest period in years. The temperature was six below early to-day in a January cold wave that hasn't been equalled in the district for several years.

Taximen and plumbers were the busiest persons at Stratford as motorists vainly tried to start long-standing automobiles in the eight-below temperature and householders found water pipes frozen.

The thermometer dipped to three below at Fort Erie, lowest of the winter in that district. A driving south-west wind accompanied by snow is blanketing the area and traffic moved with difficulty. At Galt the mercury dropped 17 degrees overnight to 5 below.

Outlying districts of Hamilton reported 10-below zero readings with a howling wind making the cold insufferable. The gale whipped across the district throughout the night.

Clear, cold weather was reported throughout Northern Ontario, with bright sunshine causing sub-zero temperatures to moderate.

How To Overcome Piles And Rectal Soreness

If you are annoyed with itching piles or rectal soreness, do not neglect the same or run the risk of an operation. Any itching, soreness or painful passage of stool, is nature's warning and proper treatment should be secured at once. For this purpose get from McDermid & Jury and Bond's Drug Stores or any druggist, a package of Hemroid and use as directed. This formula, which is used internally, quickly relieves the itching and soreness and aids in healing the sore, tender spots. Hemroid is highly recommended, is easy to use and it seems the height of folly for anyone to risk an operation when a simple remedy, which is so pleasant to use may be had at such a reasonable cost. —(Advt.)

French Orders

During lunch as guests of Lieut.-General Charles Broad, general officer commanding the Aldershot command, they heard more about the activities of the Canadian division generally from General McNaughton.

Earlier in the day the busy Canadian G.O.C. took time out to receive three mobile tea cars, gifts to the division from the Empire Tea Producers.

The ceremony was performed in front of the entrance to the division headquarters. As Sir Alfred Pickford, chairman of the E.T.P., formally turned the cars over to the general, attendants brought out steaming cups of tea and doughnuts for the entire group taking part while newsreel cameramen ground out a record.

After the inspection the cars were officially handed over to three branches of the Canadian auxiliary services—the Canadian Legion, the Young Men's Christian Association, and the Salvation Army. The cars will tour the area when the Canadians are engaged in night operations, ladling out hot tea and provisions. Later they will be taken by the division to France.

big troop concentrations along her western frontiers, which grow smaller in numbers as Switzerland is approached.

Germany's big gamble would be over the weather. Winter conditions impose greater difficulties on the attacker tha non the defence, but if the German high command could bank on the canals and rivers of Holland and Belgium remaining frozen an attack might be justified in German eyes.

Military experts here believe it would be impossible for Germany to launch a winter offensive against the Maginot Line or through Switzerland. That leaves three possibilities—into Northern Holland, into that part of Holland below the Rhine and a big swing into Belgium or through the Ardenne and Luxembourg.

Just Postponed.

Although the fears of Belgium and Holland last week-end over the imminence of a German invasion have receded, there are many diplomatic and military experts here who believe the crisis is not over, but merely postponed.

They believe in the inevitability of Germany moving against the low countries at some time with the double object of securing air bases for bombing Britain and flanking the Maginot Line.

One reason advanced by those holding this view is Germany's conviction she can win the war only by a knockout blow against Britain. If this can be done at all, it will be only by air attack, which in turn demands air fields from which fighter aircraft can convoy bombers in large numbers and in a steady stream.

Germany can get these air fields, from which Britain's factories and sea-borne commerce can be attacked, only from the low countries. It might be that Adolf Hitler will decide to protect his rear first by some action against Rumania or Scandinavia, but the belief in the inevitability of his attacking the low countries is growing here.

DAILY WAR SUMMARY

(By Canadian Press.)

German war activity up to the present reflects a certain hesitation on the part of the Nazi regime which is emphasized by the declaration of Ronald Cross, British Minister of Economic Warfare, that the Allies would so strangle German economy that Germany could no longer maintain a war effort.

The present disposition of German air, naval and military forces in the West indicates an intention to launch a great attack on Great Britain and France, perhaps by way of Holland and Belgium or Switzerland.

On the other hand all the diplomatic endeavors of the Nazi Government and the internal economic organization of Germany point to a desire to prepare for a long war of attrition, a defensive war against the economic offensive described by Mr. Cross.

The desire to bolster German economy is evidenced by co-operation with Moscow and the samewhat humiliating spectacle of Nazi approval of the Red armies smashing into friendly Finland, hitherto regarded as within the German sphere of influence. It is also evidenced by efforts to maintain favorable trade relations with the states of Southeastern Europe and the relatively restrained uze of aircraft in the West. No more gasoline is being used than is necessary.

Should Germany decide to fight the long war on the economic front it is possible German military operations in the next few months may be such as will pay immediate if temporary dividends in economic resources. This carries a menace for neutral countries rich in oil and other materials needed for Germany's war machine and internal economy.

Some such countries in both Northwestern and Southeastern Europe may be given the option of merging their economic life with that of the Reich by selling their goods on credit or be invaded.

Must Attend Church.

In its opening art,etc, all officers and soldiers are directed to frequent divine service and sermon "dilligently." Officers wilfully absenting themselves were subject to severe reprimand by court marital. Privates forfeited a shilling from next pay for first offence; for second offence, a shilling "and be laid in irons for 12 hours."

Says serious article IV: "If any officer or soldier shall presume to blaspheme the Holy and undivided trinity, or the persons of God the Father, God the Son of God the Holy Ghost; or shall presume to speak against any known articles of the Christian Faith, He shall have his tongue bored through with a red-hot iron."

Silence on the march was mandatory "to the end that officers may be heard and their orders executed — penalty for infraction being imprisonment or court martial.

From article XVI: "But if any officer or soldier shall exact money, or wilfully burn any house, barn, stack of corn, hay or straw, or any ship, boat or carriage, or anything which may serve for the provision of the army, without order from the commander in chief, he shall suffer death for it.

And Article XXX: "When warning is giving for setting the watch, by beat of drum or sound of trumpet, if any soldier shall absent himself without reasonable cause, he shall be punished by riding the wooden horse." This was an equivalent to "riding the rail."

The "wooden horse" was the penalty too for soldiers duelling "though neither of them fall upon the spot nor die afterwards." Officers in a similar case were cashiered—as is the penalty today.

Fatigue duty was the penalty for a cavalryman losing his horse or an infantryman "spoiling" his weapons; "if any trooper or dragoon shall lose or spoil his horse, or any foot soldier his arms, or any part thereof by negligence or gaming, he shall remain in the quality of a pioneer or sea venger till he be furnished at his own charge with as good as were lost."

Robin Pays Early Call On Bewdley District

BEWDLEY, Jan. 19.— (ENS)— There is a robin in Bewdley that doesn't seem to mind the cold weather. As Ronald Manley, with his father, walked to the bus at eight o'clock on one of the coldest mornings this week, about one hundred yards from their home they saw a lonely little robin.

As might be expected it was not singing its cheery summer song nor chirping for rain, but was demurely flying to a tree where it lit for a moment, then continued on its journey in a westerly direction. From all appearances the sub-zero weather was having little effect on this early visitor.

Reminder: Don't forget to feed the birds these cold days.

Air Chief Croil Well Fitted For Great Task

OTTAWA, Jan. 19.—(CP).—The steady hand guiding the Royal Canadian Air Force through the most significant phase of its brief history has been at the helm only six years, but Air Vice-Marshal George Mitchell Croil joined Canada's Air Force on the day it was formed and it has become virtually a life work for the quiet, efficient officer.

This 46-year-old veteran of the First Great War and holder of the Air Force Cross for Distinguished Service in that struggle would seem particularly fitted to direct the R.C.A.F. in the present conflict. He holds the rank of Air Vice-Marshal and Chief of Air Staff. As such he will be executive head of the giant British commonwealth air training plan in addition to building Canada a first class air arm.

The duties of an air force give the Air Vice-Marshal very little chance to fly an airplane though he travels by air frequently on official business. "I try to keep my hand in but I don't get much chance," he said. "What do I fly? Well, I occasionally get a chance to take over the controls of one of our slower transport ships like a Fairchild or Bellanca."

Air Vice-Marshal Croil joined Canada's air force Feb. 16 1920, the day the order-in-council creating it was signed. He took over full command on Jan. 1, 1934, and by the time the present struggle broke out Canada had a well trained force of university-trained men with wide experience and technical knowledge.

Blast In London Held Accident

LONDON, Jan. 19. —(CP) —Although Scotland Yard's sabotage squad worked on the case, the Government denied today that there was reason to suspect that sabotage caused yesterday's explosions which killed five persons and injured 30 at the Waltham Abbey munitions plant.

The home office and ministry of supply issued a communique which said: "on information at present available there is no reason to suspect that these explosions were caused by sabotage. The whole matter is being investigated by an official committee of inquiry."

The third blast in 24 hours partly destroyed a wall around a carpentry shop at Croydon today.

The explosion, believed to be an accident, occurred when a boiler in the Croydon carpentry shop blew up. It was heard over a quarter-mile radius. There were no victims.

Denmark Neutral.

COPENHAGEN, Jan. 19 — (AP). —The Lower House of Denmark's Parliament voted overwhelmingly to-day its approval of a declaration that the country intends to maintain and defend its neutrality.

The declaration was framed by the country's six largest political parties partly to offset an impression abroad that Denmark would not resist an attack on its territorial integrity.

The vote was 135 to 0. There was one abstention. Jens Moeller, elected by the German minority in Schleswig, refrained as he customarily does in matters involving Danish foreign policy on the grounds he is not Danish. He is the lone German minority member in Denmark's Lower House.

Oshawa Lawyer Is Suspended

WHITBY, Jan. 19 (Special). — Judge D. B. Coleman yesterday directed that all records of a recent division court case be forwarded to the Upper Canada Law Society for investigation, ordered Henry L. Hennick, Oshawa barrister who acted as counsel for the plaintiff, to pay $25 and costs to the defendant, and suspended Hennick from the practice of law in Ontario County for allegedly using deception to secure an order attaching the pay of the defendant.

An affidavit which Hennick had instructed a clerk of the firm of Hennick & Hennick to take was termed by Judge Coleman "false containing statements that were grossly misleading and false."

"In that affidavit statements were made that a judgment had been given on January 10 for $120 and $6.50 court costs, that an order of judgment had been entered in division court, and that the judgment was unsatisfied," Judge Coleman stated.

"Now I find there never was such judgment and that the affidavit was false, containing statements that were grossly misleading and false. Mr. Hennick was warned by the division court clerk that no judgment had been entered, but in spite of this warning he went ahead in the full knowledge that the judge would be deceived, with such deception to secure such an order," continued the bench.

"Serious Batter."

Judge Coleman declared that "it is a serious matter for any barrister to attempt to override the law or deceive the court" and that "this matter warrants the fullest possible investigation, and it is my intention to forward a complete statement of the facts and records in this case to the Upper Canada Law Society."

"By this abuse of court procedure Mr. Hennick has put the defendant in this case to much expense, including this long hearing today, which should not have occurred, and for which he is solely to blame," stated the Bench in ordering Hennick to pay the $25 and costs within five days.

"I direct that he pay this personally and not charge it to his client. In addition I suspend him from practicing law in the court of Ontario County until the amount named has been paid, and until the Law Society shall have rendered its decision," declared the Bench.

The clerk was absolved of blame in taking the affidavit.

British Empire Stands For Civil Liberty

A supper meeting for men was held Thursday night in St. Andrew's school room, with Dr. E. W. Young in the chair. Supper was served by the Woman's Association, with Mrs. F. E. Johnson, Mrs. A. C. Gray, Mrs. A. Belleghem and Mrs. M. T. Breckenridge in charge. Community singing was carried on by R. B. Harle.

The speaker of the evening was Dr. H. R. H. Kenner who took as his subject the British Empire. This empire he said, covers one-quarter of the land of the earth; it is found in every clime, continent and ocean. Dr. Kenner took his hearers on an imaginary voyage around the world, and described the various British possession which they found in the tour. The Channel Islands, Gibraltar, which guards the road to India, Malta, Cyprus. India was 12 times the size of the British Isles, with 7 times the population. Ceylon, Singapore, a commercial centre of the world, Borneo, Hong-Kong, New Guinea, Australia, 3,000 miles in extent, New Zealand, Canada, 4,000 miles from ocean to ocean, the West Indies, British Guiana, West Africa, South Africa.

Raised Up For a Purpose.

Great nations, he said, have been raised up for a purpose. Greece brought culture, Judaea religion, Rome law. This British nation has a purpose that is peculiarly its own, Dr. Kenner traced in outline the manner in which the empire came into existence. England in the remote past ceased one day to be a part of Europe. It acquired colonies gradually North America, India. Her colonizers transformed barbarous lands and brought liberty to slaves. England herself is only a small part of the achievement.

The British empire stands for civil and religious liberty, justice, self-government. It is the greatest secular power for good in the world, Scotland is known all over the world, William Wallace and Robert Burns and other Scots will be cherished for all time. Ireland is a land of devilry and distress. Most of the great soldiers in British wars were Irishmen, the Duke of Wellington, Sir George White, Earl Roberts, Kitchener of Khartoom. England was the speaker's birthplace. It is a land of heroes in thought and action; these heroes have led the world onward. There is a romance in the beauty of an English rural landscape, her noble ruins, her ancient shrines, her green and fertile meadows.

Dr. Kenner was heartily thanked for his able address by the chairman.

Bermuda Airmail Under Censorship

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19—(AP)—Examination of airmail arriving at Bermuda en route to and from Europe was inaugurated last night, while the State Department still was studying the British Government's reply to a protest against interference with United States postal service on the high seas.

Europe-bound mails from the United States on a trans-Atlantic Clipper arriving in Hamilton, Bermuda, were checked by the censor last night, in search for currency contraband which might find its way to Germany.

Offials here were said authoritatively to regard the British reply to the previous protest as a rejection based on an interpretation of international law although the text of the note has not been made public.

No Wolves Heard Of, Reported Or Seen On First Day Of Hunt

While the wolf hunt near Apsley of the Peterborough Fish and Game Association is not proving the big success that its organizers expected possible on account of the very cold weather, great interest is being taken in this in all parts of the province. The box score following the first day's hunt was no wolves wounded, killed or seen. The ABOVE pictures taken by the Examiner staff photographer, Jack Peterson, who is on the hunt, tell of some of the experiences on the first day. (TOP LEFT) Game Inspector I. T. Lyons prepares for the trail; (TOP RIGHT) Jim Lean waits for a wolf in what was believed a likely spot, and (INSET) is Charlie Kingan all bundled up until he looked like Charlie Chan; (LOWER LEFT) team breaking new trail across Wolf Lake with the hunters on the sleigh, and (LOWER RIGHT) are Stan Windsor and Charlie Kingan at the door of the small hunting lodge where the party had lunch.

YMCA Reports Membership 1019 Last Year

Twelve months jampacked with worthwhile activity were covered in a survey by G. H. Roper of the Y. M. C. A. at the annual meeting held Thursday evening, and his report revealed that every department was in a healthy condition with new branches of work being added regularly and the old ones showing consistent enthusiasm and development.

Mr. Roper mentioned that special improvements and repairs to the extent of $1200 had been made during the year putting the Association property in first class shape. Building Fund obligations were substantially reduced during the year, he said, and although the revenue had not measured up to expectations, nevertheless the Association is in sound financial position.

He paid tribute to the Board of Directors who have so capably managed Association affairs, and voiced regret at the serious illness of John R. Marshall one of the most able directors on the Board.

His summary covered all activities in the building and he made special mention of the Friday Night Supper Club which has now passed its 16th birthday. He lauded the work of the Y's Men's Club and the Leaders Corps and remarked on the staff changes which had taken place during the year bringing Al. B. Clarke in as physical director and Hamilton Gosse as leader of the Boy's Department.

Sunday Evening Friendly Hour Group, Public Speaking Class, Bowling Alleys, Ladies' Auxiliary were all covered in the report and shown to be thriving ventures.

Jim Wheary who piloted the Financial Campaign to a successful conclusion last Spring drew plaudits in the secretary's report.

Membership Increase.

Total membership for the year stood at 1019, comprising 677 men 342 boys but a persistent growth in the Social and Bath Group had the effect of decreasing below the last eight year average.

The report of the Physical Department indicated that 9836 had made use of the department during the year and organized groups had taken in volley-ball, basket ball, swimming, and gymnastics.

Learn-to-swim classes and handicraft were perhaps the highlights of the Boys Department which enjoyed a splendid year according to the report which to Gordon Minty for his fine efforts in teaching the boys to swim.

Reports from the Ladies Auxiliary gave an outline of the year's activities which were numerous and the efforts of the members to raise money for their work in the Y were crowned with success. The financial report showed a credit balance of $8.36.

Michael Quinlan Passes Away In His 91st Year

Resident of Peterborough for 70 years, during most of which he took an active interest in the affairs of the community, Michael H. Quinlan, former real estate dealer, died here on Thursday morning in his 91st year.

Mr. Quinlan was born in the Township of Asphodel, the son of David Quinlan, and Maria Hogan, and came to Peterborough when twenty years old, just after Confederation. Peterboro Reeves From Northern Townships Skepticals In Regard To Success Of Hunt

Reeves of Peterborough's northern townships including Allan Caldwell of Chandos and Norman Lean of Burleigh and Anstruther who were in attendance at the banquet tendered the County Council, Thursday night, were frankly sceptical in regard to the success of the Apsley wolf hunt. There were wolves in the district, they admitted. Signs of them were not difficult to discover but when it came to shooting the animals it was a different matter. Wolves, the northern reeves said, were cunning and they possessed a very keen scent that made it difficult for hunters to get close to them.

Reeve Lean said that that they certainly had been wolves not very far from Apsley last week for the half-eaten carcass of a deer had been found at Jack's Lake, evidently a victim of a wolf attack.

Wolves Killing Fox Hounds In Harvey Twp.

LINDSAY, Jan. 19.—(ENS).—Belief that a wolf or wolves are responsible for the death of fox hounds is held by a number of Fenelon Falls hunters who set some fox hounds on a wolf's trail in Harvey township early this week. The hounds followed the trail and failed to return. The hunters are sure that the wolf or a number of wolves were too much for the dogs.

Health Nurse Hurt.

Miss M. Mackenzie, Public Health Nurse of Lindsay, is in a rather serious condition in Ross Memorial Hospital, following an accident on Sussex street yesterday afternoon. Miss Mackenzie was thrown from her car, driven by Vern Hildenbrand, when it was in collision with a truck driven by Allan Spencely. Low water in the Fenelon Falls district is causing grave concern to farmers. Year Of Progress Is Reported At St. Andrew's

The annual congregational meeting of St. Andrew's Church was held Thursday night, the pastor, Rev. Dr. E. W. Young, in the chair, with F. E. Kerr, B.A., secretary. The chairman said that they had had a good year, and made steady progress.

Reports were given of the different organizations. James Harvey spoke for the Y.P. Union, and told of the missionary sale which the lady members had carried through successfully.

Mrs. F. E. Johnston reported for the Women's Association, which has decorated the church. Every month of 1939 a special effort was made to either bring a leading speaker, a choir, or a bazaar. In that way $1,716.00 was raised during the year, which is a record for the association. They hoped to be even better this year.

Mrs. James Johnson sent the Sunday School report, which told of steady work for 42 Sundays. $52 was raised at the anniversary. The Christmas concert and the annual picnic were outstanding features.

The W.M.S. in its different branches was represented by Mrs. F. W. K. Harris, Mrs. F. E. Johnston, Mrs. A. Belleghem, and Jean McDonald. In most cases the allotment was met.

Church Attendance Increases.

The Session report was given by F. E. Kerr and reported Sunday congregations had increased; the membership was advanced by 21. Mrs. J. Whalon spoke for the Girl Guides and Brownies. The first company is now allied to St. Andrew's Church.

The Bowling Club and the Scouts were represented by Mr. J. Morrison.

The meeting was adjourned at this stage on the motion of G. A. Gillespie, to meet again on Wednesday, January 31, to hear the financial statement of the board of managers. It was decided to have a social hour at the close of this meeting.

In The Wrong Place

The Ontario Legislature is in session, but from the nature of many of the addresses one could readily come to the conclusion that it was our Federal Parliament which had commenced its session. Speeches have had to do with the manner of our participation in the war. Nothing which has been done at Ottawa seems to have been right at all. Even the days and actions of the late Sir Sam Hughes, the late Sir Joseph Flavelle and others have been made to pass in review.

The fact that we are not as yet making great quantities of shells and arms in Canada has been aired, and the difficulties in securing proper equipment for our soldiers in the early days of the war have been thoroughly talked about.

One is perhaps disposed to allow considerable latitude for members of a Provincial Legislature during war years, but at best there is something about it which is of doubtful value. In each riding—or approximately so—there will be a member elected to the Ontario Legislature and there will be another one elected to the Federal Government. The Federal Government is the national body, and when a nation is at war it is to the national governing body we look for direction and action. That is essentially so because it is that central government which has the power. It is that national governing body which is in touch at all times with the British government.

Holding a series of discussions in the Provincial Legislature for the purpose of voicing discontent is rather a futile gesture at best and for this reason: There are no responsible Federal ministers present to furnish the answers and to make certain that the critics are not running wild. There is no one at Toronto to explain step by step all that has been done; no one to tell of the shortage of material which has been encountered; no one to explain that the Allies have a tremendous amount of munitions on hand; no one to go into details telling how the supplying of uniforms amounted to meeting at once a demand which was multiplied by ten almost over night.

Lacking such sources of information a debate in the Ontario Legislature is apt to be a rather lop-sided affair when it turns toward Canada's participation in the war. We submit if the gentlemen at Toronto desire to consider the manner in which they can best assist in the war they could begin by considering how they can adjust their finances so they will make the least possible demand on the people for provincial purposes, and in that way allow the Federal Government to have the field of taxation pretty much to itself so there may be financial strength from which to draw for the successful prosecution of our war aims.

Doing What We Detest

Winnipeg Grain Exchange traders estimated that in one day four cargoes of Canadian wheat, in all 1,000,000 bushels, had been sold to Russia for shipment to the Soviet port of Vladivostock. The information was that there was small possibility of such a consignment being re-shipped to Germany. Large military garrisons are maintained at Vladivostock and supplies will be needed right there. None of the business had been carried on through the agency of the Canadian Wheat Board.

We learn that Russia used to buy wheat from United States when that nation was subsidizing exports, but since that subsidy has been dropped Canadian wheat has been able to compete in the export field.

Officials at Ottawa are said to have expressed surprise when hearing of the sale of a million bushels to Russia, but there was nothing to indicate that the Government intended to step in and stop the sale.

That of course is the first thing a red-blooded individual would think of doing. We read the explanation that trade between Canada and Russia is going ahead just the same as though Russia had never embarked on its attack upon Finland.

Canada would not move to take diplomatic action against Russia unless a similar move were made by Britain, and the opinion seems to be that Britain hesitates to take such action because it would drive Russia into a hard-and-fast alliance with Germany.

So there we have it. And it is hard to stomach the idea that our country is helping to feed Russian soldiers, and it is hard to make us believe that Russia would not purchase our wheat and send it along to Germany as quickly as could be done if Germany called for it. The Canadian people have no confidence in Russia; no confidence in Stalin or Molotoff or any other individual whose blood-dripped hand has power to sign documents.

An yet if we ran on in advance of Britain and decided we would have no more business dealings with Russia it would mean forcing the hand of the British Government. So we are actually doing something which we do not want to do; carrying on a business which stinks in our nostrils.

Every ounce of sympathy and desire we possess is with the people of Finland. If they needed a million bushels of wheat our people would say by all means give it to them. But as things stand at the moment wheat grown on our soil is being sold to Russia and we are taking money for it. One can explain the thing endlessly and yet fail miserably in trying to make it come out right. Diplomacy stands in the way; following the attitude of the British government is a barrier, and yet the ugly fact will not down, that we are helping to feed the Russians, who in turn are battering the life out of the Finns. And that means we are doing the very thing which we detest.

The War Of Pressure

Ronald Cross is Minister of Economic Warfare in the British Government. Not often has he anything much to say. He does not break out in the news and stay there for some days, and his work is not as spectacular as the sinking of the Graf Spee. But his department and the agencies with which he works are helping to win the war. Helping to win it—not merely carry it on.

Mr. Cross told a good deal openly of how goods are being turned aside from Germany. There are contracts made for huge purchases and the price is higher than the run of market; these prices he admitted would cause a sensible business man to shudder in normal times, but the goods are going to the Allies whereas they formerly went to Germany.

Mr. Cross would have access to an endless fund of informaton, and he says Germany is already short of petroleum, iron, cotton, copper, wools, oils and fats. Germany is seeking to cling to what export trade it can, and desires to export bicycles and automobiles without tires. In other cases Germany has been refusing to permit the export of goods containing tin and copper and other non-ferrous metals unless the foreign purchaser had agreed to supply these metals. Some of the important steel and rubber works may have to suspend or seriously curtail output because raw material grows scarce.

Ronald Cross looked ahead to the point where "we shall have so strangled Germany's economic life that she can no longer sustain the war effort. By that means we believe we can bring nearer the day of reckoning and save the lives of our own people."

There was nothing boastful in the man's address. Reading it one is impressed by the simplicity of his statement and the amount of factual material brought to the proof of his contentions. The war on the economic front started the day of war's declaration and it has continued night and day since. We hear little of it; it is not mentioned in the French communique nor in the London day-to-day releases from the Ministry of Information. But it is war just the same, a relentless pressure which shuts off raw materials from the enemy and turns them toward the Allies. And Germany is not winning that war.

Why Not Look After Him?

A report coming from Hamilton is not unlike those from other centres. It tells about Arthur Kirk, who was working as a farm hand near St. Catharines. He decided the place for him was in the Canadian army, and there can be nothing wrong with that decision because it has been made by thousands of others, and no fault has ever been found with it.

Arthur Kirk took to the road and hitch-hiked to Hamilton where he found that enlisting is not going on at present. He had quit his job and he had no place to go and he had no reserve funds on which to draw until he could find a place in the army.

Finally Kirk landed in police court under the charge of vagrancy, a sort of covering thing which is sufficient to detain almost any man. The magistrate remanded him for eight days on hearing his story, and did so in order that the would-be recruit would have food and shelter in the meantime.

It is hard enough to make sense out of that situation. Canada is at war and has already sent its advance forces overseas, and in other sections recruiting is going on. There is no need of a recruiting officer approaching Arthur Kirk; no need to hold a meeting or give an address. He is ready to enlist and wants to do so now, but he cannot find the place. Enlistment is the one thing which gives substance to our entire military effort; without it all else would fall flat. Then why not look after Arthur Kirk so that he does not have to walk the streets and find refuge in the police station? His case is not one which stands alone n splendid isolation because there have been similar reports from other centres. Today Arthur Kirk may with good enough reason entertain the belief that the Canadian army does not want him.

The Lindsay Arsenal

Word from Ottawa says the arsenal at Lindsay is going to be put in operation for making shells, and it will come as quite a change to have activity in that building. For a long time it has been nothing more than a glorified store house.

In the days of the previous war the late Sir Sam Hughes, Minister of Militia, was moved to do something for his own constituency, Victoria, and the result was the Lindsay arsenal. And it was a good plant, but it was never used.

When the Government changed, the Liberals decided that Valcartier, in Quebec, was the place for the Dominion arsenal, and that is where small arms are made. The way in which that business was handled was sufficient to cause many people to come to the conclusion that they never again desired to see the manufacture of munitions in this country handled under government auspices. Our belief it is will take months to put the Lindsay arsenal in shape to manufacture shells.

NOTE AND COMMENT

You meet a man on the street when it is about 20 below zero and in all seriousness he tells you it is a cold day. Just what one should say in reply is the point we have not been able to get clear.

An American resident entered an Ontario liquor store and purchased a bottle of rye. He tendered in payment a $20 American bill and received in change $20.10. Exchange being what it is, coming through the rye is rather easy going.

The annual demand for wool in Canada is 70 million pounds, and we produce 18 million pounds. That looks like a big opportunity, but often enough the price is so low that it is hardly worth the washing, clipping and delivery.

California voted to refuse a scheme which would pay $30 to every person every Thursday, and now the proposal is that each person over 50 shall get $20 per week. And those who advocate the modified plan will do everything except suggest what is to be used for money.

On one day fifty people in Toronto appeared in order to make reservations for picnic dates during the summer. Booking so far in advance gives the ants, spiders, bees and flies good opportunity to plan their season's movements so the least possible time will be wasted in scouting.

Augustus Duebel showed up at his office in Cleveland on his 88th birthday, and said to reporters that the secret of long life is working hard every day. And for a long time we have been waiting for one of those old-timers to say he found it helpful to lie in bed until 10 in the morning and on occasion have breakfast served in bed.

Sudbury purchased a nice new snow loader for $4,700, and after the first storm of the season it was necessary to dig it out before getting it to work. It is much like some of the lesser snow machines where it is necessary to take a cap off the peg, find the snow shovel, open the door and point to the scene of the chore.

REASONS

(By A.R.K.)

¶ I always used to understand, if business orders I would land, that I must be discreet; must act in such a pleasant way, and move with caution every day, to deal with those I'd meet.

¶ Be sure I have a pleasant face, before I enter any place, and then produce my card; and if I rap upon a door, I must not act as though I'm sore, nor whack the thing too hard.

¶ I must know what I'm going to say, not merely pass the time of day, be up to all the tricks; if men discuss the war a spell, I must have something new to tell, be versed in politics.

¶ I must not rile my customer, but I must rather sit and purr, and register delight; and if he argues quite a lot, I must most deftly find the spot, to say that he is right.

¶ The best man out is Joe McStew, he books old business, takes on new, he never has a card; when he finds doors all tight and shut, he simply prances in his strut, and bangs them rather hard.

¶ He clears a spot to lay his pad, he's certain that his man is glad, to see him cross the door; but then Joe weighs two eighty-eight, and it's correct for me to state—he stands up six feet four.

Can Germany Stand Strain Of Blockade?

OXFORD PAMPHLETS on World Affairs present safe and sane war news. We present here a resume of the things Germany needs together with the chances of her securing them:

MINERAL OIL, PETROL, ETC.

Germany's peace-time consumption is about 7 million tons a year, of which about one-third is produced at home, the rest being imported. In war, consumption rises. Estimates by German authorities have put war needs between 20 and 30 million tons a year; but such estimates are probably very much too high. It remains true, however, that while total exports from Rumania and Russia, if diverted in their entirety to Germany, could cover Germany's peace-time consumption, they would probably not meet war needs. The Polish oil-wells have only a small output. Neighboring countries, including Russia, cannot supply Germany with enough oil for a full-scale war. Even if they could, the difficulty of transporting the oil would remain, as will be explained later. Finally, there is no hope of relief through increasing the output of oil from coal. It is estimated (Sternberg, Germany and a Lightning War, p. 212) that 70 to 90 million tons of coal a year would be needed to meet Germany's war requirements of petrol from home resources; and German mines are already producing all the coal they can. Stocks of oil and petrol, amounting at the highest estimate to 4 million tons, have been accumulated and will serve for a while to cover shortages in imports. But the stocks cannot be replaced.

IRON ORE

The development of home-produced ores under the Four Year Plan has not kept pace with the increase in home demand. Between 1934 and 1938 home production of ore rose from 4.3 million tons to 11.1 million. Yet at the same time iron ore imports rose from 8.2 million tons to 21.9 million. The yield iron from the low grade home ores is poor, and in terms of iron content the home-produced ore in 1938 covered little more than a quarter of total consumption. In 1914-18 Germany had the great ore-fields of Lorraine to draw on. They are now on the French side of the Maginot line. If all Germany's accessible neighbors sent all their exports to her, they would still not cover her peace-time requirements on the scale of recent years. But it remains to be seen whether Sweden (who accounts for about two-thirds of such exports) will be willing to send all her exports to Germany when a ready market exists in England. Russia, though her output of iron ore has risen greatly in recent years, needs all the ore herself, and her export is negligible. Even if Russia could increase the amount available for export, the difficulty of transporting the ore from the Urals to Germany would be great.

COPPER AND COPPER ORE

Total net exports of accessible countries would only cover about 15 per cent of Germany's peace-time imports. This is a very serious loss to Germany since there is no substitute for copper as a component in certain important types of electrical and armament equipment.

OTHER METALS

In addition, almost all nickel, chromite, tungsten, manganese, antimony, and mercury has to be imported, though some of the supplies come from easily accessible sources. Russia could supply all manganese requirements.

RUBBER

There is no rubber whatever available in accessible countries. 'Buna' substitute is satisfactory for some purposes, but is expensive compared with real rubber, demanding considerable coal and labor. In 1938 'buna' appears to have covered about a fifth of total consumption. More factories are said to be coming into operation, but Germany's dependence on imports of crude rubber will only be slightly diminished thereby.

OILSEEDS AND ANIMAL AND VEGETABLE FATS

Germany produces the greater part of her butter requirements, but has to import all oilseeds (six times the volume of butter, estimated in terms of oil content), and all whale oil (double the volume of butter). Accessible countries cannot supply oilseeds, or substitutes for them, in any significant quantities. British command of the seas also cuts off whale oil, of which the United Kingdom has in any case already secured most of the 1939 catch by buying it up last Spring.

TEXTILE FIBRES

The Deutsche Volkswirt (6 January 1939) has claimed that home production of textile raw materials has risen from 17 per cent to 42 per cent since 1932. Foreign imports have not fallen, but the greater home demand has been met from home resources, mainly through increased output of staple fibre (which is closely akin to rayon). A certain percentage of staple fibre is compulsory in all woollen or cotton fabrics manufactured for the home market. Substitute materials are unpopular, as Field-Marshal Goering admitted in his speech of 9 September. The shortage of natural fibres cannot be relieved by any accessible neutral, including Russia. Though some accessible countries export both wool and cotton in small quantities, they in turn depend on imports. None has a significant exportable surplus to offer to Germany. In war the consumption of cotton rises sharply. During the peak of explosive production in 1914-18 Germany was using almost as much cotton for explosives as for textiles.

• As the Brittons See the War

THE AVERAGE Englishman probably won't know what to make of Admiral Stark, our Chief of Naval Operations, when he says that the possibility of Allied defeat in this war must govern the size and character of our own future navy. For, to judge from all reports, if there is one thing that the man-in-the-street in England utterly refuses to consider it is the destruction of his empire at the hands of any European enemy. He doesn't get angry, or even hurt, if Americans talk of such things; he just thinks that they are apt to listen to a lot of nonsense, and he lets it go at that.

It took a long time for the seriousness of the Nazi menace to sink into the minds of the millions who voted Prime Minister Baldwin and the present Chamberlain Administration into office in 1935. If Hitler now seems a menace to their very existence, as their statesmen tell them, it is not because they think he can defeat them in war. Their attitude seems to be like that of the old lady who said, "Oh, that man Hitler makes me tired; he's such a fidget!" The British masses continue to support the war, and endure incredible sacrifices, because they feel everyday life would be intolerable and the peaceful existence of the British Empire impossible, unless they put an end to the incessant "fidget" and disturbance which Hitler gave them in the years preceding last September. Mr. Chamberlain and Mr. Churchill are doing their best to knock overconfidence out of British minds: but with the leaders, as with the people, defeat is out of their calculations altogether.

The Germans, at last, know what defeat means. Dr. Goebbels has just predicted to an interviewer that history will not repeat itself, because "there is an imminent justice in history," and "the rightful claims of the German people" which were "thwarted" a generation ago cannot be denied a second time. At least, it is interesting to see the memory of Dr. Goebbels going back to 1918 now.—New York Times.

• Who Are These "Brass Hats"?

THERE have been numerous contemptuous references lately to "Brass Hats" by speakers and writers as if they were a group of entrenched favorites who had got "cushy" jobs in the army and love to lord it over their inferiors and dictate to all who are in civilian life.

Who are these "Brass Hats?" They are men who joined the forces as mere junior officers, mostly lieutenants, after special training and study of military tactics in a Government college. They work their way up to higher positions, says the St. Thomas Times-Journal, and in the modernized British Army—thanks to Mr. Hore-Belisha—by merit alone, regardless of seniority of service. Upon commanders, whether of a regiment, a brigade, a division, an army corps or a vast army, devolves tremendous responsibility; a responsibility for the lives of men, the expenditure of costly munitions and supplies, and the conduct of a battle upon which the fate of Empire may depend. No one need envy their job. A man may envy the president of a great industrial concern which may be worth $100,000 a year or more. The onus upon such a man is trivial compared with those who might be called the president and board of directors controlling the fate of an army. Their word must be law and no other man must stand in their way. If that is "Brass Hatism," it is essential.

Viscount Gort is a "Brass Hat." Field Marshal Gamelin is a "Brass Hat." General Pershing was a "Brass Hat." There isn't a civilian who is justified in criticizing their decisions or demands. Unquestioning trust must be placed in them.

A Bit Of Nonsense

Strange!

The conversation at the party was all about dieting.

"Yes," said a guest, "I've eaten beef all my life, and I'm as strong as an ox."

"That's strange," said his companion. "I've been eating nothing but fish for six months, and I can't swim a stroke."

Careless

He rushed up to the park-keeper in a state of great agitation.

"I say!" he shouted. "I've just lost five one-pound notes! I know I had them when I came into the park, but now they're no longer in my pocket!"

The park-keeper gave a contemptuous sniff.

"Is that so?" he said. "Well, it serves you right! You ought to 'ave read them notices at the entrance about bein' careful not to drop bits o' paper in the grounds!"

WISER THAN ULYSSES

A GOOD MANY years ago there were two Sirens, according to Homer, and three, according to later writers.

They lived on a beautiful island and sang so sweetly to passing ships that all who heard them drew near and were wrecked on the rocks.

Warned by Circe, wise old Ulysses, before he passed their island, stopped the ears of his sailors with wax and had himself lashed to the mast lest he be lured to destruction by their dulcet tones.

Senator Borah went Ulysses one better, and took no risks. For he remained away from the Capitol while Mr. Roosevelt was delivering his message to Congress.

"It is dangerous to listen to Mr. Roosevelt," the gentleman from Idaho explained, "because he could recite an example in algebra and make it interesting."—Detroit Free Press.

SOMETHING TO RESIST

ALTHOUGH the claims now pending which demand that the city pay the full union scale to all its day wage steady job employes may be dismissed mentally as just a misguided grab, that does not lessen the necessity for beating off the attempt.

A literal and unqualified interpretation of that law now seeks to require the city to pay, for example, a rate of $18.70 a day to boss riveters, or $4,700 for a year of five-day weeks.

In private construction, however, employment is sporadic, interrupted by weather and by dull times between jobs, and the employe often is lucky to get 100 working days a year.—New York World-Telegram.

GULLIBLE GERMANS

THIS inordinate gullibility which has been a German characteristic for centuries, can turn into fury when the full extent of the deception becomes clear. Little by little, over the years, they learn. I believe they will learn from the fire and steel of the west, that Hitler has failed to tell them the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth....

The German, sooner or later, is going to find out how he has been fooled, and his rage will turn not on foreigners as much as on those who have fooled him, the Nazi leaders.—Vincent Sheean, U.S. writer.

LACK OF CO-OPERATION

Dr. Grant G. Sutherland, Medical Officer of Health at Fergus, complains that "dozens and dozens" of communicable diseases in that village are not reported to him. Considering that an M.O.H. is appointed to help maintain the community health and that this implies co-operative community effort, lack of such co-operation reflects unfavorably on those who failed to give it. It may also be indicated in unnecessary sickness.

A CONFESSION

(Toronto Star)

Premier Hepburn of Ontario says that he has not 'been able to provoke the Prime Minister of Canada into an open quarrel, although" he adds, "I have tried to do so with great dexterity on frequent occasions." What a confession that is for a provincial premier to make—and during wartime.

Russians Fight Fiercely Retreating Home

HELSINGFORS, Jan. 19—(AP). —Stalked by knife-like cold, hunger and Finnish skiers, Soviet Russia's Salla army—heretofore the most successful of the war—was reported fighting a fierce battle today at Markajaervi to protect the retreat of 40,000 men toward the Russian border, still 50 miles distant.

The terse Finnish communique said, "Our troops have advanced 45 kilometres (about 28 miles) in the Salla sector during the past few days. The enemy has been pushed back from Joutsijaervi to Markajaervi, for possession of which fighting is proceeding."

Foreign military observers read into this statement a suggestion of major developments in the early future.

In was in this sector that the Russians drove deepest into Finland, reaching a point only 18 miles from the railhead of Kemijaervi, strategic northern centre that was their immediate objective.

Move Surprises Finns

The sudden retreat apparently caught the Finns flat-footed momentarily.

Finnish ski patrols, repeatedly cutting off Russian supplies, were credited with forcing the Russians into a retreat complicated by the severest winter in more than half a century. A temperature of 58 below was recorded at Nicky, northeast of Helsingfors.

A Finnish detachment which reported occupation of a Russian camp in the Salla area shortly after the Red army's departure said flesh had been sliced from dead horses, apparently for food.

They said the Russian dugouts were skilfully built of logs, earth and stones, and camouflaged with pine boughs.

To the south, the Finnish communique said, "several strong enemy patrols" were wiped out in the Aittojoki and Kuhmo areas.

N.Y. Coal Strike Hits Thousands

NEW YORK, Jan. 19 — (AP). — Daniel Rugg, coal dealers' spokesman, contended today that if a coal drivers' strike in New York's metropolitan area were not settled quickly, "thousands of private homes and apartments will be freezing Friday."

Mayor Forella LaGuardia cautioned both sides that unless they adjusted their dispute, "somebody will have to step in." He did not indicate whether he planned any specific action.

Although the temperature neared zero, no suffering or hardship attributable to the dispute was reported yesterday, the first day of the strike. Schools and hospitals have ample supplies on hand, City Hall attaches said.

Small homes and apartment houses seemed most poorly equipped to stand a long tie-up. Dealers said many homes had only enough coal to last a day or two, and that the chances of getting more were slight.

Three More Tilts And Henry Starts On Poetry

NEW YORK, Jan. 19. (AP) — Despite the innumerable "touches" and "bites" put on Henry Armstrong's bank roll by the less fortunate members of the fistic fraternity, the steaks and French fries are "insured" for the belting buzzsaw and his family as long as he lives.

So, his fanancial house in order, Henry is looking ahead to just three more fights before he turns for keeps from the gentle art of scrambling ears to writing poetry.

His campaign is (1) to whip Montanez in defence of his welterweight championship in Madison Square Garden next Wednesday night, (2) follow that up with another successful defence of the 147-pound laurels against Al Davis in an outdoor show and (3) then abdicate his throne to try for a crack at the half of the middleweight title owned by Ceferino Garcia.

"It's not that I'm fed up with fighting," the little negro said today as he went through a four-round boxing drill in preparation for Montanez. "But I get awful tired bouncing around the country to make matches. There's no time to just sit some place and relax. I like to write and I like music, but right now there's no time for either."

Now that he has the "cocoanuts" in annuities and some paying property in Los Angeles, Hennery the hammer figures he can do the things he wants. He has spent his spare time in the last 2½ years writing his biography, "The Glory road," but he's going to hold up its publication until he has hung up the gloves.

"D" Company Wins

In an exhibition of army hockey (or was it?) at the Sacred Heart rink last night, "D" Company copped a 3-0 win over "A" Company. Some of the husky defencemen appeared wearing odd and formidable armor, possibly emulating the Maginot Line but they did not prove quite as effective as the French fortifications. It was a humorous and interesting puck match with Cardwell playing a remarkable game. He, Harper and McNabb did the scoring. The teams:

"A" Company.—Akers, Harper, Campbell, Hamilton, Hewitt, Bowen.

"D" Company.—Cardwell, Trennum, Harper, Van Allen, McNabb, Sager, Bawden, Leether, Reid.

Norwood Boys Win 8-4 In Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 19. — (ENS) — Norwood High School walked away with an easy 8 to 4 victory from the Campbellford squad in a T.V.L. Interscholastic tilt here Thursday The visitors stepped into the lead early in the first frame and were never headed. Their power attacks lead by Puffer, Buck and Cole were too much for the locals who though topped by a 5 to 2 score at the end of the opening stanza battled gamely during the evening. The loosers rear guards succeeded in holding the vistiors to a scoreless second period with Jarvis and O'Sullivan teaming up well on the defense.

Norwood's Second Win.

The contest marked Norwood's second win of the season and the first loss for the local contingent who eased a victory from Lakefield in their initial encounter.

In the opening frame Puffer who was leading scorer for the winners waltzed in on Metcalfe to punch home the first counter of the evening. Campbellford tried to break away but were stopped at the blue line before they had a chance to menace the visitors net, and Johnston and Buck teamed up to drive in on the locals doorstep where Buck cashed in. While the locals were still wondering what had happened Norwood organized another attack and rained in on the net where Cole emerged with the disc to widen the lead. Buck picked up Johnston's rebound and wrapped it into the rigging for the fourth while the locals hung on grimly waiting for their chance which came when Jarvis and Farrel combined in a lightning attack to bag the homesters opener. J. O'Sullivan got their only other tally of the period on a neat solo effort in which he demonstrated some classy stick Handling. Puffer who dominated the play for Norwood snipped the final goal of the period and stretched their lead to 5-2.

George St. Outfit Defeats St. Paul's

George St. Juniors won 4-2 over St. Paul's in their Church Loop tilt at All Saints' last evening. St. Paul's had a patched-up squad but made it a fight. E. Routley got all the counters for George St. in a fine showing, getting two in the first. Ferguson and Dundas counted to tie it in the second, but George St. scored in the second and third. Easton made a good debut in goal and Dundas shone. For the winners, Hamilton and Routley were stars. Teams:

St. Paul's—Goal, Easton; defence, Ferguson, S. Lockington; centre, Dundas; wings, A. Lockington, Dunford.

George St.—Goal, Richardson; defence, Hamilton, Henry; centre, E. Routley; wings, Saunders, Woodgate; subs, Craig, Marsden.

Wildcats Winners In Hastings Loop

HASTINGS, Jan. 19. —(ENS) — A small group of fans saw a hot game of hockey last night at Riverside arena when the Tigers dropped their first game of the season to the Wildcats 3 to 2. It was wide open on both sides. Ed. Faux opened the scoring for the losers in the first period and Aubrey Scriver evened the game up seconds later on a long shot. Lew. Brownell added to the Wildcats count on another long shot and ended scoring of the frame. Penalties were given Crate and Coughlan. Opening scoring in the second, Edwards passed to Thompson who made it three to one for the winners. Gerald Scriver, for the Tigers, banged in the last count of the game for the Tigers. Cliff, Scriver was given the only penalty of the period.

There was no scoring in the third but, Gerald Scriver was given the gate for tripping.

The teams:

Tigers: Goal, Kelley; defence, Crate, Cliff Scriver; centre, Gerald Scriver; wings, Ed. Faux, Calberry; alternate, A. Blackburn.

Wildcats: Goal, Bob. Scriver; defence, McKee, Thompson; centre, Edwards; wings, Aubrey Scriver, Brownell; alternate, Coughlan.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC PERDUE

There was much chatter last night about the Oshawa-Colts' game by the gees who infest the Avenoo of the Seven Winds. This is the popular term for that stretch of wooden boardwalk which lies upstairs at the Brock St. arena between the balcony and the front windows. A rather amazing and intricate place it is, too. Covers no less than five rooms and several twisty little hallways and has even been dubbed Nicotine Alley. On account of a great many fags are consumed there betwixt periods of a puck match, away from the watchful eyes of ushers and cops. Of the seven winds which circulate freely in this interesting section, only one is of natural origin and it manages to sneak through betwixt the not infrequent cracks here and there. Other winds include the coaches' oratory, the oldtimers' player, budding stars' chatter, the coaxing zephyrs of betting gentry, fans' fanfare and the gentle breeze of Bacchus.

* * * * * *

Well, there were no betting gentry last night along the Seven Winds Avenoo—as they only appear at O.H.A. matches—but there were coaches, players, oldtimers, rink rats, press men, and common ordinary decent folk who pay to get in. And they interspersed remarks on the gallants doing or dying for deah old pay envelope in the Industrial Loop triple-header with predictions of the O.H.A. junior "B" joust tonight. Some said the Oshawa Bees would buzz through the Colts like wolves sifting through the Kingan Line, but others weren't so sure. And all agreed that it would be tops in junior hockey entertainment this winter. And when ya get a more or less 100 p.c. agreement from the conglomeration of the Avenoo, you've really got something.

* * * * * *

It Smells Sweeter

There have been junior offerings which hit the noses of local cash customers here like a tincture of essence de garbage—and no doubt there will be more. But not tonight. Like a Gaelic banshee in the bog district around County Clare, this one calls through the night to the faithful to come forth. And even the unfaithful might profit. Oshawa Bees, in one bold stroke of intimidation, aroused the enmity and fear of all their rivals in the six-team setup by rubbing it in on the luckless Port Hopers at home with a 20-0 rubber-inner. Which makes them both merciless and mighty, mighty menacing. The Colts are tougher than two-bit steak and have a lot of class, too—besides being unbeaten this season—but they'll really have to hustle tonight.

* * * * * *

A glance at the cracked crystal ball fetches up this local lineup-cum-numerals: Goal, Cec Cournyea; defence, Bill Beggs (23), Al Mason (22); centre, Joe Rochetta (14); wings, Duce Vitarelli (16), Sid Craig (20); alternates, Julian Wade (15), Nels Foster (18), Dutch Pammett (17), Cal Nichols (1), Bucko MacDonald (19), Mickey Puffer (24). The latter is likely to be used instead of Bob Parnell, who has a cold. There are some Wilsons, a Peters, a Fraser and a coupla ex-Lindsay Midgets (originally from Oshawa) on the Motor City setup, and we dunno the complete lineup. But it'll be tough.

Senior "A" It Gives

Manager Bob Ecclestone says the complete roster of Toronto Goodyears will be here Monday to play the Petes an exhibition fray. The leaders of the senior "A" series — and possible Allan Cup contenders—will bring their two scoring aces (atop the group) in Eddie King and Johnny (Peanuts) O'Flaherty. Blondy Sutcliffe, absent lately, will be back on defence and the whole works will be down for the joust. No doubt the habitues of the Avenoo, the rush fanatics and the carriage trade will be out in force for this swell offering. Puck fans who'd pass up a tilt like this wouldn't dig in the jeans for two bits to see the Leafs and Rangers tangling at the Brock. Or does that sound silly?

* * * * * *

In the hectic Industrial League three-point landing last night, Outboard Marines made it two in a row with a 5-3 decision o'er Raybestos; Westclox tacked up their second straight with a 3-2 nod 'gainst Brintons; and Quakers also won their second in a row with a 6-0 count against the Watercraft crew. Though the latter team made it a fine battle and several Quaker counters came directly from breakaways on ganging attacks. Some pretty fair puck-chasing seen in each of the games but the crowd did not threaten to bust the sides of the arena out at its seams—possibly the chilly weather keeping folks by the fireside. Another trio of tussles in this circuit at the Brock next Thursday eve.

'Twas A Cold Spot

With Arctic breezes whistling around All Saints' rink last twilight, a flock of overdue Church Puck Loop frays were run off. Murray St. Seniors did a 5-3 chore on George St., George St. Juniors 4-2'd St. Paul's, All Saints slapped a 9-0 coat of whitewash on St. Andrew's Juveniles, and Trinity Bantams won 6-2 from St. Paul's. We'll try to run the standing on the morrow. Monday's melees are: Knox Bantams vs. All Saints at six, Trinity Juveniles vs. George St. at seven, Mark St. Juniors vs. All Saints at eight, and Park St. Juniors vs. George St. at nine, this being a Jan. 15th replay.

Three girls' basketball fixtures listed for the Simcoe St. hoop hall this evening. First one at seven sharp in the Y.W.C.A. is between Westclox and "Y" Gym; next at eight sees St. John's tilt with Orfuns; and final has the Quaker family, Debs and Aces, in a nine-o'clock argument. In future, these Friday eve triple-headers will commence at seven bells. They should be right interesting affairs in a well-balanced gals' loop. P.C.I. cage teams play tonight in Lindsay. Up at the Y.M. tomorrow p.m., Bees meet C.G.E. at 7.15 and Independents play Dominions at 8.15 — and these senior men's hoop contests are full of action and nifty basketball. Which seems to cover the cage front locally this week-end.

PRO PUCK PERSONALITIES

OTT HELLER
Rangers
(By Central Press Canadian.)

Ott Heller

A fast-skating, fine play-making defence player, Ott Heller is what might be called the dean of the Rangers, this being his ninth season with the team, his entire major league career. Only Art Coulter of the high-flying Blueshirts has been in the National League that long, but he spent his first four and a half seasons with Chicago. Last year was the first in which Ott failed to get a goal, and yet he posted his highest scoring total, being credited with 23 assists. His total output in figures until the beginning of this season stands at 21 goals, 85 assists for 106 points. Averages around 40 minutes per season with the penalty timers, and has spent 292 minutes there in his eight seasons. Born at Kitchener 30 years ago and christened Ehrhardt., so when you see "E. Heller" in the records, that's Ott. Played with Kitchener Juniors for a couple of seasons and then moved to Springfield for a couple more in the Canadian-American League before moving up to Rangers. Ott was a forward until he made the Rangers, when a shortage of blue line players caused him to be moved back. Pairs with Babe Pratt and like all Ranger defencemen is an expert at the clutch and grab art. Stands six feet and weighs close to 200 pounds.

Church Seniors In Tight Tussle

Murray St. Seniors took a 5-3 Church League win over George St. last night at All Saints' rink to stay on top of the group. They had a strong defence for the margin, as George St. showed nice passing. Johnston scored in the first from Wilson, and there was no count in the second. Dunfield got two in the third from Hough, and West and Snarr teamed for a marker. These three were for George St. Johnston got one more as Watkins got two and Padgett one for Murray St. Roberts fanned on two tallies. The teams:

George St.—Goal, Roberts; defence, King, Edwards; centre, West; wings, Wildman, Snarr; subs, Parnall, Hough, Akers, Dunfield, Thomas.

Murray St.—Goal Watkins; defence, Mowry, Fuller; centre, Johnston; wings, Watkins, Padgett; subs, Wilson, Broadley, Murray.

Referees, D. Charlton, F. Worsencroft.

Omemee Wins 6-1 From Lock Co.

Omemee Hawks copped a 6-1 victory over Lock Co. Eagles on Wednesday night in the District Hockey League in Omemee. With a couple of weak spots—being minus a few expected regulars— the Eagles lacked the teamplay and condition of the smart Omemee squad in their first clash. Hawks got one in the first and three in the second, having a 2-1 margin in a heated third.

Eagles had a slight edge on play in the first but were outscored. The homesters showed fine passing to carry play in the third, led by Tripp. In the third again; Eagles held their own in a lively chukker. The Ellis boys, Tripp and T. Parsons stood out for the winners; while Gilbert, Burke, Watkins and Prete were best for the losers. H. Ellis got three goals B. Ellis two and Williamson one. Watkins took Burke's pass for the Eagle's tally. The same teams play in Omemee again Monday. Teams:

Lock Co.: Goal, McNabb; defence, Prete, Giardino; centre, Burke; wings, Watkins, A. White; alternates, Gilbert, J. White, DeCarlo, Cockerel.

Omemee: Goal, Fisher; defence, T. Parsons, F. Parsons; centre, Tripp, wings, Brockley, H. Ellis; alternates, Jamieson, Williamson, B. Ellis, Deyell, Hunt, Brooks.

Referee: A. Williamson.

The Watercrafts, Brintons And Rays Lose

Three Industrial Hockey League fixtures were staged last night in the Brock Street Arena before a small crowd of fans, the chilly weather evidently holding down the spectators. Outboard Marines took a 5-3 decision over Raybestos. Quaker Oats copped a 6-0 count against Watecraft, and Westclox won 3-2 from Brintons.

The first fray saw Marines tally two each in the first and second heats and one in the third, as Rays scored a single each frame. It was a lively tussle with Sanders notching a pair for the winners, as McWilliams, Payne and Partridge got one apiece. Howden, Bailey and Armstrong were the Raybestos snipers. Play was quite clean for the most part and close enough, the Rays muffing several nice chances at close range. There were no particular stars over the whole route. The teams:

Marines.—Goal, Watkins; defence, Fuller, Murphy; centre, Shields; wings, Stephenson, Partridge; subs., Sanders, McWilliams, Wood, Messley, Payne, Collins.

Raybestos.—Goal, Maher; defence, Howden, Smith; centre, Maudsley; wings, Lewis, Armstrong; subs, Dunkerley, Bailey, Gilmour, Cunningham, Kay, Parker.

Referee.—T. Miller.

Fastest Game

The second struggle was the fastest of the evening and closer than the score indicates, as Watercraft kept attacking all the way and frequently ganged up and were caught flat on breakaways, three counters being scored this way. There was no count in the first, but the Porridge Punchers pushed in four in the second and two in the third. Calladine got two, Howland, Webb, Kerby and Hill the others, all this gang playing nice hockey, while the first line for the losers worked hard. The teams:

Quakers.—Goal, Merritt; defence, Webb, Starr; centre, Kennedy; wings, Calladine, Shine; subs., Kerby, Hill, Scriver, Howland.

Watercraft.—Goal, Bullied; defence, Miller, Stenner; centre, O'Connor; wings, Willshaw, Boulter; subs., McQuarrie, Jones, Hunter, Ego, Dinesen, Lowes.

Referee.—C. Whatley.

The final tussle of the evening was a tight one, Westclox pressing hard in the third to overcome a Brinton lead. It was 1-1 in the first, but Brintons had a 2-1 edge going into the third, when Westclox notched a pair. Jones and Lackey scored for the southenders, while Bateman, Thirbeck and Gilbert counted for the Ashburnham outfit. Both goalies looked good at times, and the starting lines on each squad probably edged their teammates in effectiveness. The teams:

Brintons.—Goal, Corrigan; defence, Watson, Downer; centre Henthorne; wings, Jones, Lackey; subs, Leether, Adams, Agnew.

Westclox.—Goal, Ferguson; defence, White, Hopcroft; centre, Thirnbeck; wings, Gilbert, Pettersone subs, Bateman, Askford, Bidding, Weir.

Referee—T. Miller.

CURLING

By HERB MARTIN

Exactly 112 curlers took part in last night's schedule games.

At one time we counted eight bankers and six insurance agents on the ice.

Records show that Geo. Green and Dave Grant are the only undefeated skips in the schedule so far.

We believe Jack Sedgewick holds the long distance record for the season. He has lost fifteen games in a row—and as Jack says, "the worst is yet to come."

The best end of curling we have seen for a long, long time was last night when on the last end of the MacKay and McArthur game there were fourteen stones on the rings with twelve stones either touching or inside the eight foot ring.

We have been asked by the bonspiel committee to announce, if there are any local curlers who would like to play in the open bonspiel next Wednesday and so far, have not been asked on a rink, will they kindly leave their name with Secretary Harry Poote.

1st Curler—"I see Gordon Matthews has been appointed chairman of the Utilities Commission."

2nd Curler—"Well, Gordon should add some weight to the Commission."

BabeDrops Hope Of Returning To The Diamond

NEW YORK, Jan. 19 — (AP). — The greatest figure of baseball's modern age, Babe Ruth, has given up hope of ever returning to the game he glorified for two decades.

A mellow, bulging fellow living decorously on the annuities he had the good sense to lay away with pa of the $1,000,000 he earned in baseball, the Babe doesn't seem sorry.

"Yeh, I guess I'm out of it," Ruth said to-day. "I've got a comfortable home here and no worries. I get a few odd jobs to do, but mostly I keep busy trying to hold down my weight. I play a lot of table tennis and golf, go hunting, and I've got one of those electric horses, too.

"I was out hunting all last week—got a bunch of birds and a bad cold."

He's a different Bambino now from the rollicking, carefree character who caused the record books to be rewritten, received up to $80,000 a year from New York Yankees, squandered possibly $250,000 in luxurious living and paid $20.000 in baseball fines.

15 Pounds Above Old Weight.

He weighs 243 pounds, 15 or 20 above his playing weight, and will be 46 years old on February 7. Tattle-tale grey is beginning to show on his temples. Somehow it was a melancholy scene as the Babe lounged in a smoking jacket amidst countless trophies and remarked:

"I don't go to the games much any more. Every time I go I ruin a suit of clothes getting through the crowd. Somebody spilled ink all down the back of my coat the last time."

Finally he asked the Babe a question he must have heard hundreds of times—is anybody going to break his record of 60 home runs in a season? Looking up at a big diagram on a wall showing the date, the team, the pitcher, the score for every one of those homers, he mused:

"I hope not....I hope not; not while I'm alive."

Rangers Take Close Game From Canadiens

By JACK CALDER
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

Having set an amazing National Hockey League record for consecutive games without defeat, New York Rangers aren't likely to achieve anything like so long an unbroken string again this season.

The Rangers defeated the Canadiens 1-0 at Montreal last night and a natural conjecture might be that they're off on another great rampage. They may be, but the difficulty they had in stopping the lowly Habitants can be taken as an indication of how rough the riding will be for Lester Patrick's marvels.

Mac Colville

The Canadiens, though only 4,200 fans turned out to back them, had a weighty share in the play and set the Rangers back on their heels much of the way. Mac Colville scored the single goal from a scramble two minutes from the end, after the Habitants had pressed all through the third period.

The only mystery the Canadiens couldn't solve was Goalie Dave Kerr, who earned another classical shutout. Evidence of the home team's determiation lay in a third-period fight that brought major penalties to Bill Summerhill of the Canadiens and Bryan Hextall of the visitors.

Leafs Tie Wings.

The victory pulled the Rangers back into a first-place tie with Boston, while the Maple Leafs were left five points off the pace through their 2-2 tie with Detroit Red Wings at Toronto.

The Leafs had all they could do to turn back the stern Detroit challenge and Cecil Dillon might have produced a Red Wing win if he had made good on two first-rate chances. As it was, he fired the puck right over the back screen both times and the Wings pulled only one point out of last place, tying the Canadiens in fifth position and leaving New York Americans alone in the cellar.

Gus Giesebrecht and Syd Howe scored in the second period on Phil Stein, who played his first Major-league game in place of the Leafs' regular goalie, Turk Broda. The Toronto defensive system tightened in the third period and Gus Marker and Bingo Kampman tied the score. Dillon became the goat of the game when his penalty, the only one of the entire 70 minutes, opened the way for Kampman's goal.

Gene Venzke Scores One

After having successfully taken part in indoor winter races in Boston for nine years, Glenn Cunningham, veteran miler, at last came a cropper this year and was beaten out in the feature event of the annual indoor track meet by Gene Venzke, a long-standing rival. The winner trailed most of the way but had enough "kick" at the finish, which is shown here, to get in front by a foot. Venzke is at the RIGHT.

Gunners Looking For Crown On Saturday

LONDON, Jan. 19 — (CP Cable). —Arsenal visits West Ham United in the feature match on the United Kingdom's week-end soccer card. The unbeaten Gunners need only a point to clinch the championship of the South A group of London and district clubs.

Indications point to a real battle with both teams at the top of their form. The United has bagged most of the points played for since Christmas and in midweek defeated Crystal Palace 3-0. Arsenal is going all out to maintain a great record. Of 14 matches played since competition started on October 21, 11 have been won and the remainder drawn.

South A and South B schedules will be completed on February 3, but in all other sections, competition continues until spring. All divisions will be in action to-morrow with not a little interest in the races for Scottish titles.

Following their triumph a week ago over the rival Queen of the South, Glasgow Rangers with a two-point advantage at the top of the Western group, are strong favorites for the championship. To-morrow the Light Blues entertain Motherwell at Ibrox Park. Falkirk and Hearts, contenders for leadership in the East, meet on the former's ground. Both have powerful elevens and Falkirk lead with 25 points, one more than the Edinburgh team.

Chance for Bournemouth

Bournemouth have a good opportunity to get on level terms with Queen's Park Rangers on South B. While the Rangers oppose Chelsea in a hard battle at Stamford Bridge, the Seasiders are at home to Aldershot and should have no difficulty in capturing maximum points.

Tied with 14 points each in the Western section of English clubs, Liverpool and Everton are likely to go further ahead at the expense of Chester and Wrexham. Bury and Preston North-End are deadlocked in the North-west with 15 points each. Both have home games tomorrow, Bury tackling the strong Bolton Wanderers and Preston meeting Accrington Stanley.

In the North-east, Newcastle United is due at Bradford City. The United, with 14 points, is two ahead of Bradford and Leeds United, joint holders of the runner-up position.

Tweed Terriers Quit Ice, Bata Gets Game

TWEED, Jan. 19 (ENS). — When the Tweed Terriers were withdrawn from the ice after seven minutes of play in the third period at Frankford on Wdnesday night, the Bata Shoe Company was awarded the game by a score of 6-4. Going into the third period, the count was 6-1 for Bata, with Elsbury, Tummon, and Storms as the marksmen, Tweed rammed home three quick goals.

A Frankford player skated near the Tweed net and it was claimed by Finnigan, Frankford referee, that Sayers in the cage for Tweed had attempted to trip him. When a penalty shot was ordered, Manager Hubie Wagar withdrew his team from the ice. At that time, Tweed appeared to be staging a great comeback, and had the homesters on the run. However, the dispute settled the issue and Bata was awarded the game.

Damore Of Bears Blanks Capitals

(By The Canadian Press.)

Little Nick Damore, playing only his second season in the monied ranks, looks as though he will stay in professional hockey for a long time.

Nick got his chance to play pro hockey when Boston Bruins took Frankie Brimsek of Providence for their goaler early last season. Damore, who had been tending the cage for Hershey Cubs of the Eastern United States amateur circuit, was called up to the International-American league to take Brimsek's place.

At the finish of the regular schedule he replaced Alfie Moore in Hershey Bears' nets for the playoffs and has been there ever since.

Damore gave another demonstration last night of why he has kept his job by blanking Indianapolis Capitals, western division leaders and the highest scoring team in the circuit, 1-0. The night before last he kicked out 48 shots in a game against Pittsburg but lost that one 2-1.

In the second game last night Providence and Syracuse Stars played a 4-4 draw.

For two periods Hershey and the Capitals played on even terms but after the half way mark of the third Bobby Kirk fired in the winning goal for the Bears on passes from Terry Reardon and Gordon Pettinger.

Hub Wilson, Johnny Chad, Crossley Sherwood and Art Giroux scored for the Reds with Jackie Keating, Norm Locking, Coulsen and Eddie Convey tallying for the Stars.

Sid Howe, Detroit, fired his eighth goal of the season in tie with Leafs.

Puck Stopper De Luxe At Ease

Two or three evenings a week Dave Kerr stands between a couple of pipes and sees that no pucks get into the rigging behind him as he tends goal for the fast-stepping New York Rangers. When he isn't doing that, Mrs. Kerr sees that his mind is away from the hectic National League puck-stopping business, and here she lights up a soothing smoke for Davie, who this season is winning acclaim as the National League's best.

Junior Classic Is On Tap Here Tonight

The best O.H.A. Junior "B" game of the season will be seen here tonight (Friday) at 8.30 in the Brock St. rink when Oshawa Bees and the local Colts clash for the first time this winter. With first place at stake in this six-team group and the two outstanding clubs—both packed with husky, scrappy pucksts — tangling for the first time, this should prove a real ice attraction for a big crowd of Friday night fans. These same teams will be mixing later in playoffs and tonight's game will give a good indication of the ultimate outcome.

Coach Archie Weir will probably have Cournyea in goal, with Beggs (No. 23) and Mason (22) on defence. One line has Rochetta (14), Craig (20) and Vitarelli (16); while the other has Pammett (17), Foster (18) and Wade (15). Other defencemen are Parnell (24) and MacDonald (19), with Nichols (1) an extra forward. The Oshawa Bees may carry several of their junior "A" Generals, and they are reported to be extra fast and with the Tracy Shaw coaching touch. It will be a fine fray, loaded with hot action.

reports made by the Prime Minister and the Leader of the Opposition of the result of their visit to Ottawa, to discuss war measures with the National Government, and this House hereby endorses the statements made by the two members in question and joins with them in regretting that the Federal Government at Ottawa has made so little effort to prosecute Canada's duty in the war in the vigorous manner the people of Canada desire to see."

(In Ottawa Prime Minister King declined to comment now on this new development in the spotty relationship between his government and that of Premier Hepburn.

("Believing that the proper time and place to discuss government policy with respect to Canada's war effort is when the representatives of the people from all parts of Canada are assembled in their parliament, I shall reserve until parliament is in session what I may have to say on that subject," the Prime Minister said.

("Parliament, as all are aware, meets a week from today," he said. "Meanwhile the government does not intend to permit Canada's war effort in the present war to be prejudiced by fostering any controversy which does not permit the most complete presentation and consideration of all relevant facts.")

That Wheat Sale to Russia.

The spark which set off yesterday's conflagration was a protest by William Duckworth (Con., Toronto-Davenport)against sale of Canadian wheat to Soviet Russia. Premier Hepburn likewise deplored that transaction to a "potential enemy."

From there, the Premier switched back to an attack on war efforts of the Ottawa administration. Particularly he retorted to newspaper criticism of his Tuesday criticism of the Federal Government's activities.

He repeated statements of Tuesday as to lack of uniforms and equipment for Canada's forces. Because of conditions under which Air Force candidates were forced to live at the former Ontario Hospital at St. Thomas, there had been a "near riot," he claimed. He said he had seen men marching up and down in zero weather without proper clothing.

"All the propaganda possible will not put at rest the feeling of misgiving arising in the hearts of the Canadian people in regard to the conduct of this war," he said.

"Not Done His Duty."

He charged that the Prime Minister of Canada "has not done his duty by his country and he never will." He said he believed that the Prime Minister harbors hatred in his heart for Ontario"—because he had been unable to find a parliamentary seat in this province.

(Since Mr. Mackenzie King and Mr. Hepburn differed widely over labor policy in an automobile workers' strike in April, 1937, periodic tension between the two administrations has been obvious. In November, 1937, Ottawa refused to allow Ontario to export electrical power. The following May Mr. Hepburn refused to take part in negotiations regarding the St. Lawrence Waterway.

(In December, 1938, two Federal ministers accused Mr. Hepburn of conspiring to oust Mr. Mackenzie King as Liberal Leader at Ottawa, which Mr. Hepburn denied. Then last May Mr. Hepburn termed "cheap publicity" the Prime Minister accompanying the King and Queen across Canada.)

"It is not a personal matter as far as I'm concerned with Mr. King," Mr. Hepburn told the Legislature. "His insignificance protects him."

Both he and Col. Drew said they had based their Tuesday speeches on the fact they were both members of the Organization of Resources Committee, which made conduct of the war a proper matter to discuss in the Provincial House.

War Involves All.

Col. Drew declared this war involved every person in the country and he had no apology for bringing up the subject. He claimed dependents of many enlisted men were being forced on relief through failure of the Ottawa Government to do its duty regarding allowances.

Morgan Baker (Lib. North York), Fraser Hunter (Lib. Toronto-St. Patrick), J. A. Habel (Cochrane North), and Arthur W. Roebuck (Lib. Toronto-Bellwood) all advised leaving administration of war matters to Ottawa, where the responsibility rested.

Mr. Baker said Ottawa had disposed of 90 per cent. of 42,000 applications for separation allowances and pay assignments, which was as speedy as some Ontario departments. He sugested a committee study what was actually being done at Ottawa.

"All the speakers want to win the war and I think they in Ottawa also want to win the war," said. Col. Hunter.

Mr. Habel felt from the way Col. Drew talked, Col. Drew should have been made commander-in-chief of the Allied forces instead of General Gamelin.

Mr. Roebuck questioned Col. Drew's motives in all his attacks on Ottawa, suggesting the colonel was more interested in changing governments at Ottawa than in winning the war. On repeated protests from the Conservative leader, Mr. Roebuck withdrew the remark—but he insisted the trend of Col. Drew's work was in that direction.

Hepburn Raps Roebuck

Mr. Hepburn rose to interject that while Col. Drew was fighting for his country in the last war, Mr. Roebuck was "making anti-war speeches."

"I never made a pacifist speech and the premier knows it," Mr. Roebuck replied. He was as eager to serve his country as any.

He felt Premier Hepburn had made "an unjust, inconsiderate—I won't say unpatriotic—but mistaken attack" on Mr. Mackenzie King.

When the Premier's motion was suddenly placed before the house, Mr. Roebuck complained no notice had been given but his protest was ignored.

After the vote, Leopold Macaulay (Con. York South) denounced a Toronto Star story from Ottawa suggesting that Ottawa viewed the success of the war loan as an indication of confidence in the King government.

Opponents of the government had been as enthusiastic supporters of the loan as any—and, it should be kept in mind that the loan was an attractive investments at 3¼ per cent. Sir John Simon was now talking of issuing the next British loan at two per cent, he said.

Hits At Col. Drew

Allan Lamport (Lib. Toronto-St. David), resuming the debate on the throne speech, charged that Col. Drew had done more than any man in Canada to retard Canada's war preparations. "Many more British factories would have been here now had it not been for his action," he said.

Charles Fletcher (Lib. Essex South) reminded the house that conduct of the war would be threshed out in parliament, meeting shortly, after which the government would probably hold an election in which the people could express their verdict directly.

Mr. Fletcher criticized the comparative lack of time devoted to agricultural problems by the legislature, agriculture being the "cinderalla" of the economic household. The problem, simply, was that the price of farm products was out of line with other prices. Abuse of the customs tariffs, to the loss of the farmer, was a major factor. Then there was the question of wages artificially set by labor unions or groups operating under the industrial stands act.

parliament is in session what I may have to say on that subject."

Until parliament convenes, Mr. Mackenzie King continued, "the Government does not intend to permit Canada's war effort in the present war to be prejudiced by fostering any controversy which does not permit of the most complete presentation and consideration of all relevant facts."

Some observers predicted the Prime Minister would make his comments during his speech in the debate on the address in reply to the speech from the throne.

Change in Ontario Stand?

This is the first debate of the session and the government leader takes several hours to review the government's record and outline the government's attitude on current issues.

Political circles were particularly concerned whether the criticism Premier Hepburn sponsored in the Legislature was an indication of a change in policy regarding Ontario's stand on the St. Lawrence waterway project.

Shortly after the war started, Premer Hepburn reversed his stand and said he would support the scheme. As a result negotiations have opened between Canada and the United States.

The Legislature's censure of the Federal government was viewed as unique by students of parliamentary history. Only on a few occasions have Provincial Houses taken such action.

It marked a renewal of intermittent attacks made on the Prime Minister personally and on his government by the Ontario Liberal leader during the past two years and was a breach of the amicable relations which have existed since September when Mr. Hepburn came to Ottawa and appeared to compose his differences with the government here.

Since 1937 when the Ontario Premier disagreed with Federal authorities over the automobile strike at Oshawa, the dispute has flared half a dozen times, with Mr. Hepburn taking the initiative on most occasions.

Night Coughs

Terribly wearing on the system is the cough that comes on at night and prevents sleep.

Sometimes it is the constant cough, cough that will not be quieted. Sometimes it is a choked-up, stuffed-up feeling that makes breathing difficult.
